POLICE BLOTTER

Arrested on a charge of resisting and obstructing an officer while in the execution of his duties, Gordon Coleman, Madoc, was taken into custody in that village by Chief Danford and Provincial Constable Dymond last night. Coleman was transferred to the county jail by Provincial Police authorities today on remand. It was reported by police that Coleman interfered with Chief Danford during an investigation in Madoc yesterday.

No arrests were necessary in Belleville during the past 24 hours, leaving the cell block available for the ten transients, who sought shelter there last evening.

Cyril Power, 11 years of age, residing at 306 Albert St. sustained minor cuts and bruises after his bicycle collided with a truck on Station St. about 8.00 p.m. last evening. Young Power was riding his bicycle out of the east of the Canadian National station yard and apparently had failed to observe the car being driven westerly on Station St., by Wesley Elliott, Frankford. Traffic Officer Ed. Ellis investigated and reported the bicycle had struck the rear platform of the truck, according to stories related by Mr. Elliott. The lad did not suffer serious injuries, but was badly shaken up. He was assisted home.

In Business you are Courteous—

Try Courtesy on the Highway

WHETHER YOU are a salesman or a customer, a manufacturer or a farmer, you, like most people, think and practice courtesy towards those with whom you do business. You also lighten the burden of work and add to the pleasure of the days.

But do you carry this same courteous habit of thought and action into the highways? Is courtesy in evidence in your relations with your fellow-motorist when you are driving? Unfortunately many do not! And why? There is no real reason. They just THINK differently because their surroundings are different. That is human.

I suggest that you deliberately plan that you will practice Try Courtesy in your driving. That you refrain from "hunting in" which is one of the greatest causes of accidents. That you keep well to the right at all times—there is lots of room. That you never pinch, gouge, or otherwise put your fellow-motorists "on the spot". Try Courtesy.

To those suggestions you can add many others if you will just THINK about drives in terms of courtesy. By so doing you will add greatly to the pleasure and safety of motoring for yourself and for others.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Iceberg

By Jamie Parker

Lou and Harrison were engaged; and Lou knew that was heavy going. Cynthia, the dancer, was doing what Lou herself had longed to do; break up the floor in Harrison. Even before Cynthia had unsnaked his jealous Lou had been anxious. For instance, at seven on Valentine's evening Harrison, tall, lean, and with a frigid demeanor, had arrived to escort her to a friend's party. He had stooped, his thin cheek touching the quick, detached sort of caress that filled her with anxiety.

"You look woe-be-gone. Have I overlooked something fearfully important, little sentimentalist?" he had asked.

On the correct finger of Lou's left hand a gorgeous emerald twinkled. Harrison had asked her to marry him.

"I'm just being silly," Lou had smiled wanly.

He had pinched her cheek. This was not the attitude Lou wanted. She didn't want him to chuckle. She wanted him to feel stirred, intent. She wanted his clear eyes to glow. But they were two frozen pools.

"Harrison, why can't you be a little more . . . oh, I don't know." Her hands had sought to seal her lips with another pain, tridermonstrative klan. "I'm not a movie actor, you know, Lou."

"Who asked you to act?" Lou had demanded. "I want you to mean it." The color had come tinging into her cheeks.

"I'm a frigid cuss, I know. Yet you and my law practice are my world."

Adoring every fair cripsy curling their in his head, she rebuked herself. He was marvelous and she loved him. She mustn't expect a typically legal mind to express poignant romance.

Midge, whose party they attended, waited to chatter a cab and see that the rest of the world lived.

Never will Lou forget that night. At first she was an inwardly seething torrent of excitement. Then her heart was being eaten out for the need of Harrison's burning. Latin eyes were bringing out fascinated lights from impassive Harrison's.

The cafe was dingy. There had been a raucous clamor, but apparently the regular patrons felt chagrined for they surveyed the beautifully attired visitors, snorted, and lapsed into a sullen silence. The proprietor, however, rubbed his pudgy hands delightedly and whispered excitedly to his star performer.

"Conchita, we have yer' swan customers tonight. You will dance your best . . . "

"Conchita always dances superbly, pesg!" That lady snapped her tempered fingers. "Are not our regular customers more than them yaps who come only to jeer?"

The Mexican orchestra throbbed a low, pulsing rhythm. With a clack of hot castanets Conchita, a loving flame, stood poised in the middle of the floor. Professional that she was, her long olive eyes wandered heavy-lidded over her audience, placing a worthy one to whom to dedicate her dance. The drowsiness of her eyes vanished as they lighted on the cool, flawless features of Harrison.

Lou's devoted little heart sank. The rhumba rhythms beat inflikingly on her conservative ears. With a catch in her throat she had to admit she had never seen Harrison so stimulated.

The whirling insinuating dance halted abruptly. The dancer pressed a long sweet kiss on her virid fingertips, bore it straight to Harrison, and tossed to him the rose which had nestled in her inky hair.

"Harrison feels shaken," observed Midge, "He's trembling like a leaf."

Lou was trembling, too. She dared not lift her hurt bewildered eyes.

Mighty Harrison frequented the cafe. Lou, shaken almost beyond endurance, lay between cool sheets and prayed, not for her own forlorn heart, but that splendid man and brilliant attorney. That he might not be horribly uprooted.

Then she summoned her frail courage and went to the place herself. She left, pale, trembling, but constantly aware of the red-rimmed eyes while Conchita's gay laugh bounded after her.

That night, sleepless love seeping from his eyes, Harrison took Lou gently in his arms. Then kissed her quivering mouth roughly in his fervency.

"Lou darling, let's get married right away!"

In his sturdy embrace Lou felt exalted. Her happiness welled over. Why should she tell him Conchita had admitted she was only playing with him? It would make him feel tainted, cheapened.

"To one big lot-berg," Conchita had flaunted. "Conchita no place for ice-bergs."

"But you've melted him!" Lou had insisted.

Conchita had stood, her fists dug into his shapely hips. "When ice-berg is melted, what is it? Big puddle. Conchita have no use for puddles either."

So Lou thanked her; for she assigned to Conchita what she felt she had not been able to do for herself, since ice cannot melt ice.

As the sweetness of her clinging to him and the clean scent of her hair filled him, Harrison decided to be rid of her of Conchita. Now he had recognized the woman as a missing witness in one of his cases. This lovely, dainty Lou he adored. Why fill her innocent mind with a sordid case of a cabaret dancer.

Little Benny's Note Book

We was having arithmetic in school and Miss Kitty said, I wish you boys would learn to take your additions and subtractions more seriously. You seem to forget that one little mistake will upset an entire problem just as a defective foundation will bring a whole building toppling down. And please remember that a reckoning of the value of figures is the real secret of economy, and believe me economy is a very important word in modern life. Who can give me a definition of the word economy?" she said.

With Puds Simkins waved his hand, saying, Economy means not spending all your money in one place.

I'm afraid people who have an impulse to buy that are hopeless, beyond the reach of economy, Miss Kitty said. The present idea of economy is to make money as a long way. Now that should be a very good idea, and I am supposing somebody gave you 10 cents, I want somebody to give me a practical example of how they would economize with it, she said.

With Sam Jones waved his hand, saying, I'd hurry up and buy 10 lemon sours, of course, unless nothing lasts longer than that.

That's a very good example of false economy, because I na very short time you would have neither your money nor your chewing gum, Miss Kitty said. Surely somebody can do better than that, she said.

Meaning she wanted another example, and I thought of my hand, saying, I'd invest it in some investment that payed a hundred per cent a day, and then I would spend anything but its intrist, so the capital would practically last forever.

No doubt that's a wonderful idea for a man who lives in the clouds, but is it practical? Everybody who thinks Benny's idea is practical please raise their hands, Miss Kitty said.

With everybody raised their hands including me and Miss Kitty quck started the geometry lesson.

LATE SIR ROBERT BORDEN

Canadians deplore the passing of Sir Robert Laird Borden, known as the Wartime Prime Minister of Canada. Though he was approaching his eighty-third birthday, and had reached an age when hold on life is not too certain, the course of his last illness was followed with concern by the people of Canada and the people of Great Britain for to the British Borden always meant a great deal in his strongly imperialistic outlook.

Sir Robert, the man of courtesy and moderation, one who carefully prepared his ground and whose thoroughness marked all his life, in both public and private capacity, typically legal in his exactness, he stands out as thoroughly individual. While his personality had not the romantic attraction of a Macdonald or Laurier, with his thoroughness and broad outlook he succeeded in serving his native country well.

After he passed out of public life, Sir Robert's counsel was often heard and followed.

In his private life he was the thoroughly courteous personality. His married life was, as Senator Dandurand, the acting Premier, remarked, the admiration of all.

As a lawyer Sir Robert was an outstanding member of the Nova Scotia bar.

He was a staunch advocate of peace and the League of Nations.

Canada is proud of the men who have been called to the premier office in the gift of the people and among that select company the name Sir Robert Laird Borden will always be remembered.

To almost two columns of obituary on Sir Robert Borden in its news columns, the New York Times added an editorial today, praising "vigor, common sense and courage" of Canada's elder statesman.

"Federation, the union of discordant elements, is the glory of Sir John Macdonald" said the newspaper. "Reconciliation of English and French interests may be said to be Sir Wilfrid Laurier's. The last of the Dominion's elder statesmen carries to his grave at least as full a sheaf of achievements."

"The Westminster statute was the realization of his long hopes. A steady friend of the League of Nations, he insisted that Canada should become a member. The virtual independence which she enjoys is in large part due to him.

"His fruitful and constant service in the years of the Great War are the splendor of his career and made him a historic figure even before his death.

"He had the full confidence of the British government. His laborious and honorable share in the consultations of the imperial war cabinet, in various imperial and other conferences and as the chief Canadian delegate at the peace conference, a whole list of duties competently discharged, are in his obituary."

A MODERN INCIDENT

A lead pencil cap was swallowed by a boy in Los Angeles, passing down the windpipe into his right lung. Doctors failed to extricate it. A plane was chartered at New York to fly across the continent with a lead cap the exact replica of the one swallowed by the boy, so that the doctors might fashion an instrument that would screw into the imprisoned cap. The flight may save the boy's life.

The great invention of the flying machine waits upon the common sense of the surgeons to save a boy's life. Once in time's history there were not lead-caps and if they had been there would have been no means of distribution. But with distribution pencil caps are found everywhere and so a boy in California swallows a pencil cap. But there is a modern invention, the airplane, called by radio or telegraph and a like cap speeds across the continent. And all the while the cool headed surgeons, with all their modern skill preserve their coolness and stand ready to operate.

THE THIRD BIRTHDAY

Rich little girls and boys, poor little girls and boys, probably have cake and candy quite often. But the Dionne quintuplets had neither cake, candy, nor ice cream on the third anniversary of their advent into the world. And the Dionnes are "home" little damn when it comes to wealth, being worth a million now in their own right under a trust fund.

Under wise medical supervision the little rich girls did not know what they missed. Some day they may be pleased to learn that they were not favored with the delights and delicacies which other little girls and boys are wanting all the time in the face of warnings of doctors and dentists.

"MAKE WAY FOR TOMORROW", an unusual film story shown in Belleville this week, is a heart interest story, possibly true to modern life for it takes all kind of people to make up a world, it is said. Briefly the story revolves around a father and mother, with a family of five children, two boys and three girls, all married and "on their own." Misfortune overtakes the old folks, they lose their home, and the father his position. No one seems to want the old folks—the children are living in small expensive apartments with no spare bedrooms. The old folks seem always in the way and the story proceeds with pathetic passages which provoke tears even among the most blase of movie fans. Fortunately the story is sprinkled with laughs tempering the sadness of bitter situations where the old folks seem always in the way. The best scenes occur when the old couple visit the hotel where they spent their honeymoon, fifty years ago, and are welcomed and dined and wined like royalty by the modern hotel management which has evolved a home away from home and a hotel with a heart as well as a money-making machine. The shadow of the old folks home looms large in this cinema story, inspiring thought as to the desirability of homes for old folks free from any stigma of poverty and full of good fellowship and happiness.

Old age pensions have done much to take the curse from "over the hills to the poor house" for now the patients are "Paying Guests", being able to pay their board out of the pension with a little left for incidentals. This reminds us of the Home for Aged Ladies, provided by the late Senator George T. Fulford, of Brockville. This is a beautiful building in the East End or Mayfair of Brockville and facing the beautiful St. Lawrence. Old ladies fortunate enough to gain entrance to the Fulford Home for Aged Ladies are provided with comfortable apartments amid beautiful, surroundings, good food and every comfort and are even provided with weekly pocket-money.

George T. Fulford was a big man physically with big ideas mentally. He operated the largest drug store in Brockville, on the largest square in the business centre of the town, and then he branched out into the proprietary medicine business which rapidly grew into the largest of its kind in Canada and spread over the entire world. Pinning his faith on Brockville and district he invested almost his entire original capital George T. Fulford was big enough and brave enough to wait patiently for results which came a-plenty in due time.

x

Senator George T. Fulford was noted for his benefactions and was particularly generous to the Brockville General Hospital, of which he was one of the original promoters—now one of the finest equipped hospitals in Canada, and so recognized by every medical society on the continent.

x

More homes like the Fulford Home for Aged Ladies would mean more happiness for many who have reached the point in life's journey where the human traffic seems speeded up just a bit too fast for aged limbs, eyes and ideas to keep pace with.

x

Now that old age pensions have taken the poor out of the poor house, and made them paying guests, let's take the Fulford model and build a chain of such splendid homes from coast to coast.

Shriners are building a chain of splendid hospitals for crippled children from coast to coast. Other organizations, or service clubs, might take this idea as a base and develop something wonderful from it.

DENMARK, AND "THE PRINCE OF DENMARK"—Elsinore and the monument and castle to Hamlet, a man who never lived. Belleville folks travelling in Europe made it a point to visit this wonderful trilogy of Shakespeare. Willam Shakespeare. About the same time Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" was being enacted in Belleville for the many thousandth time to audiences who drank in the glorious language of Shakespeare, thrilled at the love and passion of the times, and were amazed at the wonderful advances made by the cinema industry in being able to make such a superb Shakespearean revival possible.

Eightieth Convocation Held, Albert College Celebrates Anniversary With Ceremony

Successful Year's Work Noted by Principal Dr. Howard

TABLETS UNVEILED

Classroom, Gift of Dr. Smith and Wife is Dedicated

Albert College celebrated its 80th anniversary on Thursday afternoon with the eightieth convocation, upon which the hallowed past of the college shed its reflection and with a reunion of graduates, the unveiling of plaques in the dining hall and on the dormitory residence and with the dedication and opening of a classroom for the study of the classics.

When convocation opened there were many former students in the memorial hall with the students and citizens. Principal Dr. Bert Howard officially welcomed all to the eightieth convocation and the anniversary ceremonies. "It is no small thing to be able to say that an institution has been serving its country for 80 years and that there have passed through its halls eight to nine thousand young people, most of whom have been greatly influenced, most of them equipped for life's service through the college," the principal said. Reference was made to the loyalty of the students. Dr. Howard remarked on the loyalty of the staff saying that the full fruit of their efforts could not be known for years but its excellence none could doubt. He also offered tribute to the board of governors of the college and the Albert College Women's Guild.

Accomodation In Demand

Registration equalled this year the best of the past, he said. This year stands to excel last year's accumulative record of 81 per cent. on all papers written in form one; 76 per cent. in form II; almost 70 per cent. in middle and upper school, a total average of 75.3 on all papers passed.

He said that there was every appearance that accommodation was going to be at a premium during the coming year and that it will be taxed to the uttermost. Dr. Howard noted that provision had been made for the lady students in the acquisition of a large residence and that the college was very proud of them. The institution was proud in its

80th year to have made provision for their residence

Alderman Laurie Lewis brought the greetings of the citizens of Belleville on the eightieth anniversary. He praised the work of the principal and the staff and paid tribute to the cultural influence of the college on the life of the city and of the Dominion and beyond.

James B. Dyer of Toronto, son of a former principal, the late Dr. W. F. Dyer, claimed that Dr. Howard was the man who got the "ear" in principal". He also paid tribute to Rev. Dr. E. N. Baker's work for the college. Mr. Dyer sang a sacred number from "Olivet to Calvary". Miss Flora MacDonald sang a very fine number.

The registrar, Mr. T. K. Franklin, read the list of diplomas granted in the collegiate course and business and commercial course and Prof. S. M. Anglin read the report of diplomas and certificates awarded in the Conservatory Department.

What Is Education?

Dean John Matheson, M.A. of the Faculty of Arts, Queen's University, brought greetings from the University on Albert College's eightieth birthday and congratulated the college on its principal who, he said, possesse all the qualifications required by a principal.

Dr. Matheson spoke on "What Is Education?". He said:

The test of a successful career in school and college is generally accepted as marked by the passing of examinations. But this passing of examinations is but one thing of many that you have learned in colleges. Yet knowledge and the ability to reason are not the most important attainments. It is not so important to think logically. Few people do. Most powerful leaders are those who have felt keenly on something. They may have been illogical but they overcome this with something great-

"All great teachers know this. They are anxious to give you the opportunity of knowledge because in so doing they know that it contributes to other things. The greatest Teacher asked His hearers to seek out the essential, good character, noble traits, kindred emotions, fine sense of appreciation. These He called the Kingdom of God."

Failure In Examinations.

Dean Matheson remarked that in universities, some fail in examinations, though not in the more essential things. Students, he said, are not always wise to use the machinery which was given them by nature when they were born, to think, to remember.

"What you are asked to study is to round out your personality even if you do not think you will use that subject again in your life.

"It is surprising the large number of young people who have a floor-rough distrust of their own ability—scientists call it an inferiority complex. When one has that sense of inferiority it tends to dull all action and success.

"Make sure you can appreciate what God gave you in the way of ability. Don't think you are worse than the next one. Handle the emotional faculties, the spiritual powers which God gave you.

"A school is like a garden—you have to have the background in good shape and there must be a good atmosphere. Students of Albert College have found their lines cast in pleasant places. It has a spiritual atmosphere which grows and seems even to come out of the walls."

Graduates Present Gift

The presentation of a framed portrait of His Majesty King George Sixth was presented by the graduating class Harold Kennedy and Arthur MacDonald making the presentation to Principal Howard. The class it was pointed out, is one of the largest on record. Dr. Howard in receiving the portrait said it would grace the walls of the college in order to enrich the spirit through all time to come.

Presentations of prizes, medals and scholarships were made by the following:—Principal Howard, Dr. E. N. Baker, Dean Dr. McMullan, N. B. Simpson, H. Ackerman, Mr. Rev. Geo. W. B. Dedicatory Service

Convocation over, a brief intermission followed, after which Dr. Howard led in a short dedicatory service "Our Heritage of Faith," he said. "There have been many souls who fought the valiant fight. We are profoundly grateful for their lives."

A moment of silent prayer was followed by prayer by the principal, who spoke of the brave hearts who had sacrificed for others and yet who counted their efforts but gifts of by joy and love.

The hymn "God Reveals His Presence" sung by the gathering.

The principal said the company has met to pay tribute to some of the beloved friends of the college, he said. Rev. Dr. E. N. Acherman and Dr. and Mrs. A. Smith of China, and to the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graham. "These friends and co-workers through their lives have made it possible for this college to serve youth and fit them for service in their generation", he said. "My keenest desire in life is help youth to battle on." Dr. Howard said: "I would never develop the philosophy of making it easy for youth but I pray to God it may be possible to help youth, not to make it easier but to guide them and to make life more wonderful. These benefactors have made it possible for me to help them."

Dr. Howard asked the gathering to proceed along the west hall to the Ackerman Hall, (dining room), for the unveiling of a tablet in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ackerman, the donors of the hall, thence to the residence for the unveiling of a plaque to the memory of the late Robert J. Graham and the late Mrs. Graham, who provided the money for the construction of the residence known as Graham Hall, and for the dedication of a classroom for the study of the classics, where the riches of ancient Greek culture might be studied, the room the gift of Dr. and Mrs. Smith of China.

Tablets Unveiled

In Ackerman Hall, Mr. W. B. Deacon spoke of the aims of Dr. Baker and the original committee on the new Albert College and of the munificent gift of Mr. and Mrs. Ackerman. Mr. Deacon pointed out the architecture of the college and said he loved the gift to him for the institution. The unveiling followed. The plaque reads: "Ackerman Hall, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Ackerman, Belleville, Ont., 1936. Tablet presented by their children, Helen and Jack on the 80th anniversary of this college". Mr. Ackerman replying said this was a complete surprise and said that the college owed the gift to Mrs. Ackerman more than to himself.

Rev. Dr. E. N. Baker, unveiled the tablet on the southwest corner of Graham Hall, speaking of the support of the late Mr. and Mrs. Graham on behalf of education and the church. The tablet read: "Graham Hall, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Graham, Belleville, Ont., 1936. Tablet presented by their children on the eightieth anniversary of this college."

Classic Room Dedicated

The Smith room in the southwest of the College was then dedicated, Dr. Howard officiating, and Dr. Smith taking part. The scroll on the wall of this room reads: "This room has been furnished by Dr. W. E. Smith, a graduate of Albert College (1889), and his wife, Dr. Lucie B. Speers Smith, both of whom served the United Church Hospital at Theilinating, West China for many years.

"The reason for the gift is best expressed in Dr. Smith's own words: 'I thank God for Albert College and its beloved-teacher, who helped to stimulate and help us splendidly in our studies and in the things that matter in life. In short, it expresses a real love for the college that gave me my chance in life.'"

In the crowded classroom crowded with students of other days, Dr. Smith spoke briefly of the aims of education and was reminiscent of the days of half a century ago when he was a student and also contrasted the present with the past in building and in teaching.

Reunion is Held

At the reunion dinner in Ackerman Hall, about two hundred sat down, welcomed by Principal Howard.

There was a fair representation of alumni at the meeting in Memorial Hall in the evening. Dr. Howard presided. There were present former students, now in Toronto, Napanee, and other parts of the Bay of Quinte district. Reorganization took place with election as follows:

President—B. M. Anglin, B.A.

Vice President—Mrs. Fred Hooper, Napanee.

Secretary-Treasurer — Elmer Dix, Belleville.

Councillors— Rev. Fred Lane, Frankford; Mrs. Erle Denyes, Miss Mildred Lloyd, Belleville; Luther Loney, Kingston. These officers form the executive.

Miss Brown presented the financial report on the Ella Gardiner memorial room fund, which was adopted.

Says Since Taking Syntona He Enjoys Meals Without Suffering from Gas, Sourness, Cramps and Bloating.

Lacked Energy — Felt Tired and Full of Aches and Pains

MR. EDWARD GILDERS

"I feel like a new man since taking Syntona," said Mr. Edward Gilders, of Mount Brydges, Ont., in a recent report.

"For two years everything I ate turned to gas. After meals I would get a heavy bloated feeling in my stomach. I was troubled constantly with constipation and had frequent attacks of cramps and headaches. My nerves were bad and I didn't sleep well, consequently I would get up mornings feeling all worn out and full of aches and pains.

"That is how I felt a few weeks ago when I made up my mind to take Syntona, and I never expected I would be feeling as well today. My appetite has improved and my food agrees with me. The aches and pains have gone out of my body. My nerves are rested, I sleep well and get up mornings feeling rested. Syntona is different from any medicine I ever took before and I heartily recommend it to every person who suffers as I did."

Syntona is now being introduced in Belleville by Dolan The Druggist and is specially benefiting genuine Syntona and avoid disappointment.

AT THE BELLE

"Cafe Metropole" Delightfully Blends Romance and Comedy

The screen's most exciting sweethearts ....Lovely Loretta Young and the romantically handsome Tyrone Power—play love's most exciting scenes while Mischa Auer's Adopolous throws away the rule book, in "Cafe Metropole" Tuesday-Wednesday-Thursday at the Belle tomorrow (Saturday and Monday, Matinee daily.

Continental romance of the gayest and lightest sort—luxurious as orchids on ermine, smart as the Rue de la Paix, merry as the third glass of champagne, romantic as moonlight on the Seine, "Cafe Metropole" with its amusing war against the background of gay Paree and the continent's most luxurious rendezvous, with Gregory Ratoff, Charles Winninger, Helen Westley joining the three stars in the excitement.

The lively course of "Cafe Metropole" begins, properly enough, in the swank spot of that name, where Adolphe Menjou, suave and sophisticated, presides deftly over the affairs of the restaurant and wonders how he can restore a borrowed 480,000 francs before the auditors arrive.

One solution, baccarat, is reviewed when the young man from whom he wins the necessary sum, Tyrone Power, confesses that he really hasn't money at all. Menjou who is expecting the arrival of an American patron, Charles Winninger, his sister, Helen Westley and his daughter Loretta Young forces the handsome youth, under threat of exposure to the police, to masquerade as a Russian Prince in the hope of winning Loretta's hand and thereby effecting a settlement.

The lovely Loretta, however sees through her Prince from Princeton, whose accent now she comes, now she goes", but it's Paris, and it's Spring, and she decides that it will be more fun to be swept off her feet anyway. Events thereupon take one amusing and unexpected turn after another, mounting in hilarious procession to a surprise finale which provides a novel solution to the problems of Loretta, Tyrone and Adolphe.

The screen play of "Cafe Metropole' from an original story by Gregory Ratoff, was written by Jacques Deval, famed playwright whose "Tovarich" is a sensational success on the New York stage.

Excellent Shorts

"Amuse Yourself" with Jimmy Tudeo multiple-reel comedy with a cast of famed funnakers, "The Country Cousin" a clever Walt Disney Silly Symphony in Technicolor, and the Belle Latest World News are announced for exhibition on the same program.

"Sea Devils," Thrilling

Abounding with action and suspense that often reach unusual dramatic heights, RKO Radio's "Sea Devils" to be presented at the Belle tonight for the last times has proved itself thrilling screen entertainment.

Victor McLaglen, Preston Foster and Ida Lupino head a cast of favorite screen players.

Screen Snapshots revealing favorite screen stars at work and play, Buster West and Tom Patricola in a funny comedy "Beauty Doc" and "Song of the Danube" a melodious treat complete the program.

Circus day's festivities will be inaugurated by an immense street parade to be seen on the downtown streets at 11 a.m. There will be nearly 100 magnificent and elaborately carved and gilded allegorical floats, tableau cages and dens, hundreds of mounted riders; thirty elephants and two caravans of camels. ## Canada Leads World per Capita In Use Telephones

Always well to the fore in telephone matters, Canada continues to lead the world in its per capita usage of telephones.
World-wide telephone statistics, compiled as of January 1, 1936 and now made public, show that an annual average of 210.6 telephone conversations were held in Canada for every man, woman and child in this country. The United States with a comparable figure of 197.0, was in second place, Denmark, with 172.9 per capita calls, and Sweden with 152.2, followed.
Canada's position among the States if 5th with a figure of 19.33 per 100 telephones developed, in the larger centres continues to be impressive. With 18.78 telephones per 100 population in communities of 50,000 and more, this Dominion ranks sixth in the list. The United States is fifth with a figure of 19.32. Sweden is the leader in this regard followed by Switzerland, Norway and Denmark, in that order.
In less populous areas, Canada ranks in fourth place, this world-wide survey reveals. Canada, it is shown, has 7.26 telephones in operation per 100 population, in communities of less than 50,000 persons. Next to the leadership of the United States with 9.87, there follow New Zealand with 9.84 and Sweden with 7.56. Fifth, sixth, and seventh positions are taken by Denmark, Switzerland, and Australia, respectively.

Washington Senators Secure Ferrell Brothers Mel Almada For Ben Chapman, Newsom

Trade Looks Like The Senators Gained a Real Edge

NEEDED A CATCHER

Cubs Move to Within Half a Game of Idle Giants

By SID PEDDEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

In more places than one, the baseball was growing today that Mr. Tom (Old-Scout) Yawkey has wound up on the short end again.

His latest venture on the ivory trading market doesn't appear to have done his ex-Boston first baseman any particular good, while catching again in the role of "angel" he played on the Connie Mack in his cash-buying days.

The early of the second part in this latest dealing in diamond flesh, Washington Senators, seem to have all the better of it. By obtaining Dick and Wes Ferrell, with Mel Almada thrown in for return for Ben Chapman and Buck Newsom.

Of course Boston is crying bead for a veteran outfielder in Ben Chapman, but temperamental Ben hasn't been of much use to the Red Sox this year anyway, and is batting a mediocre .250 clip. Buck Newsom, too, the Senators aren't losing much. In fact, according to the record books, Newsom is hardly in the same league with Wes Ferrell year after year.

Secure Good Catcher

At the same time, Washington came out of the business with a catcher considerably better than any of the league's best—in Rick Ferrell, who by plugging the one hole that has been apparent in the Senators' all the season's opening gun, as well as at bat pitcher.

Setting aside for the moment the theoretical "temperament" angle, in which Washington appears to be getting rid of two manager's "headaches" (Chapman and Newsom) and receiving only one in return (Wes Ferrell), you find these facts in the records:

Ferrell and Newsom are both shown as, but former has 10 years experience to Buck's six. Ferrell, in his last eight years, has averaged better than 30 victories per season. Newsom has never had a 20-game year. Last year Ferrell won 17 and lost 15, was his best, but Ferrell was regarded as having an average year in taking 30 and dropping 16. Newsom's another who gets around with a bat in his hands, and so far this year has it .345 to Buck's .130.

Chapman, batting .262, hasn't lifted into the Washington picture against such outfield opposition as Jonathan Stone, hitting .400; Joe Simmons and Jesse Hill, Rick Ferrell, on the other hand, gives the Nats a .306 catcher with power and a potential .300 hitter any year, as Manager Cronin headlines.

If it did nothing else, the trade stirs the Yankees away from yesterday's major league doings, eclipsing even the end of the Chicago White Sox's 15-game winning streak, longest of the majors this season. New York Yankees climbed out a 10-3 win over the Sox to end the run and regain sole possession of the American League lead.

While the National League leading New York Giants dropped a 5-3 duke with St. Louis Cardinals, the Chicago Cubs moved to within a half a game of the idlers by walloping the Brooklyn Dodgers, 8-3 behind Bill Lee's effective hurling.

The Tigers gained a two-run ninth inning rally and topped the Athletics 6-3. St. Louis Browns whipped the Senators 5-3, and the Red Sox and Indians were rained out.

Cincinnati Reds' two-run splurge in the ninth was enough to top Boston Bees 6-5 and, in the only other big league game, the Phillies made it two in a row over the Pirates with a 5-4 decision.

PERTH COMBINES ON PENNANT TRAIL

Hitting at .714 Clip And Securing Good Pitching

By The Canadian Press

Along the Can.-Am. trail these days plenty of dust is being kicked up by Perth-Cornwall's Blanks, and most of it is landing squarely in the eyes of a bunch of ball teams who wonder if this is going to keep up till pennant time.

The bustling Buffalos, hitting a .714 clip, are racing well out in front as they reach for their second straight pennant. The race, from the viewpoint of the seven other teams, is what you might call a trifle stiff.

The thundering herd galloped to one more victory yesterday, it was Gloversville Glovers this time, and the score was 7-2 after some tight pitching in which Joe Dickison bested Whitey Tukes.

The official umpires passed up this game for some reason, and Gloversville played it under protest. Ross Bartwell a Rixon pitcher, who had his team on the side in a couple of days ago, turned up as a base umpire on his day off.

Rome Colonels had a day off, too, when wet grounds forced postponement of their game with Ogdensburg. Colts Ottawa Braves, who have been battling it out with Rochesters all season for the cellar position, failed to get on the league.

The tribe went right out there and lost a doubleheader to Smith's Falls Beavers, 10-4 and 11-5, and duly themselves firmly and indisputably into the cellar again. Colonels will have to span the gap between 316 and 300 to get back in again. Forty five hits were clouted off 10 pitchers in the twin bill, and the path to the dressing rooms was thronged all evening.

Carwan Netherlands, taking advantage of Glovers' trimming, moved into second place behind Blanks by taking an 8-5 decision from Brockville Pirates. Nets didn't get their share of the honours but they did rake the portsider for 16 hits, scoring in every innings but two. Meanwhile their own Roy Pinquin whiffed 11 and kept eight hits well scattered.

Sports Roundup

(By Eddie Briels Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, June 11—(AP)—Mark it down in the book as a coincidence if you want to, boys but just as Jimmy Braddock entered Washington Park race track the other day they announced Rhone Boy (a hot favorite) had just been beaten by Bold Pilgrim. $28.20 long shot—that's good enough for us, and what are the latest odds, Mr. Jack Doubt?.... Hope Joe Dimaggio didn't see that Puerto Rican paper which ran a picture of Jack Wilson (230 lbs.) as pictured: "Joe Dimaggio, terrific slugger of the New York Yankees."

If the one and only Dizzy Dean changes his mind about helping out in the all-star game, Bill Terry plans to use Mungo, Dean and Hubbell in that order.... "The beer that made Milwaukee famous" may do the same for the city of Marquette.....no fewer than 24 track, football and baseball stars are putting in a muscle-building summer working on the loading platforms.

Flash: Bill Terry gave Harry Danning a fiver for hitting that Thursday homer against the Cards the other day....It's just too bad for Madison Square Garden that Supreme Court is in recess until October....was this guy hot or was he hot....Danning, the Yankees catcher for the Canner A. C. team in the Interlake Baseball Federation had 15 putouts threw out two runners, got a homer, double and two singles in the game and didn't steal third and home in one game Sunday.... Whew!!

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

Ken I. Colling

The softball boys are all agog over tonight's OerbleFoint Annie tilt, both sides assuming a haughty air and boasting proudly certain victory. Undoubtedly the contesting managers will use their ace flingers, Lorne Bateman, former Springbrook fireball hurler being Skipper Sedora's most logical choice, with Johnnie Bawden, who pitched the Percivals to Bellerille's only O.A.B.A. championship last year, getting the nod from Barney Smith and company. Of course the "cement village" lads have another mound-man of note in Stan Luffman, former Tweed hurler to toss in if necessary. The last time these two teams met the Point Anne team won 19 to 7 in a lively struggle. The "cement-makers" have not lost a game in five starts, Bateman having a few bit, no run, games to their credit, while Luffman has a two bitter for the same club. On the other hand the Corbie "brickmakers" have only lost one game, that being in Point Anne, and they have won four. On paper the game has all the earmarks of a classic. The boys are ready and willing to lay the coin on the line, so if interested unloosen the strings of your wallet.

"If my kids once start in hit, we'll be right in the thick of the fight, and we've had a few of these games," predicted Coach Twig Woodley in reference to the Belleville kids, who are playing a scheduled game versus the league leader Cornbelts, this evening at the Fair Grounds. The Cornbelt boys have been idle for a game in four starts, but Skipper Woodley has instructed his juniors Bill and Ernie Smith tonight in the hopes the elongated former Nationals will have enough time to pause to inspire his batsmen into stopping into a couple of shots and starting for base hits. Of course maybe Ernie will have something to say about these plans, but in order to find that out we'll have to wait up to the game. It's baseball at silver collection prices.

President Gord Delaney of the Belleville Lacrosse Clubs completed the Belleville Fair race track plans of the local lacrosse club with the R.C.A.F. "flyers" and will drop the Kingston delegation owing to the distance incurred. The majority of the R.C.A.F. players were enthusiastic of playing with an amalgamated club and will definitely keep the scheduled date in Cobourg on Monday night," added Mr. Delaney today. On the club's roster of players will be "Speedy" St. Louis, Eddie Goodier, Slap Day and Bill Argile, all from Bellerille. Harry Hutchinson across changeling thinks highly of Lalonde (not Johnnie of hockey fame) of the Airport as a gutted-stick artist, however. Evidently the Kingmen's Club Isabella will be on hand to "size" up in grand style. Negotiations for the parade, including four local bands, floats and the "Kid Karr" have been long completed and have the Municipal Band, the Kilties, the Belleville Collegiate and the Salvation Army bands slated to have been commenced. Prizes for the best floats and other attractions may be included for Dominion Day. As the event is being staged on a holiday and the cash derived is for the Kingmen's charity ers should be doubled and a sponsor will be received with favor by the players and other local organizations are giving a helping hand also.

We wonder why the Kingston Ball Club does not provide figures for their games booked during the progress of C.O.B.L. games. A fan is forced to bandage his own score, a desirous of learning which team is leading.

Commenting upon the ill-fortune that has followed Mickey Cochrane for two years, Bill Corum of the New York Evening Journal asserts that the Detroit manager had been bedeviled this year "under physical and mental strain and as a case in point cites what he describes as the "true story" of the sale of Al Simmons, Tiger outfielder, for the waiver price of $7,500.

"So far as I know, the complete story of that transaction never has been told," writes Corum. "It began in May as the current season was concerned, when Simmons drove up in front of the hotel in which the Tigers were stopping during their spring training.

"There were a couple of others in the car, one of them an outfielder with the Cincinnati Reds, who was standing on the sidewalk, and when this outfielder stepped out of the car it was evident that he was rolling slightly in a gale nobody else could feel.

"Cochrane stepped over to the player and said quietly: 'Why don't you go up to your room?'

"'Rear that!' put in Simmons from the car, calling the player by name. 'Leave the master's voice and you'd better obey it.'

"Cochrane's Irish temper flared, and as he turned and walked away, he said to a friend: 'That guy (meaning Simmons) won't be on this ball club on Wednesday night.'

"This happened on either a Sunday or Monday evening. On Wednesday, when Babe Ruth made the Tiger dressing room, Cochrane said to Simmons: 'Al, I understand I've just sold you to Washington.'

"In their dressing room the Tigers kept a weight chart, and after his name when the other players had gone on each trip to Boston, Simmons scrawled in capital letters: 'What a mistake it is to be a big league rookie after having to fort around with a bunch of bushers.'

"Which story came from neither Cochrane nor Simmons, obviously, but it sounds authentic, the true story of the Simmons sale.

"Nor is it important as compared with the hold Michael's injury, for Al Simmons is a great all-time baseball player, baseball writer and baseball fan in America, is rooting heart and soul today for Mike Cochrane's quick and complete recovery."

In a closely fought game the Belleville Sargent softballers won 8 to 7 over the Tweed Invaders in a regular Senior League fixture last evening. The same squads batted at even terms, the "lockmakers" always being out in front. Dumb bear runners on bases Adam Mount helped the cause, but chances they might have had in the early rounds were blasted the entire game for the Bell-Sargents, while Emerson and Dracup pitched for the losers.

Rupert's Rifles stopped the Chicago White Sox consecutive string of victories yesterday with a 10 to 5 win over the Pale Hose.

We are in receipt of an anonymous letter from some fellow baseball official, who admonished us regarding recent unfair treatment to certain Belleville athletes now in the Canadian rating season, topped only by Thorncliff's $3,542.46 clout last Saturday.

White Hot, from the Waterloo stable of Provide Seagram, withstood the stretch drive of Earl Porter to take first place by a length in the featured fifth race. Greek Fire, owned by Erindale stable, was third. The son of Sir Greystreel showed a liking for the heavy underfoot and raced early challengers into the ground and saved enough stamina to outlast Earl Porter in the run to the wire.

G. M. Hendrie's entry of Star Flower and Jacquelin, finished one two to hang up a $2.90 for $3 mutuel in the third race. The pair ran like a team from the start and Star Flower's margin at the wire a short head at the finish. Nobody's Baby was five lengths back in third place.

Pepper Takes Trial Spin Over Isle of Man Course Averaging 64 m. p. h.

Douglas, Isle of Man, June 11.—RCP Cable)—The young Canadian, George Pepper, from Belleville, Ont., on Monday will challenge seasoned Irish Rider Ernie Lyons in Continental Europe in what is perhaps the greatest and most dangerous of all motorcycle races—the Senior Clubmen's event around the rugged Isle of Man.

Pepper, at 24, Canadian champion and holder of North American records is entered in all three tourist trophy events, the Senior, Intermediate and Junior, but is is in the Senior race that he will come up against the hardest competition around the sharp bends and over hump-backed bridges which make the course a supreme test of man and machine.

He will be in there with the almost invincible Englishmen, P. L. Pritt, H. Guthrie and Jack Wright. Those Norton machines have all but monopolized the event in recent years; and with the daring Italian rider Benito Temmie, on his Gilera bike, and the formidable German "NSU-BMW" team.

Raced Over 265 Miles

The races are "seven laps, each of nearly 38 miles, totalling just over 265 miles along the roadcourse around the Island and up and down Mount Snaefell.

Pepper will ride a Norton in the Senior race, which is the established record of 82.8 miles an hour at Daytona Beach in 1935—a feat that drew the attention of Sir Malcolm Campbell, the famous racing driver, who was in Florida with his "Bluebird" at the time.

In practice spins yesterday the Italian Tennie made a lap of the course in 29 minutes, 41 seconds at an average speed of 76 miles an hour. The Canadian did a lap in 34 minutes, 14 seconds at an average speed of 64 m.p.h. In winning the event last year Guthrie averaged 85.80 m.p.h. over the entire course. George Pepper will have to step up his speed considerably if he is to finish in the money.

Experience also goes for a lot in negotiating the hair-pin bends, and it is rare that a first-time starter gets anywhere in the Classic.

Pepper has been racing for five years—or since he won an event in his home town at the age of 19. In 1935 he was third in the North American championships at Jacksonville, Fla., despite the fact he lost the cap of his gas tank in the middle of the race.

. . . FOR SUMMER COMFORT

W. H. ROSS TO STAND TRIAL ON MANSLAUGHTER

Preliminary Hearing Held at Tweed Before Magistrate Lloyd.

STATEMENT ENTERED

R. D. Arnott, Counsel For Ross Overruled in Objection

Following a formal charge of manslaughter preferred against him by the Crown, Winfield H. Ross, Bellerville, was committed for trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction, by Magistrate J. L. Lloyd of Northbrook at a preliminary hearing held yesterday afternoon in the Township Hall at Tweed, Ont. Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan represented the Crown with R. D. Arnott, Belleville appearing for the accused.

The charge arose from the verdict of a coroner's jury at an adjourned inquest held on May 20th, in which they found accused to be the owner and driver of a car which caused the death from injuries of Mrs. Emma Root, fifty one year old resident of Tweed in an accident, which occurred on Sunday, evening, May 2nd, on Provincial Highway No. 37, one and one half miles south of the village of Tweed.

Intense local interest in the case was evidenced in the large crowd of spectators who filled the hall as Crown Attorney Donnan interrogated the several witnesses called to give evidence. Following the hearing of the evidence, Ross, who was not represented by counsel, was brought before Magistrate Lloyd and formally committed for trial on a charge of manslaughter. The trial will be held in Belleville at the Fall Assizes.

Photographs Identified

Important evidence submitted by the Crown was the presentation and identification of several photographs of the car and highway taken by Art Cole. In the examination of several witnesses, Crown Attorney Donnan made frequent reference to the photographs for the purpose of identification or marks and tracks left on the highway at and near the scene of the accident.

John C. Meyer, Belleville surveyor submitted a plan of the scene of the accident. He testified he had begun his plan 900 feet south of the residence of Roy Marsh on Highway 37.

"Is there a curve on the highway south of this culvert"? Crown Attorney Donnan asked, pointing to a spot on the plan.

"Yes, there is a curve 150 feet south of the culvert turning left."

Gives Cause of Death

Dr. J. F. Doyle, Tweed physician, testified that he had held the post mortem on the body of the deceased woman at the request of the Crown Attorney. This disclosed, he said, severe concussion and lacerations of the lateral hemispheres of the brain, a fractured arm and other bruises.

"What was the cause of death?" asked the Crown Attorney.

"Concussion and brain lacerations."

"You were convinced, that the deceased died from injuries received?"

"That is what I would figure," the doctor answered.

Chief Constable Clare Hayes of Tweed, who investigated the accident stated that he had arrived at the scene of the accident from five to seven minutes after it happened after he had been called to the home of Roy Marsh. He noticed a car outside. Mrs. Root was in the floor. She appeared to be dead. Two large wounds showed on her head.

Asked by the Crown to describe his subsequent action, Constable Hayes stated, "I could not find the pulse of Mrs. Root and I was convinced she was dead. Noticing a stranger present, I asked him if he were the driver of the car. I received no answer. Instead he handed me a pocket book with money and a driver's license in it. Harry T. discovered the car outside was owned by W. H. Ross. He smelled strongly of liquor, and when I asked him to come outside he staggered as he walked. His speech was thick and hesitating and he seemed unable to answer questions".

"She Is Not Dead"

"Was anything said in the house?" questioned the Crown Attorney. "Before we left the house, Ross leaned over the body and said, "She is not dead" replied the constable.

"Ross mentioned that she was not dead several times" stated the witness. "Once in Tweed, and twice while in my car. He did not seem to understand".

After contacting the Crown Attorney and the Chief Coroner, Constable Hayes returned to the scene of the accident and escorted the prisoner to his office, where the official statement of warning was given by Prov. Const. W. McMeiken and Constable Hayes.

At this point, Mr. R. D. Arnott, counsel for the accused voiced an objection to the admission of accused's statements as evidence.

"It was impossible for him to make a statement," Constable Hayes stated. "He seemed sleepy and drowsy." What caused this condition?" "I was satisfied, that he was intoxicated," replied the officer. Witness stated he was present, when Constables E. Ervins and W. McBrien took detailed measurements of tracks, with the surveyor, and when Constable Ervine discovered a child's shoe in the ditch, which was later identified as belonging to Marie Thompson, 5-year-old child, who was with deceased at the time of the accident. He identified the car and its various parts in the submitted photographs, also blood and hairs found on the running board of the car. He stated the left headlight of the car was broken and that "she is not dead" three or four times".

Mrs. Root accompanied her husband's statement, but could not form any opinion as to the condition of the driver of the car.

Recalls Passing Car

Brigid Rashotte, who was driving along the highway at the time of the accident, testified to seeing a lady walking along the highway on the left hand side of the road and facing the traffic. She noted an oncoming car "quite a way" from her, which had its parking wheels in the ditch. It came closer and then ran into the ditch, while approaching the Rashotte car.

"How fast were you going" questioned the Crown.

"About twenty miles per hour "How fast would say the other car was travelling?"

"Between 25 and 30 miles per hour"

"After we passed the car we heard a scream" testified witness.

"I stopped my car and ran back and saw a lady's body in the road." Witness did not recall seeing Ross. "What were driving conditions like?" asked Mr. Donnan" "Very dusty on the highway" was the reply.

Mrs. Olive Mackness, driving companion of Miss Rashotte, corroborated the evidence of the former witness. "I asked Miss Rashotte to stop the car when we heard a crash. I looked out the rear window of the car and saw the other car come out of the ditch, and a body lying in the road". Witness stated that she had seen Ross afterwards in the Marsh home and had spoken to him but could not form any opinion as to his condition.

Witness Heard Crash

William Baker, Tweed stated he was sitting on the front step of his home when he saw a car travelling between 25 and 30 miles per hour. "I heard a crash, and a child scream" he said " and then rushed to the scene of the accident. Afterwards I telephoned the police."

Witness could not form an opinion as to Ross' condition. Mrs. Baker, daughter of the deceased woman, testified that she had noticed a car zigzagging in the roadway while approaching north. After the crash witness ran to the spot, where her mother was lying.

"Was the driver there" she was asked. "I think he was standing by the car. I saw him again in the house." Questioned regarding the condition of Ross, witness said "I could not say."

This concluded the calling of witnesses by the Crown. Ross was then brought before Magistrate Lloyd and formally committed for trial.

Again Mr. Arnott objected to admissibility of accused statements in evidence.

Admits Two Drinks

"The accused stated he had had a couple of drinks in Belleville, but would not enlarge. His conversation centred about the fact, that he would lose his job, and he asked us in my report, 'not to make it too harsh'."

"Did you know the lady who was with Ross?"

"No, she was later identified as Marjorie Craig, of Belleville."

"Was she intoxicated," asked the Crown.

"She smelled of liquor but was not drunk," was the reply.

"What was the condition of the road?" Mr. R. D. Arnott asked the witness.

"Hard and dry," Constable Hayes replied.

Highway Traffic Officer S. Ervine stated he had borrowed time and marking on back of the car. He corroborated the evidence of former witness regarding the condition of the car, and its various marks. He admitted the finding of a lady's shoe one foot and a half of the highway, 32 feet south of the blood marks on the road.

Taken to Belleville

He took charge of Ross and escorted him to Belleville. "I ate with him at 9.30" witness stated, when asked if to the condition of accused. "He had been drinking but was not drunk then."

Prov. Const. Wm. McMeiken testified he had seen Ross at ten minutes to twelve. He smelt strongly of liquor but was not intoxicated. He gave Ross the official warning. Ross kept interrupting with reference to his job. Ross said he had picked up a transient in Belleville and had had a couple of drinks. Ross kept asking if the lady was seriously injured.

"Ross stated" said the officer, "that he saw a lady in the road, and pulled his car to the left to miss her, but she walked in front of the car. The next morning he stated he did not see the lady". The next morning Sergeant Harry Thompson of the Provincial Police also interviewed Ross and took a signed statement from him. He denied having had a drink on the previous day and for twenty four hours previous."

Crown Attorney Donnan produced the signed statement, which was not read at the hearing, but was entered in the records.

Car in Good Condition

Edgar Jones, Tweed garage mechanic testified to the mechanical condition of the car. The steering wheel and brakes were in perfect condition, he said. The front headlight and the right rear fender were damaged.

Ernest Cook of Tweed testified that he heard a car roar on the highway. Later he noticed the car, heard a thud and saw a black object 2 feet high the air. He estimated the speed of the car at 25 miles per hour. He went to the road and found the body of Mrs. Root lying on the east side of the highway. Also her body for possible broken bones then took her in the house of Roy Marsh. "The driver of the car followed me in" he said. "He smelt strongly of liquor, and seemed dazed. He said "she is not dead" three or four times".

Mrs. Marsh corroborated her husband's statements, but could not form any opinion as to the condition of the driver of the car.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE CLOSE

Toronto, June 11 — (CP) — The Toronto market failed to water up any steam in today's session and while the Golds and Base Metals were sold in moderate quantity Pipes gassed and closed heavy. A note of steadiness ruled in the Industrial section with trading quiet except in spots and the Western Oils firm. Generally speaking turnover was the smallest for a full session in a couple of weeks.

Interest again bulked in the Distillery group with Walkers common the leader. Trading about 7,000 shares, Walkers touched 68 5-8 and closed around 68 with a narrow net gain. One block of a thousand shares and another of 500 shares were taped out. Distillers-Seagrams added close to a point and Industrial Alcohol A dropped an early gain.

Franklin Traction led the Utilities in a mild recession, dropping about 3-8. Montreal Power, United Fuel Pfd and B. C. Power A exerted fractions. Implements held their ground and Massey common added a fraction. Steels recorded few changes in the miscellanous group Close was up for Balmurl Power A, Cosmos Mills, Tamblyns and International Metals Pfd gained losses for Kelvinator, Coodyear P D and the Paper issues.

Base Metal stocks jogged downward. Noranda sagged about a point, and International Nickle and Hudson Bay weakened a fraction each. Pend Oreille, Sherritt and Chromium eased off. Consolidated Smelters registered a loss of nearly two points.

Eldorado, Mining Corporation and Mcintaing posted minor losses and in the Gold group Done and McIntyre were lower by 3-4 to 1-8.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, June 11 — (AP) — Stocks slanted definitely downward in today's market.

While there were intervals of half-hearted support for wavering leaders, most pickled fractions to more than two points and were around their low level of the day most of the final hour. Volume picked up a bit on the reaction, transfers running at the rate of about 750,000 shares.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Biggar and Crawford by Financial Service

MARKET COMMENT

Now that the so-called "gold question" has been more or less settled with the majority of experts agreeing that there is no likelihood of any immediate tampering with the gold price the security markets should settle down to a normal basis with the trend reflecting the business situation. Confidence over the next few weeks should be gradually restored and if the present rate of business progress continues higher stock prices are in the offing.

A security of high investment rating is B.A. Oil. The stock is a comparatively stable type of equity investment although it is obtaining very large earnings from its oil production in the United States. The dividend has been increased to $1 a share and the stock is, therefore, selling at prices to yield about 4.3 per cent. Higher prices for the stock would appear to rest partly upon further increases in dividend, which may not develop until after the 1937 earnings are known. There is not much prospect of pronounced improvement in earnings in Canada, although gradual gains may be made by holding down costs as volume rises. However, on Canadian operations, the distributing oil companies have found the sales tax a heavy burden, and it is the earnings from crude oil production that have improved the British American Oil picture.

COPPER

The recent behaviour of copper on the London Metal Exchange would indicate that the trade does not expect the current meetings of the international cartel to result in a reimposition of restrictions. The electrolytic copper equivalent, as set in London yesterday, was 14.10 cents a pound, considerably below the level attained several weeks ago and only one-tenth of a cent above the domestic price. For the first time in many weeks export copper was quoted below the London spot price, trading being done yesterday as low as 12.90 cents a pound. These conditions indicate that the traders and speculators in London do not anticipate a curtailment of production soon. As was pointed out here some time ago, stocks of the red metal are so low that the committee is in no position to restrict output. With little spot copper available such action would lead to a skyrocketing of prices that would not be of advantage to any one but the speculators.

"HOOKLESS" BAIT IS UNDER PROBE

Game Warden Seizes Bait And Sends it to Toronto

Ottawa, June 11 (CP)—The dream of anglers, in the shape of a new type of "hookless" bait which was used by men still-fishing for pike and pickerel on the Rideau River near Plantagenet, 40 miles east of Ottawa, was seized by Game Warden Wayne Robinson yesterday. The new bait will be sent to Toronto for a ruling as to whether it is legal in Ontario waters.

The bait consists of a worm placed alive in a clear one-ounce bottle, filling it with water and having a glass stopper. Under the surface the worm is magnified and is relegible in a natural and lively fashion. Hungry pike and pickerel, attracted by the bait and more often than not swallow worm, bottle and all. The fish then are easily pulled out and the bait removed and used again.

Game Warden Robinson make no mention of the "bottle bait."

20 Judge Merits

Toronto, June 11 (CP)—"Bottle bait," as a method of fishing, will receive the consideration of Ontario's Department of Game and Fisheries when a sample bait arrives.

"It's a new one on me," said D. J. Taylor, Deputy Minister of the Department, when "bottle bait" was described to him. Mr. Taylor laughed loudly at the prospect of studying the bait used by anglers near Ottawa.

Offhand, it looks like a good story to tell our fishing friends south of the Border. It might bring them up here. But, of course we'd have to exaggerate and advise them to bring giant bottles."

FIGHTER MAY MARRY FAMOUS LIBBY HOLMAN

LONDON, June 11. — (AP)—The Daily Mail today linked the names of Jack Doyle, handsome prize fighter, and blues-singing Libby Holman in a Cinderella romance.

The newspaper read the name of Miss Holman, widow of Smith Reynolds of the Reynolds Tobacco Company family, into an interview Doyle gave before he sailed yesterday for the United States.

In the interview Doyle said he expected "to marry a beautiful young American widow who is a millionaire with a fortune of bacco."

Doyle also declared his prospective bride was in London recently to see him.

Miss Holman, who recently left for Paris after a singing engagement there during the Coronation, fits all these qualifications, the paper said.

SIR WM. MULOCK IS "FAIRLY GOOD"

Toronto, June 11. — (CP)— Sir William Mulock, taken ill last Wednesday, had a "fairly good night", Dr. W. P. Caven, his physician, announced today. Condition of the former Federal Cabinet Minister and Ontario Chief Justice, was considered improved.

Returning from a fishing trip in Queen Bounty district, Sir William complained of weakness. He did little thinking that the trip he believed to have overtaxed the strength of the 93-year-old University of Toronto Chancellor.

LIVESTOCK LOSSES BY WARBLE FLIES

Measures For Fighting Animal Pest Given by Agriculture Expert

Losses in livestock in Canada from all causes attributable to warble flies have been estimated from $7,000,000 to $14, 000,000 every year, according to information compiled by Dr. Arthur Gibson, Dominion Entomologist and R. C. Twiss, Entomological Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture. There are two species of these flies and their life histories and injurious habits are similar. The flies lay eggs during sunny days on the legs and lower parts of livestock, particularly of cattle. About 400 eggs are laid by each female fly. The tiny grubs hatch in a few days, penetrate the skin, migrate through the tissues, and in some cases congregate in the region of the gullet where they remain until late winter. Then they migrate to the skin of the back, which they perforate to make breathing holes, and after about two months, form the warty lumps in the holes, drop to the ground, and change into pupae. From the latter, the flies emerge in the spring and summer, mate, and lay their eggs on the legs of cattle. The flies live only a few days, but are continually replaced by the emergence of new individuals throughout the summer. And so the cycle is continued year by year.

Apart from the damage they do by perforating the hides, the flies are injurious to cattle in several ways. When laying their eggs, their buzzing frightens the cattle, causing them to run around the fields. This reduces the yield of milk and brings about loss of flesh and condition. The animals become unthrifty and do not gain satisfactorily when the grubs are numerous, with the ultimate result that valuable meat is wasted, necessitated by the butchers having to, trim off "licked beef" from the best parts of the carcass where the grubs have been.

Control is effected by removing or killing the grubs while they are exposed in the back of the animals. The simplest and most effective method consists of applying a wash made from a standard derris powder (1 lb.) soft soap (1-4 lb.) and water (4 gallon). The soft soap is boiled in a quart of water and when somewhat cooled is poured into a bucket containing the derris powder and mixed with it into a paste. Cold water is added slowly while stirring to make up one gallon; the mixture is then ready for use. Standardized derris warble fly powders ready for use are sold commercially. The cost of material for four dressings is from 4 to 6 cents per animal. The date for the first application, varying in different parts of the Dominion, is in the early spring when the swellings in the backs of the animals caused by the grubs are first noticeable. Farmers in the interior of British Columbia, this treatment is given in middle March, while in the Maritime Provinces and Eastern Canada, about the third week in March. The second and third applications are made after intervals of 30 days, and the fourth after a further interval of about 35 days. The wash is liberally applied to the backs of the animals with a cloth or brush wherever the grubs are present. Only sufficient wash for immediate application should be prepared, and it should be stirred frequently.

The effectiveness of these control measures against warbles has been recognized in other parts of the world as well as in Canada. In Great Britain an order of the Ministry of Acriculture and Fisheries, entitled "Warble Fly (Dressing of Cattle) Order of 1936," dated January 31, 1936, requires that every person (Great Britain and Scotland) having in his possession, or in his charge, any cattle which are visibly infested with the maggots of the warble fly shall take prescribed measures against them, either applying a derris dressing at proper intervals, or of squeezing out and destroying the grubs.

The Dominion Department of Agriculture is co-operating with the British Government in connection with the above order by treating all cattle exported from Montreal to the Mersey to June with a standardized derris wash, as recommended by the British Government, under the supervision of inspectors of the Health of Animals Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

A copy of "Warble Flies and Their Control in Canada" may be obtained by writing to The Publicity and Extension Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

JAMES MERCER,

Prince Edward Regiment in Picton with which he had been a highly trained and esteemed member until the time of his illness.

Funeral On Sunday.

The funeral of the late Sergeant James Mercer will be held on Sunday. June 13 at 2.30 p.m. from St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here, with full military honors. It is expected that representatives of military units in this district will attend.

So passes "Jim" Mercer, a soldier and a gentleman, courageous and brave not only under fire of enemy guns, but in the heat of the battles of life; a man feared by all who knew him, who willingly sacrificed that his fellow humans would breathe. On Sunday he will take part in his last parade. The folds of the flag that loved so well wrapped about the body he offered to his country in the service of meritorious duty.

He leaves to mourn his passing a wife and one daughter, Mrs. Roy Thurston, Picton.

"He was a splendid warrant officer, and one of the finest non-commissioned officers I have ever known," Lieut. Col. B. C. Donnan, officer commanding the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment stated today in eulogy to the late Sergeant Quarter-Master Sergeant James Mercer, who died in Kingston Hospital yesterday. "I have known him for a number of years, and his passing leaves a vacancy in the regiment which will be hard to fill" said Col. Donnan.

"THE BRIGHT HILL"

by Clarissa Fairchild Cushman

"Oh, my Stars!" ejaculated Mr. Adamson.

"And then just before the war, old cousin Freddie got 'took to-jinks' and my father went out, and she said—you know her instant old oblidge people get—she said, 'Now Micky, I gave you a lot of stamps once—now this time I want you should take them.' They have on the mantel when you left 'em—the poor soul was in bed—'now you put 'em in this mixture in your pocket. There now; I can rest easy—a lot of the children are worth a fortune, as indeed,' said Kerin softly, "they were."

Jay Adamson breathed a long sigh. Dessert was come and gone, and the table of roasts and vegetables was now in Mrs. Kingsbury that so practical-the formidable Jay Adamson that the husband did not dare even rise to go to the drawing-room for coffee.

"And I suppose he knew by now what the envelope was worth, and said it?"

"Oh, mercy no! Not for years. I don't think my father ever looked at it or would have known if he did look at it. It was just an envelope, safe father went to the war, and I went to live with an old aunt up by Lake George, and the envelope—why it just tickled around. . I kept it finally in my glove box. . . . Do you know what a glove box is? It's long, and covered with blue silk, hand-painted, and girls have them on their breast tops. I had no gloves so I had better-thing to mine—on top of the envelope."

"Oh, my Go—Girl!" said Mr. Adamson. He took out his handkerchief, and mopped his face. Kerin looked around. The table was quiet, listening to her. She gave a little informal squeal of dismay. She wondered if she had been guilty of some breach, not knowing that her hostess was meeting and liking her silently. She had been singing a lullaby to bring Jay Adamson to dinner for ten years—ten, then, second ever since the meat course she had been nearly sick with rage; the mushroom sauce had been Corinne's idea—had been in a rage until now; but now something a long breath of relief and made a tactful movement to rise but at once Jay Adamson cut off his handerchief. "No you don't," he said. "I don't stir from this table till I get that stamp in somebody's hands that's got a little sense. You finish the story, young woman."

"It's finished," said Kerin meekly. "Father and I were going to live abroad after the war, and we disposed of things to get all the money we could. He just took this envelope into a dealer's—an honest dealer, who told him to put it up at auction."

"How much did it bring?" barked Mr. Adamson.

Kerin looked across the table, she could Never remember having people sit like that, and listen to her, before. Those same stamps weren't worth a nickel," she said. "And we got ten thousand dollars for the one envelope. My father gave me half and told me to keep it. His half we spent. He's dead now, and I have my half; but it's really unbearable. She had done a lot of talking at the first about not being able to abide him and all that; but she hadn't really meant it, not till now. Carl was really changed, disagreeably so. He was ugly. She and Alan kept out of his way. It was too bad, because in a sense she had been fond of him; he had been fun to fight with. But not now. The latest to rub every one—little as they could abide the bouncy Annie—was that Carl had been ugly to her before students when she interrupted him once in his office hour.

When therefore, Carl received, early in May, an invitation from Dean Archibald De Roche to come east and be looked over for the professorship of law recently left vacant by the death of the late Farncoop Brown, Carl felt too deep a satisfaction even to be noisy about it. He, Carl Kingsbury, the radical, was (undoubtedly) being asked to step into one of the most outstanding posts in the teaching world in the most conservative university that existed in the country. That! for a narrow-minded tin-horn prairie university that catered to a lot of farmers!

He told the dean, Geoffries, that he would be away the coming week-end, and why.

"That will be splendid for you, Kingsbury, but a great loss to us."

"Better wait to congratulate me when it's settled." Carl grinned good-naturedly. Geoffries knew as well as he did that a man of his standing wasn't dragged half across a continent to be looked over like a graduate student. He would accept that coveted professorship of law until he chose to step from it to something greater.

And so Carl prepared to go east. Sure, Annie could go.

Sure Annie could go. The thought tickled him. Why not step by at Amberley and see the boy? His boy, really, by! He had been mighty generous to Kerin in that matter. And Kerin—the little fool. He wouldn't mind letting her see what she'd look. To be a dean of women the rest of her life! Lord!

It was Alumni Day (not to be confused with 4th Commencement, which came five weeks later and was for seniors) in Amberley—which meant really luncheon on long fifty-foot tables whose daily utility as bleacher seats was only partially concealed by linen and flowers; hundreds of chicken salad a pickle, one roll, potato chips, coffee slopping over in a saucer, the cream all used up in the pitcher, and ice-cream-and-cake; luncheon in the gymnasium, with band-waving and backslapping and Percy Sheldon making a speech and all the old boys singing, "We're here because—" and cheering.

Kerin arrived early cool and trim in white linen and was—and no repetition could make the pleasure and delight she felt in this circumstance — immediately greeted on every hand by some one Graduates of the year before fell familiarly on her neck and dared, at last, to admire her clothes and "kid" her, with arch eyes, about her handsome boy friend; mothers, dowdy or sophisticated, were good to detain her and tell her how Anabelle was doing in her teaching or how Beatrice had a baby now; boys of a year ago who introduced wives as new that they rusted with tissue paper; the father and mother of Corinne Kerin had for that Corinne was engaged to the nicest boy—one of the snubby, brown-eyed kind—and Corinne had made them promise to be sure and tell her; "And my dear," said Corinne's mother later to her husband, "there were tears in that woman's eyes. Think of her remembering—let alone caring that much! These, if I dare mutter, were food and drink and romance and high moment of living to Kerin.

Gregory was there. Kerin had known that Gregory would be there. He had written her. He wrote her now every few days.

Also present, astonishingly present was the great, the super-great, the almighty financier and possible dictator-by-will of millions, Jay J. Adamson, fringy and pink. Fifth-seat, but shepherded by President Sheldon, with the tender solicitude one feels towards a too-frail egg, lest it be prematurely broken before its disposition is known. Jay J. Adamson showing a free-will interest in Amberley! He, Sheldon, must sometime tactfully thank De Roche for this.

And, oh yes, Cocky De Roche was there, making, as Adamson had told his wife, an excuse of the occasion to give casualness to his paternal affection: Archibald De Roche dean of that august and conservative institution which was to-morrow to receive the visit of one Carl Kingsbury, candidate for their professorship of law. He had been talking to Adamson about the new prospects as they drove up to the building.

TARZAN'S QUEST

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)

Ogdil looked Kavandavanda straight in the eyes. "Yes," he said; "I, high priest of the priests of Kavuru, I go. I leave you alone with the one called Jane; but I shall be near!"

Kavandavanda frowned, but he said nothing as Ogdil left with Annette.

Now the youth turned toward Jane and surveyed her through dreamy eyes. Suddenly he clenched his hands as if steeling himself for some ordeal. "No! No!" he murmured; "I must be strong. I must not fail the world that awaits me." Jane looked up inquiringly.

"I am a god," Kavandavanda continued; "some day I shall be the god of gods; I shall rule the world. Already I have attained the first requisite of godliness—I am mortal, and yet immortal. And already do I know many secrets of nature, and the human mind."

Jane saw in his eyes the blazing fire of fanaticism, and she was afraid. But presently the dreamy expression returned to them. "You are very beautiful," he said; "I have never seen a creature so beautiful. It is a pity that I must do—what I must do!"

THREE KILLED AS WATER FLOODS B. C. MINE

Ten Hours of Terror In Underground Tomb For Two Miners Saved

Bodies of Dead Recovered Early Today and Brought to Surface

ONE IMPRISONED

Wall Between Two Workings Crumbled to Let Water in

By CHARLES NICHOLS

Nanaimo, B.C., June 12 (CP).—Rescued from a flooded coal mine in which lay the bodies of three companions, Louis Pogrello and John Scenini were recovering in hospital here today from effects of ten hours of terror in the underground tomb.

Desperate rescue crews manning emergency pumps freed the flooded workings of Reban Mine at nearly midnight last night of sufficient water to permit Pogrello and Scenini to be led to safety.

Two of their three companion miners, caught in the sudden inflow of an estimated 60,000 gallons of water that flooded a quarter of the mine shortly after noon yesterday were dead. They were Roland Gerrard and his nephew, Joseph Shepherd, young "night rider" employed only six months ago. The bodies were recovered early today and brought to the surface.

Believed beneath the imprisoning water was Joseph Cassidy, who, it was thought buried at the bottom of the shaft, might be given up for dead alive. He was trapped when the wall of the mine caved in.

Rushed to hospital in this Vancouver Island, mining centre, Scenini was able to walk into the tiny building but Pogrello was carried to his bed by the rescuers.

"I Knew I'd Have To Move."

"From his hospital cot, Scenini gave his story of the accident.

"I don't know myself what happened," he said. "Another could I, I had no time to move.

"I was pushed up every place against the pressure of the water. I don't know where the water came from. I just heard a rumbling noise and the water hit me. I don't know whether I was here for all ages. I see my hair all scrubbed off. I feel fine. If they'd let me I'd go and get drunk.

"I've been in lots of mine accidents but I never had a narrow deal

Why the Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Air has weight. The moon's gravitational pull on the oceans causes the tides. One would lead one to suspect a like influence on the atmosphere. A tide in the air simply means an heaping up of the air in one place at the cost of another. The effect should then be a pressure wave or a barometric pressure. It is so small, however, that it is not noticeable. Indeed it is observed by the greater changes occasioned by closed areas. However, it has been measured, and is found to be less than a thousandth of an inch of mercury. This is much too small to affect our weather. Weather changes are occasioned by pressure and temperature changes of one-half to one inch of mercury.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, June 12.—Pressure is high over the Prairie Provinces and Northern States, also in northern Alberta, while a shallow depression is moving slowly eastward over Southern Ontario. Light showers have occurred in Northern Ontario and Quebec, also local thunder showers in the Ottawa and Upper St. Lawrence Valleys, but little precipitation has been fair and moderately warm in other parts of the Dominion. Forecasts:

Lake Region—Moderate variable winds, shifting to easterly on Sunday; fair and warm with warm local thunder part of Sunday, followed by showers.

Maritime—Moderate southerly winds, Sunday, easterly winds; partly cloudy and unsettled with occasional showers and local thunderstorms.

Northern Ontario and Manitoba—Fair and warm with local thunder showers; not much change in temperatures.

Arrest Not Connected With Orpen Case

Toronto, June 13 (CP)—Police today said arrest of a Cleveland salesman yesterday on a charge of vagrancy "had nothing to do" with the kidnapping of Alan Orpen, 15-year-old Toronto sportsman recently. The man, arrested by detectives working on the Orpen case, was released on $500 bail.

Orpen was robbed of a $1,500 diamond ring and handed $1,000 in cash by the thugs after they drove him to a downtown bank where he withdrew the money. The aged rackets figure, Joseph Scenini, of the National Sporting Club which he operates, the men at first demanding $5,000.

NEPHEW WORKS WITH RESCUERS

Two Men Named Shepherd Lost in Mine Flood Years Ago

(Written for The Canadian Press by Ross Mackenzie)

Nanaimo B.C., June 12 (CP)—I was in the little frame mine office at the pithead when the first rescuers brought to the surface.

They were being lowered into the slope by Dick Nichol, superintendent of mines for Nanaimo, who was going down into the workings with Constable J. Hall of the British Columbia police, and Joe Mackenzie, who took a stretcher and blankets.

Just by the engine house the pump was set we came to the body of Nelson Shepherd. It was lying there where it had been brought by another rescue crew. We loaded it on to a stretcher. One of the men with me was Joe Shepherd, the dead man's nephew. He didn't break down but took up his duty with the rest of us.

It was a narrow place where the body was. No wider than five feet and only about six feet high. Even in one direction it was blocked by the pump. In the other direction towards the face [illegible] was still deep in slime.

It was slippery and steep. We had to stop about four times to get a grip.

When we got to the top there was no outcrest from the crowd.

It was there at a bank following the tense suspense of the afternoon. It moved back and forth and then it was taken with the other into the

SUMMER HEAT IN BRITAIN

LONDON, June 12.—(CP)—Great Britain and most of Europe were in the grip of an early summer heat wave today.

The thermometer registered 78 in London at midnight, equalling the highest temperature for that hour in 37 years and causing widespread discomfort.

GOVERNMENT HOLDS SEAT

London, June 12.—(CP) Cable—The Conservative government won its second by-election today when A. J. Whitley, Conservative, was elected to the House of Commons for Brockinton. Two days ago it retained its Fylde seat.

Whitley polled 17,918 votes against 12,620 for Lieut.-Colonel J. V. Cunningham, Labor, and 3,348 for C. J. Boyce, Liberal, giving him a majority of 5,298 over the Labor candidate and a margin of 1,751 over the combined vote of his two opponents.

'End War by Pact Treason', Says Franco to Interviewer

Insurgent Leader Agrees to Foreign Withdrawal if Loyalists Do

"OUR VICTORY"

Burgos, Spain, June 12 (AP)—General Francisco Franco, with what he hoped would be his final military offensive under way declared today he would agree to withdrawal of foreigners from Spain if the Madrid-Valencia government would do likewise.

The insurgent commander-in-chief made this statement in a written interview with The Associated Press, at the same time apparently closing all roads to peace in Spain except through "our victory".

"Any attempt to end the war by agreement would be treason against Spain," Franco wrote.

FREE ASSOCIATION IS LABOR'S RIGHT SAYS EARL ROWE

Conservative Leader States He Stands Four Square For Law, Order

MAY CHANGE SYSTEM

Introduce British System Civil Service if Elected

London, Ont., June 12 (CP)—The Conservative party in Ontario will stand on the British North American code of labor's right of free association, Hon. Earl Rowe, provincial leader of the party, declared in an address last night to the Western Ontario Conservative Association.

If his gained power, said Mr. Rowe he would guarantee the right of labor to select its representatives as provided to join. He pledged himself and his party in the individual's right to free association and stated also he stood "four-square for law and order."

Mr. Rowe's enunciation of labor policy came after an attack on Premier Hepburn whom he charged had "betrayed his party, his province and his country" by "driving a red herring across the trail of his own maladministration."

Introduce New System.

The Conservative chieftain promised to introduce the British system of civil service into Ontario if elected. He described England's civil service as the "incorruptible spinal cord of the British Empire." In Ontario, he declared, the service had been "ruined by a vicious patronage system never known before."

Premier Hepburn's attacks on Communism and the C.I.O. were branded by Mr. Rowe as smoke screens "to cover a crooked trail marked by the black flag of dictatorship, the bleeding of the Separate School question, mismanagement of the Liquor Control Act, derangement of the social services and the most vicious administration of the civil service the province has ever seen."

The amendments to the Communist Act, since repealed, which granted a share of corporation taxes to Separate Schools, were "trailed with legislature" as an issue for which the premier "had no mandate to introduce legislation."

"He ridiculed as bigoted and unfair many of his members who showed signs of wavering." Mr. Rowe declared. "In my party, legislation would never come off the statute books of the province and be rode out of his party the men who failed to ride with him.

Use My Term.

"And in twelve months he used my own term of contempt and made his followers rise and meekly acquiesce in legislation they had been forced to pass so short a time before."

The principle of repudiation was dishonest, said Mr. Rowe of the contention by Premier Hepburn of the Hepburn government. No one, he said, would ever know what the action was for.

Mr. Rowe charged the Toronto Liberal organization with juggling its accounts to save 100,000 horsepower. He declared the new Hydro slogan should read: "Hydro juggling for a short of power. Use gas."

"Mr. Hepburn," he said, "has got to get me and I'll nail their hide to the fence before the next election."

DAIRY WORKER GUILTY OF ABDUCTING GIRL

Canmore, Alta., June 12 (CP)—Peter Kuprianoff, dairy worker found guilty of the abduction of 15-year-old Jenny Krasnodemski, was sentenced to six months imprisonment last night.

Remple testified the girl and her companion, Alex Pravola, 16, had left with him of their own free will. He said he had intended to "hitch-hike" to Toronto. After tramping thirty miles the first day, the court was told, the three spent the night in an Indian cabin near the Morley Reserve.

Full State Honors Paid Late Sir Rob't Borden, Canada, Empire Mourn

Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff of Supreme Court of Canada Appointed Personal Representative of His Majesty King George VI at Former Prime Minister—Obsequies Civilian in Character

Ottawa, June 12 (CP)—A representative of King George VI, members of the Dominion and Provincial Governments, representatives of the church and all walks of life will gather today to pay final tribute to Sir Robert Laird Borden.

His Majesty Represented

Chief Justice Sir Lyman P. Duff of the Supreme Court of Canada was notified by cable last night he was appointed to attend the funeral as personal representative of his Majesty. Sir Lyman had originally been designated one of the honorary pall-bearers.

The obsequies are the first state funeral since the death of Sir Arthur Currie, former commander of the Canadian Corps. Where the predominant note in Sir Arthur's funeral was of a military nature, unbellited the service he had given the state in wartime, his afternoon's funeral will be of a civilian character.

No lengthy cortege of soldiers will accompany the body of the statesman to Beechwood cemetery. In their place will be parliamentarians, representatives of the judiciary, of foreign embassies and consulates, civic officials and the citizens of Canada generally.

Veterans of servicemen, bemedalled and marshalled in battalions and companies, will line the streets through which the cortege passes.

After a private service at Sir Robert's old colonial home, where he died Thursday, the cortege will proceed to all Saints' Anglican Church. The funeral procession will be headed by a band of Governor General's Foot Guards. They will precede a mounted escort of the Royal Canadian Dragoons.

New Chief Mourner

The chief mourner will be Henry Borden of Toronto, a nephew. Lady Borden will not go to the church.

Pall-bearers at the church will be chosen by the rector, Rev. C. G. Stephens, with Rev. Archdeacon J. M. Snowden and Archbishop Roper assisting.

Active pall-bearers will be four Canadian Mounted Policemen and four ex-Servicemen.

NO APPEAL FROM DEATH SENTENCES

Eight High Military Leaders in Russia to be Executed

Moscow, June 13 (AP)—Eight of the Soviet Union's highest military leaders were doomed by the firing squad today for treasonable activity against the Red army they headed.

No appeal appeared from the death sentences handed down by the military tribunal of the Supreme Court which branded the army chiefs as traitors in the spy service of the foreign powers.

The verdict condemned Marshal Mikhail N. Tukhachevsky and seven generals, including important figures in the military high command, as "immediately" Soviet custom dictates such sentences must be carried out within 24 hours.

The military trial was deemed by certain observers as probably the most important of the Soviet Union's treason trials, since it disclosed disaffection in the highest military ranks. Previous trials, which sent a total of ten to their deaths, were concerned with charges the defendants plotted with Leon Trotsky for the overthrow of the Soviet regime.

RUSSIAN WOMAN IS QUESTIONED

Life at "Long Meadows" Closely Scrutinized by Police

Stony Brook, N.Y., June 12 (AP)—Investigators prodded a plump, black-haired Russian woman with pointed questions today on her story of life at "Long Meadows" farm which Mrs. Alice McDonald Parsons vanished without a trace save a cruse note demanding $35,000 ransom.

State police, pursuing their own investigation while federal agents moved secretly, concentrated on questioning the mysterious Mrs. Anastasia Nicholaevna Romanoff, as she soons household.

It was Mrs. Kuprianoff who told of seeing the 33-year-old heiress get into an automobile with a middle-aged man and woman companion and drive away on a trip from which she has not returned.

Across from Mrs. Kuprianoff in the Bay Shore police station sat Alex Kuprianoff, 37-year-old meatpacking factory worker, who came from Long Island City to identify the dead body he was her former husband.

Assistant District Attorney Joseph S. Arata of Suffolk County emerged from the conference to say Mrs. Kuprianoff admitted the identification, though she had not mentioned Kuprianoff in her earlier story of two former marriages.

Arata said the woman also identified Kuprianoff as the father of her 11-year-old son, Roy, who lived with her on Parsons' handsome poultry farm. The match maker, Arata said, dismissed threat statement as "impossible". She pretously had said Roy was the child of her first husband, who died in an automobile accident.

London Morning Post Says Times Demand Unity

By GEORG HAMILSTON

London, June 12 (CP)—The Imperial Conference is preparing to ring down the curtain. On Monday chief delegates will gather at 10 Downing Street to give last touches to their report. On Tuesday or on Queen Anne's drawing room at the Palace of Saint James—at the option of the conference will meet in the final session.

Then, in a room of rose silk hangings and hung with paintings of the Queens of early George's kings, the conference will close where it began. Yet with a new chairman. For in the month of the conference's duration Stanley Baldwin has retired from the premier's office. Chamberlain has taken his place.

Foreign Policy and Defence.

It was a month of history from all its predecessors. Previous conferences had been largely occupied either with constitutional relations or matters of preferential trade. Although their entire history the heads of chief delegates at the present conference have been devoted to questions of foreign policy, with the related problem of Empire defence.

Day by day the delegates have reviewed the troubled scene. They saw the Rhineland occupied and then almost boil over as bombs dropped on the German pocket battleship Deutschland and German warships shelled the Spanish government town of Alicante in reprisal.

The conference talks, however—it was indicated from the outset—did not have as an objective the formulation of an Empire foreign policy, adopted possibly for submission as binding on all members of the conference. They were primarily exchanges of viewpoint. Australia suggested did not give rise to the creation of an empire defence council.

General Survey Only.

Preliminary to any foreign policy have still to be drafted but it may be taken for granted that they will advance beyond a general survey stage of the ground, with an indication of what should be avoided without danger. Take 3 Imperial unions—12 coals, 12 steels, 12 textiles—and you see the need for collaboration and cooperation—the position is fundamentally different from that of the resolution adopted at the 1923 conference and reiterated at subsequent conferences.

Seeking Formula to Bring Germany, Italy into Fold

Germany States They Will Reply to Any Incident

MEET IN LONDON

London, June 13—(CP-Havas)—Ambassadors of France, Germany and Italy met again at the foreign office this morning to continue efforts in a further effort to settle on a formula to bring Germany and Italy into the non-intervention committee.

Diplomatists met yesterday on the problem of security guarantees for the Spanish frontiers and the Mediterranean patrol work had mainly to do with the alternatives open to each nation in the event the contemplated consultation fails to give satisfaction to the injured party.

Germany considered that in this case each nation should resume the right to act on its own, but the French and British delegations believed that right should not extend to the point of military reprisals.

Reply to Any Incident

Berlin, June 13—(AP)—Germany will reply to "any slightest provocation or incident" in Spanish waters—a lightning-like counter-stroke," the German news agency declared today.

The sinking of the Bilbao announcement a new submarine chasing flotilla had been formed "to cleanse Spanish waters of all foreign submarines, whether German or Italian." The agency declared the German official reaction.

"Bolshevist murderers evidently are planning fresh attacks.

"Let them beware for Germany will know how to deal with any provocation any time and anywhere. Germany already has shown it does not answer with pin pricks. The slightest provocation or incident will be met with a lightning-like counter-stroke."

GERMAN NATIONALS IN CANADA TO REGISTER

Ottawa, June 13 (CP)—Dr. Hugh Conway, acting German Consul General, announced yesterday male German Nationals, born in 1917 and living in Canada or Newfoundland, are required to register with him after July 31 with German consulates during any leave of absence in Germany.

This is to conform with a recent German decree, it was said, and the consuls will decide whether registered persons are liable for service. It was also announced German National between 17 and 55 years of age may voluntarily serve in the Germany army from Oct. 15, 1937.

TWO DISTINCT ISSUES HAVE DEVELOPED IN ELECTION CAMPAIGN

Halifax, June 12—(CP)—Two distinct issues have developed in the Dominion election campaign, Premier Mackenzie King declared here tonight. Speaking at a dinner meeting of the Liberal Federation of Nova Scotia, he stated "The essential issue is whether you approve or disapprove of the low standard of social responsibility of the present government. Secondly, is the vote for the country would be a "license for future governmental scandals, for cabinet ministers sitting on company directorates or remaining in private business while members of it within that received government contracts."

Conservative campaigners have pointed to the resignation of C. W. Accurti, minister without portfolio, after his lumber company had received $60,000 annually for illegal cutting of timber. But the Premier replied it was a liberal government that first initiated the assessment against one of its own cabinet colleagues that Albert Pascoe, former conservative speaker, had cut timber under similar circumstances.

As part of his Social Security program Col. Harrington has promised in recent campaign speeches to obtain cheaper and more extensive electrification throughout the province. By public ownership, he declared, "and not to improve secondary highways and municipal roads generally," and "at the same time paying reasonable living wages to highway workers."

MRS. BRANSCOMBE SPEAKS TO CLUB ON GUIDE WORK

Paper Also Given on Work on League of Nations

MUSICAL PROGRAM

The regular meeting of the King George Home and School Club was held in the Queen Alexandra Public School on Thursday afternoon, June 11th with a record attendance. The president, Mrs. W. Dankey welcomed the members and visitors and the meeting adjourned to the auditorium to hear the regular Friday afternoon singing by the primary children. The program was made up of nature, seasonal, modern, sacred and patriotic songs, given in such a manner as to assure the listeners that music is not being neglected in the school.

After the club returned to their meeting, Mrs. Grant gave a final report of the Study group conducted by Mrs. Lowe, and of the seven meetings with various subjects of universal interest studied and discussed.

Paper is Given

Mrs. J. Scott gave a paper on League of Nations work. Mrs. H. Turner gave an exemplum on the relation of fear in the formation of a child's character. Mrs. Lowe placed a room win the attendance award.

Mrs. M. E. Branscombe was introduced by the president and gave an interesting talk on the history of the Girl Guide movement, their aims and accomplishments. The Scout movement began by Lord Baden-Powell to train boys from childhood in accurate observation, carrying messages correctly and in general caring for themselves; and others as they grow older. In the many girls, who aroused criticism by their activities and uniform, a request was sent and Miss Agnes Baden-Powell started a similar movement for girls but with different ideas and aims.

Religion in Guiding

The two aims of the club are the world on their own and as evil is made attractive good must be made attractive. The motto of the Boy Scout movement is "Be prepared" and the motto of the Girl Guides is "Be ready." The Boy Scouts are taught to help others in every way possible, and the Girl Guides are taught to be helpful, courteous, considerate, clean, loyal to each other and their ideal. It has been said that there is no religion in Guiding but the very foundation is religion and religion goes all through Guiding. The motives of the Guides and Brownies are respectively "Be Prepared" and "Lend a Hand."

The Brownies whose motto is "Do your best" are taught obedience and simple tasks that make them helpful. The girls are taught practically cooking, sewing and child nursing thus laying the foundation for later life that many lack.

Funds Well Used

The Guides in Belleville collect money by carrying waste paper, by collecting papers and by rummage sales and dances. The money is used for camp and Christmas work, both local and in the stricken districts in the Old Country. Christmas girls from sixteen up, take children to pantomimes, concerts, camp for a week and sew and collect clothes for them. The girls are encouraged to be leaders in this work. Even sick children are reached by post and parcels and letters. Any question of correction are helped when they are able to help their fellows in the community. Mrs. Branscombe closed with this quotation from Robert Lowell: "Lives of the future blessed with the promise of a healthy body, a healthy mind, trained to service in the home and for their country and possessed of that great gift to pass on to their children, the gift of character."

Refreshments were served and the meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

CHANCE OF JOBS CALLED BETTER

Jones, secretary manager of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, Montreal, who with his associate, Mr. Gordon Conover, secretary also of Montreal, paid a brief visit to the local Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

"Both visitors are enroute to Toronto.

"Conditions in the country are very good," commented Mr. Mod. Clarke.

It is expected that F. W. Fraser, of Kingston, Jamaica, Dominion Trade Commissioner, whose territory includes Jamaica, Haiti, the Bahamas, the British Honduras, will pass on his regular visits to the local Chamber of Commerce on or about June 25th. Mr. Fraser will call on former visits.

34TH BATTERY IS REAL SMART UNIT

Annual Inspection Held at Armouries Before Lt.-Col. Russell

Canadian artillerymen swept into imaginary action last night at the Armouries, firing imaginary shells at an unseen enemy from eighteen pounder guns, when the officers and other ranks of the 34th Battery, Canadian Field artillery underwent their annual inspection before Lieut. Col. C. B. Russell, D. S. O., A. A. and Q. M. C. Military District No. 2, inspecting officer, assisted by Captain Panet, assistant Inspecting Officer, of Kingston. Lieut. Col. C. T. Peterson, of Cobourg, officer commanding the 9th Brigade C. P. A. of which the 34th Battery is a unit, was present.

Presenting the neat efficient appearance peculiar to the mounted units of the army, the battery went through the mazes of its foolkrill with a precision and despatch, which not only earned compliments of approval from the inspecting officers but the admiration of a large group of spectators, who lined the balcony.

Following the foolkrill, the artillerymen hauled their guns into firing position in the Armouries. Here actual warfare tactics were gone through, with two guns firing at an imaginary enemy. Signal lights flashed as gun corrections, ranges etc. were sent to the gun crews.

Unit Congratulated

Commands of battery and section commanders were carried out with true artillery precision, gunmen executing commands on the traditional artillery "double" and on the conclusion of the manoeuvres, the battery lined up and were addressed by Col. Russell.

Congratulating the unit on its splendid turnout, Col. Russell expressed his pleasure at the smartness of the battery. "You are to be complimented" he said, "on your smart appearance. The cleanliness of your equipment and uniforms is most creditable. Further, I must compliment you on your steadiness both on parade and during inspection. It is a sign of good military training, as is the spirit of co-operation with which you carried out the various manoeuvres.

Lieut. Col. Russell then presented Sergeant J. E. Nixon, of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps with the Long Service and Good Conduct Medal, emblematic of twenty years meritorious service in the army.

Officers of the 34th Battery are, Major Gilmour-Reid, officer commanding; Captain J. McLeod, and Lieutenants A. Welch, George Laughlin, R. Bund and J. Bartley.

TRAILER PERIOD SUCCEEDS TIN CAN

Rickety Cars Gone Says Superintendent of Tourist Camp

Tin-can tourists, are no longer cluttering the highways with dilapidated cars, leaving behind them a trail of refuse to mark their brief passing through the land, but they have come sleek trailers, the last word in luxury and appointment, it is indicated by the registry book of the city tourist camp.

This week further changes have been made at the camp in the electrical system to provide doubled current for trailers so equipped. Handy electrical outlets now permit the plugging in for the operation of the numerous accessories with which most trailers are now equipped.

"The day of the rickety old car and uncertain destination of the touring party has pretty well disappeared" commented Camp Superintendent Vernon Orr. "Now new and shiny cars hauling shinier trailers are the rule. The shabby old car is the exception."

Tourists, also, have their itinerary pretty well planned before they start out. They follow the map and stop at the best advertised camps. Belleville camp this year is being favored on the map as never before, with the favorable comments made by tourists.

Up to the present States across the border as widely separated as Florida and Michigan have been represented by visitors. Included among the parties who have stopped over are E. C. Mackinson and family of nine of Detroit, visiting in Belleville again after a period of nine years, who commented at length on the visible change for the better in this city since his last visit.

District Institute Convention

East Hastings Women's Institutes Hold Annual Meeting at Front Road United Church

The District Annual meeting of East Hastings Women's Institutes was held in Front Road United Church on Tuesday, June 8th. Due to favourable weather conditions and an interested body of Institute workers the crowd was large.

The morning session began at 10.30 opening with community singing followed by the Institute Ode and Lord's Prayer. After a few remarks by the District President, Mrs. Gilroy, the "roll" was called to which a representative from each of the seven branches responded by a suggestion for our District Work. The Sec'y Treas. Mrs. Noble Brown, was called to read the minutes of the last annual meeting, and the financial report. The branch secretaries were asked to read the reports of each branch. The District auditors' report was called for but was not given until later in the program as the auditors were not present.

The District president gave a short talk on her work of the past year. Although it was her duty to visit each branch (by virtue of her office), she said a personal invitation made her feel more welcome. She has taken pleasure from the work and closed her remarks with the Institute Creed found on one of the Branch programs.

Miss Etta Ball from the Mohawk Branch entertained the ladies with a humorous reading.

The reports from the convenors of the various standing committees were given. These showed a busy year had been completed during which work had been done by most of the branches in community improvement and relief, while health, home economics, agriculture and Canadian Industries, Historical Research, Legislation and Canadian-citizenship and International Relationships had been made subjects of study.

Miss Pollard, leader in Girls' Work, spoke of the project work done in the district and urged the short local service for the late Mr. Putnam, decorated Companion of Ontario Institutes. A minute's silence was observed, followed by one verse of "Abide With Me".

Mrs. Arnold Mitchell read an address of welcome to the guest speaker, Mrs. R. S. Colloton, former Provincial President, Women Institute leader in Girls' Work, and Mrs. Fred Simpson, Provincial Member on the Provincial Board from this district, and to the delegates, Mrs. W. White in reply thanked the hostess for their splendid hospitality and their efforts to make all welcome. At this point in the proceedings, Mrs. Percy Mitchell gave the auditors' report. The report was correct and the report was accepted.

Election of Officers

Mrs. R. S. Colloton was asked by the President to conduct the election of officers, which she did in her capable way and the officers for the coming year are as follows:—

Hon.—Mrs. White.

1st. Vice Pres.—Mrs. W. Waddingham.

2nd. Vice Pres.—Mrs. H. J. Hade.

Sec'y. Treas.—Mrs. Noble Brown.

Publicity Representative—Mrs. G. McLaren.

District Delegate—Mrs. R. Gilroy.

Auditors—Mrs. Covey Mitchell, Mrs. Jno. Donaldson.

The Institute choir gave a musical number which was much enjoyed after which Mrs. Colloton presented the co-operative program. She spoke very highly of the program which had been carried on for the past three years. It is one of the finest forms of projects in the Institutes. She also told of the very fine tribute of praise expressed about the Superintendent, Miss Ruby McDermand. She is an outstanding character in the Economic field and accepted her present position as it increased salary in order to be under the British flag. (She formerly held a position in New York City.)

Directing our attention to the co-operative program the following items were given and the desires of the district made known. The delegates were all agreed to continue the short course in "local leader" and chose the Kitchen Essentials as the subject of study and work. The training school which lasted four days is to be held one day each week for four consecutive weeks beginning the last week in June. The next meetings are to be held, one at Melrose, one at "Front Road" one at Plainfield, and one at Moulin.

To Hold a Rally in August

An "officers' rally" is to be held in August at the Quinte Branch. Each lady who attends is to bring a dinner dish for the noon meal.

Mrs. Gilroy expressed her thanks to the delegates for their promptness in deciding on their awards for the competitions and before leaving was asked to present a bouquet to the oldest lady present. Mrs. McCabe, aged 81.

Mrs. Fred Simpson of Brighton, Federated Member to the Provincial Board, was called on to address the meeting. She spoke of her attendance at two meetings of the Provincial Board, one in May in Toronto. She accepted the 4th. chair, the one occupied by the last Federated member, Mrs. Mary Murphy, who was a resident in this district. They, too, had observed a period of silence out of respect for Mr. Putnam, also Miss Emily Guest. A letter of sympathy had been sent to the bereaved wife and sons of Mr. Putnam. Mrs. Simpson read an inspiring fact that the Provincial Board is a clearing house for our Institute problems. She encouraged all to study civics and gave this slogan: "What Canada Makes, Makes Canada, if we buy What Canada Makes". She also asked everyone to try to accept the Department's plan for meetings as these were always the dates most convenient for the speakers.

Mr. Herity Gives Address

Following her address and a number from the song sheet, the president called on Mr. J. O. Herity, who had been invited to address the convention. He spoke on the subject of homes and "The Home Improvement Plan". This address interested everyone. Bits of quiet humour was especially interesting and suitable to a body of women whose motto is "For Home and Country". Mr. Herity stated the twofold object of the plan and explained the conditions under which loans were obtainable.

Mr. J. Wilson, whose name appeared on the program, was not present so Mrs. Harry Murphy, District Delegate made a few remarks on the Area Convention.

The President asked for the wishes of the ladies regarding a nomination committee for the next annual meeting. The ladies chose to have the committee of which are the district delegates from each branch.

A vote of thanks was moved and extended to all who had helped in any way to make the meeting a success.

The display of seven quilts, one from each of the seven branches in the district had been judged at the noon intermission by Miss Pollard, Mrs. Fred Dorey and Mrs. Jennie Dryden. Before the meeting closed these ladies gave their report on the judges' decision. The honour of receiving the first prize went to Plainfield their quilt being a Coronation pattern done in coronation colors.

The second prize quilt was made by the ladies of the Mohawk Branch. The pattern chosen was "The Mohawk Trail" done in white and printed broadcloth. The quilt winning third place was that exhibited by the Quinte Branch. The pattern "The Lovers' Knot" was done in rose, green and white broadcloth.

The prize money, $3, $2 and $2 was paid to the branches by the district secretary.

The National Anthem was sung at the conclusion of the program.

TRENTON

Trenton, June 12 (Special)—Residents of Trenton are becoming boat-minded since the agitation of William Lick, former member of the Belleville and Oshawa Yacht Clubs, to form a yacht club here. Arrangements have been made to secure the vacant Silver Slipper dance hall on Dundas street as headquarters for the proposed club and it is expected that local merchants will be approached in the near future to furnish the building. Picton Yacht Club boats entered a similar plan and were most successful. Results of the business men's race will be shown June 30 and July 1 when some of the world's best speed boat drivers compete on a marked course in Picton harbor. General opinion is that the regatta will be one of the best if not the best ever staged in this part of the country. It is quite obvious that the store keepers and other backers of the P.E.Y.C. will benefit noticeably during the boating meet.

Rotary Carnival.

Expected to be the finest Rotary Carnival ever held here extensive preparations are being made to produce a gigantic parade of floats and a grand evening of entertainment in Governor Simcoe Park following the road race from Belleville to Trenton which is an annual event has again summoned many notable Canadian runners and the list of the feature attractions of the June 16 show. Proceeds from this enterprise will be given to delve further into the work of aiding crippled children. Among the latest arrangers entered in the twelve-mile marathon are Milton Gosselin, Montreal ace and John Jokela of Toronto. As many will remember Milt Wallace breezed across the winning line last year covering the distance in 56 minutes. This led to a disputable runner and attended the 1936 Olympics with the Canadian team. He defeated the great, Boo "Hooley" Rankine of Galt on May 24 at St. Catharines and is considered the best five to ten mile man in the country at present. The parade will form at Marmora street at 5 p.m. and leave that point at 6.45 p.m. Clare Northey is in charge of procession and judging from his fine efforts last year the coming parade should be worth while seeing. Valuable prizes will be donated for first a barrel in the park at a late hour in the evening. Acting Commissioner H. Godfrey of the R.C.A.F. will officiate at the draw.

At a short session in police court here yesterday Magistrate Alex. Northumberland County was fined $10 and $2.95 costs for operating a motor car.

Joseph Wellman was put on six months' suspension but was allowed his two children to school.

Minor violators of the Highway Traffic Act were J. H. Drewy Benjamin Roth, H. G. Hobbs, Edward Kellaway and Frank Davis who were fined the usual sum.

Little Benny's Note Book

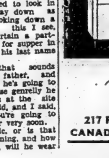
Me and ma was eating lunch and I said, "Hurry up and finish your tea ma, I'll tell your fortune by your tea leaves."

My, this is a new accomplishment, do you reveal the past or the future? ma said, and I said, Either one you want, it's irregardless to me.

Then you can read my future ma said, I know my own past ma said.

And she pushed me her empty tea cup and I started to look in it with my head away down so it couldn't see me, and I frowned a well, saying, What's this I see, I see you going to spend a party, by bald headed man for supper in about a year time ma said, and I said, And what's this, you're going to meet a dark stranger very soon.



Well how romantic, or is that supposed to be a warning, and how will I reconcile him, will he wear a white carnation, hee hee? ma said, and I said, Wait till I look again.

With I did, saying, O, what's this I see, the dark stranger's not a man at all.

Ah heh, a woman, ma said, and I said, No, a spot. It seems to be a ink spot and it seems to be on your bed sprad, I said.

A what, on where, Benny Potts is this a joke or did you dare to get ink on my good spread? ma said, and I said, No ma, I didn't dare to, it was a accident, I was filling my fountain pen and I happened to be leaning over your bed at the same time.

To be continued at the beginning of the sad part.

THOSE WHO GRADUATE

Three great institutions of learning this week, the commencement exercises, graduations, or convocations, all going by one name or other. . .

With the very large number of homes represented in Belleville High School, The Ontario School for the Deaf and Albert College, it was to be expected that more than usual attention was paid to these three functions, which mean so much in the young lives of the students.

The young today can not claim that they are not receiving the best that modern educational science can provide them, for there is education for all, even in days when the cost of education is felt keenly because of economic conditions.

Such scenes as were witnessed this week give cause for gratification that the cause of education is occupying so prominent a place in the minds of the people. There is realization more than ever that sane educational methods exert along with religion and the home the most powerful influence for good on the growing child. It is only a few years away from the control of affairs. Young men and young women are stepping out into the world to play their part after finding their place in the scheme of things under this triple influence, the school, the church, the home.

Besides this large number are those who in the public and separate schools and collegiates as well as private schools are working yet on the last labors before the completion of their work. It took over the local situation gives a faint idea of the grandeur of the task resting upon those who are the educators of the thousands in even a smaller city like Belleville. The supreme task is to train these young so that they are prepared to serve mankind. Their elders matter a great deal of course, but the ways of the latter are set and can with difficulty be changed from the routine of their lives while the course of the thousands of young lives in Belleville and in every small centre in the countryside are yet being moulded—they are made of the most delicate mechanism, hearts, souls and minds—the most precious material in the world, far beyond gold and gems in worth. .

When one attends a convocation of these young people or a commencement for the younger children, one cannot but be happy in their happiness, their optimism of outlook upon the infinite ways which lies before them. Here is indeed a symbol of the salvation of the world by the young for that buoyant unselfish faith will be justified.

RECOGNIZED BY THE PUBLIC

Those who entertain are today rightly given a place of honor. There was a time, when actors were in the public domain almost a vagabond. Some centuries ago it was necessary to have the patronage of some lord or high official to be an actor in England or France. Today that is gone. The actor is come into his own.

This week witnessed the truth of this statement. Jean Harlow, the "platinum blonde" who had played many a screen role, died; her death was chronicled on the front pages of the newspapers of the civilized world, that front page which is reserved for news of supreme importance and of unusual public interest. In the metropolitan dailies few men and women ever reach that final newspaper resting-place, as was accorded Miss Harlow and other great stars of stage and screen. Seldom plans for her funeral occupied first place on the ordinary pages the next day where the bulk of the more famous deaths are recorded.

On a page of a large city newspaper recording plans for the funeral of the screen star a few days ago was also the account of the death of a Hollywood actor, Monroe Owsley, who had played the suave villain in numerous films. With the two names were obituaries of a national American figure, who was the former hea dof the U.S. Marines, a great civic leader of New York, the death in Paris of a prominent Jew, who had been a staunch defender of his race, and other less public men. In those newspapers few obituaries appear, only the leaders while the smaller figures must be content with a funeral notice or no notice at all.

While there was a touch of intense sadness in the tale of the early and almost sudden death of the actress, this does not completely explain the unusual interest. That of course is in the fact that Jean Harlow was a personality who drew a following of millions. Personality is the secret. And those who entertain possess that secret of personality, otherwise they could not hold sway over the minds of the multitudes.

Those who delight the world naturally should have a place of honor.

I CAN SMILE

Seeing my garden neat
While both my hands and feet,
A muddy raft—
When passing by,
At such as I,
He laughed.

But I can smile—
For this I know;
Things silent grow.

His laughter died away
My garden was to stay—
After he passed.

"BINGEN ON THE RHINE" THRILLED US in poetry when we were school kids, but a Belleville touring party got a bigger thrill recently when they visited Bingen-on the Rhine, and remembered the soldier of the Legion who lay dying in Algiers, there was lack of woman's nursing, there was dearth of woman's tears, but a comrade stood beside him while his lifeblood ebbed away and bent with pitying glances to hear what he might say. The dying soldier faltered as he took that comrade's hand . . . take a message to my own, my native land . . . for I was born in Bingen, in Bingen on the Rhine. That is not an exact transcription but close enough to show that the years have not obliterated that favorite poem of the would-be elocutionists of the Little Red School House.

MONEY IN THE SCRAP METAL AND PAPER BUSINESS was demonstrated chiefly by people familiar with Old Country methods of conservation. Many sources of wealth overlooked by natives have been uncovered by what is called the foreign population. For instance Italians uncovered a mine of fabulous wealth in the shoe-shining business in New York City. One millionaire in Manhattan began shining shoes when a kid in Brooklyn, and now is a friend of singers and bankers. He has prospered on shoe-shine concessions in big office buildings. William Seabrook, in an article, "Americans First" in June American Magazine, tells an interesting story of amazing and elaborate organization by Italians in the United States. Take the shoe-shine business in New York today. It is dominated by Italians and employs about 20,000 Italian-American boys and men, taking in $400,000 a week, or $20,800,000 a year. Before the depression two Shoeshine Kings, employing 80 to 100 boys took profits up to $20,000 a month and more. Italians also shine at barbering. There are 20,000 Italian barbers in New York City, and Mr. Seabrook estimates that about 80 per cent of all barbers in the country are Italian. Giuseppe Susca, President of the Barbers' Benevolent Society, of New York City, has been knighted by the King of Italy. There are 1,000 Italian barber shops in New York City doing a business of $35,000,000 a year. On the Pacific Coast Italians loom large in the wine business and many fortunes have been made from the juice of the grape.

HEARST - NEWSPAPERS IN THE UNITED States keep harping on the one string: Keep America out of European intrigue, "Keep America out of foreign wars" it shrieks, "and keep foreign wars out of America"—also a whole lot of blatter along the same lines, frequently repeated. Who wants the United States of North America (of which Canada is so important a part) to be entangled in European affairs? United States for years has taken the overplus population of Europe, given all of them better homes and many of them the chance to become wealthy. Great Britain has been a bulwark against foreign aggression directed at the United States and will continue to be. Canada is a peaceful neighbor. Unless and until the United States sees the necessity of uniting with Great Britain on world policies founded upon Christian ethics in a mutual protective pact against would-be Napoleons she can proceed along her lonely way, protected on the one side by the British policy of peace on earth to men of good will and on the other by Big Brother Jack Canuck who does not need watching and will quickly muss up any foreign entanglements seeking to enter the Uncle Sam's domain by the back door.

OTTAWA PARADE

Back Stage in the Dominion Capital with

WILFRID EGGLESTON

Walter B. Herbert, secretary of the National Liberal Federation, tells a striking yarn about one of those "Mister, can you spare a dime" approaches that we have all been subject to at times in the past decade.

Walter, in his student days, was paddling varnish on Vancouver Island. One day as he was crossing a bridge on his way to the railway station, he was approached by a transient.

"Say, Buddy, want someone to carry your suitcase?"

Walter made the point that a wiry young fellow like himself was not able to do so without help.

"Then say, Buddy, could you spare a dime for a cup of coffee?"

Walter said: "No, I won't give you a dime. But I'll tell you what I'll do. If you're hungry, come on down to the station restaurant and I'll buy your breakfast."

The transient agreed, and soon they were seated at the counter.

"What'll you have?" asked the youthful Samish admirer.

"I'm pretty hungry," said the transient, looking at Walter out of the corner of his eye.

"Go ahead and order. I'll pay for it."

Which the transient undertook to do. He ordered ham and eggs, ham and eggs, toast and coffee. He thanked Walter warmly and went on his way. The college graduate felt sure somehow he would ever see the chap again. But some time later Walter met along the same bridge a voice said:

"Say, Buddy, want someone to carry your suitcase?"

Walter looked up.

"Guess you don't remember me?" Walter agreed that he was stuck.

"I'm the bum you gave the breakfast in Bellingham."

The man was now clean and well-dressed. He explained he previously predicament. He was a boss-carpenter who had run into some hard luck, and bad times, and had been reduced to asking for a hand-out. Now he was at work, and doing anything was jobless.

The story is interesting, but much the most profitable encounter was still to come.

The following year they staged the world's championship prize fight at Shelley, Montana, then only an ambitious foothills railway division. About five thousand unemployed youths and men trooped to the town over the country hoping to get work helping to build the big grandstand.

In the crowd was Walter, his brother and a friend. He had just graduated from college into a work which seemed to have more workers than jobs.

The transients who arrived were in great straits. In the first place the construction had started. In the second place, there were far more men than jobs. They hung around the "tent city for a day or two wondering where the next meal was coming from.

Walter and his master-carpenters watched the authorities deciding on the site, and saw the master-carpenter's assistants lay out the foundation. One of these foremen came by, looked at Walter. It was his old friend of the Vancouver Island bridge.

"What are you doing here?"

"Looking for a job."

"Come here. Then pay busy. You've got one."

"But I have my brother and a chum with me."

"They've got jobs, too. Let's go."

And, sure enough, we started first had the best jobs all through the show and stayed longest of any of the employees.

It's a fine modern illustration of the ancient Biblical casting your bread upon the waters!

The anniversary of Sir John A. MacDonald's death having occurred on June 6, it was appropriate that a quote what I imagine must be the most insulting comment ever made by a newspaper writer. It is to be found in a popular British encyclopaedia, published in 1914, and consists of thirteen short lines in small-type. The first sentence calls Sir John's birthplace, emigration and illegal career. The notice reads:

"He represented Kingston in the Canadian Assembly for a term of 23 years, and became Premier of Ontario, British Columbia. He became Attorney-General on more than one occasion.

It is something like ending a brief biography of Mackenzie King with the words: "He was editor of the Labour Gazette and afterwards ran for parliament."

Did you know . . . that Hon. Harry Stevens has been for many years a close student of the early Britons in the Roman and pre-Roman era. He has a farm which he describes as a hobby . . . that among his favorite authors are Carlyle and Emerson. Lord Bacon, Aristotle, Plato and Carlyle . . . he also very much fond of Victor Hugo, Alexander Dumas . . . likes Scott, Fielding and other leading British novelists . . . regards Disraeli as the greatest Russian writer . . . the former Minister of Trade and Commerce and Reconstruction leader says that as a young man he was greatly interested and influenced by Xenophon's political romance, Cyropaedia.

Burning grasp as the capital . . . the relief of the Prairies. Liberal leaders at Mitch's' disassociation from the Manion-King party . . . the flurry at London when Hon. Ian Mackenzie appeared up in such resplendent uniform that the assembly automatically placed him ahead of the seniors in the cabinet . . . curiously about Mr. Bennett's plans. starting from a report that he was looking over some of the available estates on that side of the water . . . speculation that he might buy Lord Atholstan's. Ralston, whether it will be legal or political.

Letters to the Editor

The Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,
Belleville, Ont.
Dear Sir,—

In a recent issue of your interesting and valuable paper there appeared a letter advocating the adoption of daylight saving time. It was signed by "Jamieson Bone." The arguments advanced in the letter by imagination are to be almost all. It would dignify them to be even classified as specious or plausible, apparently the writer imagines that because some of the larger cities have gone daylight saving that we ought to be ready to copy and imitate them just for the sake of being in the swim. "Sign." In this respect he reminds one of the small boy who came home from his grandmother and when his father objected to the remark "well, I'll be darned," said my mother, can't I marry your mother!"

It is a very impressive and important issue and contained an ill-advised curtain raiser. He tries to be fair as well as a very distinct insinuation of ignorance on the part of intelligent people of all the opponents of daylight saving time whom he in his lordly manner terms "a refined vocabulary characterizing as "crabs" residing in some "dim religious" spot in the city.

Mr. Bone is, apparently unmindful of the fact that there is nothing at all to prevent the merchants and business people from opening their stores and offices an hour earlier each day and closing similarly, if they so desire. The churches and theatres can do likewise. In the winter months most of the labouring class daylight saving is a great inconvenience, many have to work on standard time and their homes are run on daylight saving time. Children of today is inescapable. They are supporting and maintaining the city government. In the city, are among the greatest contributors to the cost of the city government, they constitute the great majority of the voters and have a just and reasonable claim to consideration.

The school children and our educational institutions daylight saving has always proved a positive detriment. The regular routine life of the child is seriously interrupted. People who are obliged to rise earlier or rather at their usual hour, say nine o'clock . . . the school children ought to be in bed at that hour) they are permitted to remain up until 10 o'clock, when it is too bright to sleep. The next day they are drowsy and dull. Just consider the efficiency of our very costly educational system is seriously impaired. Another thing at the year is the crucial one for those trying examinations, the examinations before the Belleville Collegiate Institute and every possible advantage should be accorded to them.

Mr. Bone would have our City Fathers, in accordance with the whim of the franchise by the unwarranted subversion of the people's right to change the time at the whims of a few faddists.

Daylight Saving Time caters only to the specially privileged devotees of golf, long evening strolls and an already over-indulged idle minority.

True democratic methods file best expression in the carrying out of the will of the people. The majority rules the municipality have spoken. The course to be followed by the City Fathers is clearly defined.

Thanking you for your space Mr. Editor.

I am,
Your truly,
Cliff Leonard Time.

cage like this. We had light for a while but I don't know how long. I had a watch but the water was up to my chest and I lost it. Time doesn't mean anything in a place like that."

"While there was life, of course there was hope—but there was not much."

In a cot next to Senini, Pognello and Bello, injured in the rescue, lay Joe Short for Heir.

Before the rescue, Pognello and Senini, imprisoned in the furthest branch of a v-shaped tunnel in the small mine and shut off from their would-be rescuers by 20 feet of water, could be heard shouting for help while 50 yards away Joe Bello drank the water from the workings.

Terry Senini, brother of John, waited at the mine head 300 feet from the two survivors. He was on the outer slope of the tunnel when the water blasted in.

"There was a strong smell of stale air when the wall crumbled," he said. "It was like sulphur, only stronger."

He, with four others, broke for the slope head when the water rushed in. Those who escaped with him were Alex Wheeler; Jim Hall, mine manager; Lorne Perry, 18, and Jim Foster.

Dr. L. Giovando was ready to go into the mine when the emergency hospital, costing over 12,000 within an hour, made it possible for the rescue crew to operate in a sterilized room.

Ready at the mine with a pulmotor, Sparkle ambulance and clothesline was Dick Nichol from the mine rescue station at Nanaimo.

Fungo to Work

The company's big pump, submerged almost 200 feet, was urged into the mine from the adjoining, now-abandoned coal mine. Hope operated until a few years ago by Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Ltd., was replaced by an automatic 12,000-gallon machine rushed by truck from Nanaimo. Another 6,000 was in another small machine pump.

The water swept into the bottom of the old mine through a fault line between the Beban workings and the old Extension workings. Mine managers believed it came from one of the abandoned workings. The heavy combed either side of the rotten fault where the Beban workings are located.

Joe Wilson, mine manager, said the abandoned tunnels on either side had been studied before the new shaft was driven a year ago.

The slope workings on the north side to the place where the water surged in is 300 feet long and extends 100 feet upward toward the head end on the other side of where the men were trapped.

Wives sobbing at the pithead had waited hours for news. Many fainted around. Around them was gathered all members crowd of Nanaimo district miners and curious folk from miles away.

Pacific Security Problem

Australia's plan for peace on the Pacific through a non-aggression agreement met with a cool reception, but as it involves the adherence of all the governments in the Pacific the proposal has still far to go before it can become a reality.

On the economic side Commitment of International Trade, shipping and air communications also was discussed. Dominions delegates returned home with a general approval for an Anglo-American Trade treaty. They invite in some measure amendment of the preferences now granted Dominion goods in the British market, but in the view of Dominions to study the proposals and make observations.

There is to be done about United States subsidized shipping in the economic questions.

A Brilliant Spectacle Coronation Description By C. M. S. Sam Johnson

The pomp and pageantry, the glittering setting of thousands of marching troops, the blare of martial music, the awed hush of the rest of the throngs of massed humanity, overwidely cheering crowds in a democratic city, all these and other things which has never been equalled except in a fairy dream", Sergeant Major Sam Johnson, Belleville representative to the recent Coronation of their Majesties King George and Queen Elizabeth, told a representative of the Ontario Intelligencer yesterday, in describing his experiences while in the British Isles.

"The words that would suitably describe the many scenes enacted in London during that memorable day have not been coined," he said, "so cannot begin to describe the thrilling scene in London actually began description."

Sergeant Major Johnson gave a graphic description of the activities of the Canadian Coronation contingent from the time they left Canada until they arrived back here. Here is the story as "Sam" tells it.

Arrive At Southampton.

"Arriving in Southampton on May 9, we (the contingent) proceeded to a place known as Bramley Camp. From there we marched a distance of two miles to a camp called Pirbright, headed by the band of the Welsh Fusiliers, and the Canadian contingent bringing up the rear we found the Australians, New Zealanders, Indians, and South African already to quarters.

"Said quarters were called out on parade and here were chosen the forty Canadians who were to stand guard for a certain length of time at Buckingham Palace on the following Sunday. The men were chosen from the Highland Regiments, Rifle Regiments and others who wore non-kilt uniforms. They stood guard for six hours in a teeming rain.

"The next Monday saw us quartered in Olympia, London's magnificent horse-show palace and sports stadium. Here, too, were quartered all the Colonial contingents and also those from India, besides detachments from the Guards divisions, the Naval Brigade and other units. In all there were 8,000 soldiers quartered here.

"Here too" said "Sam" "were the troops, which took London by storm. Everywhere they went they were received with vociferous cheers. People crowded to shake their hands and pat their horses. And well they deserved it, for as they swung along, tall, erect, with rifles at the present along their chests, their vivid scarlet uniforms making a fine contrast to the blue and yellow of their trousers, with their Stetson hats at the correct angle, and everyone of them a strapping giant, people fairly gasped in admiration. And every Canadian, who saw them involuntarily swelled with pride at the familiar sight of the famous Royal Canadian Mounted Police."

Blowing a cloud of cigarette smoke in the general direction of the ceiling, the speaker gazed reminiscently into space before continuing. "That night" he said, "we were all confined to quarters at six o'clock. At two a. m. we were awakened by the notes of 'Reveille'. Said 'Reveille' for the Guardsmen, who were detailed to line the route of procession. Those chaps, mind you, stood at their posts from three o'clock in the morning until late in the afternoon. And if you know what a British Guardsman is you will realize what that meant. The rest of us were hauled out of quarters at six o'clock, and had breakfast. During the meal we were issued with two chocolate bars and three pieces of lump sugar. This constituted our rations for the day."

Marched to Hyde Park

"At nine o'clock we fell in and marched to Hyde Park. Here dense masses of humanity were packed. Every available nook and cranny held its quota of human beings. The roofs of buildings were black with people. Windows were filled. Merchants along the line of procession had removed the plate glass from their shop windows and erected stands in the spaces. Scaffold stands, everything was packed with a cheering throng. Loud sound speakers installed along the route of procession brought the actual happening within the Abbey to the tense listening throng outside, while the actual Coronation was taking place."

"Then occurred one of the most impressive scenes of the entire Coronation", Sergt. Major Johnson continued. "At the actual ceremony massed choirs inside the Abbey, started to sing the National Anthem.

Instantly that huge mass of people across the city took it up, and it swept from heads. A tense silence fell over London for a fraction of a second. Officers sprang to the salute. Rifles swept to the "present." Then in a gradually swelling sound the impressive notes of the National Anthem, "God Save the King" soared from millions of throats. It was a dramatic, human drama. There was real sincerity in the voices of the crowd. Women dabbed at tear-swept cheeks. Men swallowed suspicious lumps in their throats as with voices which caught at times they reverently, it seemed, joined in the refrain. For a brief moment's silence, then the roar of the twenty-one guns of the Royal Salute broke out in the morning air."

Given Place of Honor.

"Then we received orders to fall in for the procession. And here I might say that the Colonial troops were given the place of honor at the very end of the procession. The Canadians marched behind the Indian troops. And we never got a glimpse of Buckingham Palace during the procession. As we swung into line, the noise was terrific. I don't think I have ever heard anything like it in my life. The Armistice celebration was nothing compared to it. The bands, the hoarse cheers of what seemed like millions of people made a bedlam of sound. All along the route of march, we were given a tremendous ovation. Thousands of periscopes were visible as people in the rear strove for a view of the procession."

"London went wild. Down came social barriers. Staid middle-class Englishmen rubbed elbows with the scum from Whitechapel. Aristocracy belles hobnobbed with haughty Cockney bellhops. Freedom was called and cried as England and the Empire let down its hair for the tremendous demonstrations of affection and loyalty ever given a reigning British monarch. Frankly, I have never heard anything like it in my life. I swear that for the entire time we marched between the lines of packed human beings giving vociferous yells for the King."

Children Prominent.

"As a corner near the Marble Arch, there seemed to be a million school children. Here, especially, we cheered as loudly as their elders. At Marble Arch corner were massed a group of Imperial veterans. Lame and crippled they swept their hands to salute as we passed, some with a youthful gay sang, as they noted the words on the backs of our packs marching troops, 'Old Soldiers Never Die'."

"For some reason or other the procession was halted for nearly thirty minutes directly opposite where we stood in line waiting for the order to proceed, the crowds on the sidewalks showered us with a brilliant shower of candies, chocolates, etc. And while we were halted and did not have to march, English people were wonderful to us. They treated us royally and nothing was too hard or too much for them to do. It seemed like old times. England will always be England, no matter what happens. And the English policemen, the 'bobbies' as they call them. The 'bobbies' lived up to all their traditions. Courteous, obliging, the personification of good humanity, they did their best to make our stay a pleasant one, at times going far out of their way and duty to accommodate a visitor.

Deluge of Rain.

"However as the procession neared its end, the clouds opened up and sent down a deluge of rain. It might have been possible for all the effects it had on the crowds of people. They did not slip one inch. People sat on the curb of the sidewalks and other spaces with water dripping off them but it made no difference. Everything but their spirits was drenched. We marched a total of approximately fifteen miles in the procession it seemed like fifty yards so great was the prevailing dampness.

"After the procession was over we were taken to Olympia by bus from Chelsea Barracks where we sat down to a splendid meal. After that although the boys were wet, they dispersed for a sight of Ole Lunnon. Back to the old familiar haunts along Piccadilly, the Strand, Leicester Square and the spots well known to the Canadian troops during the war. It all seemed strange at first, but we gradually became acclimatized.

"And after the procession was over London really took off the lid." Sam smiled. "Dense crowds massed about Buckingham Palace cheering and shouting 'We want our King'. Several times the Royal Family appeared on the balcony of the palace and each appearance was the signal for prolonged cheering."

As we passed through the cheering crowds we were nearly mobbed at times. Everyone wanted to shake hands or treat us. Cigarettes were forced on us. We were very popular it seemed with England in general and London in particular."

At this point "Sam" digressed for a moment. "Do you know", he asked "how many people used the underground "Tubes" during the week of Coronation. Remember the business were on strike and the Tubes were crowded to capacity. One well informed source has it that nearly twenty millions of people travelled via the Tubes in that week", he said in amazed a negative shake of the head.

A Great Thrill

"And now" he continued, "comes the greatest thrill of the entire trip, at least as far as I am concerned. The contingent moved off to Wellington Barracks in London, where we were inspected by Sir Ian Hamilton, Minister of National Defence. Here we again met the entire contingent of colonial troops, who were drawn up on parade. Headed by the Imperial Band, and headed by the Band of His Majesty's Irish Guards, we moved off for Buckingham Palace. Entering the palace grounds we were formed in the traditional British square. Outside the gates, the British public, quick to sense the unusual, soon thronged every available space. Thousands of them crained their necks to see what was going on."

"Then, the blood flowed a little faster in our veins; our hearts beat a little quicker, as to the strains of "God Save the King", the Royal Family appeared in view. A deafening cheer came from the dense crowds outside the palace gates. The commandant of each colonial contingent was presented to His Majesty and received his medal personally, a Coronation medal. Following this, Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth, the Duke of Kent and the Duke of Gloucester presented a medal to each member of the overseas contingent, I passed by and received my medal from the Duke of Kent. He was dressed like the King, in a naval uniform, and looked very smart and boyish. He had an infectious smile, which attracts everyone to him.

Gracious Queen Elizabeth.

"But the persons who won the hearts of the entire Canadian contingent at least, was her Majesty the Queen, and the Princess Elizabeth. Gracious, charming, the Queen looked every inch a Queen. Simple, unaffected, with a charming smile lighting up her features, she greeted cordially the troops as they passed by. At her side was the Princess Elizabeth, beautiful like her mother. In the background, and at first glance in amazement from the balcony where she stood, was the Princess Margaret Rose, with Queen Mary. As the tall bearded Indian Sikhs passed by the little Princess' eyes grew wide with amusement. They lighted up with joy as the scarlet tunics of the Mounties caught her gaze. Then she gradually became accustomed to the sight. She waved a small hand. Her features lighted with a smile. At her side Queen Mary, majestic and regal in her poise ground the proceedings with interest, turning slightly at times to make a remarking hand upon the shoulder of the younger Princess, who near the end appeared to be enjoying herself hugely."

"After the presentation of the medals we marched outside the gates of the palace where his Majesty the King took the salute. Behind him were grouped the members of the Royal Family. It was an imposing sight with the swarthy Indian troops, picturesque in their turbans and flashing uniforms; the swagger of the Australians with their turned up hats, and feathers; the vivid scarlet of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police; colorful uniforms of the other contingents and finally a brilliant showing. Indian potentates, civil dignitaries, military officials made an impressive picture as cameras and motion picture machines clicked all around. Outside a great throng of cheering thanked the fact that part of the crowd had caught sight of a glimpse of the Royal Family."

Nine Days' Leave.

"From the palace we were marched to St. James Park where we were served with refreshments, and from there we took buses to the camp at Pirbright. Here we were issued with passes for nine days' leave. Some of the boys went to France, and others to Ireland, Scotland and Wales. Tweed, June 12.—Mr. J. E. Shortt who had for the past two weeks been in training, a cast of sixty presented "The Mirthquake Minstrel Show and Revue" at Tweed auditorium on Wednesday evening to a large audience and again on Thursday afternoon and evening to audiences in Tweed Opera House, where another large audience greeted them.

The program opened with a minstrel show featuring the inimitable Ed Wm. Alex Simpson and Jack Brennan, old hands at the game, and Tim Leal as end man. Their jokes at the expense of local townsmen drew rounds of applause from the audience. Stan Gabourie acted as interlocutor. During his part of the program several musical numbers were given: "Chick-Chick- Chicken" by Tim Leal, "When the Moon Shines on the Moonshine" by Alex Simpson, "Dapper Dan" by Ginger Hannaive, "Rock-a-bye to Sleep in Dixie" by Frank Tummons, "Mighty Lak' a Rose" by Doris McBeth, "Me and Marie" by Keith Wilson. The feature number of this part was "I'm In Love With a Lovely Lady" starring Doris McDuis and Ed Shortt, assisted by Jean Sills, Marion Tummon, Jean Lamberton, Marjorie Tummon, Alice Foster, Jack Tummon, Bert Huyck and Arnold Monkcomery.

"The Voice of the Old Village Choir" with Marion and Marjorie Tummon singing the duet made a hit. Miss Reta Pallicer and Jim Lajoie in "Etiquette" were splendid.

The concluding number was "The Pirate Song". This number was eternally well done. It featured Frank Tummon who as the pirate captain sang "The Pirate Song". Other songs included "Here Comes the Show Boat", "The Riff Songs" and "We're All Pals Together".

Library Corner

by K. G.

One hundred years ago this June was the accession of Queen Victoria. Believing that the world we live in is largely the result of that eventful century, Philip Guedalla has attempted to "Throw a light bridge of selected narrative across the chasm" in his book "The Hundred Years." He has made this historical panorama live through the selection of some thirty significant moments. These dramatic episodes which mark great changes in the civilization of the western world begin with the accent of Queen Victoria to the throne. Great Britain, France, Germany, Russia and the United States are scenes of further events and the volume closes with the accession of Edward VIII. The brilliance of Mr. Guedalla's writing denotes his genius for setting down in a phrase the whole character of an individual or a nation, the essence of a jubilee or an international dispute. Readers will find in this biography of a century, a vivid pageant of the march of events and the relationship of important incidents in a new light.

With vacation days at hand, books of travel are viewed in a new light, as suggesting possibilities for a holiday trip. Two new books of travel offer suggestions for a visit either to the Atlantic or the Pacific coast. "Along New England Shores" by A. Hyatt Verrill describes this interesting coast line from the New York boundary to the border of New Brunswick. Cities, ports, popular resorts and forgotten fishing villages—all find a place in this delightful book. For each spot, the author recalls some incident of its romantic past. Stories of Puritans and Quakers, of Redcoats, of pirates, smugglers, Indians, and witches crowd the page. "Motor Tales and Travels In and Out of California" by Herbert Carolan tells of a trip to the Pacific Northwest, to Southern Arizona and New Mexico, with a summer jaunt to Alaska is included. The tour includes visits to interesting cities of the coast, San Francisco and Los Angeles, mines of the Bret Harte districts, the magnificent scene of the Colorado Canyon and that great feat of engineering skill, Boulder Dam.

Dr. Richard C. Cabot of Cambridge, has offered a valuable guide for the prevention of disease in his book "The Layman's Guide to Medicine." Dr. Cabot has written of health and disease in a readable style, free from fads. He believes that "a little knowledge is a dangerous thing" but since every person is exposed to the dangerous contagion, he hopes to reduce the risk of disaster "by injecting into all who will submit a larger dose of knowledge in the least irritating form procurable."

DAILY SHORT STORY

Happy Fools

By M. McCulloch Williams

"You don't say," Miss Lexy exploded, rising so quickly she hitherally rained scissors, thread and mercery bag upon the carpet. "Did you ever in all your life? I shorely never did."

"No, sir," said the Widow Lane, chuckling. "That Copely boy has run away with Damaris, one of the dancin' Reeves twins, shore enough. It just stopped by to tell his mother. The Reeves girls stepfather is that cut up he cried in the telegram he had he got the blame, same as for the stage-dancing, and him as innocent as a baby unborn."

"Lying, as usual," Miss Lexy commented. "The twins would quietly elope if pa didn't forbid away the nice money Tom Reeves, poor fellow left his mother. She's one of those smart fools—I tried to warn her against Nick Rose, being a church-skiter, but she paid no attention. So she married him and he used all her money, and it was sinful hard on Damaris and Doris. Reckon they took to dancin'. The, had to do something for their livelihood."

"Ain't heard tell—yit. Let you know when I do," Widow Lane said grumpily, "treat Miss Lexy kindly, hear?" Then to the little girl—"I'll see that child don't go about half a jiff—"

"What for?" the widow demanded.

Miss Lexy, already bonneted, nodded toward the door, with a faint smile. She walked out through the side gate, almost running, and took the short cut leading to the Rose home.

Bridge in ghost-like instinct guided her to Doris—we must have found sanctuary in the playroom, where all the girls were at bay before a mirror, she was essaying a new dance.

"I'm glad you—know," Doris told her. "Dad's waiting to tell you—but I had to begin on Mr. Rose. He was simply dreadful—talked about Damaris and me as if we were—well, we won't be for a year. We've been thinking it time to leave us alone since we went to work. Say, you do know how to keep me here and save the cook's money—"

"He can't!" Miss Lexy exclaimed. "Your father's word is law, child," she replied; "But he can. Mother made me promise—I can't get work without his consent."

"Oh, I'd away—he has locked up my money for me, and there are over dollars is all the money I have to my name. Dad's a dear, but he couldn't let Dammy go to him empty-handed—I'll grit my teeth and bear it for his sake, rather than give him three parts of my money, as I were tempted to."

"You're goin' to be free in short order," Miss Lexy interrupted. "Come with me right now. Time somebody took Mr. Jack Rose in hand—he's a sight too old for a boy—with a little help from the good a chuckle.

Lord, and Tommy Woodley," she last under her breath.

"Come just as you are—fetch nothing but your music," Miss Lexy ordered very low, setting her back against the door. She heard from the front Jack Rose laying down the law furiously to his weeping wife. Instantly she set her black hat upon Doris' golden head, bundled the girl into her own prim jacket, and, walking in front of her, went to the back door, well covered. There she whispered: "Run home, child. You know the way. Here's the key. Look up—tight—and open to nobody."

Five minutes later she had gained the highway. The first passing motorist was glad to take her straight to the country town. There she divided an hour between the office of the courthouse and the law office of Bryce & Woodley, whence she rode home in a rather extravagant car, with Tommy himself at the wheel.

Tommy talked but little and chuckled a lot on the way home. "Running over to Doris' pa," he explained to Aunt Lexy. "Couldn't wait a bit. There's several ways to win an elopement, but this is the best."

Tommy was sudden—after the manner of youth. But he had the grace to wait until after a late but lordly dinner was out of the way before saying anything startling. Then in the warmth, glow and perfume of a June afternoon, he stepped behind Doris' chair, leaned over her, and said, with the least touch of tremor: "Honey, I've loved you nineteen years at least—since I saw you first, you dear—so I only you can tolerate me it will be a Joy to me. Will you?" all the rest of our lives."

"Said—Mr. Rose—my guardian!" Doris stammered.

"Mr. Rose knows his danger—prizes it highly—has proved it—must how he had looted your father's estate as well as your mother had life-use, but which he assumed to be hers in fee. But we don't want to worry you, dear, and I think on the family record if we can sidestep it."

"I that really how it would—just Aunt Lexy shall we tell her?"

He smiled down at her, saying: "Say you'll marry me, darling — just that, accordingly, and—"

"Yes," Miss Lexy said with

"Then we can get the license and find a parson, and be married in a hurry," Aunt Lexy shall be our bridesmaid and Mrs. Bryce our best man. First thing after that we'll get service notice to vacate to Mr. Rose and I'll be off to Europe for a long going is good. That will leave nice quarters for Damaris and Jack, and they love country living as we love town atmosphere. You'll go with me, Lexy dear?"

"Yes," Miss Lexy said.

"For a lad, you do talk determinate," Miss Lexy said with

The oddest egg ever seen by Mr. C. G. Macdonald of Madoc, was exhibited by him today, a while, hard-shelled specimen, but it looked like a bottle with a glass top tied in a knot, or like a pear. The egg was brought to the office of an editor. It is evidently a Leghorn's egg. Mr. Macdonald said:

"I have kept fowl for forty or fifty years and I never found an egg like that," he remarked. "I have found small eggs but none like this in shape."

BIG HOLIDAY DRAWS NEAR; IT BRINGS FOND MEMORIES

The calliope will sound in Belleville, Friday, June 25, when the Great Cole Bros. Circus with Clyde Beatty and Stan Maynard arrives for its engagement. The red wagons in an American institution. Its coming is hailed with delight and each year thousands of schools are suspended for the day that the circus dens may revel in the delights of circus day. To many, especially budding men and captains of industry, the physical side of the circus elicits a great deal of interest.

They marvel with the machine-like precision by which the great show's transported from city to city. Here today and tomorrow perhaps 300 miles away in another state. Apparently a large show to tour for several years without missing a single performance. The answer to all is this: In no other branch of human endeavor is an organization so perfected as with the circus.

More than 400 performers take part in this season's Cole Bros. Circus. They hail from 18 foreign countries. Almost every nation has contributed its stars among them being Miss Jean Fisher, famous Viral Australian elephant trainer. This season a gorgeous and fantastic spectacle, "The Serenade of Spain" filled with charm, romance and gayety, opens the big show.

An immense and spectacular street parade with a congress of the various nations of the earth will be seen on the downtown streets at 11 a. m. It is nearly three miles in length: upwards of 1,000 men, women and horses will be seen in the pageant along with 20 magnificent golden chariots, teams of camels, Five trumpeting bands and two calliopes will be heard. Added to the Clyde Beatty menagerie will open at 1 and 7 p.m. The big show will start at 2 and 8 p.m.

AT THE BELLE

Screen's Most Exciting Pair in "Cafe Metropole"

A gay and lighteome Continental romance. Luxurious as orchids on moonlit nights as the Rue de la Paix merry as the third glass of champagne, romantic as moonlight on the Seine, "Cafe Metropole," opens today at the Belle Theatre for two days of matinee daily, with lovely Loretta Young, Tyrone Power and Adolphe Menjou in the starring roles.

Against the background of gay Paree and the continent's most luxurious rendezvous, the screen's most exciting lovers play love's most exciting game while Adolphe Menjou throws away the rule book and Gregory Ratoff, Charles Winninger and Helen Westley join the fun.

"Cafe Metropole" gets off to a lively start in the smart Parisian spot of that name, where prevailing suavely over his restaurant, Adolphe Menjou seems entirely unaware of the possibility that auditors will arrive in a few days and discover that the cafe accounts are short the 400,000 francs which he has borrowed.

Before leaving him, is the fact that a rich American patron, Charles Winninger, arrives with his sister, Helen Westley, and his daughter, Loretta Young, and with a table reserved every night. Thus, when Menjou wins enough at Baccarat to cover his borrowings and finds that his slim, handsome young opponent, Tyrone Power, has not the money to cover the losses, he can force Tyrone, upon threat of exposure, to pose as his fiancee, to quarade as His Highness, Prince Alexis Pavalieff, in order to win the affections of the lovely Loretta and a marriage settlement from her father.

Seeing through this strange Prince from Princelon, whose accent "now also comes, now she goes," Loretta decides to be swept off her feet anyway, and from there on events abound in an increasingly hilarious crescendo, taking a final surprise turn in an ingenious conclusion which solves the personal problems of Loretta, Tyrone and Adolphe, convinced even the latter that Romance To Order, should be listed on the Cafe Metropole menu as a "specialty of the house."

The screen play of "Cafe Metropole," from an original story by Gregory Ratoff, was written by Jacques Deval, famed playwright whose "Tovarich" is a sensational success on the New York stage.

Excellent Featurettes

The Belle Late World News Events, "Around Yourself" a very funny star-packed Tuxedo comedy and "The Country Cousin," clever Walt Disney Silly Symphony Cartoon in color will be exhibited on the same program.

"A Day With Quinie"

On Tuesday and Wednesday a special extra attraction will be the exhibition of "A Day With the Quints," an all new picture in which you hear them talk, offering 18 minutes of sheer delight. The tops in musicals is promised in the feature offering "Top of the Town," with a cast of 34 stars and eight song hits.

Agricultural Notes

Cucumber Beetles Are Fast Workers

Cucumbers, melons, squash, pumpkins and watermelons are the favorite food of the striped cucumber beetle which is found in all provinces of Canada. To some extent, these beetles also feed on beans, peas, corn and the blossoms of wild and cultivated plants.

In appearance, the beetles are about one-quarter of an inch long, yellow in color, with a black head and three long stripes down the back, and they make their attack shortly after the plants appear through the soil. They feed for preference on the surface of the seed leaves, thus completely destroying them. As a result, the young plants die quickly.

Growers with large patches, states the Division of Field Crop and Garden Insects of the Entomological Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, would be well advised to watch the plants closely for the first appearance of the cucumber beetle and take control measures at once. The plants should be dusted with a mixture of calcium arsenate and gypsum (land plaster) using one part calcium arsenate to 20 parts (by weight) of the gypsum. If it is impossible to obtain gypsum, hydrated lime may be substituted, although this material is not as good. It tends to burn the plants and temporarily stunts their growth.

The plants should be thoroughly covered with the dust, both on the upper and lower surfaces of the leaves, because the insects feed in both situations. To be successful, dusting should be commenced at the first appearance of the beetles, for these insects work very fast and much damage is often done before the grower, who is not on the lookout for them, is aware of their presence. Three or four applications a few days apart, depending on the severity of the attack, are usually sufficient to hold the beetles in check.

Colour Not a Factor In Honey Food Value

The increased use of honey, as a food, for instance, and as a developer of energy for athletes, and an ingredient in home cooking, has not yet appealed many popular fallacies connected with it. Contrary to general opinion, colour does not affect the food value of honey in any way. Money varies in colour, from water-white to a very dark brown, according to the kind of flowers from which it is gathered. The difference in colour is caused by certain substances in the nectar of different flowers and shades the rays of light in varying degrees.

The flavours of honey vary just as much as its color, and there is no difficulty in finding a flavour to suit the most discriminating taste. As a rule, the lighter the colour of the honey, the more delicate its flavour. Therefore, when honey is to be substituted for sugar in cooking, it is the light-coloured honeys that are recommended. When honey is used in place of jams and marmalades, each and every grower can have his advocate.

Granulation of honey, as many people seem to think, is not an indication of adulteration. Rather, it is a sign of purity. All Canadian honey will granulate sooner or later, depending largely upon the proportion of the two invert sugars it contains. The higher the proportion of levulose to dextrose, the longer the honey will remain in liquid form. Levulose, or fruit sugar found in honey, is non-granulating and is the sweetest sugar as far found in nature. It is usually the predominating sugar in honey, except that of grape sugar, is a rapid granulating sugar, and is predominant in commercial glucose. Granulation of honey is hastened by low temperatures and high temperatures retard it.

Honey sold in glass containers is usually heated when packed, for the purpose of keeping the honey liquid for as long a period as possible. Such granulation usually produces a fine texture while slow granulation tends to the coarsest. Granulated honey, can be brought back to its liquid-form by standing the jars in warm water and heating it to 150 degrees Fahrenheit. A higher temperature is likely to darken the colour and drive off aroma and flavour. Further information on honey will be found in a bulletin "Honey and Some of the Ways It May Be Used" which may be obtained free on application from the Publicity and Extension Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

JOHN WHITEHEAD LEADING HURLER WHITE SOX STAFF

Fat Boy Has Not Been Defeated in Four Starts

DETROIT GAINS

All Games in National Out For Cold And Rainy Weather

(By Sid Feder)

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Johnny Whitehead is about the only regular on Chicago White Sox staff who has never pitched a no-hit, no-run game. He's also one of the two undefeated American League elbowers of the year; one of the champion dinner-bell-answerers in either league—and, right now, as "the man who came back."

Two years ago, when Johnny came to the big skins from Texas, he was regarded as an outstanding flinging prospect. He started well enough, but finally wound up with a 1,500 average, 13 wins and the same lost. Last year, the same thing happened, and Manager Jimmy Dykes decided he'd had enough of Mr. Whitehead.

He peddled Johnny at the doorstep of every other club in the loop.

But the others wouldn't touch the fat boy. Came the start of this season, and Whitehead was not in condition to pitch. Dykes had to suspend him without pay. That did it. Next to going without meals, losing his pay apparently was the hardest thing that could hit Johnny. He really went to work and reported himself ready after 14 days.

Started in Boston

In Boston, he made his '36 starting debut and whipped the Red Sox in 10 innings. Less than a week later, he let the Indians down with one run, and then blanked the A's.

Yesterday, Johnny made his fourth start of the year, and for the fourth time he went the route. Six innings as he slopped Washington Senators 14-8. The victory was the 11th for the Sox in their last 12 games and boosted them back into second place in the American League.

The win kept the Sox just a game off the American League pace as set by the Yankees, who slubbed out 17 hits in a 7-4 victory over St. Louis Browns 10-9, behind Charley Ruffing's five-hit relief job. Joe Dimaggio continued his record slugging with two homers.

Both Boston and the Athletics their first better-than-poor pitching in several days and A's trounced Cleveland Indians 11-2. The Tigers increased their new Rookie hopeful, Boots Poffenberger, and topped the Red Sox 4-3. The entire National League program was called off.

NEWARK BEARS WINGING ALONG

Kemp Wicker, Hurled His Fourth Victory in Row Beating Bisons

(By the Associated Press)

If reports are true that Joe McCarthy, pilot of the New York Yankees, wants a left-handed pitcher to spare his regulars, he could do a job worse than give Kemp Wicker, his Newark farm hand, another chance at the big show.

Wicker was sent down to the Bears after seeing duty in only two Major League games because the Yanks had to cut down to the 25-player limit. Since then the husky southpaw has been breezing up the International League. He has won four games in as many starts, allowing an average of only six hits and one run per game, and he's been a hot item in International League circles had to go 24 innings to get a single run against him.

Kemp chalked up No. 4 last night before 16,705 customers, the largest crowd that had ever gathered for a floodlight contest in Rupert Stadium. He held the Buffalo Bisons to seven hits while his mates were shelling Tommy Reid and Johnny Hibbs for 15 and an 11-3 victory.

It was the Bears' fourth consecutive victory and placed them 8 1-2 games in front of the second-place Montreal Royals, who, in turn, have the Baltimore Orioles. Rochester's Red Wings moved into the Syracuse Chiefs by the same count in a third night game as Toronto and Jersey City were rained out in the only daylight clash.

Recently for a pitcher, every Newark player hit safely. Charlie Keller got his 20th number of Mows, three, but Joe Gordon got the longest. He smashed out a two-bagger and a home run.

LOOP IS KNOTTED BY CORBINS WIN

Johnnie Bawden Allows Only One Hit in Winning 1-0

Restricting the opposition to one hit and fanning thirteen in seven frames, Johnnie Bawden, ace flinger of Corbins won his game against Point Anne at Coleman Plate on Friday evening by a score of 1-0, the only one of the contests played that has been played so far in the loop. By the win Corbins pulled up even with the "Cementmen" each having won four and lost one. Johnnie Bawden had to be good to win his game last night for Lorne Batemen, hurling for the losers turned in a swell hurling performance but he did not receive the support Bawden was accorded especially in the clutches.

Also the largest crowds of the season were out and the fans saw softball at its best. Bawden started rather wildly, walking the first batter but after putting another runner on by the free route, he really went to town and he mowed down the Point Anne hitters with relish. He retired the side in order in the second, third, fourth and fifth frames and the only hit garnered off his delivery was a single in the third and grounded out and third out was a whiff. The Corbin secured five hits off Bateman but there were no extra base drives and only for a lapse in the fifth inning, the tenth, the teams might be playing yet. The third marker forged St. Louis was on first and made a play to first, when he could have cut off the base runner. Reid secured two hits and Henn, Rigby and Bawden were the other recipients but the latter struck out but two in the six frames he worked.

The team:

Point Anne—Genereaux 3b; Batteman p; Sero ss; M. Green c; Whitehead 2b; Morton lf; Scott cf; Hamlin lb; Dickey rf; Wilson rf.

Corbins—Barriage ss; Henn 2b; Richter 3b; Reid lb; Rigby lf; St. Louis cf; Hannah rf; Tuttle c; Bawden p.

FOUR TIED FOR SCORING HONORS

Jimmy Thomson Fires a 66 in U. S. Open to Equal Record

(By Fritz Howell)

Birmingham, Mich., June 13. — (AP)—Golfdom hoped to crown the new United States open champion today, with a horde of par-cracking fireworks, but so many heirs apparent were on hand there was a good chance the Coronation would be delayed until Sunday.

Eight fellows altogether teed off for the 36-hole stretch which completes the Open, but Ralph Guldahl over the bunkered battle ground of Oakland Hills.

Jimmy Johnstone of Toronto, with 151 was the only Canadian to survive the two-day scoring spree that eliminated 101 of the original starters and developed one of the closest contests in the 41-year-history of the tournament. Ten par-breakers were turned in by the sections, only two shots apart, in a wide open scramble for the laurels won a year ago at Baltusrol by Tony Manero.

Four Tee Leading

Leading the pack was Manero's crown, along with a crack at Tony's record 282 total, were a quartet of professional stage guns, consisting of Thomson, Ralph Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., big Ed Dudley of Philadelphia, and Frank Walsh and Ralph Guldahl of Chicago, all with subpar totals of 140 at the half way mark.

As a prelude to the final barrage, Thomson yesterday fired a 66 that beat par by six shots, clipped three strokes off the Oakland Hills competitive record, and equaled the all-time low for a single round in the open championship. Guldahl, on his way to a closing round 68, shot the outgoing half in 33 for another record performance.

Two strokes off the pace, at 142, were Frankie Strafaci, the 21-year-old star from Brooklyn's Bensonhurst Minneapolis pro, and the pre-tournament favorite, Lawson Cooper, of Chicago, and slammin' Sam Snead, the West Virginian who burned up the winter circuit.

Also under par, with 143, were Johnny Goodman, the Omaha amateur who won the open in 1933, and Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N.J.

KIWANIS KIDS FAIL WITH STICK

Cannifton "Sluggers" Win Their Fourth Straight by 4-2

Limiting the Kiwanis juniors to four scattered hits, Bob Simpson hurled the league leading Cannifton "Sluggers" to a 4 to 2 victory over the local kids at the Fair Grounds last evening. Simpson was opposed by Joe Kelleher who deserved a better fate than defeat, his team mates failing miserably at the bat in the pinches.

It was the fourth consecutive loss for the Kiwanis kids and the fourth win in as many starts for the Cannifton squad. Inability to solve the deliveries of Simpson resulted in ten junior fanning the cosmo, Simpson having good control as well as walking but one. Kelleher whiffed four Cannifton batsmen and did not issue a single base on balls. Two extra base hits were registered, a triple by Bugs and a double by Kelleher, who materially helped his own cause with two hits as he starred one of the Kiwanis runs. A fourth inning rally when three hits and two walks gave the Cannifton boys two runs, spelled defeat for the Kiwanis outfit.

The visitors collected eight hits off of Kelleher, including Bush's double and two singles from Bob Simpson's big bat. Kelleher's two hits, and singles by Collins and McCausland were the only hits garnered by the juniors. The Kiwanis Infield played a fine brand of defensive ball, led by McQuade, Collins and Rorsky, while Bugs Connolly unearthed a new find in Eddie Plummer, who turned in sparkling effort behind the plate, in the first game he ever caught. Plummer snared three high foul flies, catching one sensational fly with his bare hands and handled Kelleher's slants with ease. McDonald made a fine running catch of Simpson's drive in the fourth for the lone putout, however. Empson, at short, and Simpson fielded well for the winners, as did Meens around the hot corner.

The line-ups:

Cannifton—L. Jarrell cf, Hughes lb, Empson ss, Cole 1b, E. Jarrell c, Bleckman and Knott lf, Sharpe and Bush, rf, Meena 2b, and Simpson p.

Kiwanis Juniors—Rorsky 3b, Collins 2b, Wardley jf, Kelleher p, Gordon and Donovan cf, McQuade ss, McDonald lf, Plummer c, and Cooper 1b.

COLLEGIATE TEAM YET UNDEFEATED

Win Lacrosse Tussle From Q.A. School While St. Mikes Trim Q. V.

Belleville Collegiate midget lacrosse squad continued its undefeated string of victories in the local N.S. Michael's ..... 1 1 0—2
Saturday afternoon with an 8 to 2 win over Queen Alexandra School to remain in the leadership of the league, while in the nightcap affair the St. Michael's Academy Midgets won another second game and advanced into second position after blanking Queen Victoria School Midgets 2 to 0 last evening.

In the afternoon game the Collegiate Midgets showed a much better system of passing while their shooting on net was much more accurate than that of their Queen Alexandra School rivals. The Collegiate kids scored out in front with a centred attack that netted them three goals in the initial frame and continued to add to their numbers until they swamped the Ann street kids 8 to 2.

St. Mikes Win.

Bobby Mallette's goals gave the St. Mikes Midgets their 2 to 0 victory over Carl Morgan's Queen Victoria Midgets. Holland scored in the initial and middle frames to secure victory. The Q.V.S. kids fought gamely to endeavor to overcome the lead of Holland, but the torrid defence set up by the "Irish" in the last period stood too rugged for the Fire street kids to cope.

The line-ups:

St. Michael's—Goyer, McDonald, Hunter, Barrett, Morrison, Healy, Powers, Frawley, Burkett, Peel, Lynch, McCabe, Holland, O'Connor, Taylor, Cowan, Schrieder and Barrett.

Queen Victoria — Welch, Sharpe, Gardner, Kerr, Girvin, Theobald, McBride, Goodier, Carson, Robinson, Morgan, McClelland, Mott and Ashman.

Juvenile Title To Bisons in Ki - Y League

Completing their schedule with a 10 to 8 victory last evening the Bisons won the juvenile championship of the local Ki-Y Softball League by downing the Redwings in a tidy tussle.

Batting at practically even terms for five frames, the Bisons broke out into a sixth inning batting rally that netted them six counters and victory. Varney, for the Bisons, and Hall for the Redwings, hooked up in a stellar pitching duel that was not decided until the final out was made. Accuracy was the watchword the champion Bisons showed in the field and at the bat. The Bisons played short-handed, having only eight players available, but Manager Macklin's charges were more commendable.

The box score:

Bisons—Martin and Graham, field, Warner, Macklin, Rowe, Christie c, Clare 2b, Yarrow p, Storms lb.

Red Wings—Scott, Hall, Sword, Hall, Bonney, Hunter, Rouse, Burkett at Jacksonville and Hall.

Score by innings:

Redwings ..... 004 011 3— 8
Bisons ..... 201 106 x—10

Batteries—Dickens and Scott.

In the midget series the Bisons downed the Redwings 21 to 2 to take a commanding position in the league standings. Dickens was on the mound for the winning Bisons, was in rare form and always in command of the situation, holding the opposition almost in order. Walter, the Turner hurler, was pounded hard.

The line-ups:

Bisons—Carson, Burley, Thompson, Barriage, Tompkins, Green, catcher, colors and Wagg.

Terriers—Biery, Lyall, Weller, R. Pearson, Clarke, McGuire, Jones, B. Pearson, Connell.

According to cables received from the Isle of Man, George Pepper, Belleville's own champion motorcycle rider, has qualified to enter the world's championship races, that commence on Monday. Pepper, in a letter to his family yesterday, stated he was not taking any unnecessary chances during preliminary trials over the hazardous Isle of Man course, but that he was perfectly satisfied with his three machines, despite the fact they are all slightly below the maximum speed of new machines turned out by parent factories for the great races.

George's fellow-members in the Quinte Motorcycle Club, enabled him their good wishes today. On Monday the Junior, or 250 cubic centimeter race will be held, George riding his new Excelsior machine. At Birmingham, England, before leaving for the Isle of Man, George rode his machine at the 182 miles per hour clip and says he is perfectly satisfied with its performance. In the 350 c.c. class the Nelson people have machines tested at 104 m.p.h., the two miles difference meaning little, except possibly on the straight-away stretches.

In the lightweight or 250 c.c class, that is to be raced on Wednesday, George is riding a Cotton machine, that was used in the races last year, but has since been remodelled. The current year 250 c.c. machines are supposed to go 91 m.p.h., while Pepper's machine has touched the 89.2 m.p.h. clip. The senior T.T.C. or 500 c.c. race will be held next Friday when George rides his veteran Norton Machine. The Norton used by Guthrie, last year's senior champion, is guaranteed 112 miles per hour, while the best George has been able to get out of his Norton is 104.5 m.ph. There is some little difference here.

The race we expect George to make his greatest effort in is the 500 c.c. Manx Cup race on Monday, before being readjusted at Birmingham, George's machine has been increased 800 revolutions per minute—well we repeat, "the guy can pick." If you don't believe it ask Bill Terry and a couple dozen baseball writers who watched that Card-Giant epic in the Polo Grounds last week.

Things about Pepper we never knew before. Did you know that at Belfast on the 3rd February and with Sir Malcolm Campbell in his pit, George Pepper established a World's American record for the 1/4 for overhead valve motors? Pepper's average speed was 89.2 miles per hour. Sir Malcolm Campbell's personal timing apparatus was used in affecting the time. Pepper drove his Norton over the sands of Dundrod, Belfast, at an average speed of 83.3 miles per hour for a North American record for 500 cubic centimeter motorcycles. He is the only Canadian rider to finish in the first six at the National Motorcycle championships at Jacksonville and Daytona Beach at Jacksonville and fifth at Daytona in 1933 and '36 respectively. Pepper is one of the few riders under difficulties and received honorable mention, besides cash awards.

Congratulations to the Bisons, Ki-Y Juvenile softball champions for the current season.

Base hits were as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth as the Corbin and Point Anne softball nines battled 1-0 last night. A goodly number of hits were not disappointed because they were fated as good a softball pitching duel as one could ask to see, and the third of the game leaves the "Cementmixers" and the Peachblows knotted with four wins and one lost record at the top rung of the league ladder.

As we predicted a softball pitchers' battle ensued with Johnnie Bawden hurling for Batemen's, even matters on the season's play, Batemen taking the short end, have played between these two clubs, Bawden not only limited the "cement-village" sweatsocks to one lone hit by Dickey, but Bawden showed his mettle by getting the hit that scored the only run of the game, a three-bagger, for the victory himself. An error of omission and another of commission placed the runner on third for Bawden to drive home. Incidentally Bawden struck out 13 and Peter Batemen whiff the same, striking out but two occasions Bateman whiffed two.

When the Kiwanis juniors lost to 2 at the hands of the league leading Cannifton team at the Fair Grounds last night, they were exactly 43 automobiles on the grounds. The same party to count the cars counted the fans in the stands, there were 38 adults. Some sat in cars and we'd judge there would be at least 100 fans present, however, but there were more cars in the park than people in the stand, just the same.

When Manager Truly Woodley stated his juniors would commence to win games just as soon as they started to find themselves at plate and began to calf the spherical for base hits, he told the truth. As a defensive team the Kiwanis are second to none in the K.B.I. As a matter of fact their defensive ability is better than averages among juniors, but as potential Babe Ruths or Arky Vaughans, they just aren't there when it comes to wielding the willow. What mistitute Skipper Woodley is the fact they hit well during practice games.

Skipper Woodley brought to light a real find in Eddie Plummer last night. Minus their regular receiver Plummer volunteered to go the catching and he did a really swell job, snaring three high foul flies, one he caught bare handed, and generally handling Joe Kelleher's slants in big league style. Once the kid learns his b.b. he'll be a natural. The Kiwanis team is still looking in vain for a first baseman, who can hit and a slugging outfielder. Any applicants should attend Monday night's practice.

"THE BRIGHT HILL"

by Clarissa Fairchild Cushman

And Carl was there; Carl who did not really know that he never should have been there, frankly, obtrusively there—with Amber.

It was Cocky who first saw Carl and recognized him. "Isn't this why I'm here in Kingsbury, to see you here, Didn't know Amber, say was your alma mater. Another bond in common, eh?"

"Sorry — Carl Kingsbury shook the firm hand extended to him with real pleasure. De Roche was a good sort if he was a little stiff at times. It did Carl good to feel his superiority, if only in the matter of height. "Just dropped in in a social way. Came up to see my boy, as a matter of fact. His mother is the dean of women here—or acting dean, I should say."

Cocky regarded Carl with surprise. "His mother? You mean Mrs. Kingsbury—Gen here, is your wife? I didn't know that. Why, I met sh dinner with her—"

"My former wife, yes. The present Mrs. Kingsbury—Annie!"

Annie, who was looking up now to not being successful triumph was "just about all right." Her claims forward a dark handsome girl, much dressed in silk of diagonal black and white stripes, and was introduced. Cocky was conscious of seeing a pair of dark eyes regarding Kerin, sense in her white dress and startling cheeks, as she had been at the dinner, holding spellbound to the gratitude of every one, the too reserved Mrs. Adamson, spoke about that—her just happening to tell that stamp story. Fixed her on Adamson's mind for all time. A little thing—but it might conceivably mean a million dollars to Amberley. Whereas this girl was common. —uncouth was the word that rose in the dean's mind. Too bad. Into the pleasant social interchange of the bored conservative dean's law faculty which he expected to ask Carl, tomorrow, to join, it would be regretable to add an alien note.

"I thought," Carl was saying, "that as I was coming east for this appointment with you, I would take this opportunity to drop around up here, and see my boy. Mrs. Kingsbury—the first Mrs. Kingsbury—has the custody of her. I miss the little chap. Haven't seen him for two years now. He soon like me."

"Mrs. Kingsbury is—" Archibald Cocky was saying, when Carl broke in. "The first Mrs. Kingsbury, I mean to say. His mother is dead, you know. That's a conversation; but he was in it now. "We are very fond of the first Mrs. Kingsbury—as Mrs. Kerin Kingsbury," blundered on the unsuitable Cocky, beginning to speak gently and look around for a means of escape. "Interesting to have had business with Carl Kingsbury; But today was a holiday. So much pleased—possibly a man in his position knows no holiday; he would do well to improve his knowledge of Carl in the intimate meeting. "Shall we sit down together and talk they are beginning to serve."

Well—we're not intruding? came really only in the dean and the boy. They said at her office she'd be tied up here for several hours—well—Thank you, Annie?"

Jay Adamson, looking less august now that he had at dinner, Sheldon, breezed flabbily by. "Come on, old John up, Cocky," she murmured. "I'm looking for Mrs. Kingsbury. I'm going to sit with Mrs. Kingsbury—she only pretty, normal, interesting woman in this rarified town, Mrs. Kingsbury."

The first Mrs. Kingsbury, thought Cocky, and drew out a chair for each second, and sat down on one side of her while Carl sat down on the other. He leaned toward her. "And what's your college, Mrs.—or is Kingsbury?" and cursed himself for a fool. Had she "a college"?

"Name as Carl's." There was a flash of handsome teeth. Evidently he was one of his students. I still am," and she turned on a look back on Carl.

"Great guns!" thought the dignified dean, and was suddenly horrified at the picture that had presented itself to his mind. Carl Kingsbury, newly divorced, going around with one of his own students. Come, come, he admonished himself; don't be so narrow minded. He raised his eyes, looking at Carl attentively.

And looking, he was transfixed by what he saw: Carl, clearing with narrow, almost cruel-blue eyes, at something that held him down the table. After a short scrutiny of the engrossed Carl, he turned casually and looked for himself.

They were just sitting down. Thirty feet away, at the far end of their own long table, Kerin was just sitting down with Jay Adamson on the far side of her and Gregory Leighton on the near, and beyond Adamson was Gregory Leighton's sister, Mrs. Ashburn. Old friends, all these three were, of Cocky. They were laughing at something—probably, thought Cocky with a smile, old Pop—as Adamson was making a few wise-cracks to Kerin about the stamp —and they looked thoroughly jolly and happy and inconsequential. Kerin in particular was flushed and her eyes were sparkling. She looked nothing but a girl in her white suit. He wished, heartily, that he was with them.

He turned away with a faint sigh, and took up the heavy business of Carl and his second wife, as he turned back. Carl, without taking his eyes from the other group, nodded towards them. "My —ex-wife Kerin," he said. "My first wife. Who are the people with her?"

The second Mrs. Kingsbury gave a little start. "Kerin? Kerin?"

"In while—way at the end."

"Why, that's Jay Adamson," and then Carl, with a flicker of distaste. "The fat gentleman, the one who was by here just now, is Jay J. Adamson—you may know his name. The other man—" he paused, and then added deliberately, "is Gregory Leighton, one of the richest men at Amberley. His sister is just beyond, Mrs. Ashburn." He paused; and then he could not say just why it was he added, lightly, "About a hundred millions sterling one side of her—and a million or so sitting on the other."

Annie's eyes, wide and bright and curious, stared as if they would never be done. And for Carl's eyes, the observant dean saw a curious change. Can a man show envy and admiration at the same time? Disdain came out the winner. "It has always seemed to me the weakest of all human weapons—money," said Carl.

"Yes? But the social order is built on it. It's the host that keeps all afloat on heavy portions of sea."

"A rotten boat," said Carl. "Leaking in every joint." His eyes were filled, unwaveringly, coldly, upon that group beyond him. "Mark what I say, De Roche. It's bound to sink."

"And the rats are leaving it," Cocky could not resist the trite words.

INSTALLMENT 42

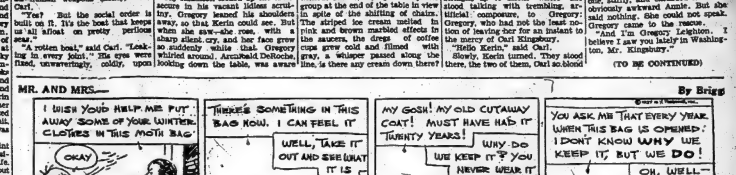
It was just at that moment that Priscilla Ashburn (who had come to this deadly affair for the sole purpose of giving, without seeming to, the little Kingsbury the once-over) leaned forward and said to the three, confidentially. "Don't look now, but who is that blond giant talking to Cocky? He stares at us without ever winging—and the girl too."

Jay Adamson looked up the table secure in his vacant lillies scrutiny. Gregory leaned his shoulders away, so that Kerin could see. But she saw—she rose, with a sharp silent cry, and her face grew so suddenly white that Gregory's grey, a whisper passed along the line, "is there any cream down there?" and President Sheldon was done. And in a great cheer for "Prexy! Prexy!" Archibald De Roche rose and escaped—escaped!

Carl rose. There was a great clapping and cheering, and Gregory's shoulder turned and shut Kerin away. Carl, not before Cocky had seen the horror in her eyes turn, slowly, to another expression. It was the look, he thought, that you see in a child's eyes, when he expects to be punished; the look of having no defense, of having to lie down and take it.

Well, Cocky thought, Sheldon had, among others, a very good trait: he spoke always with merciful brevity. Beside him, Annie—the second Mrs. Kingsbury—leaned her head without shame, trying to keep the group at the end of the table in view in spite of the shifting of chairs. The striped ice cream melted in its cups and brown marshall effects in the saucers, the drops of coffee cups grew cold and filmed with gray, a whisper passed along the line, "is there any cream down there?



So obliterating (the dark Annie, "I at least, too obviously starting. Kerin gripped her hands behind her back, tensely, to keep from crying out; and Gregory, beside her put his reassuring hand an instant over hers.

"Had to come east on business, Kerin.. Thought I'd drop around and see how you are doing," said Donald. This is Annie—I guess you know who she is. Annie —this is Kerin." He was smiling a little, relishing the moment, and yet curiously a little disconcerted, a little ill at ease.

Gregory could see Kerin's hands clinch together, then she loosened one, stiffly, and extended it to the obviously awkward Annie. But she said nothing. She could not speak. Gregory came to the rescue.

"And I'm Gregory Leighton. I believe I saw you lately in Washington, Mr. Kingsbury."

"It is a great pity," Kavkandavanda repeated; "but you must serve my purpose." "What purpose?" Jane asked, striving to keep her voice from trembling. "The purpose of providing our holy order with the means of immortality," the age-old youth replied.

"Long ago," he mused; "I learned the secret of deathless youth. It lies in an elixir brewed of many things—the pollen of certain plants, the spinal fluid of leopards, and, principally, the blood of women—young women—young women. Now do you understand?"

"Yes." The girl shuddered. "Do not recall from the thought," said Kavandavanda; "remember that you will become part of the living god, part of me. Thus you will live forever, you will be glorified. In that way I shall have won." His leaned closer.

"But I should like to keep you as you are," Kavandavanda added dreamily; "you are so beautiful. His hot breath was on her cheek. "And why not? I am a god. And may not a god do as he chooses? Who is there to say him nay?" He seized her and drew her to him!

Mines

We understand from an authoritative source that development at Madsen Red Lake is proceeding well up to expectations with shaft-sinking under way steadily. General D. M. Hogarth will proceed to Winnipeg where on Monday, he will meet C. D. Keeding who has been in Vancouver for several weeks on business connected with the B. C. Nickel Injunction suit.

Bullion

Dullness in the stock market is always a healthy sign after a sharp decline. Almost inevitably it represents the drying up of liquidation and the beginning of cautious accumulation. Not all-convinced, however, at extended period of inertia is essential, since the turn of the month investment buying has appeared daily in the high-grade common stocks. These individuals are seeking a five per cent return on their funds, with good security. This can be secured now in such issues as Imperial Oil, Montreal Power, National Breweries, Dominion Textile, Moore Corporation, International Petroleum, etc.

STRAWBERRIES OFFERED TODAY IN QUANTITIES

Home Grown Variety Attracts Purchasers on Local Market

Home-grown strawberries, highly colored and full-flavored occupied the attention of the early morning shoppers at the city market today when they made their 1937 debut in a fair quantity. The size and flavor of the initial offering of this popular fruit were above the average of former years, according to many prominent growers, and prospects for a good crop look exceedingly bright, providing the weather man obliges with some much-needed rain.

While the majority of vendors offered their stock at thirty cents per box, several offered five cents from the price quoted in the Thursday market, one optimistic vendor bold out for thirty five cents.

"Why do you ask five cents more for your berries than the rest of the vendors?" she was asked.

"Because they are better berries" came the logical reply.

Vegetables Plentiful

With Spring vegetables rapidly approaching the peak of production, onions, lettuce, radishes, etc., were available today in large quantities. These sold generally at five cents a the bunch and in some cases were offered in two bunches for ten cents. New spinach marked a sharp decline in price today selling at five cents the pound, the first one stated by vendors, to the fact that imported stocks were flooding the city stores. Asparagus was also plentiful but showed no noticeable decline in price. Pound lots were quoted at fifteen and twenty cents. New cabbage found a popular note with Saturday morning shoppers at from ten to fifteen cents per head. Fruit was conspicuous by the absence with a few pineapples, imported, and the last of the winter apples being offered for sale.

Flowers Fail to Color

Cut flowers and blooming plants found limited favor with the early market with wine-red peonies heading a variable list and selling at twenty five cents per bunch. The vivid blues and whites of Lupin offered in a thirty five cents per bunch; the multi-colored iris at twenty five cents; Oriental poppies in full bloom at twenty cents each and the bright green of the fern at five cents per bunch completed the floral display.

Sturdy looking tomato plants were also plentiful but met slow response when offered in one dollar, with packs quoted at thirty cents. There were no new potatoes available today.

Fish lovers' tastes were held to two varieties today as whitefish and fresh lake trout being the only fish available. Both sold at twenty-two cents a lb.

Whispering Pups Sold

While the older folks of the family were across the market gossiping with friends, the pups of the litter at the price of from three dollars and fifty cents to four dollars each. Other attractions offered for whispering collie pups for one dollar each; Rhode Island red at five for twenty five cents, and young ducklings at twenty cents each.

A fine display of dairy produce greeted purchasers in the inside market today and eggs, poultry and butter being offered in large quantities. Eggs were generally sold with "A" selects offered generally at nineteen and twenty cents the dozen. Medium eggs were selling at eighteen and seventeen cents with a fair quality of ungraded stock selling at nineteen cents. Butter showed little change in price with the majority of stock offered at two pounds for fifty five cents. A few vendors quoted a retail price of twenty five cents the pound.

Poultry and broiler chickens

Young broiler chickens catered to a lively trade selling at prices ranging from sixty cents to a dollar an one dollar per pair. Fowl and hens were also offered for selling at from fifty cents to one dollar each. Home-cooking booths did a brisk business with a fine exhibit attracting many fair marketers.

Mind the time you scooped the bunch on that Martin case—Boy, Oh Boy! That was a story! And the old typewriter seemed to get its fingers crossed, with the deadline staring you in the face. But after you took time to light up a pipeful of Old Chum, the faithful old mill seemed to settle down. It knocked off that front page yarn in jiffies. Good Old Chum, cool and fragrant—how it settles a man down to his work when he's under high pressure—how refreshing it is, what a happy flavour! Truly, "there is no other tobacco just like Old Chum". Cut cosse for the pipe, cut fine for rolling your own.

Fatal Flood Twenty Years Ago.

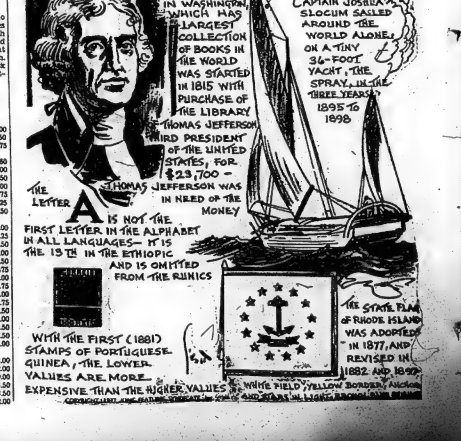
Those who know the mining men of this coal-veined country say two Shepherds were killed in a mine flood more than twenty years ago. They don't know the names. They don't remember exactly when it was. But here's what happened yesterday.

Joe Shepherd, a young rope rider, married and settled down in the shaft of the Neban coal mine "for his kids." He was caught in a swirl of seep water.

Nelson Shepherd, his uncle working in the same mine, was carried away by the same flood, forced under the water, killed.

Another Joe Shepherd, cousin of the dead youngster, was working above ground when his kinsman was swept to his death.



He fainted but quickly regained his senses to go down into the shaft next week with the rescue crew.

Harry Shepherd, father of Nelson, was worked too, above ground but was quickly to aid in the mine's rescue effort.

Also above the workings were J. H. Shepherd, father of the dead Joe and very near acquaintances for Jasimo, and William, brother of Joe's father, who heard the swirling water that killed their son and nephew.

Why the Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Kinds of Lightning: First simply means the different ways in which the lightning flash is manifested. These different manifestations are due to the differences in the electrical condition of the atmosphere, as are fourfold: (1) The usual streak lightning speeding from cloud to cloud or cloud to earth. (2) Rocket lightning, where the lightning appears to be moving slowly like a sky-rocket. (3) Ball lightning (balls of fire in the old golden storm). It seems to be an illusion or a variation of rocket lightning. (4) Sheet or heat lightning is really not a fourth kind; it is simply the illumination of a cloud or the atmosphere, by either streak or rocket lightning.

Hafner Gyroplane Impresses British Aviation Experts

Prediction it May Revolutionize Plane Construction

CAN CLIMB QUICKLY

Feltham, Middlesex, June 14—(CP)—A new type of aircraft, known as the Hafner gyroplane, has so impressed British aviation experts they are predicting it may revolutionize construction of heavier than air machines.

The outstanding feature of the gyroplane, which has been named what the autogyro, is its controllability at slow speeds and absence of forward run when landing.

During a demonstration here the craft ascended to a height of 1,000 feet in a towering climb. The climb is sufficiently steep for it to clear a 66-foot obstacle in 60 yards. The test was made over bumpy ground and otherwise under conditions unfavorable for the take-off of conventional airplanes.

It has a speed range in level flight from 12 miles to 120 miles an hour and a rate of climb at sea level of 1,300 feet a minute. This performance compares favorably with some of the best civil machines.

Subjected to Every Test

In the air the gyroplane has been subjected to manoeuvres of every description and, according to authorities, emerged with astonishing credit.

The machine which was put through tests was a small experimental single-seater. Powered by an 84-horsepower Pobjoy motor, it was equipped with a fuel tank to carry it only 170 miles. Fully loaded, it weighs 900 pounds.

Pretoria, June 14—(CP-Reuters) —A heavy bomber squadron, capable of immediate mobilization in time of war or other emergency, is to be added to the South African active citizen air force.

The air force department does not intend to purchase special machines for this purpose, it is understood but will draw the necessary aircraft from the South African Airways, whose machines would be admirably suited, when required.

The government has made arrangements with certain light aeroplane clubs for suitable machines in their possession for similar use.

The Knights were preceded by heralds in blue and silver doublets, bearing the coat of arms of the order with the celebrated motto of England "Honi soit qui mal y pense"—"shamed be he who thinks evil of it."

Horse Guards in blue tunics and helmets adorned with red plumes and a company of Coldstream Guards in red tunics and busbies rendered military honors.

PRESS CONFERENCE

Claims Closing of Mines Justified in Light of Recent Events

Chicago, June 14 (AP)— Van A. Bittner, regional director of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, said today steps have been taken to stop the coal supply to all strike bound steel plants. Nine strikes will follow if any shipments are made, he said.

He predicted 600,000 United Mine Workers of America may be affected by Saturday.

Bituminous operators' association in the United States has been notified by executive officers of the U. M. W. A. that any mine attempting to ship coal to any steel plant now on strike will be immediately closed down," Bittner said at a press conference.

Bittner's disclosure followed announcement by John L. Lewis, the chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization, that strikes had been called in mines owned by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company. In addition, local U.M.W.A. officials called strikes in four mines owned by Republic Steel. However, Republic Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube mines have been closed for two weeks under company orders.

"Because Tom Girdler (head of Republic Steel Corporation) had put eight of our people murdered in South Chicago and 100 injured, scores of our people shot at Youngstown, Ohio, and beaten at Monroe, Mich. an emergency exists that justifies closing down the mines," Bittner said.

Bittner said the mine unionists action protected independent mines. He said 15,000 men were affected today by closure of mines in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky which extended scope of the steel strike to the mines.

POLICE PUZZLED AS PROBE OPENS

Wonder Why Woman Did Not Jump as Train Slowed Down

Enfield, N.S., June 14 (CP)—Police and railway officials pushed separate investigations today into the victims of a level crossing crash in this Hants County village that claimed "accidental death" in hospital and preparations were made for the inquest into the tragedy which will be held Saturday.

Mrs. Agnes Forest, 53, of Hammonds Plains, N.S., her son, Barney, six, and Mrs. John Carnell, Halifax, were killed instantly when a freight engine and the Ocean Limited Halifax to Montreal, said they were puzzled why Mrs. Carnell, wife of the latter's husband, and their daughter, Mary, five, escaped with slight injuries.

Crew of the freight, a Canadian National Railways train bound from Halifax to Montreal, said they were unable to understand why Mrs. Carnell jumped from the car. They said the train was a considerable distance from the crossing when the accident first was noticed, and the fifty cars were slowed down considerably by the brakes before the crash.

Hepburn Challenge to C. I. O. Hailed in U. S., Says Writer

Declares Hepburn Stand May Save Unity in Continent

SAYS NAME COUNTS

St. Thomas, June 14.—The stand taken by Premier Hepburn against John L. Lewis and his C.I.O. campaigns has produced definite reactions in the United States and may have the effect of saving the continent, Raymond G. Carroll, distinguished American newspaperman and magazine writer, said. He is here on a short visit.

"Reports of a Hepburn being in vigorous opposition to John L. Lewis in Canada, was like a breath of fresh air in Washington," said Mr. Carroll. "People promptly associated the name with that of A. Barton Hepburn, former head of the old Chase National Bank, who became the centre of attention during the peak of 1929, as Chairman of the New York Clearing House Committee.

"They turned to a man named Hepburn then because the name was associated with probity, honesty and courage," said Mr. Carroll. "When that name came again some weeks ago from Ontario, as an active challenge to the C.I.O., it was like a breath from heaven."

The Washington writer said he believed Mr. Hepburn's stand would have a steadying influence not only in Canada and the United States, but in the other Dominions of the British Empire as well.

'Dangerous Abandoning Constitutional Principle' States Report of Ten

Hazard Independence of Judiciary Their Belief

GOV'T BY MEN, NOT LAW

"Contains Germ of Centralization of Law"

Washington, June 14 (AP) —The United States Senate Judiciary Committee recommended rejection of the Supreme Court Reorganization Bill sponsored by President Roosevelt in blistering language today, declaring it to be "dangerous and utterly dangerous abandonment of constitutional principle."

"It should be emphatically rejected that its parallel will never again be presented to the representatives of the free people of America," said the report, signed by seven Democrats and three Republicans.

10,000 Words in Report

The 10,000-word report echoed virtually all the objections raised to the measure in seven weeks of hearings. It said that the bill would not accomplish its purpose, would destroy the independence of the judiciary, would make the Supreme Court "one of men rather than one of law."

"It contains," the majority said, "the germ of a system of centralized administration of law that would enable an executive so minded to place the judges into every judicial district in the land to sit in judgment on controversies between the government and the citizen."

As the controversial measure finally reached the Senate after more than four months of nation-wide debate, administration senators said they virtually had abandoned its proposal for adding five new judges to the Supreme Court at once. They were trying instead to work out a compromise whereby elderly justices could be augmented or replaced at the rate of one a year. Opponents, however, declared they would filibuster against any modified proposal.

No Minority Report

The eight members of the Judiciary Committee who voted for the bill did not submit a minority report. Senator Hatch (D. N.M.) signed the majority report, but said in a separate statement the arguments were against the bill in its present form.

Never before has a Roosevelt bill come from committee with such denunciation. The report was prepared chiefly by three members of the group's own prominent leaders, Senators King of Utah, McCarran of Nevada, and Schwellenbach of Wyoming. They recommended rejection of the bill for these "primary reasons":

"The bill does not accomplish any one of the objectives which it was originally offered.

"It undue force to the judiciary and in its initial and ultimate effect would undermine the independence of the judiciary.

"It violates all precedents in the history of our constitutional law and would in itself be a dangerous precedent for the future.

Violates Spirit of Constitution?

"The theory of the bill is in direct violation of the spirit of the American constitution and its employment would permit alteration of the constitution without the people's consent or approval; it undermines the protection our constitution system gives to minorities and is subversive of the rights of individuals.

EIGHT WRECKERS ARE EXECUTED

Far East Executions Not Convinced With Those of Russia

Moscow, June 14 (AP) — 26 persons have been convicted and executed at Svobodny, in the Soviet Far East, for wrecking the Amur Railroad, it became known today.

The charges against these alleged "wreckers" were the same as those made in three previous trials in the Far East, at Sverdovsk and at Khabarovsk.

The four trials already had resulted in 66 executions. All the condemned were accused of being participants in a Trotskyist, Japanese and terror organization which allegedly acted along the Amur Railroad.

News of the newest Far Eastern executions came on the heels of the conviction and shooting of eight Red army generals. They were executed Saturday for treason, accused of betraying their country to Nazi Germany.

This case apparently had no direct connection with the Far Eastern trials, except that it reflected the Kremlin's determination to wipe out opposition on every front.

"I felt a younger vicar was needed in this parish," said the "Poor Man's Parson," who is aged 70.

"I intended to resign in any case but I felt I should withdraw myself from this 'living' (pastorate), not from the Church of England.

"I have received no communication from church authorities regarding my decision in going to the Chateau de Cande."

Paris, June 14 (AP)—Paul Boncil, French Minister of Commerce, warned Great Britain and the United States today that France might be forced to abandon the tri-partite monetary agreement unless they meet France in lowering tariff barriers.

His speech was made at the opening session of the International Exchange Congress and followed the meeting of the Bank of France's discount rate to six per cent.

At the same time, Premier Leon Blum called a special session of his cabinet to find a way out of the financial tangle.

Collective Efforts.

Pleading for "simultaneous collective efforts" to revive world exchanges, Bastid said France had the "impression" her efforts in lowering tariffs and easing the import quota system last fall had been strictly unilateral.

"The result has been a campaign in France which has aroused agitation and abandonment of liberal measures," Bastid said.

"It is a state of mind which cannot be neglected and it must be taken into account. Our attitude, notably by our friends who signed the tripartite pact."

Bid For Co-operation.

Financial leaders interpreted the speech as a bid to the United States and Great Britain to stand by France in the event of further trouble.

"It is urgently our government's desire not to shut the country up in a self-sufficient system, but to find means in active collaboration with other governments," Bastid continued.

HIS LUMBAGO WENT IN TWO WEEKS

Never Felt Better in His Life

Though he tried many so-called remedies, Mr. Kruchen continued to suffer with lumbago for years. It troubled him, in fact, until he found the right remedy, Kruchen Salts. These are his own words:—

"I would like to tell you of the benefit I derived from taking Kruchen Salts. For some years past I have been a sufferer from lumbago. I tried no end of other remedies, but got no relief whatever until one day I saw Kruchen advertised and thought I would give it a trial. I did, and to my surprise the lumbago left me after taking Kruchen for a fortnight. I am now taking it regularly every day and never felt better in my life."—W. K.

Kruchen is a combination of mineral salts, which assist in stimulating your liver, kidneys and digestive tract to healthy, regular activity. If you would see how Kruchen dissolves away uric acid deposits, you would agree that the Kruchen treatment should bring relief in cases of lumbago.

ERNEST JACKSON NAPANEE, ROBBED

Overpowered by Two Assailants And Struck on Head

Napanee, June 14—(CP)—Struck on the head as he was about to enter the side door of his House on Saturday night, Ernest Jackson, 44-year-old Napanee truck driver, was overpowered by two unidentified assailants and his key case and operator's license and some loose change stolen from him. A $2 bill was overlooked.

He suffered a badly discolored left eye, lacerations to his lower lip and several teeth were loosened.

Jackson had just come from the Napanee Creamery plant where he was employed when the two strangers approached. After a brief conversation they described themselves as workmen on a highway construction job south of here, relating there was an opening for truck work.

They invited Jackson into their car and after suggesting it was somewhat noisy to carry on conversation Jackson himself drove over to his place to talk it over. This was agreed to and the trio had only gone a few steps inside the car when the assault took place.

Overpowered and dazed from the blows, Jackson fell to the ground and remained motionless. When one of the assailants attempted to raise him he made no reply and soon heard the remark, "You've got him away, roll him," and then the articles were taken. Jackson remained motionless until the pair had started away. He ran down the road as they left, thinking they might slow up and he could obtain the car number, but was evaded.

The affair was immediately reported to police and then the injured man attended by Dr. C. M. Stratton.

The assailants are described as both about five feet eight inches and between 30 and 35, wearing dark suits.

ADVANCE GUARD

ces, swarmed over the pine-covered hillsides two hours before sunset Sunday, and carried their red and yellow flag to the city's edge.

Franco chief of the insurgent regime, was in command of the final stage of the campaign planned by his chief of staff, Gen. Emilio Mola, whose death in an airplane crash several days ago had momentarily relieved the nationalist drive to reduce the northern port, one of Spain's greatest industrial cities.

Factories Silent

Mop-up troops worked forward through the industrial outskirts of the suburban centres of Agama, Bermeido, El Dorre.

The factory smoke-stacks were cold and from my vantage post on the mountain of the castle, at the city's edge, Bilbao looked dead — breathless and silent.

The morale of the Basques was apparently sinking and their capital seemingly being given up for lost.

The three days of this precise drive placed Franco's crack troops in a close semi-circle about the city. Only to the north, on the Bay of Biscay side, did a "hole" exist. There was there a possibility of escape for the city's teeming thousands of hungry inhabitants.

Many of Bilbao's refugee-swollen population of 300,000 were reported by scouts of the advance guard to be streaming westward. The roads were said to be jammed with refugees again seeking a haven.

1,000 Prisoners Taken

Behind the advance guard in the outskirts of the city itself and the supporting detachments cleaning up the industrial suburbs, the main body of Franco's war machine was held on the heights by Santa Marina, a mile and a half from the centre of the city.

Some officers expected the insurgent banner to fly from the Basque capital by nightfall.

A communique based on reports received during all sectors of the front at headquarters said the columns were moving in on a line running the capital on the east through Larrabezua, Lezama, and Zamudia.

More than 1,000 prisoners were taken in yesterday's operations. Including high commanders of the last line of fortifications which the insurgents now have made their first objective.

ROBT. WOODMAN TO STAND TRIAL ON MURDER COUNT

Magistrate Butler Holds Evidence Circumstantial But Sufficient

DR. FRANKISH CALLED

Napanee, June 14—Robert Woodman, 28-year-old Kaladar Township resident, charged with murdering Aubrey Sedore, was committed for trial Saturday at the conclusion of a two-day preliminary hearing before Magistrate E. J. Butler of Belleville here.

It is alleged that Woodman murdered Sedore, 26-year-old hermit trapper, between Feb. 8 and May 20 this year, and attempted to destroy the body by burning it in a swamp a short distance from the Sedore home on the Sixth Concession of Kaladar Township. Woodman will stand trial here next November.

Evidence Circumstantial

In committing Woodman for trial, Magistrate Butler said: "Although the evidence, of course, is entirely circumstantial, I am satisfied that there is sufficient evidence to put this young man on his trial."

Woodman's counsel, J. M. Simpson of Napanee, called no witnesses. "The facts in the case speak for themselves," he told the court, "and we will not take up the court's time with argument, or with a review of the evidence."

Several bones of the torso, found buried in June 1 buried in the muck of a swamp and showing evidence of having been severed with an axe, were examined by Dr. E. R. Frankish of Toronto, Government medico-legal expert, who was called late in the afternoon.

"Is there any evidence of the bones being burned?" he was asked by the Crown.

"They are all burned," Dr. Frankish replied.

Pieces of charred hemlock found at the scene of the fire and six axe heads, one owned by Woodman, were examined by Dr. Frankish, who pointed out the markings on the cut portion of the wood corresponded to notches in the blade of the axe. Several pieces of hemlock cut with the axe by Provincial Constable Fred Barrett were examined by the witness, who testified the markings were identical with those on the charred pieces found at the scene of the fire.

Dr. Frankish stated that he examined a pair of stained trousers belonging to Woodman, but was unable to find any bloodstains on them. A claw hammer, two axe heads, a razor, shirt, coats and several articles of clothing were examined for bloodstains, but no bloodstains were found, he said.

Examines Clothing

Charles Ewing, Professor of Chemistry at University of Toronto and a specialist in textiles, gave evidence as to pieces of cloth, fleece-lined underwear and a piece of sweater found on the torso. Professor Ewing said that Sedore wore fleece-lined underwear inside outblue overalls, a blue suit coat and sweater. The underwear was fastened to the work pants by a piece of fine copper wire, a small roll of which was found in Sedore's shack by police.

The finding of the torso 179 feet from the fire after Inspector Gardner's dog uncovered a portion of the left arm was described by Inspector E. O. Ournett of the O.T.D. at Toronto. After the dog uncovered part of the arm Inspector Gardner, Constable Barrett were called from the fire and the torso dug up.

A piece of blue cloth, charred at the edges, was found fourteen feet further down the bank. A piece of bone, showing evidence of being in the fire, was also found near the scene, Inspector Ournett said.

PUT TO THEIR PURGATION

Russian executions baffle the world. Why men charged with the crime of treason against the state, will confess and expect to be reprieved, when it is the law of the state that there is no appeal for a confessed traitor, is more than persons of other nationalities can understand. It surely is not Russian psychology that prompts men if not guilty to admit guilt.

Dictatorship has some marks, it always has them. It makes opponents, even if the opponents know that ultimately they will be crushed out of existence as individuals. It gives the dictator himself a suspicious attitude which sees trouble whether it exists or not. Some of it no doubt is very real —the seething spirit of the people against suppression.

Dictatorship's last blow is against military men. It is so sure that it can strike down with impunity or has it the jitters? It is said the assassination of Kiroff eighteen months ago has caused fear. It is said there is fear of old Bolshivist friends. Some claim the dictatorship group is impressing itself upon every department of Russian life for the purpose of realization of group purposes.

It would be rather strange if the Russian temper is not stirred and if there are not curses not loud but deep underneath all the scenes of life in Russia.

Indeed all dictators inherit the hatred of the governed sooner or later. History seems to show any dictator in history could say:—

"That which should accompany old age
As honor, love, obedience, troops of friends,
I must not look to have; but, in their stead,
Curses not loud but deep, mouth—honor, breath
Which the poor heart would fain deny, and dare not."

The loss of eight generals to the Red armies will be a purge that will be felt. It is said that it will lower the prestige of the Soviet armies and may affect the situation in the Far-East.

Meanwhile the world keeps wondering about Russia, "Why are these purges necessary?"

ABERHART ON THE PRESS

(New York Times)

Premier Aberhart of Alberta might seem to have trouble enough, but he is looking for more. He has delivered two allocutions on the press, which he regards as "one of the most dangerous of our democratic institutions." He rehashes all the old charges of commercial and financial control. He is sure that most newspapers are "subservient to local political machines." With true prophetic ardor he seeks to "restore" freedom of the press. He would bring about this freedom curiously by diminishing or destroying it. Not by means of a censorship. Oh, no: A newspaper's charter of freedom would be a license from the Government. The licensed newspaper would be free to print anything that the Government didn't object to.

Mr. Aberhart doesn't put it as nakedly as that, but obviously that is what he is obscurely driving at. He is an amateur politician, necessarily thin-skinned. He resents the comments of the journals in his Province hostile to his peculiar financial and borrowed economic theories. Greater men than he have been unable to stand the gaff. So let us call his scheme amusing and not talk solemnly, as some Canadian newspapers do, about dictators. A prophet isn't a dictator; he is dictated to by his own inspiration. The Ottawa Journal cites a pat case in illustration of Aberhartian freedom of the press. At Edmonton the other day there was a meeting of more than 2,000 persons to protest against the removal of certain civil servants. A resolution was passed demanding their reinstatement or the appointment of a royal commission of investigation:

This was news— news that the public was entitled to be told about. Yet while The Edmonton Journal and The Calgary Herald reported the proceedings fully, as was their duty to their readers, The Calgary Albertan, controlled by Mr. Aberhart devoted to the meeting seven and one-half inches of space on one of its inside pages. The text of the resolution was not printed at all.

That is a mild specimen of "official" treatment of news and opinions. Under worthy Mr. Aberhart's Government license unbelieving newspapers not sufficiently skillful in doctoring, amputating, excluding would mighty soon get notice that their licenses had been revoked.

EXEUNT OMNES

Who were content that he should be forgot
When death has sounded its imperative,
And high ambitions for which mortals live
Fade like a rocket toward the zenith shot?

Save in the memory all we do is not:
Life is like water poured through silver sieve,
Leaving but scanty seed in hope to give
The future something from the past—but what?

Ay, what is left? A fireside story told,
That for a little while resists the years
And then becomes by slow oblivion
Tradition of tradition. Let me hold,
While still I may, to beauty that endears,
And praise the love that is so swiftly gone.

SPAIN UNHAPPY COUNTRY CCCK-PIT OF WARRING FACTIONS where human life is held cheap, a cesspool of iniquity, is passing through one of the worst ordeals by fire that the world has ever seen. Spain has passed through many dark and dangerous periods and still retained her pride and nationality but what the results of this fratricidal war will be is a mystery? Italy, Germany, and Russia have contributed to the general chaos, and while Great Britain and France have been endavoring to keep the war flames from spreading to other countries by non-intervention pacts and sanchlike, belligerents in Spain on both sides, just want to be left alone, and feel that they need protection from their friends as much as from their enemies.

"ELEPHANT BOY" A FILM OF THE JUNGLE, from a story by Rudyard Kipling, is said to be one of the outstanding pictures of the year. It shows a new and surprising star, Sabu, an Indian lad discovered, it is said by Bob Flaherty, film executive, in the stables of the Maharajah of Mysore, and a natural for "Toomai", the young mahout who longed to be a mighty elephant hunter. Flaherty, who is Canadian, a Port Arthur Old Boy, and that enterprising community honored Bob with four pages of congratulations in the Port Arthur News Chronicle on the occasion of the presentation of "Elephant Boy" at the Capitol theatre. Of course the newspaper outburst may be ascribed in part to an enterprising theatre manager co-operating with the newspaper staff. In any event Bob Flaherty, now a big noise in the cinema world, is a hero in his own home town. Aint that somefin?

x x x

BOB FLAHERTY'S FIRST BIG PICTURE WAS "NANOOK OF THE NORTH" a saga of Eskimo life in the Arctic. He was backed in this venture by Revillon Freres great fur trading firm, only serious rival to the Hudson Bay company. Next Flaherty went to the South Seas and filmed "Moana" another great picture, other South Sea pictures followed, then Flaherty went to Ireland where he filmed "Men of Aran", with native actors. Alexander Korda, Britain's leading producer, sent Flaherty to India to film a story from Kipling's "Toomai of the Elephants". Unlimited funds were placed at his disposal and Bob Flaherty spent two years making the picture "Elephant Boy" using as much native material as possible, the result being a picture regarded as a masterpiece of the films, already shown to admiring thousands in London and New York. Bob Flaherty's love for the camera, boy and man, led to his present eminence in the cinema industry. His father was interested in mines, and Mother and son travelled all over northern Ontario prospecting and surveying for big companies. From the still camera Bob graduated to the moving picture camera and in his journeys through Canada's northland took many shots of the natives at work and play. Some of these are "Nanook", and he was fairly launched in a life he loved.

Whence Grew London—

Writing in the P.L.A. Monthly, the organ of the Port of London Authority, Frederick Simpkish says: "Men's names—their buildings and their machines—may change. But behind the scenes, the mind of London, shrewd, bold, adventurous, is the same indomitable spirit that has made her, indisputably, the Old World's most influential city." Mr. Simpkish states the world's eyes and his words are timely now that the eyes of the whole world are turned toward the city which is to witness a pageant of unparalleled splendor. London is ancient, yet modern. Its known history goes back as far as A.D. 61, when Queen Boadicea's followers revolted against the Romans following outrages and slights, and slaughtered many of the inhabitants of the then Londinium, the site of the City of today. William the Conqueror chartered the city in 1066, the year he defeated Harold, the last of the Saxon kings. The Conquerer is credited with having begun the building of the Tower of London. London grew under the Normans and under the Plantagenets and all who came after them. Industrially and politically it continued to be a world centre, and in the reign of Richard I obtained the form of government as it exists today, rule by a mayor and corporation. The Lord Mayor and Corporation are more powerful than ever in their century, of whose sights they are very jealous. The County of London was a Tommy Atkins' comprising a score of aldermen and more than a hundred councillors. Outside this county is the other great district, known as Greater London, and its inhabitants of which are now numbers more than 8,000,000. This is the district within a radius of 20 miles each way from Charing Cross, covering about 700 square miles. This and the people's thoughts are on Buckingham Palace and Whitehall, right in the heart of London. The tens of thousands of visitors will view the Royal spectacle and will be impressed with the fact that old London remains a most influential city, without a doubt.—Montreal Gazette.

Pheasants are Friendly Neighbors

Every so often we hear the pheasant accused of interfering with the propagation and existence of the native game birds, especially quail, the nests and eggs of which it is supposed to destroy, according to Sinclair, Secretary of the Detroit chapter of the Izaak Walton League in the Detroit News. That such stories are taken seriously in some quarters is evidenced by the following excerpt from a report prepared for one of our game clubs, it states: "It is strongly recommended that pheasants should not be introduced into the central area of the state most densely populated by the chicken and the ring-necked grouse." The writer of the report does not, however, supply any supplied accusation of incompatibility. Moreover, a more recent investigation conducted by the Department of Game Management of this same state does not bear out the fact that there is no basis for such a statement."

Fears Groundless.

Careful inquiry into these charges has produced enough contradictory evidence to prove that they are quite groundless. It was found that each bird inhabits the type of cover particularly suited to its needs and pays but little attention to the contact of his immediate neighbors. Even many instances nests of three or four species were found within a few hundred feet of each other. One observer tells us of even more intimate relations by which he quite discovered pheasants and grouse nesting within six feet of each other by actual measurement. The close proximity of nests in this case was probably due to the scarcity of nesting sites, because under normal conditions all birds avoid crowded areas.

Feed Together.

At many winter feeding stations it is not uncommon to see pheasants and quail feeding at the same time, but it has been noticed that sharp-tailed grouse and Hungarian doves, while using the same station, would not feed with ring-necks. On the other hand another observer informs us that he has photographed pheasants and grouse feeding together in wild plum thickets and under other natural conditions.

There is a possibility, of course, that an occasional pugnacious cock pheasant will creat some disturbance among a colony of birds, but a few such disputes are unimportant as such behavior are far from sufficient to cause the birds any worry and are inclined to the opinion that they do more damage than good. Still it is negligible and purely accidental.

It is all probability much of the belief that pheasants are responsible to some degree for the declining population of other game birds is due to the fact that they have been introduced into the state for a number years, whereas other species such as grouse, quail and partridge have been native to the state. This is especially true in cultivated areas, where the birds are harvested more and more and are inclined to the opinion that pheasants are not dangerous. Still it is negligible and purely accidental.

Sightless Sculpturing

An unusually interesting collection of sculptures is kept at the Institution for the Blind at Hohe Warte, in Vienna, writes a correspondent of the Manchester Guardian. The sculptures are clay statues modelled by pupils of the institute, children of ten to sixteen who were either born blind or lost their eyesight at so early an age that they have not retained any memories of the visible world. Yet these statues and busts express ideas and emotions in a way that makes a tremendous impression on the beholder, who cannot fail to be struck by the striking likeness to the work of Jacob Epstein and Rodin. Again, there is an uncanny resemblance to the force of expression in primitive sculptures in the works of these children, who have never seen or touched any models. The resemblance is not imitative; it is purely the tangible expression of an inner emotion.

This unique collection of sculptures of blind children is the result of experiments conducted since 1923 by Dr. Victor Lowenfeld, a pupil of Cizek, who has conceived the idea of encouraging sculpture rather than model in clay. He gives his blind pupils a certain amount of technical instruction, but does not influence them as to their mode of expression. Dr. Lowenfeld has found that blind children, on the whole, far more gifted for modelling than the average child with normal eyesight. After two or three years of practice and tuition, the children do the best work of which they are capable; usually there is no further artistic development after the sixteenth year. They find great pleasure in their work, and do not need much encouragement to go on with it.

Blind children do not model in the usual way with the statue facing them, but parallel to themselves as it were, with the face of he statue turned in the same direction as the face of the worker. The reason for this is that the impressions of the outer world do not reach them as they reach the normal eye, in a mirror-like projection. Their experience is primarily derived from the forms they observe upon themselves. Accordingly, the sculpture is formed in the same direction. the blind sculptor working outward from a static in the attitude of embracing it. The children use no tools and work solely with their fingers.

The Smoker's Compleat Volume

Books can be collected on many special subjects, and George Arents of New York has surely the most unique collection in the world, dealing entirely with tobacco. Mr. Arents is head of several companies, one of which make machines for making cigars, and that may account for his hobby. He began collecting 45 years ago, and has assembled 4,500 books and manuscripts in eighteen languages, valued as high as $1,500,000, and which he now wishes to present to a public institution.

In pursuit of his hobby, Mr. Arents visited many countries of the world in search of a Queen Anne's copy of the works of James I., which denounced tirades against the spread of the tobacco habit. Mr. Arents went to London in 1926. In vain he searched the dealers' shops, only to learn that the one available copy was held by a New York dealer. Mr. Arents sent a cablegram to Jerome Kern, head of the Roxanne Corporation, his New York representative, who snapped up the treasure.

Later, on a more successful trip to London, Mr. Arents in a single day made two important acquisitions—

King James I's "Counterblast of Tobacco", published in 1604, which he found at Quaritch's, and Harriot's "Virginia", a volume of which the French edition, published in 1590, is known to exist in Mexico.

For these books and manuscripts Mr. Arents has had a group of library men sorting and arranging the data to write a "History of Tobacco". The task has been ten years on the job and have completed the first four volumes which have been lidsited to 300 copies. The cost of printing and binding them amounted to $100,000 so the purchasers must belong to a very exclusive clientele.

It is interesting to learn that the first written mention of tobacco is in the journal of Columbus who refers to the use of tobacco in the canoe of a West Indian on October 15, 1492.

Mr. Arenl's hobby is a very costly one, but considering that hundreds of millions of men and women throughout the world are smokers it is surprising that more millionaires haven't developed a similar "recreation", and is well worth the money Mr. Arents must have spent upon it.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

The Pictorial Parade

And now it is the picture magazines! Within the last few months the whole continent has been flooded with this type of publication. The new "Life"—resembling its predecessor, the famous humorous periodical, in nothing but name—started it. The illustrated "Look" and the "Click" idea of ingenious planning and skillful promotion. Not only was the public appetite for it properly whetted but the public curiosity was intensified from-fold by the judicious keeping of production somewhat below the actual demand. How successful this manoeuvre was can be better appreciated when it is realized that "Life" had a pre-publication subscription alone of 350,000 copies and that the present circulation is estimated at somewhere near the million mark weekly. How much farther the tantalizing technique can boost the production remains to be seen, and then will come the real test—the retaining of the subscriptions already got. That "Look" and "Click" will do so is highly probable.

constrated that there is a good deal of truth in Mr. Chilton's exaggeration. A ancient vintage into one picture is worth a thousand words, and "Life"—according to its 350,000 is evidenced by the appearance one month, of a picture of a motion paper which appeared on the islands the other day under the name of "Pic".

Is the picture magazine here to stay? Or, properly speaking, is it here to stay in its present form? Because picture magazines are not new, as witness the now defunct "Mid-West Pictorial" and the still dignified and still flourishing "Illustrated London News" and other English periodicals. It would seem probably in the affirmative, but whether the present extraordinary height of production can be maintained is distinctly doubtful. Meanwhile there is no question whatever that the reading public has become definitely "picture conscious", and that it evidences long before even the birth of "Life" in the increasing attention paid to pictures in the press presented by the daily press.—Branford Expositor.

BILBAO HOUSES FIRED BY BOMBS; DEFENCE BREAKS

Three Objectives of Aerial Bombardment by Insurgents

39 IN SQUADRON

Make Forays Against Steel And Concrete 'Magina' Line

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier, June 13 (AP)—Bilbao waterfront houses were set afame today by combined aerial and artillery bombardment as an insurgent offensive was reported to have cracked the outer line of the city's "last stand defences."

The aerial attack concentrated on three objectives—the waterfront militiamen's barracks and water refinery.

Reports said a large force of planes shuttled between their base and the city, making forays against neighboring communities and Basque defence lines also.

Air observers reported General Francisco Franco's heavy guns and air raiders were battering Bilbao with bombs and shells. They said they could see flames rising from several houses near the waterfront along the Nervion River.

A squadron of 39 insurgent bombers droned over Amurrio, Galdacano and three smaller communities near Bilbao for twelve hours, hurling bombs on the towns and machine-gunning defence positions.

Insurgent headquarters said General Pitallo Davila's attacking forces occupied the entire front line of the Basques' steel-and-concrete "Maginot" defence, a semi-circle of entrenchments eastward from a few miles south of Bilbao to a few miles north.

DAILY SHORT STORY—
Accidents Happen
By Moses Schere

"Huh? Oh—Myrtle Foster. Nice girl."

"I'll say she is. I don't think I met her."

"No? I'll introduce you. Came here alone, too."

Phil Roberts found himself staring, but it was so good to stare at her that he didn't stop. She sat across the table from him—hidden by the big flower centre-piece, and through it her hazel eyes gleamed like jewels. She was all chestnut and mellow wine colors in that dress and with that hair . . . He managed to look away, but only to peer carefully out of the corners of his eyes up and down the long table. Everybody was busy. He sighed happily and gave himself up to long, continuing staring. What skin! What a forehead! What eyes! What eyes! She was looking right at him.

He sought an introduction in a hurry.

"All a parties are always elaborate but sometimes a little dull. I thought it would be a bore, but now for me because I had to come alone—but it's not any more."

She looked down at her plate, while she didn't say it, she was thinking the same thing. She has been watching him as he talked. She liked his eyes and his wide broad mouth with the quirk in the corners. His hair was almost the color of hers, with a little more red in it. And such a pleasant manner.

"Oh-ho!" said someone behind her, "we'll have to put a stop to this."

They looked away from each other for the first time to find everyone looking at them and holding a watch. "Ten minutes in one corner for a long enough for people who have just been introduced. Come on, everybody!"

He couldn't say more than a few words to her until the party broke up. As he held her coat. "It's over much too soon."

She nodded.

"But you'll let me take you home, won't you? My car's right outside."

"So is mine. I guess I'll have to go home with myself tonight, anyway," she added, and his heart jumped all the way and back.

"But maybe it won't start," she continued. "Better wait till I see. I had a little accident on the way here."

"Too bad. Much bruises?"

"She's been stuttering ever since." Her face clouded. "An absolute nitwit in a big coupe dashed ahead of the light. You know how by the streets are now. He nearly angry he got! Went off in a cloud of snow and left me sitting and freezing in my roadster waiting for someone to come along and help straighten my fender so that I could steer. It was too dark for us to see each other. Whoever he is, I hope his radiator freezes tonight."

Roberts felt a cold chill come over him. He drew himself up. "The light, my dear madam, was green on my side for a full ten seconds before I entered the intersection."

Myrtle looked at him, startled. She had heard that sentence and that tone of voice once before. The same cold chill fell upon her: "It was you!"

They stood and glared at each other. Then she turned and marched straight out, and he gathered up his coat and hat and left with a look so furious that everyone moved out of his way.

Then one day he met her again. She was driving that roadster just ahead of him. His heart jumped, then settled down to pounding. He followed her without thinking — without knowing. Every time he drove, he could see her face reflected in the rear-view mirror of her car—starry of perfect skin, pert nose, sweet lips, dips of that chestnut hair.

Her eyes were looking at him—Looking at the reflection of his own face in the mirror as it came to her from behind. And as their car met and held each other, separated by fifteen feet and each looking into the same tiny glass that held for the moments all the world.

The two cars moved down the street. There was a traffic light on the corner. It changed to green. The light showed red. A policeman waved.

Her car went right on and Roberts, with a grin, put on the brake. He couldn't stop. He rammed into the back of her car. Then he got out and walked back to see where she stood shakily by her ruined coupe.

"I'm sorry — terribly sorry. It was all my fault."

"No, no. I should have seen the light. I was ahead . . ."

She looked up and smiled at each other.

"You were staring."

"Yes, so were you."

He held her hand, and they faced the policeman together as calmly and so much together that he could only gape at them.

Sir Robert Borden

A TRIBUTE

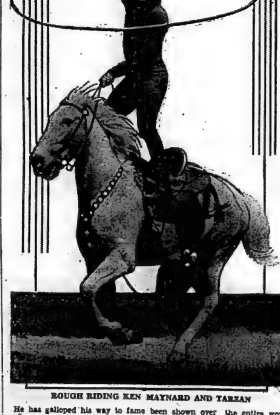
Comes a news-flash o'er the wires,
He is dead—Sir Robert Borden,
And a pang stirs every bosom.
Of those who love the country suffers
In his passing.

Long and well he'll be remembered
As a wise Canadian Statesman,
Chief of State and worthy Premier,
Through those awful years of warfare.
And the months of reconstruction

Strong in words but slow to anger,
Wise in thought and keen perception
Statesman always to consider,
See we, in this elder statesman
One whose loss we ill can measure.



Though he lived a life well rounded,
Though his days were filled to fullness,
Yet when dies a man so useful,
Though his days be filled to fullness,
There's a sense of incompleteness
Of a life still in the making.

When a man so noble passes,
Thinks not merely of "the curtain"
Drawn to mark a life that's finished,
For the light he leaves behind him
Will for years, yet in the future
Shed a radiance and a lustre
On the path o'er which he travelled,
As a heritage of goodness.

PICTURESQUE COW BOY NOT TYPICAL OF PLAINS

ROUGH RIDING KEN MAYNARD AND TARZAN

He has galloped his way to fame in more than 100 feature moving pictures. He is Ken Maynard who will bring his greatest congress of rough riders, Indians and Cossacks to Belleville, Friday, June 25, with the Cole Bros. Circus.

Ken Maynard is a native of Mission, Texas. As a boy cowboy and wild west shows thrilled him. He came from a section where cow-boys and Western types of men lived their lives in the open range.

"I wanted to rope and ride a little better than the boys on the ranches. I practiced riding and all most lived in the saddle. There was one picture theatre in the town and it almost broke me going every night. So I managed to get a job in the orchestra, playing the grandphone, which was all the orchestra consisted of, so I saw the show for nothing."

As top in the realm of Western movies Maynard's pictures have been shown over the entire world for the past ten years. In South America, Europe and Russia his pictures have attracted enormous business.

Ken Maynard makes a hobby of horses, besides Tarzan who has appeared with him in most of his Western pictures, he has a stable of fifteen. Maynard thinks that his horse Tarzan is a lot smarter than some men he has met in his travels.

An immense street parade will be given on the streets of Belleville at 11 a.m. by the Cole Bros. Circus. It will be participated in by hundreds of men women and horses. Scores of elaborately carved and gilded allegorical floats and tableaux will be seen in the picturesque street pageant. Half a hundred cages and dens will display the famous Clyde Beatty trained wild animals. Six trumpeting bands of music and 30 elephants will participate in the fairyland cavalcade.

AT THE BELLE

New Type of Musical "Top of the Town" Features Ten Comedians

Echoes of sprightly music, madcap fun, and lively laughter have reverberated by way of movie scouts all the way from Hollywood to Belleville, where the Universal Filmisical, "Top of the Town," crystallizes those desirable qualities on the Belle theatre screen, Tuesday and Wednesday, matinee daily.

The breezy story concerns a millionairess with a lot of batty ideas that have three strikes on them. The energetic damsel, portrayed by Doris Nolan has plenty of curves in the right place. Her charms, as well as her ideas, keep a handsome young orchestra leader swinging. Appropriately, he is a swing band leader. This role is played by the dancing wizard of Broadway stage hits and of the screen, George Murphy. In the picture, George is about to open a modern swanky night club for Doris Nolan's uncle when Doris crosses her uncle to let her manage the showplace.

She drives George frantic with her ideas. The moonbeam room opens at last and Doris springs a mixture of high-hat monkey-shining on an unsuspecting audience.

The performers include Gertrude Niesen, exotic star of the Ziegfeld Follies, recently popular on the Rudy Vallee-Royal Canadian national radio favorite, ten comedians of note, Hugh Herbert, Gregory Ratoff, Harry Long, Al Shean, Auer, the three sailors, Jason, Robson and Rios, Ray Mayer, Richard Carle and Jack Smart. The twelve-year-old dancing discovery, Peggy Ryan, is also featured. There are 200 beautiful dancing girls and two chorus groups number more than 150 singers who chant the seven song hits of the picture. Ralph Murphy directed the movie.

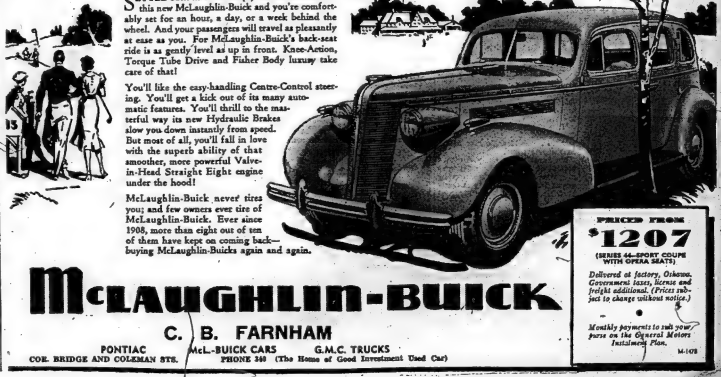
"A Day with the Quints"

A special extra attraction on the same program is the exhibition of "A Day with the Quintuplets", the silinew movie in which you hear the "Quints" talk often eighteen minutes of sheer delight.

Among the highlights of the Belle Latest New Flashes to be exhibited on the same program are, "Britain's Navy Salutes the King," Coronation Review in a huge pageant of sea power....128 fighting ships in line off Spithead, England.

"Flashes from the Spanish Front" children flee, villages burn as war rages on and arrangements to Bilbao increases in its intensity. Scenes at Southampton, England, 4,000 Basque youngsters are given a haven in city of tents, and other up-to-the-minute topics, bringing to you a panorama of world events.

A Trio of Stars



Loretta Young, Tyrone Power and Adolphe Menjou are starred in the finance to be presented at the Belle for the last times tonight, with the Belle world events in newsreel Disney cartoon, and a smart comedy.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE
(Close)

Belleville, June 13 (CP)—Selling of the metals at cash concessions increased in the Toronto market today and holding well with what was closed well under Saturday's final price. Trading was light and dragging with moderate losses in slower trading and the general note of gloom turned early in the session to panic into final set losses. Some of the golds noted were Wright Hargreaves, O'Brien, Macassa and MacLeod-Cockshutt, sold in quantity, Hargreaves dropped more than three shares.

The sharp decline on the New York Board and the siring of Finance Minister difficulties, were evidently the depressing factors in the market situation. All the interlisted leaders fell in line with Wall Street. Foods Steels, Utilities and other groups were victims of fractions to points. Brazilian, Bell Telephone, C.P.R., United Fuel Preferred, Union Gas, Steep Rock, Canadian Car and Foundry Commons, Dominion Steel and Coal and National Steel Car, all weakened.

Banks were quiet and fairly steady. In the Industrials, Canadian Dredge and Standard Paving weakened more than a point each and Gypsum, and Canada Cement were down fractions. Base Metals were demoralized. Albitib Preferred and Great Lakes Preferred dropped more than two points each and the general issues weakened slightly. Massey-Harris Preferred lost 2¼ and the common ½. Brantford Cordage dropped a fraction.

The final base metals slipped back with New York, Nickel, Noranda and Smelters weakened 1 to 2 points each and losses of 10 to 20 cents appeared for Wright Hargreaves, Sherritt, Pend Oreille and Falconbridge.

Senior oils slipped ¼ to ½ in Imperials, International Petroleum and McColl Common.

Lake Shore dropped ½ to a new low and Hollinger, Dome and McIntyre also lost fractions while declines of 10 cents or more were chalked up for Macassa, O'Brien, Pickle Crow, Sturgeon River, Wright Hargreaves, Central Patricia, Lamaque, Base Metals, McLeod-Cockshutt and McKenzie.

WALL ST. CLOSE

New York, June 14—(AP)—Stocks toppled 1 to more than 7 points in today's market as further lapse upsets dampened speculative and investment sentiment.

Numerous new lows for the year or longer were established in closings that were much faster than in the past several sessions.

The pace lowed near the final hour and extreme losses were registered in many instances. The turnover was at the rate of about 1,400,000 shares.

Despite the cloudy strike outlook in independent steel centres, the American Iron and Steel Institute estimated average output this week would be some 4 of a point above that of the preceding week.

Board Room Gossip

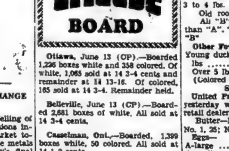
As supplied to Biggar and Crawford by Financial Service.

MARKET COMMENT



Canadian stocks have continued to back and fill during the past fortnight without much progress in either direction. About the only definite statement that can be drawn is that selling pressure seems to have thinned out, while there is no telling how long the market will remain in its present rut, indications are that the next move, when it comes, is likely to be upward, states Donald Thompson in their Market Letter.

When and if this materializes, we feel that the mid-year paper group is likely to assume leadership. This is an industry which is now forging ahead after a period of some years of sub-normal prosperity. Not only is demand for its product holding up extremely well but price schedules for various items are constantly being increased.

Those who have doubts about the ability of the market to stage a recovery would do well to take a look up the market prices prevailing around the time in 1932. At that time it appeared as if the market would never recover; yet five years later a number of stocks are back to practically their pre-depression tops. International Nickel, Nation-al Breweries and Noranda have in the last twelve months sold higher than in 1929. It is interesting to point out that in the middle of June 1932 Abitibi was selling at 1; Brewis ads Cement at 2; International Nickel at 4; B.A. Steel at Canada at 11; Shawinigan at 14-1; National Breweries at 9 1-2; Canadian Bronze at 1-2; Steel Co. of Canada at 15 (sold stock); Brazilian Traction at 1-4; B. A. Oil at 1-4; Lake of the Woods at Power Corp. 6; Distillers Seagrams 3 1-2; Dominion Textile 20; Dom. Canners 2; Howard Smith 1 1-2; Nat. Steel Car 7; Imperial Oil 7 3-8; Cockshutt Plow 3.

Imperial Oil

During the winter months new equipment was installed at the plant of Imperial Oil Ltd., in Sarnia and Montreal. The result of this has been a substantial saving in fuel consumption because the improvements made only ran into a moderate amount of expense but since the production have been reduced substantially.

Balance of Power in the West Noted in Both Leagues as Teams Finish Second Swing

Chicago's Two Teams Well Up in Race And Quite Dangerous

YANKS, GIANTS LEAD

Pirates Seem to be Falling Apart While Tigers Overcome Handicaps

(By Sid Feder)
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The second invasion by the American League's east and the National's west was over today, leaving both New York teams still in the driver's seat, but a set of very red faces generally throughout the Atlantic seaboard sector of the big time.

Although the biggest beat of all was the Western Club—Pittsburgh's collapsible Pirates—the just concluded swing in both leagues showed a balance of power through the west that spelled trouble for Manhattan's defending pennant holders.

The victory column showed 27 triumphs for the American League's four western teams in their home stay, compared to 21 for the traveling easterners. In the National loop, although the Easterners were at home, they won only 26 games, to 22 for the touring troupes.

Cubs and Sox Set Pace

Facing the western outfits, Chicago's two teams—the Cubs and walloping White Sox—were each only a hair's breadth off the pace in their respective loops, with St. Louis Cardinals coming up fast back of the Cubs, and Detroit Tigers red-hot after the pounders circuit pace-setters.

With both Leagues idle till tomorrow, here's for a quick look down the line:

Mystery . . . . The Giants won nine of 14 home starts, but how they did it is a secret no one knows. Their hitting is off; their pitching mediocre. They've collected just 36 hits in their last 6 innings, Sunday they were held to four hits by Peaches Davis to drop a double-header opener 5-1 in the Reds' last game back, to take the nightcap 6-2.

Crippled . . . .The Yankee pitching staff is overworked through absence of Monte Pearson and Spurgeon Chandler, but the power hitting, particularly by Joe Dimaggio and Lou Gehrig, enabled them to nearly break even in the west. They wallowed in the mire like a pig in the opener yesterday, and bated no hit-in-the-pinch in the nightcap, with Dimaggio clouting three homers.

White Sox Clicking

Clicking Crew . . . . The White Sox, in second division less than two weeks ago, won 19 of 14 at home, beat record in the last 10 days decidedly coming up with pitching to go with their hitting . . . .

They closed out with a double win 9-4 and 3-2 over the Senators yesterday.

Back Together again. . .Crippled by early season injuries, the Cubs' crack pitching staff is all present once more, and they've brought with them one of the league's heavyist hitting attacks. They banged out 22 hits for a 9-6 win over the Phillies yesterday, then dropped the nightcap 4-3.

Falling Apart . . . . The Pirates, leading the League 10 days ago, have lost nine of their last 11, now dieing to fourth place. Yesterday Van Mungo and his newly-acquired Freddy Fitzsimmons beat them twice as the Dodgers won 6-2 and 4-1.

Pop-off Pitcher . . . Dizzy Dean is keeping his mouth shut and producing—so the cards are coming back. Bob Weiland whipped the Bees 8-3 in yesterday's opener. Then Dean pitched a five-hit, nine-strikeout 1-0 shutout in the nightcap.

Home, Sweet Home . . . Put the Indians in Cleveland and they're tops. Send them on the road and they flounder. They closed their only successful home stand with a double win over the punchless Athletics, 5-1 and 2-0.

Come-Back. . . . . Mickey Cochrane's injury and illness to first-rank pitchers haven't stopped the Tigers. With Rosie Lawson, Tommy Bridges and Eldon Auker coming in fine performances, they're back in third place. A 1 victory over the Red Sox wound up a .750 home stand yesterday.

CHANCE ELEMENT ELIMINATED BY NEWARK BEARS

Yankee Farmhands Simply Making a Farse of Loop Race

ORIOLES WIN TWO

Toronto Leafs Lose Two Out of Three During Weekend

(By The Associated Press)

You've got to hand it to them! The Newark Bears really have it and they mean to keep it to the end. They're making over the International League pennant-winning first place from the reach of ordinary team and eliminating the element of chance in the pennant race.

Yesterday the Bears and—going into the doldrums in the afternoon—the Baltimore Orioles were the only League Clubs to invade their double headers, the Bruins trimming Buffalo and the flock taking the two Montreal Royals. It was just another fine performance for the Bears, the "Yankee" feel a smack of black magic.

Steve Sundra and Alley Donald, the latter chalking up his ninth straight victory, provided the gilt-edged incident to the Bears' welcome accustomed to winning seven straight and 10 of their last 15 games. Sundra allowed six hits as the Bears took the opener 7-1. Donald blanked the Royals with a double and two singles in this game and Catcher Gerry Priddy's triple, also got four blows. Donald won his game, 4-3, when the Bisons' Wally Berger hit a three-run homer with two men on base in the ninth. Eddie Boland of the Bisons, who had driven in three runs, McQuinn was hurt in the second game and shelved for a week with a dislocated ankle.

Tripies Wins Opener

Smokey Joe Martin's triple in the tenth won the Orioles' opener 5 to 4 and a 17 hit barrage took the second game, 13 to 6. Bill Cissell, sent down by the Philadelphia Athletics, also got credit for the flock. He arrived in the midst of some heavy hitting. "Pooch" Puccinelli hit two homers and a single in the night-cap, Joe Vosmik got five hits in the game, one for the circuit, and Al Wright hit his 15th round tripper in the opener.

The Rochester Red Wings cashed in on Don Heffner's three hits during to beat the Syracuse Chiefs, 5 to 0, and split a double bill. The Red Wings' Tommy Bell won the opener 11-1 behind George Hockette. Manager Frank Shellenback hit a homer with the bases loaded in the latter game.

Jersey City's Giants, storm centre of written and verbal arguments, in the minor home circuit, broke even with Toronto. Rollie Stiles turned back the Leafs with six hits in the opener, 3-1, but Woody Davis netted a four-hit shutout to take the second game 5-0.

"RED" TELLIER TO PLAY AGAIN

Banished For Life in Game In Ottawa May be Re-instated

Ottawa, June 14—(CP)—When the 1937 Interprovincial Football Union Season opens October 9th, Red Tellier will be back in the great player with Montreal Big Four league ranks. He has been won again don playing gear and take his place on the line.

Red Tellier, banished for life from the game for an alleged attack on a referee during a game on a snow-covered gridiron at Montreal in 1926, was given a "life" by the Canadian Rugby Union, according to an announcement last night.

Tellier's case, and a change in the schedule were the most important items discussed at the semi-annual meeting of the Big Four at Dr. Andy Bain's cottage at Danford Lake, Que., during the week - end. The Interprovincial Union President was host to delegates from Hamilton, Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto. The President W. W. Foulds of the C.R.U.

Postpone Opening Week

Owing to trouble some clubs have had in obtaining their grids as far as early date, the schedule opens one week later than usual this fall, and the rugby system formerly in vogue will again be adopted.

However last year's system from behind the line will again be illegal, the meeting decided as it returned to the 1935 rules which permits interference only by the men on the line of scrimmage when the ball is put into play.

Home-and-home series between first two teams for the league title, will be played Nov. 20 and 27. This play-off system was adopted by the league last year.

The reported motion of the Hamilton club to bar players and coaches who had previously been paid for coaching, was not presented but it was understood a committee would be named later to examine the matter.

PONIES, OSHAWA RALLY TO WIN IN CLOSING FRAMES

Russ Kitchen of Peterboro Blows And Kingston Scores 4 to Win

POINTER WEAKENS

Oshawa G-Men Score Twice in Ninth to Down Napanee

(By The Canadian Press)

A pair of fast games in the Senior Intercounty Baseball loop Saturday saw the league-leaders whipped but clung to their top position and the cellar-dwellers win but stay at the bottom of the Western Ontario circuit's standing.

Stratford Nationals handed London their second loss in five starts 5-4. The visitors brought in their run with Strahorn for second place but London remained at the top. Stratford beat Strathroy 6-5 in an extra-inning game but the second win in five games wasn't enough to get the Aletts out of the cellar. Strathroy and Brantford see-sawed the lead up to the ninth when Smith's smash past third brought a Yale home and won the game. Vanhorne made the feature play of the London-Stratford game, stopping a run from scoring in the second when he snared the Stratford batsman's drive with one hand. Vanhorne had hit a homer into the same field the previous inning.

Ralph Falls fanned nine to make the season's best comeback in the Niagara District Senior League league. Trailing four runs at the start of the ninth, the Cubs pushed the tying with two men out then went on to win 10-9 in an extra inning from Thorold Athletics.

Fort Colborne On Top

Port Colborne remained at the top of the Niagara District loop as Welland 11-10 in a listless game. The lead switched hands a few times but the Sailors drove in runs in the last half of the ninth to come out top.

Merrition Alliance went over to St. Catharines and shelved the Athletics' pitching staff that had won 10 games. Merrition Alliance won 6-1 after blanking Mike Yaremchuck from the mound in the seventh. Joe Deason knocked out the first home run in a league game at St. Kitts for the Saints' only tally.

Niagara remained at the top of the Central Ontario Baseball League as the Orioles downed the second out Napanee 4-3. Napanee got a pair of runs in the first from Herb Hallford's home run but by the end of the sixth Oshawa tied the count. Napanee remained in the ninth but a pair of Oshawa runs in the last half won the game.

Kitchen Blows

Russ Kitchen of Peterborough gave up in the fifth inning of the second C.O.B.L. game after holding Kingston to a six run and the Ponies scored four times to win the game 5-4. The win left the league standing unchanged with Peterboro and Kingston tied for the leadership with Peterboro one game ahead of Napanee in the cellar.

Galt, Guelph and Waterloo won their games in the Intercounty Intermediate "A" loop. Galt continued at the top of the league by a 5-3 decision over the Elks. Guelph Bats were too much for Kitchener and the Leafs beat the Waterloo Crescents 11-5 in the victory of the season. Waterloo defeated Preston 10-9 in an extra inning battle in which the lead was exchanged several times.

2 MAIN BOUTS FOR WEDNESDAY

Al Dunlop And John Katan Rematched Over Hour Limit

Two main bouts will be included on Wednesday night's professional wrestling card at the Belleville arena. Ex-armourer Al Dunlop protest over the manner in which he lost last week's main bout to John Katan, that the promoters guaranteed to match them for a return bout. The other main attraction of the evening, which will also be the star preliminary, brings together Chief Lynx, the Rama Reservation Indian, and Bad Boy Brown who gained prominences and the attention of wrestling fans in championship under the name of Al Lopez.

Manager Ellis Mobly made his debut in a local ring last week and took the part of the Kentucky "hillbilly" into camp in his stride. Mobly or Lopez, whichever he calls himself, proved a splendid opponent for the wily Indian.

Referee for the wrestling game should be in their accustomed seats at the early six o'clock start as the preliminary bout of the night will doubtlessly carry short time to warrant a good following. It brings together Lloyd Byrd, Georgia, versus Bad Boy Brown, the whiskered "hillbilly" grappler from the hills of Kentucky. Brown was around wearing the conventional "hillbilly" overalls and has been known to slop from the street right into ring overalls, and all, and win. The "Bad Boy" is handicapped, however, as his opponents repeatedly resent his pulling the hair out of his beloved black whiskers. Brown is a good showman and creates many laughs. Byrd appearance, coupled with two main bouts makes Wednesday night's card at the Arena one of commanding interest.

ROME COLONELS BACK TO SIXTH

Oswego Nets Assumes Leadership With Two Victories

(By The Canadian Press)

Rome Colonels are wondering just how long they'll have to battle to get away from the tail-end of the Can-Am baseball league. They've been right down to the bottom eighth position—two or three times since the start of the season but lately their place on the standing has been seventh, just ahead of Ottawa Athens, the cellar-occupants.

Things looked up for the Colonels Saturday when they visited Brockville and beat the Pirates, 13-12, with 11 needed runs in the last three innings. The victory put them in sixth place on even terms with the Brockville nine.

But the Pirates didn't seem to like company and returning to Rome yesterday defeated the Romans, 6-4,tossing them right back where they were before the series.

Yesterday Nets' week-end games moved them into league leadership. They defeated Smith's Falls Beavers, 8-4, and then took a 7-1 verdict from Perth Cornwall Bisons. Gliversville Glovers with an 8-5 Saturday victory over Bisons, stepped out and grabbed both ends of Sunday's twin bill from the Falls boys taking the first game 10-9 and the twilighter, 11-10.

Ottawa Braves managed to break even with Ogdensburg Colts losing a Saturday contest 11-1 and pulling over the decision in the ninth inning yesterday to down Colts 2-8.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Peaches Davis and Lew Riggs, Reds, and Clyde Castleman, Giants, pitching and batting stars of Sunday's baseball.

Riggs hit two homers in 5-1 opener game win; Castleman allowed 3 hits in taking nightcap 6-2.

Elden Auker and Gerry Walker, Tigers—Former pitched five-hit ball, Walker's triple drove in run in winning rally for 3-1 victory over Red Sox.

Van Mungo and Freddy Fitzsimmons—Mungo allowed seven hits and Fitzsimmons five in 8-2, 4-1 double win over pirates.

Tony Lazzeri and Joe Dimaggio, Yankees—Lazzeri's homer with two on featured winning rally in 18-9 opener victory over Browns, Dimaggio hit three homers in tied second game.

Ducky Medwick and Dizzy Dean, Cardinals—Former hit homer with two on in 6-2 opener victory over Bees. Dean allowed five hits and struck out nine in 1-0 nightcap triumph.

When the current baseball season opened the management of the Kingsmills junior eleven in the South Hastings Baseball League and also in the junior section of the O. B. A., erected mythical line-ups against potential aspiring baseball players participating in the game of softball. This was not done because the local baseball magnates had any grievances against softball, but, as they thought at that time, for the protection of their baseball material that might be lured from the paramount reason for issuing the ultimatum against aspiring baseball players playing softball was no selfish motive, but the baseball management was of the opinion that if a youthful ball player was participating with a softball team, he would be playing softball, when he should be practising baseball and doubtless this idea or suggestion is retroactive.

Today Coach Woodley of the Kiwanis Juniors lowered the high tariff bars of baseball and announced all softball players desirous of giving baseball a trial would be welcome at future practices of the Kiwanis Juniors. "Our team is not hitting. We've got as good a defensive club as could be desired but we are sadly lacking in reserve strength. If there are any junior softball players, under 23 years of age, who feel they would like to try baseball as a change, all the challenge is out and they'll be made welcome at all future practices. You must remember we have something to offer aspiring baseball players in Belleville. Not only have we a bye into the provincial O.B.A.A. play-downs but efforts are being put forth right now to consider senior baseball in the C.O.B.L. in Belleville for 1938. It's purely up to the individual how he'll benefit himself. Our practices are open to all with no restrictions to softball or any other baseball interests," said Coach Woodley today. The junior ball club is practising at the Ross Grounds tonight for those interested.

Coach Woodley's gesture is fine, it shows he is not prejudiced but personally we do not blame the medicore showing at present and the junior ball clubs in Belleville on the shoulders of the management. We know for a certainty the blame lies directly with the individual ball player in most incidents. Not only in baseball, but in softball, we have keenly noticed the more youthful players in action. Without contradiction many of them are too indifferent and this holds good more for baseball than softball, perhaps. For any unbiased observer to present generation of aspiring ballsters do not listen to instructions of the more regular game they are participating in, which recalls to our mind a story after the day's game was played and hit him greenhorn. This procedure continued until sunset day in and day out, even after he reached the pinnacle of his career as shortstop for the Pittsburg Pirates. Joe Jackson was extremely interested in playing baseball, that he played in his stocking feet, being too poor to purchase shoes. That's how he got the nickname "Shoeless Joe." Both of these players rose to dizzy heights. Wagner being the greatest infielder we can recall. That is the basis of correct fundamental principle of baseball. To make a success of any line of sport you must practice and study the fundamentals as possible, whether in Belleville, Jones' Corners or New York City. Once you like your work, it no longer becomes work, but a pleasure.

The trouble with present-day aspiring ball players, they like to compromise. Experimental, rather than review their mistakes and diamond difficulties. It is only through analysing our faults and errors that we improve.

Two really smart ball games were played in the O.B.J. on Saturday, Oshawa winning 4-3 over Napanee and Peterboro defeating Kingston 5-4 but the Peles 5-4 in the Liffiloch one. Incidentally we understand that Cobourg star and imported hurler, Tony Powcawski (or whatever it is) is scheduled to arrive in Kingston today. Doubtlessly the gray-thatched Joe Dairy will be anxious to take a gander and may use him part of the game in Napanee on Wednesday. Incidentally, "Tacumy" Jamieson hurled the Ponies to victory.

Cobourg Second the Belleville Rovers, with a constellation of K. C. A. F. players on their roster, will leave for Cobourg for a regular Central Ontario Lacrosse fixture this evening and Incidentally the Cobourg squad is hot, having won their last two starts, including a win over Oshawa.

Walt Gerow is beginning to wonder how his Gibbards can win a ball game in the O.B.J.A. league. They apparently has forgotten the Gibbards made the Belleville Canoe Club C. M.-men 3-2 and with one out in the ninth inning on Saturday, George Blazelich lost a fly ball in the sun, with one aboard and before the dust of excitement had settled the Gibbards had lost their sixth straight. Incidentally the Dixy game the Genesmen have lost when scored victory by default when they refused the services of the hilltop and for eight innings made the Motor City batsmen look like amateurs. Ted Lindsay, the "crooked arm" moundsman starts for the Genesmen tonight. It's just too bad for the opposition.

An other ball club to run into a lot of tough luck this season is the Detroit Tigers. A short time ago Manager Mickey Cochrane was injured and is out of the game. On Saturday Buck Newsom, newly acquired hurler for the Boston Red Sox not only beat the Tigers, but knocked out a home run that hit Roger Hayworth in the arm, breaking it. This left the Tigers without a first baseman and unfortunately Cliff Bolton, former Senator and Brown catcher, was in the hospital in Detroit. He was immediately signed

by Clarissa Foirchild Cushman

Carl shifted his eyes to Gregory. Yes, it took more than money to make a man important. "The President wanted me to make an investigation of legal relief for farm mortgages and the various states. And I did. Pleased the President all right. But could you get a reform past our great, great, broad-minded Congress? Bah! Congressmen! A bunch of sheep! What Congress likes is reforming, not reforms." That, he thought, was a good line. He must use it later.

He dismissed Gregory, with a small gesture to Kerin. "Ready to leave, Kerin? As I say, I'd like to see the boy. What a lovely! And connections to get either in or out." His glance passed over Gregory, who, holding Kerin in the arm, was clamped unyieldingly to the spot. "I suppose you know that old Farm-scrap Brown passed in his checks not long ago. Going down about the job. Well, I'm going to tell Rocha, dean of the law school there, as a matter of fact." He threw it in carelessly, but there was a gleam in his eyes as he looked at Kerin. "After all, there were few positions in the country more honorable than old Paramous Brown's had been."

Kerin moved her stiff lips. "Yes", she said. "I see you're—"

"De Rocha said he knew you." Carl's voice changed to a more peremptory note. "Coming, Kerin?"

"No." said Kerin, almost inaudibly. "I'm not coming."

"Kerin—"

She said, "No," to Carl Gregory with sudden distinctness. "She told you she's not coming."

The geniality disappeared from Carl's face. He stared at Gregory. "I am afraid I don't understand," he said. "Not just who are you?"

"I" said Gregory with intentional lightness of tone, though his heart was pounding. "I am the man who is hoping to marry Kerin."

Gregory heard, with a sixth sense, Kerin's small gasp, but he did not turn in her direction or seek to take his eyes from Carl.

Carl stood a moment as if stunned. Then he looked from one to the other from Kerin's white face to Gregory's steady eyes; and he laughed shortly. "So that's it!" he said. "I might have suspected something like this! You're the chap I was sitting in the cool chair with day, dare you are! Interested, weren't you? Well, well!"

The room was emptying. Kerin was conscious of people passing, of bright curious eyes turned her way, of persons she knew who hurried by, pretending unconsciousness. They all knew; they all knew, Everybody everywhere, knew, and were watching with their curious, perjured minds.

She couldn't speak, she could scarcely breathe. With her eyes staring into Carl's she knew that something was dying her terribly. It was not love. She knew now she had never really loved this man who could do like thing to her. Yet her very self was hurt, its pride, her significance in herself, that ever she had lived with and in a real sense, a still persisted sense, loved a person who could do this to her—to come, damaging her new life, her pride of being, flaunting before everybody that even a past polished cars and departing townsmen, hoping by her manner to calm the turbulence of his. She glanced at him. There was no mistaking the look on his face of suffering that he could not as yet conceal. Affection for this brother of hers rose warmly into her heart, at the same time she was pleased, pleased, that Mrs. Kingsbury had refused Gregory. It made one more count in which the little Kingsbury had scored high in Priscilla's estimation.

INSTALLMENT 43

"Greg," she said impulsively, "I know a lot about Mrs. Kingsbury. I know a lot that you, maybe, don't know. I confess it was none of my business, and I made it my business. Gregory, you are catty, Greg; especially sisters. I started out being prejudiced, I admit, against her. Evening, Greg! I don't—I don't scold me. That's what I thought at first. I think differently now. Tell me, was that handsome hulk of flesh with the sig-nag wife the injured husband Kingsbury and his new wife Annie?"

"Yes," said Gregory.

"No wonder the miss Kerin left him. But when you're telling brother why, why, in heaven's name, take this moment to spring the fatal question? Haven't you any sense at all?"

Gregory turned to her. "Priscilla ..." Then his hurt overcame him. "The things he said to her. You wouldn't believe them. I couldn't stand it."

Priscilla patted his arm consolingly. "Well—you're crazy, my good brother, if you think the woman pelled you. The woman doesn't exist—"

"That could refume me. Go on—say it. I've thought it myself, from time to time. Well, the exception is the only woman I've ever wanted." He strode on a few steps. "She spat me out of her mouth as if I—as if—"

"Listen Greg, honey—" Priscilla put his arm again gently. The two strolling along, slim and strong and young under the newly leaved elms, were a picture of carefree life and good health and easy gaiety. "It wasn't you, it was that mountain Carl. And I'll say this," said Priscilla haddonedly, "I've got to take off my hat to her that she still stands by—that she evidently feels she took the man for better or for worse—mostly worse. And it was—whoo—she dops say you, Greg, you will get something ~~ can build your life on."

"If when—" muttered Gregory.

"When," amended Priscilla. She looked at Gregory with her eyes, now very gentle. "Was this the first proposal, Greg?"

"Yes. Good heavens, Priscilla! What a thing to ask me!"

"I know, honey. But I was terribly curious to know. And in exchange I'm going to give you some good advice, and I suggest you take it, Gregory, for what it's worth. Don't go back there today. I feel it's a bad move. She might just possibly weep on your neck, but I doubt it; she doesn't strike me as the weepy kind. I think she's more likely to throw you out. Give her time to remember what you said— and to wants to hear it again.

Little Benny's Note Book

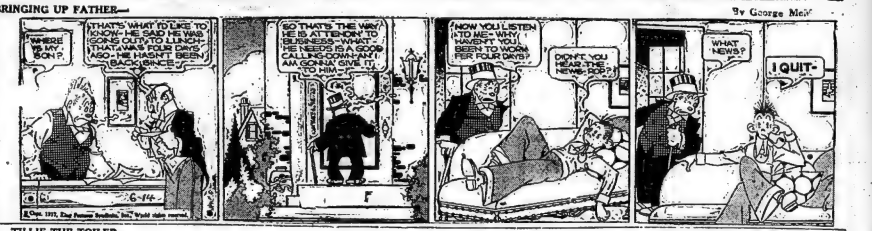
Pop was smoking and thinking in his private chair and ma was crawking around looking for dust, saying, What's worse than a deceitful person, Willyum?

I decentful people, pop said, and ma said, Well Bertha Cornhouse is deceitful enough for 6, so you just as jillies as the rest of them, pop said. It's a lucky thing you had that previous engagement, it just saves this establishment 10 dollers, he said, and ma said, Don't be silly, I never received any invitation, and after Bertha Cornhouse left I learned from one of the other ladies that by some hooker crook she had got herself appointed chairman of Mrs. Therston Willows' invitation committy, so she knew this whole time that I haven't been invited at all, but what did she do? Did she speak up like a lady and say there must be some mistake? No, she just sat there like a frozen image with butter not melting in it's mouth. Did you ever hear of anything more deceitful, Willyum, and what's so funny? ma said.



Pop being in back o fhis sporting page by that time and not anxious to get into any argument, he just said, Search me, and ma said, Well you needn't be so short with me, I'm not the one that's deceitful, and pop said, It's a lucky thing you had that previous engagement, and ma said, She even broke her own double faced record at the bridge game this afternoon, I could slap her every time I think of it.

You'd better try not to think of it while she's around, pop said, and ma said, I'll tell you just what happened so you'll know I'm not blindly exaggerating. One of the ladies happened to mention Mrs. Therston Willows' charity bridge, which will be one of the most expensive functions of the year even though the tickits cost 10 dollers each, and in an indiscreet spirit of harmless boasting I remarked that I had received a card of invitation which I regretfully had to decline because of a previous engagement. Well naturelly the other ladies' eyes popped with envy, but Bertha Cornhouse just sat there with a face of expressionless tone, ma said, Don't worry, she was probably lying.

By George Mcmanus

Jan: was seized with terror when she saw the blazing eyes of Kavandavanda, his cruel lips twisted into an eager, triumphant smile. She struggled with all her might to free herself from his embrace, but Kavandavanda was strong. His grew her closer and closer . . .

. . . Meanwhile, in his jungle course, Tarzan stopped suddenly and sniffed the air. "We are nearing a village." he said; "it is the village of the Kavuru. But nearer still are friends—Waziri." "How do you know?" asked Brown. Tarzan ignored the question.

The Jungle Lord lifted his head, and from his lips issued softly the call of the quail, three times, then a moment's silence, then once, twice, thrice came the answering call. Tarzan moved on, and in a few minutes Muviro and Balando came running from the forest.

Briefly and sorrowfully Muviro recounted what had happened—the battle with the fierce Kavuru and the loss of his fighting force. "It is impossible," Muviro sighed; "we cannot invade the Kavuru village. We are too few. They are too powerful."

BRITISH CONSUL IS RESCUED FROM BILBAO

Bullets Whistle About When Sailors Escort Consul to French Port

Party Not Fired on But Caught in Line of Fire of Two Armies

LAST ENGLISHMAN OUT

Cable Communications Are Broken Suddenly With Bilbao

Saint-Jean-de-Luz, France, June 15 (AP)—A landing party of British sailors rescued the British Consul, R. C. Stevenson, from Bilbao under a hail of fire today.

The sailors, with bullets whistling all about them, landed from a warship outside the besieged Basque capital, escorted the consul aboard and brought him to this French port.

British naval officers said plainly they did not consider the landing party was under direct attack, but, instead, was caught in the line of general fire between Bilbao defenders and advancing Spanish armies.

None was injured.

Stevenson was reported to have been the last Englishman in Bilbao.

Communication Broken Off.

Why the Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Canada, Ont.: We often hear the expression: "There's lots of rain in these clouds." Yes, some clouds do look more solid than others, but sending down rain. If all the water in a cloud were precipitated it would amount to a good deal on level ground. But dust do not rain themselves dry. The process of raining is a continuing one. A very large mass is comparatively warm and moist and as it is forced upward. It is cooled, and a mixed is formed. This cloud must then be warmed or dried by more moist air. When the supply stops, the rain stops, if the condition moves on and it rains elsewhere.

Full - Grown Doe Matches Speed of Truck at 35 m. p. h.

Darting Into Wire Fence is Catapulted Back in Path of Car

FALLS AS IF DEAD

At daybreak Monday Mr. Knowlton Wright, driver on the "Mail" Globe Route No. 7" had a most unusual experience. Driving at 35 miles an hour on Provincial Highway No. 7 he was startled by the appearance of a full-grown doe which darted out in front of the car and ran ahead of it for some distance. Glancing at his speedometer he saw that it registered 35 miles per hour. Suddenly the doe ran into the fence and picked up speed. Suddenly it swerved and ran directly into a wire fence, the force of the impact and the spring of the fence catapulting the animal back to the highway directly in the path of the car. Wright had to swing out to miss the animal as it lay apparently dazed. Stopping, he got out and went back to inspect it. But the animal rose to its feet and scampered off.

5 MILLION GOLD FLOW EVERY DAY SOON TO LESSEN

Belief Held at Washington That Inflow Will Soon Diminish

HOARDS OPENED UP

Economists Think Cause For Worry by U. S. Unnecessary

Washington, June 15 (AP)—Government economists predicted today the heavy inflow of gold to the United States—about $5,000,000 daily—soon may diminish.

Some of these men, who insist on anonymity, said they were relieved at the prospect.

They explained that much of the imported metal has come from private hoards abroad and that these, as a source of wholesale international gold movements, are being exhausted.

Diminishing gold shipments, they added, would remove any cause for worry based on the fact the United States is already holding more than $12,000,000,000 of world monetary gold supply, more than any nation has held before.

Other gold students have said there was no real reason for worry.

DOUKHOBOR WOMEN CAUSE DISTURBANCE AS LEADER JAILED

Nelson, B.C., June 15 (CP)—Two Doukhobor women were given evidence for causing a disturbance in front of a courthouse as Peter Verigin the Younger—the man they described as their "god"—began serving a three-months sentence for vagrancy.

Thirty Arrested Monday

Judge W. A. Nisbet of county court dismissed hearing of Verigin's application for habeas corpus as soon as the common danger. Several Doukhobor women refused to leave the courtroom and were ejected by British Columbia police.

Others Give Selves On Ground.

Outside the women threw themselves to the pavement. One of them kissed the shoes of Provincial Constable C. W. A. Harris as she appealed to be put in jail with the spiritual leader of Canadian Doukhobors.

One of the arrested women tried to "die" on the ground. She said on joining provincial jail yard but was refused by matron. Thirty in all were arrested threw themselves to the pavement and began to scream. Others screaming: "You've got our god in jail, take us too."

The women kissed the roadway, crying: "Shoot us or take us to jail. The government has killed Christ and now they are torturing the Young Peter, our leader."

Peter, grandson of the Elder, father of the present Doukhobor head, was killed in the bombing of a railway coach at nearby Farron, B.C., in 1924. Responsibility for the blast was never determined.)

Preservation of Peace, Stimulation of Trade Objects of Conference

BY GEORGE HAMBLETON

London, June 15 (CP)—Outstanding results of the Imperial Conference as seen by the Canadian delegation were:

Trade.

Emphatic desire was expressed by 11 delegations that all practical steps should be taken to secure stimulation of international trade. It was recognized that "if the last resort the prosperity of the countries of the British Commonwealth depends on the trade of the world as a whole and that a healthy growth of international trade, accompanied by improvement in the general standard of living, is an essential step to political appeasement.

Foreign Affairs.

No attempt was made at the conference to formulate commitments, which in any event could not be made effective until approved and confirmed by the respective parliaments. It was found, however, that the governments concerned were in close agreement on a number of general propositions. Among these were:

1. Preservation of peace as the first objective of national policy and the settlement of differences between nations by co-operation and conciliation, and not by force.

2. That armaments of commonwealth nations would never be used for purposes of aggression or for any purpose inconsistent with the Kellogg Pact or the covenant of the League of Nations.

3. Delegations united in the view that strengthening of the League by increasing its membership would be facilitated by separation of the covenant from the peace treaties.

4. It was agreed that if a pact on non-aggression by the countries of the Pacific could be brought about it would be a desirable contribution to the cause of peace and that to this end it should be a subject of further consultation between the governments concerned.

5. The desirability of obtaining as wide a measure of disarmament as possible was reaffirmed. At the same time it was felt the various governments of the commonwealth were bound to adopt such measures of defence as they might deem essential to their security as well as for fulfilment of such international obligations as they might respectively have assumed.

Cause of Peace

The governments declared their intention of continuing to consult with one another with a view to furthering the cause of peace. The members of the conference, while themselves firmly attached to principles of democracy and parliamentary forms of government, registered their belief that differences of political belief should not exclude friendly relations between governments and countries and that nothing would be more damaging to hopes of international settlement than the division, real or apparent, of the world into opposing groups.

The conference recognized that it was the sole responsibility of the several parliaments of the commonwealth to decide the nature and scope of their own defence policies.

International Tension.

The conference noted with deep concern the development of international tension since 1930, and the rapid increase of armaments of all principal powers. Though it was recognized conditions did not at the moment seem favorable to further progress in limitation of armaments, the conference felt that negotiations for such limitation should proceed whenever there were reasonable prospects of success.

Interchange of Information.

It was felt that security was increased by co-operation between governments of the commonwealth in such matters as free interchange of information concerning the state of their naval, military and air forces. The conference was impressed with the value of free interchange of detailed, technical information on supplies of munitions, raw materials and foodstuffs in time of emergency and recommended such interchange should be continued between technical officers of the governments concerned.

At the same time, it was made clear any questions of policy arising from any such technical discussions would be submitted to the respective governments for decision and that each government reserved its complete freedom as to decision and action.

Colonial Affairs.

William Ormsby-Gore, the Colonial Secretary, expressed the hope that Southern Rhodesia's railway agreement would be renewed when the present period of its operation expired. The Canadian representative, in reply, observed that he was not pessimistic about the possibility of such a renewal but he felt that there were in this connection some difficulties which would have to be overcome.

Nationality of Married Women.

Full discussion took place but it was not found possible to arrive at an agreement in favor of any change in the existing law though it was assumed the matter would be the subject of further consideration, by consultation between the respective governments.

BROKEN BEARING FORCES G. PEPPER OUT OF CONTEST

Cablegram Received By Ont.-Intelli. Immediately After Race

RIDER NOT HURT

Ready to Race Again on Wednesday And Friday

(By George Pepper)

Douglas PO, Isle of Man, June 14 (Special to the Ontario Intelligencer, Belleville, Ont.)

"Retired, lap five, main bearing engine first time one over broke, speed 73. Good for replica if finished. Weather fine. Roads good. Leaders very close to finish Wednesday and Friday. Gutbir, Guthrie and Smith, O.K. Sorry did not finish. Tell mother, dad."

Pepper.

The above is the text of a cablegram sent to the Ontario Intelligencer from George Pepper following yesterday's 250 C.C. race during the Isle of Man Tourist Trophy contest.

According to cablegram George was forced to retire during the fifth lap, there being seven laps to the course, after his main bearing broke. It is the first time George ever experienced such trouble and was undoubtedly due to the strenuous driving the machine received in the race, that saw the winner, Guthrie of England, establish a new course record at an average speed of 84.43 miles per hour.

George was clipping it off at the rate of 73 m.p.h. when the main bearing broke, but fortunately he did not crack-up and was unhurt. Had he finished the course yesterday, after his main bearing broke, he qualified for a replica cup, given riders who complete the course within a certain time limit after the winner had been declared. At the time of his retirement this fact would establish that George was up in the race when he was forced out when the main bearing broke.

Commenting on the class of riders George is competing against his own words in the cablegram are sufficient to imply he is racing against the finest riders in the world. His ambitions now seem to be to finish the course, a feat which the majority of the riders yesterday failed to accomplish.

LASTING BENEFIT TO WORLD PEACE

Kingston Ont., June 15 (CP)—The ideal before them of making their deliberations "a lasting contribution to world peace" was declared to the second conference on Canadian-American affairs in session here for consideration of tariffs and world trade.

Long range desirability of broadening trade agreements between United States and Canada, in preference to developing individual "balanced economies" or, in the alternative, "economic isolation" was irreconcilable, was stressed today as the conference considered the Canadian-American affairs, engaged in a general discussion of tariffs.

While several academic economists technically discussed tariff effects, Herbert D. Baker, former Secretary of War of the United States, questioned whether tariffs were merely an economic question. He suggested the problem be largely advocated by Canada-United States economic bloc lead ultimately to international appreciation.

Common Ideals Find Means to Work Together Says Rt. Hon. Mr. King

Conference Sends Greetings to His Majesty The King

COST OF ARMS

Prime Minister Chamberlain Says Arms Cost Brings No Return

By GEORGE HAMBLETON

London, June 15 (CP)—The Imperial Conference ended its labors today.

In the drawing room at St. James's Palace empire statesmen gathered, bade their closing speeches and adopted reports.

The conference closed at 1 p. m. with a message of loyalty to the King. Moved by Neville Chamberlain and seconded by Mackenzie King, the conference decided to submit this address to His Majesty:

Address To His Majesty.

"We, the Prime Ministers and representatives of the governments of the British Commonwealth of Nations, who during the last few weeks have been assembled together in the Imperial Conference, desire at the conclusion of our labors to express once again on our own behalf and on behalf of the people we represent our loyalty and devotion to your Majesty.

"We pray that under Divine Providence your Majesty and her Majesty Queen Elizabeth may long continue to preside over the destinies of the nations of the British Commonwealth and that in that high task your Majesty, whose inspiration in the devotion and dedication of your loyal subjects which was so strikingly manifested on this happy occasion."

Message From King George VI.

Chamberlain later read the following message from his Majesty:

"I sincerely thank the prime ministers and representatives of the governments of the British Commonwealth of Nations for their address which they have just presented to me on the occasion of your Imperial Conference.

"The Queen and I greatly appreciate the generous terms of the message of good wishes, to which it gives expression.

"I sincerely trust that the happiness and prosperity of my peoples in all parts of the commonwealth may be enhanced as a result of the deliberations of the conference.

"For my part it has given me a very welcome opportunity, which I had also been of the utmost value to me, of meeting my ministers and other representatives in the Dominions in very outset of my reign.

"I shall look forward to such members of the conference godspeed and a safe return to their homes. We hope they will take back with them the same happy memories as we shall always retain of their visit to this country on our Coronation year."

Prime Ministers Confer.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada, said the Imperial Conference of 1937 would have its association with the historic event which preceded it. The Imperial Conference had vividly portrayed the world commonwealth, composed of autonomous nations, fully developed and free, united by many ties of sentiment and mutual interest and in common allegiance to the crown.

"It has, as well, deepened our convictions in the soundness of our parliamentary institutions and in the unifying power of freedom," the Canadian Prime Minister continued. "Unity, of which the crown is the symbol and assurance, has been reflected in the harmony of outlook and in the community of spirit which pervaded the conference.

70 Girl Workers Collapse In Mass Fainting in Sugar Plant

Hysteria by Auto-suggestion Possible Cause

NO TRACE OF GAS

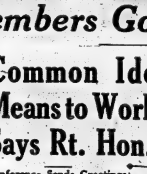
Lille, France, June 15 (AP)—Seventy girl workers collapsed today in two eerie mass faintings at a little sugar refinery. Thirty fell to the floor, swooning, this morning, and many more fainted this afternoon.



Work was disrupted and experts worked throughout the day to determine the cause.

Most of the victims were younger workers, 17 years old or less and somewhat frail.

When another 400 employees collapsed last Thursday while at work, the plant closed down, believing it might have been overcome by gas. But blood tests failed to reveal any trace of gas or other poison. Then physicians blamed the prostrations to heat.

The employees went back to work today, with the authorization of their labor union's officials.

Now the doctors are investigating the possibility mass hysteria induced by auto-suggestion overcome them.

FORMER PREMIER DIES

In his 73rd year, Sir William was premier of the island in 1918 and later that year was appointed to the privy council. He was created a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George in 1919. He had been school master, journalist and lawyer before entering politics.

OTTAWA VISITOR FINDS FORTUNE?

Found Substance Floating on Shore Believed to be Ambergris

Longport, N.J., June 15 (AP) — Local residents were all but kicking themselves today for passing by an insignificant-looking mass of substance that floated ashore at the foot of 32nd avenue.

James Schurman, visitor from Ottawa, was curious about it. Two hours afterward he was on a train headed for New York. In a suitcase he was taking about $18,000, pounds of pure ambergris, calculated to be worth more than $18,000. Ambergris, a substance thrown off by whales, is used in the making of perfume.

The stuff looked like unhardened concrete. Most persons thought it an oil coming from it. He had never seen ambergris, but he guessed it was that. He went to the town library and learned that ambergris would dissolve in hot alcohol.

The stuff dissolved, all right. Schurman then returned to his suitcase and was on his way to the railroad station before he told anyone of his find.

New York, June 15 (CP)—The largest gathering of executives of New York City had not been consulted today by Canadian interests. Canadian vacationist reported to have seen a young Canadian ambergris on the Atlantic coast, but a spokesman for one of them threw cold water on the idea of ambergris.

Schurman, a motor tourist believed to be from Ottawa, stopped at Longport, N.J., yesterday for a swim and picked up a large lump of oily substance floating on to the New Jersey shore by the waves. It was reported the concrete-like substance dissolved readily in alcohol—a test of true ambergris—and that the genial Schurman took off hurriedly for New York with his 36-pound find, unofficially valued at $18,000.

However, an official of Coty's Perfumery here said he doubted the Canadian visitor had found a batch of "Ah-No." ambergris, an excretion of whales used to give perfume its floral bouquet.

Steel Grade In Tropical Waters.

He said the best grade of ambergris is found in tropical waters and rarely floats this far north. The grey variety of the oleaginous substance is worth its weight in gold while the black isn't such—much.

Original Motion Prohibiting Sale of Soft Drinks at Camp Decision of City Council

Lengthy Discussion on Motions And Camp Generally

UPHOLD AGREEMENT

Two Agreements Signed to Transfer Property to Resident

"I am resigning as Chairman of Tourist and Publicity and also as an Alderman for the city of Belleville," said W. Greenleaf, former Mayor, after the council at their regular session last evening failed to allow the carrying-over of the Tourist Camp the privilege of selling soft drinks and other articles on city property, the majority of members declining to stand by the original recommendation of the Council passed two weeks ago, which prohibited the sale although the carnival was specifically ignored in the recommendation, and set up a booth on the property, Alderman Greenleaf, in the course of the meeting expressed an opinion, that he had received Bar-Tile ownership to the property in question, and "to give him a decent living. Aid. Wills then asked Aid. Greenleaf if he had been given any permission by the council to allow this man to sell and Aid. Greenleaf replied in the negative. Aid. Wills again asked "was any effort made to convey to the caretaker, the wishes of the council in the matter?" and the reply was that was "only what Mr. Orr has read in the newspapers." Aid. Wills moved the matter for the time being but under the head of motions. Aid. Greenleaf seconded by Aid. Baldree introduced a motion: "That the caretaker of the Tourist Camp be allowed to sell soft drinks on the Tourist Camp."

Point of Order

Aid. Barlow rose to a point of order asking "that in the face of the recommendation recently passed by the council can this last motion be introduced unless the recommendation is rescinded?" Aid. Greenleaf stated he believed a motion superseded a recommendation and the suspension of the rules were given but the motion was never voted on with the mover and seconder withdrew it, when another motion was introduced by Aid. Baldree and seconded by William Harvey, "that a committee of the council be formed to interview Mr. Orr and see if some arrangements could not be arrived at."

Alderman Wills, speaking to the motion stated that Mr. Orr was a local merchant and carrying on business on city property, when he sells soft drinks on the Tourist camp. "It is a bad state of affairs, when council takes a certain action, and it is ignored by an employee of the city," said Ald. Wills.

Mayor Arnott: "This man took over the proposition in an agreement with the city for fees that would be collected and I see no reason, why he should not sell drinks at the camp, when the council expressly forbade that procedure."

Aid. Lewis: "The camp never did better in its history and Mr. Orr has worked like a Trojan to have it spic and span. He is not getting a fair return for his labor and he beseeched the kind consideration of the council for the man."

Aid. Greenleaf: "I am personally with this man in every way this way but I do believe the council has no desire to have the sale of soft drinks is generally established on the camp. The weather has been backwards and if allowed to sell soft drinks, it probably will help him a lot."

Against Motion

Aid Armstrong: "The proposition under which he was engaged when he took it over, stating that there is a possibility he is not receiving a fair return, recommendation is not to be considered. I don't see how anything can be done in the matter. The agreement was recommendation recently passed by this council."

Aid. Baragar: "I was a member of the committee which engaged Mr. Orr but never was the sale of soft drinks mentioned in the discussions before. he was engaged as a man not in favor of the city or any of its agents selling anything on the premises."

Aid. Kennedy: "I am in accord with the remarks expressed by Aid. Baragar."

Aid. Baldree: "I was not in favor of the arrangements at the time believing the city would get better returns by a paid employee but the situation is now here and we have to deal with it. I would be in favor of withdrawing the motion and introduce another" and then moved, seconded and interview Mr. Orr and have a report before the council. This action was taken and the motion introduced and the discussion started all over again.

Lengthy Discussion

Aid Wills: "I don't think this council should pass resolutions and have them ignored."

Aid Harvey "I don't think Mr. Orr is to blame but rather the lack of authority, who should have notified Mr. Orr of the action of the council. It was learned that the clerk had notified the Chairman of Tourist and Publicity" but Aid. Greenleaf admitted if council, that he had not notified Mr. Orr and he only realized that Mr. Orr had was what was reported in the newspapers, which article stated that the council had passed recommendation prohibiting the sale of soft drinks and other articles at the Tourist Camp."

Mayor Arnott: "If Mr. Orr is dissatisfied with his arrangements and we have nothing before this council, that is, by agreement to the council not the council go to him. As far as the agreement is concerned nothing was said in it about the sale of soft drinks and I am prepared on record as opposed to this and I am going to call by the original motion of this council until there is further information from the Chairman. At this point the motion was put, and lost, only Aid. Greenleaf, Baldree and Harvey voting in favor with Aid. Wills, Thompson, Clapp, Baragar, Jennings, Kennedy, Armstrong, Lewis, Barlow and Armstrong with Mayor Arnott opposed.

Former Motion Suspended

The council recommended, that the Provincial Government put into effect the Employer's Pension Act, shortly passed. This Act allows the municipality to set up a pension fund for employees, the obligation is placed on the municipality in this case. The recommendation was asked for an expression of opinion from the municipal council and the council was in favor of the scheme. The arrangements made by the council on April 19th last whereby six relief men were given duty each day on the Quinte Day Beaches Association will be suspended until July 15th according to a recommendation passed at the meeting Monday night. No action was taken by the council on action.

The Kinsmen Club was granted the right to hold a street parade from the Market Square to North Front Street on the morning of July 1st and that notice of the permission be given to the Chief of Police for his guidance. A resident of Pinnacle Street complained to the council "that a certain Transport Company was making a freight yard of the street" and stated the disturbance in the early hours of the morning was annoying to the residents of the area and that there was a possibility of someone being hurt in the day time as the street was sometimes blocked by the trucks backing down to the north side of the thoroughfare. Mayor Arnott stated that he would look into and thought the matter should be referred to Police Commissioner Wills which was done. A question of insurance protection for firemen was referred back to the Fire Committee for their consideration. Application from the Belleville Ice Company for a permit to erect a new refrigeration plant on Bridge street was granted. Mr. Hawson respecting the Bridge Street Subway stated that two lines should be put in to allow cars other than at their terminals to proceed. The matter of the complaint of busses other than the Rawson Bus Line passing through the car route but that a by-law might be drawn, which would designate the routes that busses should bring a certain revenue to the city.

Appoint Cheese Weigher

By unanimous consent a by-law will be introduced appointing Fred Goudy, nominated by the Belleville Agricultural Society, as cheese weigher for this district in conformity with the request received from that body. Should the appointment will not cost the city any additional money as it is paid by Belleville Board a weigher, whose duties will be confined to the factories. The council also gave permission to the City Engineer to relocate the sidewalk on Bleecker Bridge Street West. Three petitions were received from residents of Ridley Avenue, Sinclair Street and Sinclair Street have new roads ways and it would be better to oil and keep down the presence of dust. As for West Bridge Street, the Engineer reported that it was in condition and with some patching could be left over for another year.

Aid. Thompson was of the opinion the road was in bad condition for some years and was in need of some. Aid. Wills stated that the building committee was to report on this question at this meeting"

Aid. Wills: "The committee is tied and it is for the council to decide."

Aid. Wills: "I will move that the committee again inspect the road and report to council how to act in the matter." This motion was carried. A petition from the Bell Telephone tender was referred to the Public Utilities Commission.

The Belleville Motor Car Company a letter from J. G. Herlihy, secretary congratulating the council on their action of having parallel parking on Front Street stating, that it improved the appearance of the thoroughfare and also aided the handling of traffic. Two by-laws were passed through the various stages. Both being agreements for the transfer of property. There being no further business the council adjourned. Alderman Jennings was appointed by the committee of the whole and of by-laws.

Comparative Statement on Relief

BERRIES OFFERED AT 18-20c A BOX
Heavy Supply Knocks Price Down to a Low of 15 Cents
GOOD QUALITY
Noting a sharp decline in prices from those which feathered the initial supply on Thursday last strawberries were offered at the city market today in large quantities which nearly doubled the supply offered for sale at this time a year ago. Quoted at thirty five cents a box last week, the fruit dropped in price on Saturday to twenty five cents. Today while the popular price was twenty cents for the individual box, in the early hours, another decline was marked with vendors offering stocks at eighteen and fifteen cents and in some cases at fifteen cents per box by the case lot.

Enterprising farmers and growers took the market bull by the proverbial horns last night, and conducted house to house sales offering their fruit at the straight price of twenty cents a per box.

While some of the vendors predict a light crop due to the dryness of strawberry patches, the majority on the market today claimed the quality of this year's berry was well above that of former years. The additional benefit of heavy rains the crop will compare with the best ever produced in this district, it is claimed.

Small strawberries, grown on the farm of Herbert Taylor of Allisonville, made their 1937 debut today selling at fifteen cents per box, according to Taylor this constitutes a record for early appearance of this particular fruit.

Spinach and asparagus headed a small display of new vegetables but showed little difference over the weekend prices. Lettuce, radishes and onions were offered to a slow-moving market.

Economists Rapped By Youthful M.P.

Kingston, Ont., June 18 (CP)—Economists have no favorites with Paul Martin, youthful Liberal member of Parliament for Essex East.

Politicians are more aware of their limitations than economists are," he told the conference on Canadian-American Relations here today, supporting the politician's capacity to deal with national economic matters.

"The jargon of economists is so full of words, affirmatives and their economic journals are too expensive."

RQM. J. MERCER IS BURIED WITH MILITARY HONORS

Impressive Service Conducted at St. Andrew's Church, Picton

Picton—A fitting funeral for a fine soldier, with full military honours, was attended on Sunday afternoon by crowds of military men of the district and nearby towns, and civilians from every walk of life, when Regimental Quartermaster James Mercer was laid to rest.

On a flag-draped gun carriage the body was escorted to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. The funeral cortege was more than half a mile in length. It consisted of the regimental band with muffled drum —members of the firing squad, the local post of the Canadian Legion, war veterans, officers of the Hastings Ward and Hastings County Regiment, a unit of the Argyll Light Infantry (Tank) from Belleville and regimental recruits.

Rev. S. M. Scott met the cortege at the door of the Church which was flag-draped. The whole seating capacity of the church was filled with military men, while friends crowded the church lawn for the service. Mrs. H. U. Tobey presided at the organ and the full choir were present, banks of beautiful flowers surrounded the casket. Following prayer, reading from the Scriptures and the conversational singing of Hymn No. 629, Rev. Mr. Scott spoke taking his text from the Gospel according to St. John, verses "What is Your Life?" He spoke of the memory left behind by the deceased, a memory of fidelity, of a sense of responsibility and precision; a quality of tactfulness with duty, as he conceived it, well done. Quiet dignity, part of the life of a soldier and part of all worthwhile living, and obedience were exemplified by James Mercer," said the speaker. "Likewise must we as good soldiers of God—obey his commandments, and never yield to the enemy of God. God wishes us to make our lives an abundant expression of the Spirit. In obeying God we shall not rest until His Will is done".

FRANCE, CANADA AND U. S.

France unveiled the first statue of Father Jacques Marquette, the seventeenth century Jesuit missionary and explorer of the upper valley of the Mississippi River, on Sunday, the three hundredth anniversary of his birth, in the presence of high French and American officials.

A vial of water from the Mississippi which had been brought by H. H. Kidder of Marquette, Michigan, was poured on the monument as part of the ceremonies of dedication. Leon, the French city which figured in the Great War was the birthplace of Father Marquette. The monument shows him in one canoe and two Indians in another against a background of Mississippi wilderness. Branches of the Marquette family still live in Leon.

This missionary was one of the great links of the Old France with the New World. Canada is very rich in the ties which bind her to old monarchical France and scholars have only to think of the immortal names of governors, martyrs, soldiers in Canadian history.

We cannot forget French colonization in America, which enriched the life of the people of this country and is represented in modern Quebec. With such a historic past it is not to be wondered at that Quebec still has tenderest feelings for France and a patrician pride in ancestry. And Canada at large knows what she owes to the two great racial origins in Canada, the British and French.

WARN BATHERS, SUN WORSHIPPERS

Accidents "after the whistle blows" may be as much the concern of industry as mishaps which involve workmen's compensation, says R. B. Morley, general manager of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations.

Sunstroke and drowning take a huge toll in Canada each summer which could be drastically reduced with care, foresight, and a few simple precautions.

Some practical suggestions recommended by medical authorities, are cited to ward off sunstroke and heat exhaustion:

1. Keep your skin clean.
2. Wear light, loose clothing.
3. Eat less meat and more vegetables.
4. Eat fruits in moderation. Don't overeat at any time.
5. Avoid strong alcoholic drinks.
6. Avoid loss of sleep, over-fatigue and worry.
7. Cool water and table salt (1-4 teaspoon to a glass) will assist in preventing heat exhaustion. Sodium chloride tablets for this purpose may be obtained at drug stores.

Many of the thousand Canadian lives lost every year by drowning might be saved through organized training in artificial respiration and first aid claims Mr. Morley.

The St. John Ambulance Association, The Y.M.C.A. or the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association, any or all, are willing to help in this work.

Copies of a chart explaining and illustrating the prone pressure method of resuscitation may be obtained without charge from the Industrial Accident Prevention Association, 600 Bay Street, Toronto.

"YOU BET YOUR LIFE"

The spirit of the twentieth century is speed.

The automobile chug-chugged its way into the Canadian scene as the tumultuous twentieth century began. Nobody took this "foolish contraption" very seriously. It was a passing fad—a relatively harmless toy for the young bloods of the day to play with—and if an occasional chicken lost its life, the damage could be righted by a few contrite words and perhaps a dollar.

The fad, however, did not fade. Instead, the automobile became an all-important factor in modern civilization.

It is unfortunate that we have not yet learned to enjoy this marvelous instrument of transportation without paying a tremendous price.

Year after year the traffic death record grows worse. That it did not improve in 1936, at a time when most encouraging advances were noted in law enforcement and traffic engineering in general, indicates but one thing—that highway safety is a personal problem which must be solved by each individual himself, and not one which will yield readily to wholesale solution.

The traffic problem is your problem. Your stake in it is high, for it is your very life. Will you continue to bet your life, to substitute chance for caution and uncertainty for safety, or will you, by driving sanely, do your part to end this senseless slaughter?

There is one simple rule of driving that will make our streets and highways safe for everyone who uses them: "Drive as you would have others drive."

And that simply means "Try Courtesy" every minute you are behind the wheel of a car, just as you do in your business and social life every day.

EVENING CHORDS

He likes to do the chores on Summer nights;
Silling the mangers with the clover hay,
Bedding the boxstall for the day-old calf;
Finishing tanks left over from the day.

He listens to the horse crunching corn.
And, pausea, pail in hand, beside the door
To watch the moon above the poplar trees
As he has watched it all his life; threescore

Years he's spent upon the prairie land,
Plowing and planting in the early Springs;
Harvesting crops and doing evening chores
Amind the whir of homing-pigeon wings.

The yearling colts and calves crowd eagerly
Around him for their helping of the feed,
And trustingly they follow him whose life
Has been devoted to their simple need.

DID GERMANY TURN THE OTHER CHEEK? Germany did not wait for explanations, apologies or reparations. Germany hastily sent five warships to bomb a Spanish port and kill a whole lot of innocent bystanders so that the insult to Germany's military pride might be speedily avenged. If Europe had more real Christianity she would need fewer undertakers and the mourners would not fill the streets.

"ANIMALCULAE OF PUBLIC OFFICE HOLDERS" is the term bestowed upon rural School Trustees by J. V. McAree, well known conductor of the "Fourth Column" on the editorial page of the Toronto Globe Mail. As usual with writers who try to "wrassle" with big words to which they are not accustomed J. V. is in trouble. An authority on verbs, nouns, adjectives and chickens tells him there is no such word. The singular of the word J. V. was bandying with is "animalcule", or "animalculum" and the plural animalcules or 'animalcula' according to the same highbrow authority. We take no responsibility for the correctness of any part of it. However, J. V. was commenting upon an incident involving a school child who refused to sing the National Anthem. J. V. admits "it serves me right for being rude in a foreign language." McAree has a system which is a peacherino for filling space. He speaks right out in meetin' and gets many letters, commending and condemning his remarks. He prints the ones which disagree with his expressed opinions and the result is an interesting literary bouillon. One reader called him "a black sewer rat" for comments upon the Hitler-Vatican argument. All of which must convince any columnist that the more territory he takes in the greater danger of a visitation of brickbats.

My cousin Artie slept with me last nite and we was laying in bed talking about different subjects while we was waiting to go to sleep, me saying, O, if we could only get enough fellows to vote for it a nite have a sitdown strike in school and not study questions or anything, do you think it would work?

No, Artie said.

Why it probably wouldn't, and I said, Well anyway, you and me could have a sleepdown strike and prehaps we're so fast asleep tomorrow morning it's impossible for us to wake up, and by the time they wake us up we'll proberly be late for school so maybe they won't make us go, how's that for a idea?

Well, Artie said.

And this morning ma started to call us to get up and me and Artie said Shh to each other and just kept on laying there with our eyes shut as if we thawt we was asleep, and prity soon ma came in and started to call us and shake us at the same time, saying, My lands I never saw 2 people sleep like this, Willyum, Willyum, come in here.

With pop did, and ma said, I can't seem to make these boys wake up, do you think they could of eaten some of my sleeping pills last nite?

Yes gods what an idea, pop said, and ma said, No, they couldn't of, because I haven't any in the house, well that's a relief.

To say the least, pop said, I think I know what's a matter with them, they've got dormouslin, otherwise known as Sleep's disease. The only cure for it is small pieces of refreshing ice down their backs accompanied by a brisk tickling of their feet. You get the ice while I start with their feet, he said.

With just then me and Artie both sat up, me saying, Did anybody call us? and Artie saying, What time is it?

O sflit up and get up, ma said. Wich we did feeling against it.

ESTD 1857 THE PROOF

Both Sides of the Question

THE considerable public interest now existing with regard to the problems of temperance, prompts the Brewing Industry to state its side of the question.

Providing as it does a living for thousands, this Industry claims confidently in Ontario the same respect that it is accorded throughout the British Empire; for its sense of public responsibility is the same!

Consider the facts. Moderation and true temperance are causes which the Brewing Industry in its own interest must support.

For moderation means respect for law and order. It means a decrease in secret drinking—a reduction of drunkenness. It means a chance for the ordinary decent citizen to exercise self-control.

In fact at every point it means the very opposite of excess—the very opposite of prohibition.

For prohibition whether general or limited, does not mean temperance. Surely that fact, at least, has been abundantly proved.

Rather it means the return of the bootlegger. It means the growth of rackets. It means making illegal drinking the "smart" thing to do, with the result that drunkenness becomes a distinction instead of a disgrace.

No thinking person can possibly want the return of these evils—yet that is what propaganda against our Industry seeks to achieve!

WALL ST. CLOSE

New York, June 15—(AP)— The stock market regained its composure today and many of yesterday's sliding issues dug in for moderate recoveries.

A slight lessening of strike fears, brokers said, combined with quiet turn buying and some short covering, helped to stem the selling flood that washed out quoted values Monday.

The comeback was not a one-way affair and a number of leaders were still behind when the closing gong near the final hour. Volume also dwindled as the upward reversal. Transfers were at the rate of about 800,000 shares.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE (Close)

Toronto, June 15 (CP)—Dragged through four hours of today's session of the Toronto Exchange at irregular lower prices, stocks tightened up in the last hour and the close was generally firm. The losing phase brought higher prices in the golds and the western oils and these groups closed with net gains while the industrials and the base metals were steady to slightly lower.

Senior golds displayed moderate firmness throughout the session and the secondary and junior groups fell into line in the last stage. Posted gains of a point or more posted gains of a point or more each and cheapruns above offering gains of 5 to 15 cents at the close included Wright Hargreaves, Little Long Lac, Teck Hughes, Sladen-Kerr-Addison and Pamour. Bro-Rorna, Pickle Crow and Macassa closed down.

Senior base metals, International Nickel, Hudson Bay and Noranda finished with net losses; Rodbury Talkin, Walle-Amulet and Penn Orellie also were off slightly.

Losses predominated in the utility, steel and food groups, the heavier losers being in fractional going to Power Corporation, Shawinigan, and Page Hersey. Bell Telephone, Dominion Foundries and Abitibi issues, Great Lakes Paper Pfd., Consolidated Paper and Zimmerknit were up.

COMMON IDEALS

"Our deliberations have emphasized once more the effectiveness of reason and co-operation in the conduct of international affairs. They have demonstrated anew how people governing common ideals can find the means of working together for the common good.

Free Exchange of Opinions

The function of the Imperial Conference was not to formulate or declare policy. The value of this, as of other Imperial Conferences, lay mainly in the free exchange of information and opinion and in giving that direct, immediate understanding of national and personal factors in a situation, which cannot well be obtained by correspondence or indirect communications.

India's Outlook

Sir Muhammed Zaffrullah Khan said India was anxious to participate in the conference deliberations on the same footing as the Dominions.

"I have no doubt she is within a measurable distance of realisation of that desire," he added.

Neville Chamberlain, concluding the conference, said that in estimating results there had no need to look for spectacular decisions or for a startling changing of policy. Imperial Conferences were not summoned merely to solve any particular problem or to achieve any specific result. They took the form rather of a series of family gatherings at which members of the family assembled in order to exchange information.

Strain of Armament

Prime Minister Chamberlain continued that the vast increase in expenditure on armaments, production which had taken place during the last two years, was in no return in human progress or human happiness. It was laying a terrible strain on this and succeeding generations which could not be contemplated without grief and apprehension. All were agreed that no opportunity should be lost in trying to remove those fears and anxieties which were the root cause of the mischief. But in the present condition of affairs to undertake unilateral disarmament would be to invite disaster.

"In their determination to bring their defensive forces to the state of efficiency in which they can maintain their security and fulfil their International obligations His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom have good reason to believe they are making a contribution of the most important character to the cause of peace," Chamberlain said.

"In their turn we welcome the efforts of the other partners in the Empire made with similar objects."

Obituary

MRS. ARMINA L. SEARLES

(Oak Lake)

(Contributed)

Another of the noble links, which bind our life with the past was broken Sunday, June 13, when Armina Lucilla Searles passed on in her ninety-first year from the residence of her son Bert at Oak Lake.

Mrs. Searles was a life-long resident of Sidney township, and from her early days attended the Sidney Baptist Church. She was born on May 2, 1847, the second daughter and last surviving member of a family of seven children who were born to Ezekiel and Mary Faulkner and Pamelia Turner of the Turner settlement, one of the old-est settlements in Hastings County. Her husband, the late Benson Searles, predeceased her nearly fifteen years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Searles selected the site of their home on beautiful Oak Lake just fifty years ago, where they moved with their four children and settled amid very primitive surroundings. Her loom and spinning wheel in the kitchen corner, however, were a great help but those of her neighbors, blanketing the floor and carpeted their floors, while the potash kettle boiled in the fallow.

Mr. and Mrs. Searles possessed charming personalities, which together with the natural beauty of the place, made their home from early times a mecca for Sunday visitors and holiday tourists, and thus the home gradually developed from the log cabin which is still standing on the property, to the fine, modernly equipped farm and popular tourist resort known as Crescent Beach, one of the best known in Eastern Ontario today.

"From such as these Ontario's greatness rose."

Her four children, Winnie (Mrs H. & Dafoe) of Trenton, Lillie (Mrs. L. R. Windsor) of Haliburton, Burton, on the homestead at Oak Lake, and Fred of Thurlow township still survive, together with twelve grandchildren and twenty-one great grandchildren.

"Her echo rolls from soul to soul and grows forever and forever."

Interment was made in Stirling cemetery, the funeral being conducted from her late residence, Tuesday, June 13, at 3 p.m.

V.O. N. REPORT FOR MONTH OF MAY

During the month of May a total of 336 visits were made to city and districts homes of the ailing. It was revealed in the report of Nurse B. Soucar at the regular monthly meeting of the local Victorian Order held in the Y.M.C.A. last evening. Grateful acknowledgment was made of the receipt of a donation of ten dollars to the Order by the meeting, presided over by Mrs. Thos. Holland, president.

One of the most encouraging reports of those received was that of the unqualified success of the newly instituted Well Baby clinic in a home at 156 Pinnacle Street, to popular have the clinics held each Thursday become, that even the facilities of this modern nursery have become taxed.

During the annual Tag Day of the Order which will be next Saturday, June 19th, Mrs. Foley will be in charge of the day's work assisted by ladies of the local Order.

GRANDMOTHERS PRESENT W. A. TWEED PROGRAM

Interesting Meeting Held In United Church Parlors

Tweed, June 15—The June meeting of the Women's Association of Tweed United Church was held in the church parlours on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. W. K. Tummon's group had charge of the meeting. The room was decorated with baskets of cut flowers.

Mrs. G. R. Porritt presided over the business meeting. Mrs. Harry Grier gave a comprehensive report of the W.A. convention for Hastings and Prince Edward counties held in Demorestville in May. She also sang "Let the Beauty of Jesus be Seen in Me." This short hymn was the theme song of the W.A. convention, and it was recommended that it be used at all W.A. meetings.

The programme was a unique one in that it was given almost entirely by the grandmothers. They were invited to occupy places on the platform. Eleven grandmothers were present. They sang as an opening number "Old Black Joe." The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Joseph Emerson. An interesting feature was the Roll Call which was answered by mentioning the names of articles, etc. of present use which were not known to our grandmothers. Mrs. J. W. Kingston gave an appropriate reading "Then and Now." Mrs. William Craig, one of the oldest grandmothers present, read a poem "Grandmother's Old Arm Chair." The first part is set to music and the grandmothers sang the chorus. Miss Arline Elliott, Toronto, granddaughter of Mrs. J. C. Elliott read a poem "Inheritance," a tribute to all grandmothers. Mrs. W. K. Tummon gave a humorous reading "Seven minute" which referred to the uses to which peppermint candy was put in "the olden days." Mrs. William Hinks also gave a delightful humorous reading "In the Days of the Old Log School." The meeting was brought to a close with the hymn "The Old-Time Religion" and the Mizpah Benediction.

It was the consensus of opinion that the programme was one of the best that had ever been given by the local auxiliary. To the oldest grandmother, Mrs. David Beatty, who is in her 82nd year was presented a basket of iris and peonies. Mrs. Beatty also had the distinction of having the greatest number of grandchildren, 18 in number, and 8 great grandchildren.

The following were the grandmothers who attended the meeting: Mrs. W. K. Craig, Mrs. D. Beatty, Mrs. J. C. Elliott, Mrs. Joe Emerson, Mrs. W. H. Hicks, Mrs. W. R. Sayers, Mrs. H. E. Wager, Mrs. Luffman, Mrs. J. W. Kingston, Mrs. Mc. Long. Tea was served at the conclusion of the meeting.

The spires at Tweed high school have presented a wonderful sight for the past week or more. The shrubs were completely hidden by a mass of bloom and any of the townsfolk who wish to see them were amply repaid for their effort. Mr. Don Burnett of the Royal Bank staff of Hastings has been transferred to the King-Spadina branch in Toronto.

Mr. Jack Arber of the Royal Bank staff of Tweed has been moved to the branch at Roseneath. A local young man will be engaged to replace him.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell M. Connor of Waterloo were guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Connor for a short time.

Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Paul motored to Kingston on Sunday to see Dr. and Mrs. Dales who is still a patient at the General Hospital. Mrs. Dales accompanied them.

DAILY SHORT STORY

No Valentine

By Marian P. Johnson

"You will take the Valentine department, Miss King," said Mr. Jones, manager.

Maisie King emitted a sharp little gasp and opening her mouth to protest.

"At once, Miss King!" snapped Mr. Lane, "Pullow me!"

Maisie followed.

A short time later she stood among the valentines and glared. It was bad enough, having her first interview with Jim just before Valentine's Day. But being yanked away from the frothy colors and curls she adored to be planted ruthlessly among the valentines was—well, it was just plain sickening, deciding Maisie rebelliously.

She was delayed almost at once with customers.

"Something for mother," demanded a smooth masculine voice. And Maisie's heart did a neat flip-flop when over the counter and back again. She gritted her teeth and selected a valentine at him.

"How's that?" she inquired, Coolly, she hoped. And lifted her eyes to his.

"O. K.," said Jim, grinning. "How's your feeling, honey?"

"Upon it matter?" inquired Maisie icily. After all, this was the very last straw!

"Maybe not," remarked Jim, his mouth tightening into that straight grim line it had held so doggedly during last night's battle. "Well, if that's the way you feel, so long!"

Taking his valentine he stalked away. Six feet of blue-eyed, brown-haired outraged manhood.

That night Jim took Lou Ryder to the movies. Maisie saw them and her eyes became bright and her anger grew. She suffered nightmares crowded with the faces of hearts surrounded by little flying cupids and bows and arrows of shining gold.

Going back to the valentines next morning was a hollow mockery. Especially since her small calendar reminded her it was February 14.

"After all, what's the difference?" she demanded. "It's just another day."

Sorting her stock she paused suddenly over a line of humorous cards. One of them pictured a girl with protruding front teeth lisping some sort of mushy sentiment. The girl looked amazingly like Lou Ryder.

That afternoon a voice broke suddenly through the others. "A Sweetheart Valentine, please."

Maisie jumped. Jim! She shoved some valentines as-him without looking up.

"Haven't you something a little nicer?" inquired Jim coldly. "Something sort of special, you know."

With trembling fingers Maisie pulled out the very best in the stock.

"That's better," decided Jim offering a bill.

Suddenly Maisie couldn't bear it. As she turned to wrap up the sickening thing her eyes rested unenthusiastically on the card with the picture of Lou—well, it might as well be Lou-Ryder. On a sudden wild impulse Maisie slapped Lou and her fresh teeth into the box, wrapped them up and shoved the mushy one under the counter.

"There!" she exclaimed, and handed the box to Jim.

Now she'd done it. Made him mad for ever and ever, it was all finished. Their love affair, like home they'd planned. Maisie took long, deep breaths and didn't care. She served Jim right. Going out with Lou Ryder the very next night after—

On the way home she had time to realize what she'd done. Jim was going to be wild. She wouldn't be surprised a bit if he came right over and howled things at her. Well, decided Maisie grimly, stretching her aching feet, she'd bowl right back. She'd tell him!

Oh, what was the use? Jim would just never speak to her again. The days stretched before her in one solid blank. No laughter. No joy. No Jim.

Reaching her rooming-house at last Maisie started to walk determinedly past the mail box. There wouldn't be anything in it. But out of the corner of her eye she saw a white edge protruding.

Maisie grabbed. She dashed into her room and riddled the flap of the envelope with a shaking forefinger.

"It can't be a bill," she muttered. "It can't be the first of the month."

It wasn't a bill. It was a valentine. "To Mother." It proclaimed in soft gilt letters amid flying doves and delicate sprays of flowers. Maisie's heart sank. "Mistake," she muttered, and turned it over.

On the back were scrawled these words: "I tried to buy a valentine but the one you gave me doesn't seem to fit. So I had to use this. I'll be over about seven. Thaw out, honey. I love you. Jim."

AT THE BELLE

"Top of the Town"
Is Tops in Everything

The top note in movie musicals is the new Universal screen offering, "Top of the Town," which opens a two days run at the Belle theatre today.

The picture will set your world in tune with its singing, tuning swinging rhythm. It has seven brand new song hits sung by such nationally known radio stars as the exotic Gertrude Niesen and effervescent Ella Logan, who is a great comedian as well as a talented singer.

Still more humor in "Top of the Town" is provided by ten other comedians each with his own special brand of mirth. These funsters, who support orix Nolan and George Murphy in the leading roles, include Hugh Herbert, Gregory Ratoff, Henry Armetta, Mischa Auer, Ted Mayer, the Three Sailors, Jason, Robson and Blue. There is a new dancing discovery in the film, little twelve-year-old Peggy Ryan.

The story of "Top of the Town" concerns a beautiful, balmy young heiress, portrayed by Doris Nolan. She inherits fifty million dollars, besides a few million downright daffy ideas. She takes over a new night club managed by an orchestra leader, played by George Murphy. On the opening night the performers, under the leadership of the heiress, presents a show that is a new high in madcap comedy..... nuttier than a thousand dancing squirrels whirling around with as many march hares.

It's bound gone hotcha, and you'll like it! Especially the closing song number, when everybody, the performers, the audience in the production, the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker, and half the extras in Hollywood "spread the love" by joining a singing, dancing, hilarious madcap riot of fun.

Among the rippling melody hits introduced during the action of the story are, "I Feel That Way," "Feeling Coming On," "Blame it on the Rhumba," "When Are You?" "Top of the Town," "Top of the Town" is Tops in Everything!

George Arliss, Thursday

"Man of Affairs," the comedy-drama which George Arliss filmed, and comes to the Belle Thursday, and Friday, matinee daily, was adapted from the stage success play and tells how a rolling-stone, reformed brother rescues his other brother, a pompous, hotbecaded banker, from a mess, plunging England into war with Arabia. He accomplishes this by taking a risky chance.....and ending with a sheaf of laurels. Mr. Arliss plays both roles in this picture, perhaps the only time in his career that he has had a co-star who was fully his equal. The story abounds in high-light action, romance, drama. Lovely Rene Ray and Romilly Lunge are the romantic interest in the story.

AIRPORT SQUAD DEFEATS C. P. R.

Spano, Youthful Hurler For Winners Gives Fine Performance

Trenton, June 13.— (Special) — R.C.A.F. aggregation struggled to an 8 to 6 victory over C.P.R. softballers before the best crowd of the year at Bayshore diamond last night. The contest was one of the hardest played affairs of the season and the hurling of Spano for the Airmen was a treat to watch. The youthful sensation, who recently came from Ottawa, matched twisters with veterans; Ernie Bowler and Darwin Bager, and although he only whiffed two batters to four by the opposition he was steadier in the pinches than his rivals. Steller backing of the airforce fielders was another factor, that was responsible for their pitcher's triumph.

During the fiery duel no less than four home runs were blasted out with the Port men being on the big end of the count, three four-baggers to one. In the last half of the fourth inning Cable, Flyers' capable flrig sacker walloped the sphere for a homer with a mate, Dolan on base. Several seconds later in the same session McNeely drove out a four base hit with Spano aboard. Prunks repeated the feat of his rivals by sending Lott, across the plate on a hefty clout, that had home run written all over it. Grayson, Flyers' third baseman, ended the home run barrage when he fired a long one out into deep centre to score McGall. Teams—R.C.A.F. McNeely, If; Thomas ss; McKell, 1b; Spano, p; Lafontaine, c; Palenaude, 2b; Cable lb; McKee, rf; Spann, p; Lafompte, alternate. C.P.R.—Weldrom, lf; Lott, 3b; Reid, 1b; Burst, ss; Prunis, cf; Milton, rf; Ferguson, 3b; Cooney c; Bowler, p; Dager and Kennedy, alternate. Umpires, Miller and Long.

Baby Yack, Toronto Bantam, Wins Title on Split Decision Over Frankie Martin, Montreal

Both Leave Squared Circle Bleeding And Groggy

10 ROUND ROUTE

Martin's Manager Claims Yack Did Considerable Butting

Toronto, June 15.—(CP)—Benjamin Norman Yakubowitz—Baby Yack in the ring game he's been backing the past year or so—held the Canadian Amateur Boxing Association today through a split decision and an ability to "take it" when the going got rough.

Somewhat of a sensation in Fistiana bereabouts since he graduated from the amateurs a while back, Yack won the title last night from Montreal's Frankie Martin after 10 rounds of stiff battling that left both bleeding and groggy. It was the Baby's first 10-round bout.

Two pounds heavier than the game, Toronto youngster Martin rallied after taking a beating in the early rounds and punished Yack with a two-fisted attack after the fifth round that appeared to give him the edge on points. Almost as surprised as Martin at the verdict was the crowd of 4,500 Cozy's subdued, cheer greeted the announcement that two of the three officials had picked Yack.

Started Strongly

The Baby started strongly, bringing blood with a smash to Frankie's left eye in the first round. But by the end of the ninth Yack was smeared with his own blood from cuts over both eyes as the champion went to work in earnest. The hardest blow of the night was landed in the 10th when Martin staggered the challenger with a right to the head.

Through it all Yack kept his feet, landing punishing body blows in an attack, that never let up and finally gained him the decision. The Canadian Press score card credited Martin with four rounds, gave Yack three and called three even. Under an agreement understood to have been made up before the fight, a return bout will be fought within 60 days.

Manager May Protest

Sam Gibbs, Martin's manager, said after the fight he was considering making some sort of protest on behalf of his boxer. Sammy appeared less bitter than stunned over the decision. He claimed the baby-faced Toronto boy, shorter than Martin, did considerable damage by butting and other foul workings.

Singer of his Bantam title, Martin still holds the feather-weight crown through recognition of the Canadian Boxing Federation. Frankie gained official sanction of the governing body by defeating young Lehrun at Sherbrooke, Que., last month. He claimed to be feather title popper but was beaten in Hamilton when Jackie Callura defeated Hy Cohen. Callura had been in the ring for a couple of years and had lost title recognition.

President elect Fred Douglas, Incoming Secretary MacLaren and Past President Ed Bernstein furnished the heft of the speaking talent at the weekly Rotary Club meeting Monday in the Hotel Quinte. Different aspects of the main theme were presented in a very interesting manner by the speakers, viz., the District Convention at Erie, Pennsylvania, last month, Eighth Anniversary Night to be attendance and a very fine program was enjoyed, full of inspiration and good fellowship. ## CIACOS UNABLE TO FIELD TEAM

Played Exhibition Game With Percivals After Defaulting

Inability of Ciaco Club to field a full team of qualified players resulted in the club forfeiting Intermediate League softball game being played at Victoria park Monday night, Percivals taking the game by default. In the game that was played for the benefit of the losers however, the Percivals defeated a pick-up team, selected under the banner of the Ciacos by the score of 12 to 2.

Batteries in the game for the Percivals was in rare form allowing only four hits while Sager, the opposing hurler, permitted but a dozen, an even dozen. Lupinette, the first man to face Sager, connected with a circuit blow, Sager and Lichtenfeld batted in runs after failing to connect safely from the deliveries of Smith. The Ciacos only got one man to third base, Sager getting to second on a single. ## GREEK FIRE RAN WITH BAD LEG

Old Tendon Injury Returns Twenty Yards From Wire

Greek Pire ran the last 20 yards of the sixth race at Long Branch race track yesterday with a bad leg, a re-occurrence of an old tendon injury that nearly keep him off the track indefinitely, but his lead on Penrill was long enough to give him a half-length win.

The son of Mars-Smoky Lass, opened the field early at the way and entered the muddy Long Branch stretch with a two-length lead. Despite the injury the chestnut thoroughbred made a gallant effort, good enough to win.

It was a day of close finishes and small prices. A photo was called to determine the winner of the seventh and the nod went to Pestle, who beat Cosmic Prince by a nose on the judges' decision. Bud was third with the favored Odrian trailing.

Top winning price of the day was paid in the third race when Rosie Bound returned $13.05 for $2. The O. M. Hendrix entry pounded home three quarters of a length in front of Lady W., Spanish Admiral, an outsider who paid $26.10 for place. Rapid Doon, also lightly regarded, took show position from Chuckler.

KATAN OFFERED SHOT AT TITLE

Can Meet Detton For Title if He Disposes of Dunlop And Casey

John Katan, the former Canadian heavyweight wrestling champion who meets Al Dunlop in the main bout of Wednesday night's professional "fanlin' show at the Belleville Arena, more recently signed a contract with Jack Corcoron, of the International Wrestling Association, to meet Steve "Crusher" Casey, the Irish contender for the world's championship, with the promise that the winner of the Katan-Casey bout would definitely be matched with Dean Detton, the present title-holder in a world's championship bout.

Katan has wrestled quite frequently in Belleville, the Irishman having been defeated in a local ring, although disqualified when he met George Clarke, the Scottish champion, in the latter's last visit to her Katan was in line for a shot at Detton's title, when he ran afoul of the New York State wrestling commission for continued rough tactics and was disqualified after a bout in New York City, when he refused to obey the referee's order of submission but with rather unorthodox methods of attack, however. Katan has apparently learned his lesson and is perhaps over-anxious to dispose of Dunlop in Belleville and Casey in Toronto for the opportunity of meeting that champ Dean Detton, which leaves Wednesday night's main bout of paramount importance to all concerned.

In order to give the patrons of Belleville wrestling a little more for the money the local promoters are having two main bouts Wednesday night at the Arena, the second main attraction bringing Chief Big Moon, Mexican middleweight champion wrestler. Mobly had little trouble in disposing of Bad Boy Brown, the original Kentucky hillbilly" last week, but the bewhiskered Brown, with his conventional bag of tricks, is back with us again versus Lloyd Byrd, the Georgia gent, who won his bout here last week, in the preliminary. Bad Boy Brown is perhaps one of the most colorful wrestlers ever to appear locally and has performed really fine in amusing when he is in ring difficulties.

GLOVERSVILLE IN DRIVER'S SEAT

Along With Oswego Nets Head This Can.-Am. League

(By The Canadian Press)

Alongside the rampaging Oswego Netherlands, Gloversville Glovers are in the driver's seat in the Canadian-American Baseball League today. Their fighting edge did it. Scarcely a week ago they were slipping for a berth in the second division. But their subsequent four-game win streak shot them into league leadership.

Whitey Tulacz helped Glovers' cause yesterday by driving in the bit ball to whitewash the rambling Brockville Pirates 12-0. Tulacz was robbed of a no-hit game when Hearn smacked out a two-bagger for Pirates in the sixth.

Ottawa Braves and Perth-Cornwall Blanks tied in the 11th but the ninth couldn't settle their battle before darkness fell on the game. Braves piled up five runs in the first five innings and Sisons slowly pulled up to keep him off the deadlock the game in the eighth frame. Al Thalkeld's single drove in two runs.

Jimmy Nolan was thumbed out of the park for protesting too strongly when Marinette was calling safe at home on Trakolis' attempted steal.

Postponement of Smith's Falls at Watertown game left the Rossmen an even terms with the defeated Belleville Pirates who skipped into seventh place in the standings.

In the only other game Ogdensburg took a close decision, 7-6, as Ogdensburg had to come through in the pinches to hold the Oswegos which threatened to tie up the score, but Stephen Pinyoun, on the mound for Oswego, weakened in the seventh and Colla put the game in the bag with a timely single.

Today's games: Brockville at Perth; Smith's Falls at Oswego and Ogdensburg at Gloversville.

Kenosha, Wis., June 15.—(AP)—Hold onto your hats, boys, we're going for a ride this time other than Col. Mumbly Jackson, who's driving by storm Bill Mundy little town on the Lake Michigan shore.....

o—o—o

Yes, boys and girls, Joe (Bombo) Louis is back in the ring and will title bout June 22 at Chicago with champion Jim Braddock.....But before it is all over Bombo Bomber who has Kenoshaites agog.....is Mumbly, himself, who as chief King's jester, spar-boy, trainer and official volunteer literally has the fans rolling in the aisles with his unconscious (?)-clowning primarily on his ability to pronounce words of more than one syllable.....

o—o—o

On June 22 Joe Louis will fight Braddock, but to Kenoshaites that means more than a mere world championship fight.....It means that day Mumbly will be 41 years old, and it will be the day his sacrifice goes in a burnt offering as he has gotten back to his native New York

.....Kenosha will be glad to see him go.....It has come to expect his announcements of "Kenosha—the Sugarcuma" for safe automobile driving—plus mighty fast trotting horses.....'Dat ain't no lake," he told the Chamber of Commerce, "it's a big pig in the sky."

o—o—o

"I sleep next to a boiler factory and all day do is pound, pound, pound all night," Mumbly moaned after Pilot Light won the Wisconsin Vitamins Dance".....and when Mumbly announced that Joe Louis' treatain' wedder Louis will box in "Moose Hall," Kenosha really hastens to add that Mumbly defines a "moose" as a "cow wid whiskers".....

o—o—o

Jack Kearns sold Jack Dempsey to the peak of the golden era; can't see champion Jim winning over the younger Louis.....He's too old and too long inactive and he may have to "go back to training camp" says the Doc.....But Doc Casey, who was in Schmeling's corner the night Max Schmeling, Joe, thinks Braddock can do as much with his right as did Max.....

Thrill-Packed Fourth Period Gives Local Team Victory

Belleville Lacrosse Team Wins First Start Against Cobourg

SCORE IS 17-15

Trailing in the score for three periods, the Belleville Rovers staged a thrilling fourth period rally to score six goals and defeat the Cobourg "Combines" 17 to 15 in a free scoring central Ontario Lacrosse game played in the Cobourg arena last evening. The homesters out-scored the Rovers in the initial and second periods, but the local gutted-sticked artists took command of the play in the third quarter and completely out-played the "Combines" in the last period to win a most thrilling victory.

The win elevates the Belleville Rovers into second place in the C.O.L.L., the Peterboro Auburns leading with two wins and no losses, while the Rovers won their initial start last night. The Belleville victory proved rather costly, however, as the Rovers lost the services of their sterling goalkeeper, Eddie Goodier, who was struck in the eye with the ball during the fourth quarter being rendered hors de combat and carried from the playing field. Smart, Belleville defenseman, replaced Goodier in the nets. The injury received by Goodier, when he was struck in the eye with a flying ball, was quite severe and painful, but doctorine da ta effort to stem a goal and assured Belleville of ultimate victory.

Cobourg Goalie Assists

Lalonde, Belleville centreman, and the veteran Joe Gould, Belleville Rover, shared the scoring honors, each getting two goals in the concerted effort of the Rovers. Smart tossed two while Reg Day, Silas Burdes and Dick Logie each notched one goal each. Concilla with three, Morford three and Henderson two were the chief scoring men for the "Combines." Brown, Cobourg's goalkeeper, led his team mates considerably down the field during the third period and assisted in every goal scored by the Cobourgites in that stanza.

Houson, Lacrosse, Gould, Day, Smart, Murphy and especially Ed Goodier, all excelled themselves, while every member of the Rovers gave their best during the hectic third and fourth period drives launched by the Rovers and during which victory was assured.

Thwarting the jinx of new uniforms for initial league game, the Belleville Rovers appeared in navy black and white sweaters, Cobourg Black Hawk style. No insignia appears on the front of the jersey, the black being adorned with eight inch white block figures. "The Belleville squad also sported white lacrosse duffing their initial game.

The next game scheduled for the Rovers is to be played Friday night at the Trenton arena when the fast Norwood team will supply the opposition.

The lineups:

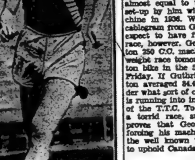
Belleville: goal Goodier; defence Smart, Murphy; rover, Gould; centre Lalonde; wings Day and Burdes; subs, Burtyl, Tompkins, Houson, Clay, Logie, Kerr and O'Hara.

Cobourg: goal Brown; defence Spooner, Hagerman; rover Concilla, centre Henderson; wings P. Morford and Lucas; subs, Ille, Taylor, Stead and H. Morford.

Referee: Ferguson, Peterboro.

Score by periods:

| | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Belleville: | 2 | 3 | 6—11 | goals |
| "Combine" | 4 | 5 | 3—13 | goals |



Penalties: 1st period: Spooner 2nd period: Concilla, Kerr; 3rd period: Burdes, H. Morford; 4th period: Houson and Henderson (majors).

Between the Lines

Ken J. Colling

What actually happened to George Pepper, that forced him to withdraw from the junior T.T.C. race on Monday was a broken spoke bearing caused by George pushing his machine to hard and long with the result the bike failed, not George. J. G. Guthrie, last year's winner, covered the finishing lap averaging 84.43 miles per hour for a new course record. Taking into consideration the race was for 250 cubic centimeter motors, Guthrie's new record is remarkable, being almost equal to the course record set up by him with a 500 cc. machine in 1936. We are awaiting a telegram from Guthrie in which we expect to have full details of the race, however, George rides a Colton 250 C.C. machine in the lightweight race tomorrow and his Norton bike in the 500 C.C. race on Friday. If Guthrie's 250 C.C. Norton averaged 84.43 m.p.h. over the course in the competition George is running into in the 500 C.C. race for the T.T.C. he should get a horrid race, such as Monday's, where Dad George was at times forcing his machine and giving it the well known 'gun' in an effort to uphold Canada to his utmost.

SOUTH AFRICAN RUNNER

Doffing his running shoes for the first time since his arrival in the U.S. from South Africa, Dennis Shore is shown in action during a practice run at Palmer Stadium in Princeton, N.J. Shore came all the way from South Africa to participate in the Princeton invitation meet on June 19. He is entered in the 440-yard event.

Last night's lacrosse victory came rather dearly to the Rovers as goalkeeper Eddie Goodier received a severe eye injury. So torrid was Cobourg attack and Goodier playing attack and defence that he received almost invincible lacrosse in that fourth period, a shot which struck him with full force in the eye. Examining the optic Goodier is under the doctor's observation, but doubtlessly saved the game.

Two members of the Fort Colborne Sailors, who eliminated the R.C.A.F. from the O.R.A. softball contest themselves brides in a dual wedding held at Colborne when the Welland canal on Saturday. Earl Larose and Alex Brownlee, forward player and goalkeeper respectively, were the bridegrooms, their brides being Miss Jean Hall, both boys coming from the Georgian Bay district. There is also a rumor about late last spring relative to Earl Larose joining the R. C. A. F. and turning out with the Flyers next winter. As a matter of fact we understand that a letter at Port Colborne game last Monday from Trenton requesting application blank from the R.C.A.F. but his more recent marriage will doubtlessly put a damper on Laroche's locating at the Airport.

With His Worship Mayor Arnott performing the honors duties the ceremonies circle of the Quinte Skating Club will be held on Thursday afternoon. The R.C.I. and V.S. school band will be in attendance and the public is invited to take part in the opening and also to remain for the evening's performance. The new courts at the Skating Club are now complete and interested tennis players are invited to participate in the play.

The Percivals took two easy points in the Senior Softball loop last night when they defaulted to field nine men and the Percivals were declared the winners. An exhibition game was played, however, and the 1936 champs showed they still possessed what it takes as they defeated a pick-up team 12 to 2. Ivan Sager starting four hit ball for the Percivals. Following the game a short meeting was held, during which the Ciacos announced they were travelling for shield to secure some new material for the remainder of the games. Wednesday night sees an important game on the Victoria park baseball loop when the Asimas Juniors clash with the Dorbeck at Coleman Flats, Jimmie Bawden and company have one decision over Stan Bowker's kid but this one is just because the "kickmakers" took the measurement. Tonight's camp last week is no reason why the junior set will be victims of the skates of Bawden. "Our Juniors are as good a club as there is in the district if you don't believe me drop around Wednesday," warned Chem.

The local softball magic are working overtime in an effort to get their new playing field at the upper end of Coleman Flats in fit and proper condition for play. Today being Tuesday this cast the softball league is holding a tag day June 26th, don't forget.

Tommy Bryden, L.A.C. of Camp Borden and former Belleville athlete, has been moved to the Trenton air base where he takes up residence on Charles St., in Belleville, Tommy's wife is a former Belleville and football star, having also won honors in the school camps in track and field events. Tommy's return to his old haunts will mean another football player in our midst, perhaps.

Local wrestling promoters are sending themselves three aces in giving the patrons two main bouts for Wednesday night's show at the Arena. Without fear of contradiction this "hillbilly" from Kentucky, who calls himself Bad Boy Brown, is the best showman we've seen around these parts in some time. The Kentuckian has a long black beard, is a Rosie of the Wild, and although he has driven him the real "hillbilly" atmosphere, it must proved assistance to his opponents, who use it for a flying start when making a rope ladder at times. The antics of this lad run close to comedy at times, but he is a clever performer while inside the squared circle, however. Just don't overlook the fact that John Katan, who is in the main bout, more recently whipped the Irish "Crusher" Casey which makes Wednesday night's bouts here permanently important.

We are in receipt of a cablegram from George Pepper, which appears in another part of today's issue.

GIANTS MAY GET DOLPH CAMILLI

Deadline For Trades in Big Leagues Closes at Midnight

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York, June 15.—The deadline for baseball trades will end at midnight tonight in the deadline for major league trades. New York's Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers and Giants today were ready for another day of baseball under artificial lights.

The mauling, but somewhat less than terrific Yanks tangled with Cleveland in the first of 13 games in the jam-packed schedule of pummeling, but winning Giants made Pittsburgh their first port of call on a 12-game swing through the east.

Only one possibility of a deal was in sight and that lacked official confirmation. Giants, in dire need of a big plate punch particularly at home since Mel Ott's injury, first base, were reported to be angling for Dolph Camilli of the Phillies. The rumor, which officials didn't deny nor affirm, was offering Johnny McCarthy, slick fielding young first baseman, and catcher Gus Mancuso and Manager Bill Atwood, another spare backstop.

Sam Leslie—replaced McCarthy today after Terry apparently was counting upon him to fill the gap and possibly provide some of the power that Ott's absence during Mel Ott's unparalleled batting streak and Hank Leiber's convalescence from the Bob Feller beaning. McCarthy, hampered by a leg injury, was hardly hitting the stuff of his hat when Bill showed Jiggin' Sam into the second game of Sunday's doubleheader with the Reds. Leslie made one of four hits off Pesches Davis in the opener and came through with another in the nightcap.

"THE BRIGHT HILL"

by Clarissa Fairchild Cushman

She glanced, sideways, at his face. "Seddon, I want you to drive me to New York."

"Very good, Mrs. Cocky," said Jay Adamson Reand forward and the voice from inside the car. From the corner of his eye in front of him with a pudgy forefinger. "Mrs. Ashburn. . . Women, thank heaven, are not cursed with external feelings. I'm going to find out what that Kingsbury did to that little thing. Here's where we get home. Here's Mrs. Ashburn now." He leaned back. "You do the talking, Cocky, but you find out what you ought to know."

"Priscilla, smouldering coolly, came up to the car. "Where's little Broth-er? Cocky, did you let him get loose?"

"On an errand," lied Cocky, "Half a sec, he said, and he'd be back."

"Nice to make it up with Mrs. Kingsbury, I'll bet." said Priscilla. "Men are such silly willies. Cocky—but I like them, Cocky, I like them."

Jay Adamson shot his head over the sea. . . "What d'you mean, make it up? Has that little whipsnapsnoper of a brother of yours had the colossal cheek to—"

"To propose to her?" said Priscilla. "Not five minutes ago. In sight of all. And she refused him." She was smiling. She was curiously proud of Kerin, curiously glad to tell this to her obvious rival—since to Mr. Adamson, the champion of Kerin, and Cocky De Roche, a childhood playmate, the child was born no discredit to Gregory.

"Refused him!" said Cocky. "Why, my daughter's been tell me—"

"So has Aline. However, I don't think it's a permanent refusal." No one, her glance implied, is going to keep on refusing Gregory. "It was just the natural recoil of a lady from the idea of too much husband. Did you, with a few dozen others, chance to see the primitive encounter of the sexes that took place last night in the fraternal hall of jolly good fellows? Touching little idea, I thought—springing wife two on wife one—removed in a public ballerina. Cozy little idea—only it didn't quite jell."

"Priscilla," said Cocky, "you get prettier every day. How do you manage it? How tell us what you know about this Kingsbury chap."

Priscilla turned her dark intelligent eyes on her old childhood friend and studied him. Then she looked at Mr. Adamson, who was fixing her with a vacant, deceptively inattentive eye. She knew Jay Adamson's eye well. "Oh," she said, "so that's it. Brother Gregory wouldn't talk so well to his own sister. Let me think. A dean and a trustee. Just a minute—I'm getting the connection—"

"Priscilla Ashburn," said Cocky De Roche, "I never turned you over my knee and spanked you. Remember that."

"Because I splashed water on your first pair of white pants. But I was mad at you, Cocky. You wouldn't notice me. You were all eyes for that yellow headed Mamie Schwister— still remember her, name and all. I was crazy about you, Cocky. I was ten and you were sixteen. Oh la la—Parncoop Brown's dead. That's the connection. Parncoop Brown. Well, Cocky, you'll be sending the great was a comely-tory bunch of roses, I'm sure of that."

"Priscilla! You're the most exasperating person—"

"Jay Adamson Reand forward and Dear pretty, Cocky. Don't forget that."

INSTALLMENT #4

"Priscilla. Will you, or will you not, tell us what you know about Carl Kingsbury?"

"And his wives? Certainly I will. I'll be glad to. I'm dying to tell it. Why, Cocky, I'm the very person you should ask. And I'll warn a little jealous of the first Mrs. Kingsbury, a little ill-natured a little distinclined to want the remains of that menage in the family—you can't really blame me, can you? Because Carl Kingsbury was badly treated—very badly treated."

She looked . specialistraty at Adamson's vacant stare, at Cocky's keen eyes. "I am afraid you gentlemen are starting out with a prejudice against Carl Kingsbury, I can see it. What's the use of my saying anything? I think I'll just hunt Gregory."

"Priscilla," said Cocky, "if this wasn't a public place—"

"Well—it is a public place, and I do want you to know the truth about Carl. Why understand why I call him Carl, don't you? In her heart every woman calls a handsome man by his first name. And Carl's much more than a merely handsome man. . . amazing, spectacular, thrilling, —one of those primitive cave men you hear that women are so crazy about. And you of course know, Cocky, unscientifically he has served the position in high places—always in high places in the public press, anyhow—for years. It was that obsession with service in large capitals that caused Carl to go to Russia with Lieberson two years ago."

"Lieberson? Why I remember about that. You remember Lieberson, Adamson."

"Certainly I do. Wanted me to refinance Nesbit."

"Russia," said Priscilla firmly; "sewering, in the cause of public service, his career, his future, his personality. You're making this up!"

"Certainly it was sacred!" exploded Jay Adamson.

"Well—it seems she thought so, agreed Priscilla. "Because she got this job at Amberley. But she didn't put her effort, because after all Carl didn't go. At the very last minute before school opened, didn't go—"

"Was it just all a put-up job, Priscilla, to get her away?"

"Cocky!" Priscilla raised her eyebrows. "How you talk! I thought you, at least, were Carl Kingsbury's friend. He certainly did not want to get rid of her. Why, he made such sacrifices when he found she was fulfilling her contract here that she had to run away from him without even her nightie or her toothbrush—"

"Five thousand—you mean that five thousand dollars a year. Not that five—why that was her stamp money!" sputtered Mr. Adamson.

"Well—the money wasn't sacred, was it?"

"Am I? It was part of his testimony in his case for divorce which he brought—and won—against her last fall for desertion. Certainly, if that isn't desertion, what is? And it is ridiculous to suppose that trifles like his cry, writing her all the year and taking up with the draft-horse Amble were honest reasons why a sensible woman wouldn't return. They were excuses, Cocky, that was all. The court saw that. You are dean of a law school, Cocky; surely you know that the law is just. And it was a fyfl nineteen days after the decree was granted before he married Amble. Come, Cocky, don't look at me like that, after all, if a man wants a draft horse, a race horse doesn't answer the same purpose."

She looked away down the street and none of them said anything. Finally it was Cocky who murmured, "Brutus was an honorable man!"

Priscilla turned on him. "Well—and he was, wasn't he? It was his stock in trade. Carl Kingsbury has been absolutely in the right, in every particular. He doesn't even have to pay alimony. His behavior has been absolutely open and above board and incomprehensible through-out, including his slipping up here today in such quiet good taste to see—his boy. Isn't that the limit, waving at me? Yes, it is. Good-by, Cocky. Good-by, Mr. Adamson. I'm glad you asked me about this instead of Greg. Naturally, Gregory's prejudiced against Carl. Hasn't it been a great day? I wouldn't have missed it for world." And Priscilla, nodding cheerfully, strolled on down the walk, leaving two gentlemen staring at her as she went.

It was Mr. Adamson who leaned back and tapped a pudgy forefinger on the seat in front of him. "Incidents of corporations and of banks had before now quelled before that gently tapping finger. "Listen, Cocky. It's your law school. It's absolutely none of my business. I'm only a trustee there you're the dean, and I know my place, and it's not to dictate to nor to influence the almighty faculty, nor to speak confidential words on the side to my friend Cocky. So if you want to give this—this Kingsbury a job and chum up with him the rest of your life—go ahead, go right ahead. Nobody's going to stop you."

Cocky De Roche grinned suddenly, and snapped the pudgy forefinger disrespectfully. "Get up front, Frog-eye," he said. "I'm going to drive so fast I'm liable to lose the back end of this bus right off and never miss it. And you're too valuable to lose."

"That's it." said Adamson, climbing in beneficiently. "I was bigger or more inconspicuous, or even just a bit more valuable, I'd go back and kick the Kingsbury pants."

At first it was a whisper, and then it was a boom: Kerin Kingsbury had refused Gregory Leighton. The little Kingsbury had refused, and there were some there who could tell you her very words. . . that marvelous looking uncle of Aline's and several million dollars thrown in for good measure. The world, yoling and old, looked at Kerin with increased respect.

TARZAN'S QUEST (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)

Muviro believed it was hopeless to attempt an invasion of the Kavuru village. "But your daughter Buira is there," Tarzan reminded him.

Mo'kadh, la thre; and another while girl who belongs to the man." He gestured toward the American.

"They may be alive," Tarzan continued; "and we must dare all for them. Much that life holds for us is behind those gates.

We can admit no obstacles. We must do, or die!"

The black warrior answered simply: "Where the Big Bwana leads, Muviro follows."

Far behind them, a maniac gibbered in the gloomy recesses of the forest. In every shadow the Kavuru saw the ghost of its wife indeed. Kavandavands was fond of maniacs, and here was a chance to please his master. Ydeni dropped upon him victim and bore him 10

FLASH!! HERE COMES HOOKLESS BAIT

"Hookless bait," a boon (?) to still fishermen, has been "discovered," by Wayne Robinson, of Ottawa, an Ontario game warden. No more will it be necessary to bait your hook every few nibbles; no more of that, for this is really an invention; an invention destined to put "live bait" sellers out of business. In fact, the manufacturer (perhaps yourself, for it has not been put on the market yet) may even coin the slogan: "A worm a year," for that's how good it is. What? You want to know the secret? Well listen closely. The new "hookless bait" consists of placing a live wiggling worm inside a small glass bottle which is filled with water and capped with a metal stopper. Under water the worm is magnified and it wiggles in a most natural and alluring manner. Hungry pike and pickerel strike at the bottle and more often than not, swallow bottle an all. Then all you have to do is remove the bottle and start fishing all over again. Some invention, what? And what is more, a patent has no been applied for. That means this is your chance.

The Ontario Fish and Game authorities are just a wee bit sceptical.

STIRLING MASONS TAKE PART IN CHURCH PARADE

Stirling—The members of Stirling Lodge A.F. & A.M. No. 69, O.R.C. marched in colourful procession on Sunday morning from their lodge hall on North Street to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church where a special service of Divine worship was conducted by Rev. J. A. Kofford and appropriate music rendered by the choir under the direction of Mrs. R. H. Williams, organist and choir-leader. During the service Mr. A. Duncan offered a tenor solo "The Heavens Declare The Glory of God."

The efforts of the decorating committee headed by Mr. Thos. Ward, were rewarded with one of the most effective decorating schemes ever created for such a service. Suspended high above the choir was a huge "square and compass" in gold emblematic of the visiting fraternity and flowers and flags about the pulpit added colour to the scheme. Expressions of appreciation on the part of many of the visitors for this work of art were to say the least most justified. Out from inch lumber and reaching a height of more than eight feet the emblem was in exact proportion to that reproduced on the printed order of service", "We Would Be Builders".

Rev. J. A. Kofford basing his thoughts on "The building of lives" delivered a most inspiring message. "A sound foundation is first to begin in the security of any structure, unsound moorings will cause the building to rock with time and crumple". He declared, therefore let us base our lives on firm foundation of Christian principles, wood has proven its strength in past centuries.

In the construction of buildings old and rotten timbers must be removed and so in life deep perhaps in the foundation of our lives there may exist "rotten timbers" only we ourselves know of them. But unless we remove them our entire structure will be insecure. Each emblem of the order assembled portrayed a symbol of construction and building "building for God and Man". If we as members of that organization fail in the duty of a member we live a life detrimental to a worthy organization with lofty ideals that will make all men strive to be a part of it in the building of a better world in which to live. This was a most encouraging message delivered in a manner that greatly impressed the large congregation assembled. The Anthem "Lift Up Your Heads O Ye Gates", was also rendered by the choir during the service. After the service the members of the lodge marched back to their lodge hall for dismissal.

Butler's Teams Lead in Baseball League

The revival of baseball in the village of Stirling has created a wide interest and the local fans of the game are increasing as the three contesting teams meet to do battle. With the talent in the town so divided into three teams it is the hope of the league officials that from their consolidated talent there will develop sufficient players to enter a team in an outside league next year. With the schedule progressing favourably at the present time honours are fairly evenly divided between Long, Hart and Richman pitcher for the three squads. The team lead and managed by Frank Butler is leading the league with three victories chalked up thus far, but the teams are well balanced in support and lively contests will be the order of the day as the season wears on.

Mr. Thain Accepts Madoc Post

Mr. Grant Thain, teacher of Science and Agriculture of the Stirling High School, has accepted the position of Principal of Madoc High School, his duties to commence with the re-opening of the Institution after the summer recess. Mr. Thain came to Stirling over a year ago and has proven himself a capable teacher and fine citizen. Popular with the students he led them through a victorious year in sports particularly rugby. Possessing a real knowledge of the game he coached last year's team through a record breaking run of victories, Stirling won all their games to take the District Championship in their own class. The efforts of Mr. Thain in directing the Cadet corps were also praised by the cadet inspector on his last visit to the school. Apart from his duties as a teacher Mr. Thain will be greatly missed for his interest in the community life of the village, he was always ready and willing to lend his support to any constructive enterprise and gave of his time and talent willingly wherever called upon. The citizens of Stirling and district and the pupils of the school wish Mr. Thain every success in his new position.

SAILORS MUTINY ON SPANISH GOV'T DESTROYER

French, British Warships Line Up Facing Ciscar; Bilbao Refugees Aboard

Sailors Thinking Officers Deserting Ship, Threaten

GUNS ARE LEVELLED

Crew Quiets Down During Day—Other Refugees Landed

La Pallice, France, June 16 (AP)—Mutinous sailors on the Spanish government destroyer Ciscar trained their guns today on a French alcop of war in La Pallice harbor. French and British warships in the vicinity were cleared immediately for action.

The British destroyer Bulldog, the French destroyer Fougueux and the French sloops Epinal and Dehoudicourt were ordered to the scene.

One hundred and sixteen refugees from battered Bilbao were on the ship.

French authorities asked the French Consul at La Rochelle to try to persuade the Ciscar's men to land them.

The mutiny broke out when Commander Enrique Margall and Lieut. Vicente Aranoad of the Ciscar tried to land.

Sailors Threaten Officers.

Their sailors apparently thinking the officers were deserting the ship, threatened them with pistols. Finally the officers succeeded in getting ashore under the watchful eyes of the French customs officers.

Port officials said on the Fougueux, which sped here from Brest, H.M.S. Bulldog and the French sloops, steaming outside the harbor, returned to watch the Ciscar. They were prepared to open fire if the Spaniard's crew to order quickly, should the mutineers fire their leveled guns.

French health grant was lifted upon the docks at the request of Margall, who said he feared the "threatening attitude" of the crew.

Crew Is Quieter.

Late in the day, however, another officer of the Ciscar went ashore and said the crew was quieting down.

Margall told French authorities he brought the destroyer into La Pallice to fix a broken screw blade and to load oil, as well as to land the refugees. He had expected to return at once to Spanish waters.

While the French and British men of war watched the Ciscar, the British steamers Thorpehall and Alice Marie landed nearly 800 other refugees from Bilbao.

Jeanette MacDonald To Marry Tonight

Hollywood, Calif., June 16 (AP)—Smiling but serious, Jeanette MacDonald prepared today to declare a single detail of arrangements for the wedding tonight that will make her the bride of Gene Raymond, fellow-Hollywood movie star.

"I'm suspicious," she said. "It's bad luck to tell those things."

She meant it. Officials at the studios, where the actress is under contract, said they didn't know, and friends professed ignorance. The eleven bridey attendants said they were sworn to secrecy.

Hollywood knows it will be a lavish affair.

Los Angeles police ordered one hundred officers to the Wilshire Methodist Episcopal Church and prepared to re-route traffic on Wilshire Boulevard.

Why the Weather?

By Major A. H. Thomson
Science Service Meteorologist

Mirages on the highway!

Mirages are common everywhere, on sea and on land, in the tropics and in the polar regions. They are due to the bending of rays of light as they pass through layers of air of different densities.

These layers of air act as a prism does on a beam of light. They bend it. So when it seems to lie in a direction along the line of a light ray and as it enters the eye. Motorists travelling along a hot paved road see a mirage of asphalt, will see, as they approach a dip, what will seem to be puddles of water. It is only the light of the sky in the distance (and overhead) bent into the eyes of the motorists.

CONVICT McEWEN FOUND IN HOUSE

Returned to Prison And Charged With Escaping Lawful Custody

Kingston, Ont., June 16 (CP)—Mervin McEwen, 25-year-old prisoner of Collins Bay penitentiary who escaped Monday in his pyjamas, was recaptured by Kingston police early today in the home of H. Muir. McEwen had broken into the house while Mr. and Mrs. Muir were absent at their summer home.

He was unarmed and made no resistance. Police took him to local police cells and later returned him to the penitentiary.

McEwen had obtained entrance to the house by breaking a window.

Evidence obtained by police indicated McEwen had been sleeping in a vacant house next door to the Muir home. The pyjamas, bath robe and a pair of slippers he had worn when he escaped from the penitentiary were found by the police in the vacant house.

Residents At Camp.

Information regarding the convict first came in a report made by Mr. Muir that his house had been broken into and entered, while the occupants were at camp.

Investigation showed nothing of value had been taken. Police kept a close watch and were tipped off today about movements in the vicinity. On investigation they found a light burning in the Muir home. As they were about to enter the light was extinguished, but the police, by use of flashlights, discovered McEwen hiding in one of the rooms. The prisoner was duly clothed, having helped himself to some of Mr. Muir's clothing.

McEwen was arraigned before Justice of the Peace W. W. Sands this morning on a charge of breaking and entering and theft and was remanded for a day. He was then handed over to the penitentiary authorities and will be charged with escaping from lawful custody.

Rips Concrete Sidewalk, Frightens Excited Folk From Beds into Streets

Windows Broken at Gautier Plant of Bethlehem Steel Co.

VIGILANTES PATROL

Crowds Mill Street For More Than an Hour

Johnstown, Pa., June 16 (AP)—A dynamite bomb hurled from a speeding sedan today ripped up a concrete sidewalk and shattered several windows, at the strike-beset Gautier plant of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

The blast, near the plant gate, broke windows in nearby homes and brought scores of terror-stricken residents from beds into the streets.

Captain James Adams of the Johnstown police said the bomb was made with two half-sticks of dynamite wired together

It was tossed from a car. State policemen stationed there had left just another post ten minutes before the explosion.

Crowds milled the streets for more than an hour and then dispersed.

The blast occurred shortly after Major Lynn O. Adams, superintendent of the State Police, returned to Johnstown from Harrisburg and announced he would remain "as long as this emergency exists."

Shirt Change Unverified.

Steel-helmeted state police, some mounted, patrolled the scene and entrances to the seven-mile plant of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, where the shifts changed at midnight without incident.

More than 700 other officers—vigilantes recruited by a citizens committee around the washing, tooling and the sloshings of dwellings—and special policemen sworned by the City Department of Public Safety patrolled downtown and residential sections near the mills.

Back to Work Plan.

Youngstown, O., June 16 (AP)—Ray L. Thomas, who said he spoke for an estimated 15,000 non-striking steel workers, conferred today with Frank Purnell, president of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company for the announced purpose of asking Purnell to open the Campbell works mills tomorrow.

Thomas said his forces were determined to go back to their jobs regardless of C.I.O. orders and to prevent their return by the use of picket "flying squads."

The mills have been idle for three weeks.

The back-to-work movement shifted the spotlight of the big steel strike from Johnstown, Pa., where dynamite violence shattered windows early today at the strike-sieged Gautier plant of the Cambria works of Bethlehem Steel.

At Warren, O., another tense point in the Mahoning Valley Steel area, Judge Lynn B. Griffith ordered the Republic Steel Corporation to bring into court any records showing how much has been paid for machine-guns, tear-gas bombs, labor "spies" and company unions.

"Big Guns" Speak.

Youngstown, June 16 (AP)—A volley of words thundered across the United States strike front today as the voices of violence became, for the moment, still.

The Big Guns of embattled Steel spoke, Tom Girdler for Republic Steel and Frank Purnell for Youngstown Sheet and Tube. Both officials in nervous Johnstown, Pa., with its citizen vigilantes, and in Monroe, Mich., where "peaceful picketing" was resumed.

George Pepper will endeavour to complete the hazardous Isle of Man course in the 500 c.c. or senior race on Friday using his three year old Norton bike, which he used in winning the Canadian motorcycle championship at Belleville and also when he established a United States record for 500 c.c. machines of 93.8 m.p.h. at Daytona Beach in 1935.

Sees Security of the Empire In Reconstructed League

Daily Herald (Labor) Says Britain Could Not Face Concerted Attack

STRONG LEAGUE NEED

London, June 16 (CP-Havas)—The British Empire cannot face the rising threat of war alone, the Daily Herald asserted today, in urging the Commonwealth seek security within a reconstituted League of Nations.

The statement was the editorial in publication of the Imperial Conference's summary of proceedings.

"A glance at the map, a glance at armament statistics, are enough to destroy any complacent illusion that Commonwealth can rely with certainty of success, defend itself single-handed against a concerted attack" said the Labor party organ.

"If that is so, it follows it must find its security in some greater and more powerful organization than the Commonwealth alone.

"Where can such an organization be found, except in a reconstituted League of Nations: a league capable of defending its supremacy?"

What may have been a sturgeon lazily sunning in the calm water of the bay was observed by Harbourmaster Joe. Weddell early in the morning, who sighted "a big fish kicking up a fuss."

NEW YACHT MAST IS 168 FEET HIGH

Comparisons were drawn today by local boating enthusiasts between the tower of the city hall and that of the Vanderbilt $500,000, 118-foot America Cup defender "Ranger" now undergoing test trials in the Atlantic in preparation for the coming international yacht race.

Some idea of the height of the new 168-foot duralumin mast can be gained from the fact that the tip of the mast is but 32 feet short... or the top of the flag pole on the city hall tower. Total height of the tower and flag pole from sidewalk level is 198 feet.

PROGRESS NOTED IN TEMPERANCE BY MISS SLACK

Honorary Secretary of World Union Speaker at Convention

PLACES WREATH

Praises Miss Frances Willard as Great Welding Force

Known as an ardent temperance worker in all parts of the world, Miss Agnes E. Slack of London, England, for the past forty years Honorary Secretary of the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union and editor of the World Tidings, was guest speaker at the Dominion convention in Bridge Street United Church last evening and her message of progress in temperance activities in many nations was heard by keenly appreciative audience of delegates and visitors. Miss Slack, who is in America in connection with the World Temperance Conference held in Washington recently was a most welcome visitor to the Convention Sessions, the executive and members being greatly honored in having such a distinguished speaker for the opening evening's program.

Introduced by Mrs. Wright, the presiding officer, Miss Slack prefaced her address with a brief appearance work by rejoicing with that great event of the Coronation of King George, Sunday, an event to which the whole world thrilled. The Monarch, she said, to rule this great Commonwealth of nations and to the throne of which also rests the hopes and freedom, Miss Slack paid her tribute as a British subject.

Leaves of Harmony

Miss Slack in an interesting manner and with a leaven of humour told of the advances in the temperance cause in the Old Country and the world. It has been her privilege as organizer in many countries in the Old World, and she recounted many instances showing the World Union's progress.

In England research by the government has proved that the chief cause of the great number of accidents on the road and in the air was given out by the most prominent doctors investigating the use of small doses of alcohol, which interferes with the co-ordination of the hand, foot and eye. Alcohol as a medicine is not much less in England. In Liverpool three quarters of the deaths are due to alcohol as a medicine is unnecessary realizing that in the hospital the real danger is in small doses. Milk bars are growing in popularity, according to Miss Slack.

Miss Slack told of that great movement in the Mohammedan Countries when she was privileged to place a wreath of evergreens around the statue of Frances Willard, the only statue of a woman in Statuary Hall, Washington, and the tribute of this ardent worker, a personal friend, as a great welding force. It is interesting to note, that the wreath mentioned contained a sprig of evergreen from the Lake Shore location of the late Letitia Yeomans, Canada's pioneer temperance worker.

Temperance Cause Extends

Growing in the years since Frances Willard the temperance cause has extended to Egypt, Palestine, Jamia, Palestine. In Turkey, Miss Slack met the Queen Mother of the Sultan, who in the one hundred and sixty years of his life, had never tasted intoxicants.

"This Slack referred to the International Temperance Prayer Week during which activities were greatly deplored. In conclusion Miss Slack paid a glowing tribute to all present to join in the great temperance movement.

At the conclusion of her address, Miss Slack presented to Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Hingston, a beautiful dish as a token of esteem for her long and faithful service in the Secretary of the World's Union.

The meeting last evening was opened by Rev. Dr. James Semple, who led in the devotional service, with Mr. Alex Gordon presiding at the organ.

B. Y. P. U.

A sectional Rally of the Peterboro Association was held Monday Evening in the Victoria Ave. Baptist Church when about eighty-five young people from Picton, Sydney, Consecon and Belleville were present.

Miss Audrey Rollins of the Belleville Union was in charge of the program and a very enjoyable evening was in progress. The Rally opened with Harold Cornell at the organ followed by a song service very capably conducted by Miss Frances Weldmark of Picton.

The Fellowship Period in charge of Sydney with Mr. Ralph Smith of the choir commenced the devotions being read by the chairman. Miss Audrey Rollins, President of the Belleville Union welcomed the visitors and expressed her appreciation of the fine number present. Campbellford B.Y.P.U. replied to the welcome.

Preceding the business part of the meeting, Miss Audrey Rollins led Roll Call of the Unions, Mr. Bert Orr introduced the speaker for the evening, Rev. R. F. Sneyd of Toronto. Rev. Sneyd's address was most interesting being based on the "Friendship of Christ." The speaker for took for his subject "Ye are Slaves of Christ doing the will of God from the Heart," bringing to light the origin of that wonderful hymn "What a Friend We Have in Jesus". His address was brought to a close following a short story.

Following a solo "The bird with a broken wing" being rendered by a member from Campbellford, the chairman called upon Mr. A. E. Smith who spoke for a short time on the 1937-38 programme of the Interprovincial Caldcot. The meeting was brought to a close by a prayer by Mr. Ralph Smith of Picton. The members then met in the Sunday School auditorium where games and luncheon were enjoyed by all.

Lily of the Nile Plant Owned in P. E.

The famous "Lily of the Nile," a plant with such a disagreeable odor that it has to be kept under glass, which has been drawing the attention of the New York Flower Show during the past week, has a counterpart in Prince Edward Co. Mr. Malcolm Kemp of Picton.

Mr. Kemp's plant, while not as large as its relative in New York nevertheless is a fine specimen. Discovered in a kitchen bulb in the form of a dark olive-green spike. This spike, which is about the size of a man's finger grows from a bulb, and peels periodically. The leaves of the plant are of a light yellow with mottled dark brown spots, the plant gives off a very offensive odor. When asked if the odor would keep away bugs, Mr. Marsden replied that "On the contrary, the big black flies clustered around it like they would around sugar."

The bulb from which the "Lily" grows resembles a new potato, Mr. Marsden said. It is smooth with very few exception of a few hairs which grow at the end from which the spike emanates.

MATCH LIGHTED BY BOY IN BARN CAUSE OF FIRE

Flees to Grain Field And Only Found After Frantic Search

BELIEVED TRAPPED

Matches in the hands of seven-year-old Gerald Holmes, are believed responsible for the origin of Mrs. Charles Waring, at Warings' Corners, two miles west of Picton, brought about an exciting chain of events shortly after ten o'clock yesterday morning, which included the total destruction by fire of the Waring barn, two out-buildings, valuable farm machinery and feed, and a frantic search on the part of Picton firefighters and neighbors for the child, who was believed forced to perish in the flames of the buildings.

While firefighters desperately combed smoking ashes and smouldering ruins for the body of the boy, Constable Holmes was hiding in a nearby grainfield terrified at what had been done. # LADIES' NIGHT OF KIWANIS HELD AT ALBERT COLLEGE

Rev. K. M. Ridgway, Missionary in Australia is Speaker

MANY STUNTS

Assembly Enjoys Theatre Party at Conclusion of Luncheon

Despite many counter attractions in the city, Ladies' Night of the Kiwanis Club held in Ackerman Hall of Albert College on Tuesday night, was one of the finest in the history of the organization. On invitation of Dr. Ben Howard, principal of the College, the Kiwanis Club and their ladies had a delightful and stately hall with many of the leading staff of the College in attendance. Many fine stunts were enjoyed and a special treat of the whole assembly enjoying the motion picture show at the Belle Theatre as guests of the manager, George Reid. Rev. K. M. Ridgway, a missionary, who is leaving soon for Egypt gave a most enlightening address on Australia, his native home.

President Ben Howard presided at the function in his usual capable manner, while Evan Scott led in the community singing with Phil McKee, a former Kiwanian, now resident at Sudbury and Mrs. Anderson collecting the several fines. Leo B. Riggs presided at the piano, while the musical entertainment was provided by the Lennox Male Quartet. The stunts both amusing and entertaining with the ladies for the most part being recipients of gifts purchased and donated by the club. A rare silverspoon was given each lady in attendance. Cliff Saragar put on a comical problem stunt and the boys and girls are wondering today how it was accomplished. Geo. Lee and Eddie Staples had three Kiwanis Queens, Mrs. Hennessey, Mrs. Ida Rae and Mrs. Flynn, all enfolded trying to pick their way through a maze of eggs laid on the floor but peanuts were used once the ladies could not see the change being made. Each received an handsome gift for her efforts.

Question Contest

A question and answer contest was run for Mrs. Cowper Coles and Cliff Saragar nice prizes, while Erskine Pinkie was prized for his explanation of a stunt quite hard to do. Several drawings resulted in many members receiving prizes. Mr. L. O. Hartly proposed the toast to the ladies, which was gracefully responded to by Mrs. Cliff Saragar. The speaker of the evening was introduced by president Eddie Logan, the same officer expressing the club's thanks of the club for the fine address. The president also thanked the Principal of the College for the invitation extended and the staff for the courteous treatment afforded the members and guests.

Australia told of the need of missionaries in the interior of the country and the superstitions of religion, that keeps almost a million souls in the blood tribes. He suggested as a means of bringing religion and the knowledge of Jesus Christ to these people, that the black man of Australia be educated in Christian ways and then sent back to his own people to break down customs that have prevailed for centuries. The speaker described Australia as one of the greatest colonies of the British Empire, a country, 2,500 miles east and west and 1,900 miles wide containing approximately three million square miles. He told of the wonders of Australia in being more like California in weather and that sheep raising was the principal industry and sheep was the same to Australia as wheat is to Canada. Everything is government owned in Australia and the railways, telephones and wireless are owned by the government and whether you believe it or not, the railways are paying a dividend. There is no inland water transportation in Australia and consequently much of the transportation of goods, is by railway."

Neglect of Black Man

"The open sore in Australia," continued the speaker, "is the neglect of the black man with the custom of initiation being the most gruesome of their many religious rites. Incisions are made on the body and the two front teeth are knocked out by a club or stone. Their religion is a bugbear, while in Canada, where the saving power of Jesus is known, religion is a simple matter. Everything the native does is a matter of superstition, one of the most common practices being that of "bone pointing". The speaker told of his life in British Columbia and the efforts being made to establish a religious custom in these far away lands. Mr. Ridgway was wished God speed in his new mission in Egypt and the meeting closed with the singing of "O Canada".

Rawdon and District

Log of the Fourth Line School S.S. No. 7 Rawdon

Settlement began in this section as least as early as 1801 as Mr. Wm. Drewry has in his possession an abstract statement showing that his farm was granted by the Crown to Cadwarin Markland in 1801. In 1846 it was sold to Joseph Merritt, in 1848 to John Goldsmith and in 1852 to Wm. Drewry the present owner's grandfather. Mr. John G. Green's grandfather Mr. Tolson Green, received his property from the Crown in 1837. Other pioneer settlers were Luther Tucker, who was a United Empire Loyalist, Philip Caverly, John S. Hagerman, Wm. and James Kyle, George Conley, the Priory family and the Wilson family. The nationality consisted of English, Irish and Scotch.

The first school that served the community was built of logs and situated on the front of Richardson's farm a short distance east of the present site, where are no available records of it, and the oldest living resident Mr. John W. Hagerman has only a slight memory of it, as he attended the brick school which replaced it about 70 years ago. Mrs. Hugh Jones of Marmora remembers the log school as having a roof very small windows and benches.

The first brick was on the present site but nearer the road. It was smaller than the present school but had the windows arranged similarly, three each on the east and west sides and two on the north while faced the road. There were two wooden blackboards across front of room and the seats were about five feet long and sometimes contained four or five pupils. Heat furnished by a box stove which would take a cordwood stick.

In the early days there were several brick kilns in this section where bricks were made by hand and it is believed the bricks for the school were made on the Drewry farm which is now owned by Mr. John Drewry. The bricks in John W. Hagerman's house were made on his own farm about sixty years ago by Isaac Bellile.

Some of the teachers in the old school as remembered by Mr. Hagerman are Mr. Fair, Miss Anderson, Mr. Seymour, Miss Clarke and Wm. Milburn.

The old school was torn down in June 1896 and during that month school was held in a vacant house belonging to Mr. Frank Richardson.

The contractor for the masonry of the new school was Mr. James Drewry of Shelburne, the carpenter was Mr. Charles Loit of Springbrook.

Rock from the old school was used on the inside of the new building but new brick was purchased for the outside. It is believed the new brick was made in the Harry Mayhew brick shop, the place now owned by Mr. Henry Cook.

A debenture of $1000 with interest at 4 percent was paid to ratepayers of $100 each and interest each year.

The teacher at the time was Miss Ella Maddock of Amelisburg at a salary of $300.

The next year in 1897 a well was dug, a fence built and the southeast corner of the yard filled with rock and covered with earth so to make it a little less sloping.

The present school room is thirty feet long and twenty feet wide with three windows each on the east and west sides. Blackboards reach across the north, south and between the windows on the east and west sides and between the two doors at the north end of the room. A lobby six feet wide reaches across the entire north end and opens into a small brick porch which faces north.

The school is built on a hill and under the south end is a basement for storing the wood. Until 1920 when a furnace was placed there, fuel was supplied by a large box stove. After the installation of the furnace coal was burned until 1932. Since then wood has been used.

In 1912 the old blackboards were replaced by slate. In 1927 thirty-five adjustable single desks with lift tops were purchased and arranged in five rows.

Made a Special Subject

In 1920 music was introduced as a special subject with Miss Ramsay as instructor but since her death in 1921 the work has been carried on by Mrs. Blanche Alexander of Madoc.

In 1931 a planetarium was added to the equipment and a suspension globe in 1936. In 1932 the Junior Red Cross obtained and equipped a medicine chest which was made by Bill Sutherland. The Junior Red Cross also prepares two portfolios, one in 1934 and one in 1936 which sent them to Japan. In 1933 a portfolio was received from Japan.

In 1936 a covered water tank with tap and a sink with outlet were installed. At the same time a school library which is kept up-to-date by the addition of new books each year.

Men from this section who served in the Great War are Rowley Donnan, Bruce Richardson and Morley Richardson the last of whom made the supreme sacrifice.

Before 1877 Hiram Conley was secretary treasurer for some years. Succeeding him were Geo. Conley from 1877 to 1913, Clayton Tucker from 1913 to 1933, John Green from 1933 to 1935, and since then Wm. Drewry. The present trustees are Clayton Tucker, Arthur Morrison and Roy Wellbourne.

Record of Teachers

About two hundred and fifty pupils have attended the present school since its erection in 1896. Many who have become outstanding are as follows: John R. Fanning, lawyer in Rochester, Dr. George Wilson, a dentist, in Chicago, Edward Doake a druggist in Toronto, Fred Drewry electrical engineer in Toronto and Bryson Donnan, K.C. in Belleville.

Coronation year 1937 has been marked by the planting of thirty-two trees including spruce for a windbreak, wind-break, pine, elm, and ash for shade trees and two Royal Canadian trees from the Royal Forest obtained from the Men of the Trees and also by the beginning of a school garden.

The writer of this log, (Mrs.) Mabel Hayton, Harold, Ontario will appreciate any additional information and wishes to thank Mr. John Hagerman, Mr. Wm. Drewry and Mr. J. M. Green for information received.

DAILY SHORT STORY
Retribution
By John Scott Douglas

Old Dr. Jim Paulson stood at the kitchen window, an oddly grim set to his white-bearded jaw. Twenty years of marriage had done nothing to oust Rachel from her unique position as nurse for Waterville, for she was not another to replace her.

"I'll hurry sooner" she cried, correctly interpreting his expression. "Overtaxing your heart, son."

Rachel flew. In less than three minutes the doctor's flivver was rattling along the country road, with its two occupants.

"Don't seem as if Millie had the right kind of luck."

Old Doctor Jim gave her a sharp, direct glance. "Never mind that, Ma. She told him she'd taken arsenic."

"George' seem much excitied".

"No; but he's not the excitable kind."

Rachel's generous mouth hardened. She doesn't seem to have terribly cut up about it. I know that if I'd been the one to have done for Millie, Hugh years he's put up with that woman!"

"Kind of like of him yourself, weren't you, Rachel?"

But Rachel, blushing. "Not more than twenty other girls. There's a little bungalow and a wife-beater, George, for all his bigness. It makes a woman feel like mothering him. Kind—generous, too."

"Like a big, good-natured bear," chuckled the doctor. "Awkward, kind-hearted—and appealing."

"What's that, Jim? Isn't it a shame someone like George should pick Millie? A little snip of a thing that's always longing and always angry disposition! Spoiled, Millie is. And George is too easy-going to handle her."

George met them at the door. His bigness wasn't merely the bigness of stature. It went deeper, down to the spirit's depths of the man. His eyes were a vivid blue, contrasting with the tanned of his face. And now that face was trembled.

Doctor Jim squeezed his hard arm. "Sorry, George."

George shook them into a bedroom. Here was the feeling of home. Clean freshness and sunlight. There was, however, one shadow in the room—the woman groaning on the bed.

"Go out, George," she moaned. He went out, a hurt look in his blue eyes. The woman had a frail prettiness which was startling. She listened to his retreating footsteps, and then raised her bruised head, her green eyes contemptuous.

"He believes I've taken poison," she said petulantly.

The doctor stood very still. "Having—taken poison—seriously."

"No!" she snorted. "I told him that if he didn't stop bullying me to the city, I'd poison myself. He didn't believe me—so I had to prove it!"

Doctor Jim quietly opened his bag and withdrew the stomach-pump.

Millie Frink stiffened, her green eyes suspicious. "What are you going to do?" she demanded sharply.

"Pump out your stomach," he said grimly. "People intent on suicide often decide they haven't taken poison — but I can't take chances!"

It was a subdued and humiliated Millie who finally said in a weak whisper. "Pulse would have been easier than that!" She turned a white face on the pillow. "George in to me."

George came lumbering in, his face expressive of his anxiety.

"George," Millie faltered, "I—I didn't take poison. I'm just a cheap—" her eyes brimmed, and a voice became shrill. "George, when these two heathens were torturing me, I thought of you. I'd rather die. And I thought, "If I ever come out of it, I'll try to be a good girl," and I will, George!"

He nodded his tawny head. The doctor took his wrist, a leg that out of the room, leaving Rachel to clean up.

"It's seen too much of life to believe much in such sharp right-about-faces," Doctor Jim said. "But, somehow I believe Millie means it."

George appeared not to hear. He stared at the floor.

"A smash-pump is enough punishment to drive horse sense into anyone's head," grunted the doctor.

Still George stared at the floor.

Doctor Jim gripped his arm. "George! You understand, George? Millie didn't take poison!"

George glanced at the doctor, and the corners of his mouth puckered with just the suggestion of a smile. "I'm glad," he said. "I knew she hadn't when I called you, Doc.

AT THE BELLE

Brother Rideaus his Twin and Prevents a National Disaster

The inimitable George Arliss comes to the Belle Theatre (for tomorrow) Thursday and Friday, this time in the role of Sir Basil Rideaus, twin brother of the famous Scotland Yard detective, Sir Gilbert Rideaus, in the picture "Dr. Syn". Sir Basil is a successful stage vehicle. "The Nelson Touch," Rene Ray and Romilly Lunge are featured in leading roles, and the supporting cast includes Frederick Lloyd, Allan Ford and John Turnbull.

Mr. George Arliss plays two roles. In one he appears as a good-natured philosophical traveller who, during a short visit to this country now the other half lives. In the other he is a highly unscrupulous, cruel, ruthless, cunning, dull and pompous. As plain Richard Dundesbee he is employed by Scotland Yard to protect Bill Howard from a pair of Eastern Sheiks who threaten his life and daughter. Thus he stage-manages a love affair between his new friend and his brother's dashing young secretary, Ray.

His carefree and amusing way of getting in and out of scrapes finally endangers Bill Howard's life brother and impersonating him at a very serious banquet at which the real Bill as a side-kick who won't let him down at any price, he performs a number of unusual feats—and after making sure that Howard is safely out of danger for Bill Vera, and a laurel wreath for his brother, he exits, hardly if once again his inscrutable East.

Little Benny's Note Book

This morning ma left her diamond ring on the washstand again and pop got mad while he was shaving his face and I was brushing my hair, pop saying, By golly if I lose that ring it doesn't get lost beyond recall it wont be your mother's fault.

And he put it in his vest pockit saying, I'll see that it's safe for at least a week at least.

And he went downtown, without saying anything to ma about the ring, and tonite after supper he was reading the paper, saying to ma, The market is lowed and unemployment is higher. Well, at least we've got a good roof over our heads and some serviceable carpet under our feet. And if beg, came to the west we could always dispose profitably of certain little luxuries whose value is so unchanging that they mite really be regarded as sound investments. Now for instants your diamond ring, he said.

Now Willyum, why do you bring that up just at this particular time, I mean why do you particullirly mention my diamond ring? ma asked, and pop said, Well, what could be more natural? A good diamond can always be converted back into money. Why, why do you ask why I ask? he rad.

Because I've waisted all my spare time since this morning trying to think up new places to look for it, you've got it, ma said, and pop said, Look for what, got what my dear? You lawk in bodlie, he said.

If you dont want to see me tawk in sherlied sofa cushions you'd better produce it and produce it quickly ma said and pop said O, maybe you mean this?

And he took ma's diamond ring out of his vest pockit, making her seem even madder instead of gladder, and pop had to take her out to a movie in self defense.

RIGHT AND WRONG

Nothing is so uncertain today as conceptions of right and wrong, said Dr. A. Edwin Keigwin, pastor of the West End Presbyterian Church, Amsterdam Avenue and 108th Street, New York City, in a children's day sermon based on the shepherd of the Twenty-third Psalm.

"Most persons," said Dr. Keigwin, "learned this psalm in childhood and have cherished it all their lives. It is popular because it is a picture of life as it really is. It shows what people are like, what God is like, what living is like, and how best to get along in this world.

"People are like sheep. Wall Street knows it; the world knows it. No matter what our position in life, we are like sheep. We follow the crowd, are prone to go astray, easily take fright, are dependent reatures and need looking after. God is like a good shepherd, who lives with and for the sheep. Our lives are like the wanderings of sheep through the uplands and lowlands to find the patches of good grazing."

The secret of a happy life is to live a day at a time, according to Dr. William Ward Ayer, in a sermon at Calvary Baptist Church, New York.

"Jesus clearly taught this lesson," said Dr. Ayer, "when He said, 'Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof', and 'be not over-anxious for the morrow'. It is a philosophy of life which never fails to bring peace to those who practice it.

"Sober reflection will show that many of our vexatious problems come from the fact that though physically we live in today, mentally and spiritually we are continuously living either in the irretrievable past or in the anticipated future.

"Man must learn to recognize each day as God's primary unit. Minutes and hours are but proportionate fractions of the day. And he, who learns to live within the confines of this basic unit, finds himself in harmony with God's program.

"The inescapable truth is that Eternity has no past nor future. Time has, but Eternity is the eternal present. Therefore all can dwell in eternity by living in today while it is today."

The danger that widespread college education may be developing "that saddest and most dangerous of elements, namely, disillusioned youth," was examined in a sermon by the Rev. Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, pastor of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church, Park Avenue and Sixtieth Street.

"Judged by the increasing attention and financial support given to it, education does seem to be America's biggest business," he said. "The expansion of educational equipment, the increasing enrollments, the outpouring stream of graduates, attest to the willingness of parents to sacrifice for the training of their children. This is one of the healthiest signs on our clouded horizon.

"But we well ask how much higher education is being wasted. This billion-dollar business of schooling is due for a searching self-examination. Many young people are being routed through college who probably should not go. Higher education has fallen into the routine of being taken as a matter of course and a matter of courses. People have come to think that there is some magic in a college degree, and when the magic fails to open the door of success there develops that saddest and most dangerous of elements, namely, disillusioned youth.

"Popular education is still geared to the acquisitive motive. Its measures of success are still on the monetary standard. So long as the conspicuous success of graduates only serve to sharpen the social tensions and increase the industrial unrest. We ought to educate our youth not to fit the world stereotypes of success but to face with the world's failure. We should develop those inner personal resources which can maintain morals in time of economic adversity.

"We in America may well be grateful for our freedom when we see the wanton cruelty and summary executions which are taking place under the Russian system. But we must remember that mere love of liberty cannot preserve the inheritance of freedom. Each generation must earn its freedom in the midst of its own pressures."

All precepts concerning kings are comprehended in these: remember thou art a man; remember thou art God's vicegerent.—Bacon.

The king will best govern his realm who reigneth over his people as a father doth his children.—Agesious.

HOUSE OF DREAMS

Interspersed with work and play
Are the thoughts we have each day
Of the future and the past;
Dreams we dream unto the last,
Vagrant spirits in the mind
Roaming ever, hard to find.

In the quiet lull of night
Shine, they forth with greater light
Yet to hold them we must see
Onward to Eternity.
Backward, yet a greater span
To Creation's first-born man.

They forever tease and spin
In and out twixt good and sin
Weaving such a Createan cave,
Strong are we if Truth we save
From the web so strongly wrought
By these voyageurs of Thought.

Ever night and day they roam
Finding in each heart a home
Be it dull or be it cheer;
It must last a goodly year
And to keep it spick and span
Is the cherished hope of man.

JAMES RAMSAY MACDONALD, WHO ROSE FROM A SCHOOL TEACHER'S DESK TO BECOME PRIME MINISTER OF GREAT BRITAIN, had a pal in his porridge days in the village of Lossiemouth, Scotland, who remained his firm friend all through life, one Alexander Grant. Both gained power and prestige. Grant started as an errand boy for an Edinburgh bakery concern. He became the head of a great bakery company and wealthy enough to give Scotland a National Library. When MacDonald became Prime Minister Grant remonstrated with him for not conserving his energy by using a motor car instead of the underground and busses. The Premier said that he could not afford a motor car, whereupon Grant presented him with one, and endowed it with 30,000 preferred shares of his company worth one pound a share. Sir Alexander Grant died recently and in his will provided that Ramsay MacDonald receive for the rest of his life income from $200,000, amounting to about $7,500. The British Parliament voted Ramsay MacDonald as a one-time Prime Minister a pension of $10,000 a year, so this canny Scot will not have to worry about the price of "parritch" while he lives. Of course Sir Alexander Grant did not know about the pension from Parliament which was voted some time after his death. But what a pal!

HAMLET PLAYED AT ELSINORE! What a setting. Recently a troupe from London's Old Vic journeyed to Denmark and at Kronburg Castle, which it is said, Shakespeare had in mind when he wrote Hamlet, enacted the play. Cadets of the Danish Military Academy acted as soldiers and courtiers. It is said that a gale the day before had left a high sea running and the muffled thunder of the waves provided a fitting accompaniment to the development of the story of the melancholy prince.

CLEVELAND IS HAVING A BIG EXPOSITION THIS SUMMER and the chief feature is a water circus, called an Aquashow, and produced by big little Billy Rose who originated the colossal spectacle "Jumbo", a tremendous hit at the Hippodrome, New York, also being engaged to put the punch in the Fort Worth, Texas Centennial Exposition at $1,000 a day for over one hundred days. Fan dancers and Little Egypts being now passe although the idea still holds good for attracting the sterner sex in droves Billy Rose is pinning his faith for the master stroke on bathing beauties, mermaids, and sich, who will perform in the merest excuse for scanties. Billy sure capitalizes on human weakness.

HOLLYWOOD HAS CAST CLARK GABLE FOR THE TITLE ROLE IN "PARNELL" the Irish Home Rule leader whose career crashed on a love note in which a married woman figured. Gable as a matinee idol and favorite of the ladies is easily understood but if he can impersonate the talented and gloomy Parnell of history in an acceptable manner he will prove his right to the title "Actor". We hae our doots.

Now "Right as Rain" After Taking Kruschen

Read this letter from an athlete, telling how he obtained relief from rheumatic pains:—

"My knees were so stiff with a kind of rheumatic trouble that I could only rise from a chair with pain and difficulty. This had been growing worse and worse for about two years. It was all the more galling because in my young days I had played for two counties at football and held my college record for the 100 and 120 yards. Naturally I tried all sorts of embrocation, but with absolutely no perceptible effect. Then I decided to try Kruschen Salts, and to cut a long story short, I am now as right as rain."—W.S.T.

The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are frequently due to deposits of uric acid in the muscles and joints. Kruschen helps to stimulate the excretory organs to healthy, regular activity, and so enables them to eliminate this excess acid

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Edmonton, June 16 (CP)—Duly prevented Rt. Rev. A. L. Fleming, Anglican Bishop of the Arctic, from witnessing the Coronation. On his return here from England yesterday he said that, although a seat had been reserved for him in Westminster Abbey, he had to leave before the ceremony to get back to his Eskimos in the far north.

Windsor, Ont., June 16 (CP)—E. C. Srigley ended 44 years of teaching when yesterday, Director of the Commercial Department in Windsor-Walkerville Vocational School, he spent 26 years in this district. He started teaching before commercial schools used typewriters.

Sun River, Mont., June 16 (AP)—The forest service is using tin ear tags in an effort to solve the mystery of the missing elk.

A year ago the herd on Sun River numbered 3,194 but now there are only 2,125. Forest workers say the kill by hunters and predatory animals does not account for the missing 1,069.

The animals, normally shy to natural wanderers, they hit on the scheme, similar to that used for salmon and migratory birds, of putting the metal tags in the ears of newborn calves.

Logansport, Ind., June 16 (AP) —Joseph Geiger displayed today a $10 bill he "handed" on his treat Inc. insect and undamaged, while fishing in the Wabash River.

Wabash, Ind., June 16 (AP)—Postal clerks were dizzy today after dispatching a letter addressed to:

"Kanaulokaokuhonuoopuaakamanaiapilaukiakuaaakeaaaaaakaakaahuhuhu Judd, Honolulu".

A Wabash family became acquainted with the addressee during a visit to Hawaii several years ago. They call him just "Mr. Judd."

Detroit, June 16 (CP)— An autopsy performed on Hattie Eve, 32-year-old elephant that reportedly ate her trainer's shoes and then collapsed and died in a two-ton heap, failed today to reveal the articles of footwear. Not even a shoe-lace was found—but there were other things.

There was enough sand in Eva's tummy to fill a good-sized barrel.

Stratford, Ont., June 16 (CP)— Facts may set a lot of the styles for women's wearing apparel but when it comes to watches, Stratford seems to deserve some consideration for fads. One girl here has painted the crystal of her watch to match the polish on her finger nails—she admits she has difficulty telling the time.

MAKES JAIL BREAK

Climbing a fifteen-foot wire fence at Collins Bay, Ont., where he was serving a five-year sentence for breaking, entering and theft, Murray McEwen (above) escaped clad only in his pajamas and slippers. McEwen was apprehended at Kitchener, Ont., following many convictions at Sarnia, Stratford and Toronto. It is believed he escaped in a waiting automobile.

With John L. Lewis, militant C. I. O. leader, and heads of the independent steel firms holding out against the union, still adamant in their refusal to compromise and call off the strike which has partially tied up steel plants at Monroe, Mich., Youngstown, Ohio, Gary, Ind., and other United States cities, sporadic violence was reported all across the strike front with threats of more serious bloodshed and rioting also remaining. These pictures from the strife-torn steel zone tell all sides of the latter conflict. At the top company police, reinforced by citizen vigilantes ready to fight to keep the steel plants in Monroe operating, are shown barricading the road to the Norton plant of Republican Steel Corp. with heavy steel cables to halt C. I. O. pickets. Clubs, rifles and "county guns" are included in their armament. Seekpardon violence was reported during a truce in the conflict are Governor Frank Murphy, of Michigan, and Mayor Charles Kraage, of Monroe Center), the latter asking that Murphy declare martial law in the trouble zone; their hope for which the mass meeting expressed, compromise was dulled by incidents like the one shown at Right (centre) where an injured striker victim of rioting wipes blood from his forehead as he staggers from the scene of pitched battle. Below is shown part of the huge army of sympathizers and pickets who attended a mass meeting at Monroe to hear Homer Martin, C.I.O. organizer blame company police and strikebreakers for the bloodshed. Their banners convey the sentiment

COUNTY COUNCIL CONSIDERS OFFER FOR LAND STRIP

Highway Department Will Give $100 an Acre For 54 Foot Strip

VIEW PROPERTY

County Council Session Formally Opened by Warden Gray

An offer of one hundred dollars per acre for a strip of land running fifty-four feet south of the highway and extending the entire width of the property owned by the County of Hastings Home on No. 2 Highway one mile east of the city, and which approximates two and one-fifth acres in all, was greeted with varying responses on the part of members of the Hastings County Council when they viewed the property in a body yesterday afternoon following the opening of the June session at Shire Hall.

The offer, made by representatives of the Department of Highways of the Provincial Government includes the moving, grats, of the large brick house located on the south side of the highway and which is included in the strip required by the government. The land is required for the proposed continuation of the double track highway near the present site of construction from Toronto eastward.

Opinion Price Too Low

While the general consensus of opinion of the councillors was to the effect, that the price offered was much too low for this particular type and quality of soil, several voiced the opinion, that the Council should have some authority in regard to the new location of the house. The commencement of the tentative offer of the Highways Department to move the house "back" 100 feet means a loss of slightly south of its present site, and in a statement, by a member of the Board of Management of the County of Hastings Home, it was emphatic negative of the part of the majority of the members present.

While no definite action was taken on the matter, it was suggested by Warden Wesley Orey, that special committee would be appointed to look into the offer during the current session. The majority of Council concurred with the Warden's opinion that the house in question should be moved across the highway to a spot in close proximity to the barns and other buildings of the County Home property, should the proposed plan of sale materialize.

A special session of the Road and Bridges Committee, which lasted until late afternoon and which was adjourned to allow the Council to officially open its June session, was continued after the official visit of members to the House of Refuge. Contracts for the reconstruction of a stretch of permanent road and the purchase of new machinery approved at the January session of the Council came up next by the whole day, and will finish some time today it is expected.

Members Welcome

Warden Wesley Gray in his official address to members of the Council warmly welcomed them to the city.

"We are starting one of the most important sessions of the year", he said, "during which will need all the time we can give it. The past year has been hard on the fruit farmer. Crops were poor, and prices low, and it has been very discouraging for a number of the farmers to get along. This year, however, appears to be a lot better. There is every good for a fine crop, and better times seem to be around the corner for everybody. I sincerely hope another year will bring prosperity to everyone."

Warden Gray then asked the Council to take a few days from the work of Refuge property, with a view to deciding on the proposed offer of the Department of Highways to purchase part of the land for highway construction purposes.

Two motion of Reeve Henry Larkin of Tyendinaga and Clem Ketchenon of Sidney, the following committees were appointed by the Warden.

Committee for Equalization — Messrs. Roscoe Robson, Clem Ketchenon, Chas. Churchey, Dr. Lumb, Henry Larkin, H. Sayers, Robt. Wood, G. Thompson, Eric Lance and Maynard Wagar and Warden Gray.

Committee for Estimates—Messrs. G. M. Campbell, J. A. Moore, G. B. Bedford, George Jordan, J. R. Benson, O. W. Bush, James Nicks, Erle Denyes, James Haggerty and Warden Gray.

Council then adjourned until ten o'clock this morning to allow the Road and Bridges Committee to conclude its work in special session.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH JURY'S VERDICT

That Nickolas Millilkovitch, 46-year-old road construction foreman, came to his death in the Belleville General Hospital on June 7th last as the result of injuries received in Tudor Township while employed as a powderman and when a dynamite charge accidentally exploded prematurely, causing fatal injuries was the coroner's verdict submitted at the adjourned inquest holding into the death of the late Nickolas Millilkovitch and held in the police court rooms before Chief Coroner Dr. J. J. Robertson last evening.

Fellow-workmen were the principal witnesses called by R. C. Donnan, K.C., County Crown Attorney, who conducted the investigation while expert testimony was given by J. C. McGie, Government surveyor in the employ of the Ontario Highway Department.

John Johnson, powderman and fellow employee of the late Mr. Millilkovitch, stated he and the deceased were employed by the Campbell Construction Company building a highway near Gilmour. Johnson was on the previous day a premature discharge and testified that Millilkovitch was working on a "cold hole," drilled last winter. "He was tamping the dynamite when it suddenly exploded," stated the witness.

"He caused it to explode?", asked Mr. Donnan. "It must have been careless," replied the witness.

Although Johnson, Thomas Ugarkovic and Thomas Forestall, all fellow employees with the deceased (Thos. Forestall excepted), they stated they did not actually see the accident happen, although they knew it having been previously established by evidence given in the court in the preliminary investigation. All three witnesses left inferences to lead the inquest to believe the tamping pole must have passed through the deceased, however. The tamping pole was found some 15 feet distant, one end being covered with blood and a hole through Millilkovitch's chest was described by Dr. Lumb in his preliminary hearing.

J. C. McGie, Government surveyor, after hearing the evidence in which it was established that a ten inch fuse has been lighted by Millilkovitch after which he commenced tamping, stated that it is risky business to tamp with such a dynamite charge unless there is at least a three foot fuse under such circumstances.

The coroner's jury empanelled by Sergeant Arthur Booth was composed of H. Bernard, J. W. Bellow, A. Hitchon, W. Vallanche, H. Thompson, T. Marshall and J. W. Davison.

WAPITI BOMBERS ADDED TO FLEET

Two Machines Shipped From England For Use at Trenton Airport

Trenton, June 16 (Special)—Two Wapiti bombers were added to No. 3, Bombing Squadron at the R.C.A.F. station east of here, when similar planes are being shipped to the government Air Base at Ottawa. These machines are two tandemously sturdy craft with a cruising speed of 115 miles an hour, top speed of approximately 150 m.p.h. and a climbing rate of 1,000 feet. They have been used extensively under the most trying conditions and form the first line of defence in British ruled India and Iraq. Their latter country is termed the perfect example of a country solely controlled from the air. The Wapiti bi-plane, tractor bomber was built in 1930 by the Westland Aircraft company of Somerset, England and is powered with a Bristol Pegasus motor, that produces a maximum of 1800 r.p.m.

Fully Recondition

When the ship is cruising the motor averages 1700 r.p.m. Machines recently put into service here were fully reconditioned in England and although similar to Moth several, where they were packed into crates for the journey sent here. A Wapiti craft is mounted with three machine guns, one a Lewis gun pointing lead throwers shoot through the propeller of the machine and direct forward by the pilot, while the other gun in the rear cockpit is for the use of the observer and is mounted in all directions by the gunner who stands on a water proof glass hood. This bombing model is the general purpose type and carries twenty-four, twenty pound bombs beneath the fuslage and wings. It has been flown under extended heats over Indian desert areas and frigid conditions across India's loftiest mountain peaks. Radio sending and receiving sets are standard equipment in each craft and a special oil cooling system is attached to the engine of each. Aloft a Wapiti bomber looks like an Atlas but its hugeness gives it away.

9-YEAR OLDS STAY OUT FOR NIGHT

Found by Police in Local Restaurant Early Today

Just for the thrill of remaining away from home all night resulted in considerable anxiety on the part of parents and police when the two nine-year-old Belleville lads, Douglas Bunnett, 113 North Front Street and James Newtry, 45 Purdy Street, failed to return home after school the other day and were not found until 5.30 a.m. yesterday.

The youngsters were found at 5.30 a.m. yesterday in the Belmont Restaurant, where the police, questioning their youthful appearance, notified the police of their whereabouts. Constables Arnott and Taylor investigated and found the lads to be ready and willing to return home.

Late Monday night the boys' parents notified the police that Douglas Bunnett, aged nine years, both years of age and students at King George School, had failed to return home for the evening meal after the school hours. Although local police scoured the city all night, no trace of the missing lads were found until Tuesday morning when notified the police of the presence of the small boys.

When questioned by the constables the lads stated they had slept all night in an automobile, parked in J. B. Boyce's used car lot at the corner of Front Street. They used the back seat of a car for a bed and had a good sleep. Just when the sun came up we were not exactly stated the lads after being found.

They were returned to their anxious parents shortly before 8.00 a.m., none the worse for their experience.

BEATTY SAYS LION IS KING OF BEAST

Clyde Beatty and Mezzalik. A full grown jungle born lion is taught to sit up like a dog

Even a successful lion tamer has his troubles these days.

Take the case of Clyde Beatty who will appear in Belleville, Friday, June 25, when the Cole Bros. Circus gives performances at 2 and 8 p.m.

You have probably seen him amble into a cage of 40 lions and tigers armed with only a light cane chair and cap pistol. Beatty says the reason he uses the chair is—in a little protection and gives the animals four legs to chew on besides his own.

His slight, 140 pound frame is lacerated by the claws of the big jungle bullies—they've done everything but kill him.

"Aren't you afraid?" .. Put this query to him and he assures you in all earnestness that he never enters the cage without being scared to death.

"You see," he says, "you never know when they'll decide to feed on you. In my racket it's impossible to get any life insurance."

This striking who dominates tigers because he has the steely glance that brings fear to them is used to be a pupilist.... "But I like the cats better"; he reminisces. "Pups — they black your eyes and bite your nose. The cats only cut you into nice, clean strips."

Beatty thinks a lion can whip a tiger nine times on Sunday, but the tiger assumes an advantage in the first few moments of fighting, his wicked claws lacerating the lion like razor blades. But the tiger can take it only so long, and when the lion flurry subsides, the tiger mops up, never leaving until his antagonist is dead.

At the moment, Beatty is vastly excited over a new oddity, a liger, which he hopes will be added to his string any day...now. The liger is a kitten now peals, in the kind whose mama is a tiger. The papa and mama are with the Cole Bros. Circus now, and they expect the kitten to be born some time soon. "There is only one other, and it is in Germany. Clyde says it resembles a big tiger with a lion's mane and tail.

CORDIAL WELCOME GIVEN DELEGATES TO W.C.T.U. MEET

Coronation Banquet Held at Bridge Street United Church

MAYOR PRESENT

Various Affiliated Societies Extend Greetings to Delegates

A cordial welcome from city organizations was extended delegates to the Canadian Woman's Christian Temperance Union at the Coronation banquet held last evening in Bridge Street Church parlors at which over one hundred visitors enjoyed the hospitality of the local Union.

In keeping with the Coronation theme of the banquet the artistically arranged decorations attracted the admiration of the delegates. Flags, red, white and blue bunting and replicas of the Crown of State graced the tables, while colorful summer flowers added to the attractiveness of the banquet setting. Members of the Salvation Army Band played at the entrance to the church parlours.

Grace was asked by Rev. Dr. E. N. Baker, following which a delicious banquet was served by attentive hostesses. The enjoyable social function, coming at the close of a busy session, gave delegates the opportunity to renew acquaintances.

Former Bellevillian

Presiding at the function last evening was Mrs. C. H. Cline, of Vancouver, formerly Miss Lillian Dunlop of this city, who was among her first visit to Belleville since moving to the West almost forty years ago. Mrs. Wright left after her marriage taught school in the city and has been closely identified and interested to learn of her presence here.

The banquet program was opened by a toast to the King proposed by Rev. Dr. Cleaver, minister of Bridge Street United Church. The National Anthem was sung by convention.

On behalf of the City of Belleville, His Worship, Mayor R. D. Arnott welcomed the delegates to the Community expressing the hope that their visit in the city would be very pleasant and profitable.

Mrs. E. Farnsworth, County President, voiced greetings from Hastings, Lennox, Addington and Prince Edward Counties' unions. It gave her great pleasure, she said to welcome such a worthwhile organization. The Woman's Christian Temperance Union was a great international sisterhood, the largest organization of women in the world. Its great founder Frances Willard had not only a vision of world emancipation for women, but was the first person, man or woman to incorporate the aim of world peace in the ideals of a society. Women banded together for the sole purpose of good wielded a power whose force was almost unsurmountable. Belleville was the home of the first Ontario organizer, Mrs. Letitia Yeomans was particularly happy to welcome the Dominion convention.

Welcome Extended

Mrs. A. Morrice of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, representing the combined Women's Missionary Societies of the city, extended to the delegates a cordial welcome with the hope that they would long cherish a memory of their visit to Belleville, the beautiful, and the prayer that their work might be crowned with success and renewed inspiration to carry on the master's work entrusted to them at this convention.

Mrs. G. H. Hobbs, guest soloist at the banquet, was heard in solo numbers with two charming songs. Mrs. Alec Gordon acting as accompanist. Vocal selections by the Salvation Army were also greatly enjoyed.

Sincere Felicitations

For the combined Woman's Auxiliaries of Belleville, Mrs. E. Hickey offered sincere felicitations to the delegates and trusted that their convention and stay might be most profitable in the accomplishment of Christ's Kingdom on earth.

Mrs. Robert Orr, of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church Y.P.U., speaking for the combined young people's societies of the city, extended to the honor that was his in being present and bringing greetings to the members.

"Your work is all-important," he said. "This we fully appreciate and we as young people are glad to have part in it. From the spirit of fellowship here at this banquet, you are assured of a most successful convention."

Adjutant Alderman of the Salvation Army in an interesting manner concluded the greetings by adding that of the local Army and spoke of the support given by that international body in the struggle to free the world of the liquor traffic.

Response to the words of welcome was given by Mrs. Grace Knight, Edmonton, Alberta, second vice president of the Dominion Union, who pointed out how encouraging it was not only to receive the greetings of such appreciations but the assurance that all groups are behind the convention.

Mrs. Knight drew attention to the unprecedented action of the New Mexico Public Utilities in printing on the reverse side of their monthly accounts, a warning against drink. The President of Mexico had turned armament funds to building and agriculture, made builders of their soldiers, closed beverage rooms for three days a week and uttered a solemn warning against the evils of drink.

Mrs. Knight expressed the appreciation of the guests to members of Bellevile's Union and their assistants last evening, for the very appetizing banquet served.

The Voice of Canada

Canada speaks in every home in which a Canadian daily newspaper is read.

Every local newspaper is in effect an open forum in which Canadians of all classes and creeds meet on common ground. There the opinions and problems of all parts of the Dominion are reported and discussed.

All phases of local and national progress, every improvement in standards of living find the most eloquent and active proponents in the daily newspapers.

Each local newspaper is a link in the chain which binds the nation with bonds of mutual respect and understanding. It reconciles the parochial and national points of view, and not only reflects the prejudices and conditions within its own territory but also projects national problems for local consumption in their true perspective.

More than two million families from coast to coast maintain a daily contact with their fellow Canadians through the columns of their local newspapers . . . a condition which has been constructive and far-reaching in its results, and is a vital element in the social, political and economic development of the country.

Hubbell Blasted from Mound As Giants Defeated, Chicago Moving Up to Top Position

Red Ruffing Scores Second Straight Shutout by Taking Indians

TIGERS COMING

Cardinals Win Ninth Out of Last Ten Starts By 13-4

By BILL BONT

Perhaps Charley Ruffing knew what he was doing when he held out for more money. May K. Ferguson, Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, knew what he was doing when he let his prize right-hander pull an Achilles and sulk in his Nokomis, Ill., retreat.

Certainly a late start and failure to take part in the Yanks' spring training manoeuvres appear to have had no harmful effect on the pitching craft of Ruths Ike Red. For today the Support Rifles are a full game ahead of their American League pursuers, and they are there on the strength of Ruffing's stirring victory and second straight shutout, 3-0 blanking of Cleveland Indians.

Giants Is Real Shape.

In that position, Ruffing is a great deal better off than the Giants. Manager Bill Terry led his troops into Philadelphia to be held at bay by National League pace-setters but when the afternoon was over Mayor La Guardia had sent Carl Hubbell to the showers for the fifth straight time, and dropped them into the New Yorkers into the second slot, half a game ahead of Chicago.

Shortly after that defeat Terry announced that he had sent Fred Schabler and a sum of cash estimated at $85,000 to Boston Bees in exchange for right-hander Wally Berger. By then, however, the day's damage already had been done—and possibly, with the Cubs working smoothly behind a well-balanced pitching staff, the season's damage as well.

Tryout Saves Game.

While Ruffing has been winning complete games on the mound, another big right-hander, Clay Bryant, has been saving games for the Cubs. Clay pulled another one out of the fire when he relieved Ted Carlesimo in the fifth, slowed the Reds down to a feeble buzz with one hit and hung up his fifth win of the year, 5-4, to put Chicago on top for the first time this year. Four of his setbacks have come in relief, volee and he hasn't lost one yet.

The Giants' defeat by the Phillies their first in seven stabes, marked another episode in the mysterious malady that has hit the Polo Grounds' the Dodgers ended his winning streak at 24 straight, but Hubbell's out of the box that time, had been once before and has been three times since. Saturday he was lifted after two innings and lost his third in a row.

Tigers Win Marathon.

While the Yanks were whipping the fourth-place Indians the Tigers won a 15-inning marathon from the Senators, 9-8, and moved into the second place ahead of the White Sox. The latter took a 5-4 decision over the Red Sox, 5-1, the same score by which the Browns whipped the Athletics.

The Cardinals blasted fourteen hits off three of the Phillies' pitchers to win their ninth in ten starts, 13-4, and Wally Moyr, lost his first game to a Brooklyn uniform as the Dodgers' ninth-inning rally fell a run shy of tying the Reds, Johnny Vander Meer gave eleven bases on balls but only three hits to earn his third triumph, though he needed ninth-inning relief pitching by Al Hollingsworth before the Reds won, 4-3.

TWO JOCKEYS SCORE DOUBLES

Parkwood Stable's Ceragan finished first in the fifth race at Dominion Long Branch plant here yesterday to take the major share of the $1,000 Humber Handicap, chief number on the sixth day's program. Ridden by H. Black, Ceragan paid $5.55 for $2.

Double win by Jockies E. McDougall and Fred Armillard and Cosgrave Stable were highlights of the day as four favorites and two second choices came home on a track described as "good". Sole surprise was Beechview in the seventh paid $17 for $2 to win as Jockey R. McDougall hooked the 4 to 1 chance Colorbearer across the line for his second consecutive win.

The Cosgrave-Armillard combination was the opener when Nandi scored ahead of Ellen C. and Ridean. Nandi from post start to cross the line a length and a half ahead of the field.

Kenosha, Wis., June 16 (AP) Don't let those beards sprouting about Joe Louis' conditioning camp fool you . . . the bomber may not be the champion either by the time two years ago, but he still can throw that right and left . . . no sure Joe is going to lose to Jimmy Braddock next Tuesday night they have already engaged training quarters at Pompton Lakes, N.J., for the September fight with Max Schmeling . . . Braddock yesterday was his best drill since he trained for Max Baer two years ago.

FIGHT NOTES: Mike Jacobs sent word up from Chicago today that there is a guarantee of $600,000 in the bank . . . Mike still insists the brawl will hit the $1,000,000 mark . . . he has until three years ago this month that the New York State Athletic Commission ruled Braddock was not a fit opponent for Hans Birkie . . . there'll be no bounding around in the Wisconsin papers that the Giants have bought Dizzy Dean for $150,000 and Hal Schumacher, delivery to be made in the fall.

NEWARK BEARS TRAMPLE LEAFS

Connect For Fifteen Bingles in Downing Canadians by 13-7

By The Associated Press

Baltimore Orioles have their ups and downs—mostly downs, but their ups are in the International League usually produce plenty of fireworks.

Usually it's the opposition doing the firing, but winning or losing the flock does its share of hitting. Last night Rochester laid down a 17-hit barrage to trample the Orioles 13-3.

Walker Alston, the Wings' first sacker, was the head man at the plate, slashing collected two home runs, a double and a single to bat in six runs, while Fuba Kichlus was holding the Birds to nine hits.

Billy Tauby, Flock outfielder, got four of the hits, a homer and three singles.

Orioles may set one record this year. Five errors in last night's contests brought their total to 107 for the season.

Sammy Bell's double with two on and two out in the ninth gave Montreal Royals a 6-4 victory over the Syracuse Chiefs before 4,500 fans.

The Newark Bears started to connect again and connected for 15 hits while trouncing the Toronto Maple Leafs, 13-7. Joe Beggs staggered through to his ninth victory of the season. He has been beaten only once.

Bill Harris, veteran Buffalo right hander, hurled the Bisons to a 5-1 victory as the Herd opened a three game series with Jersey City.

NEGRO SECTION OF CHICAGO BELIEVE IN PROWESS OF JOE

By EARL HILLIARD

Chicago, June 16 (AP)—Joe Louis slipping? Don't you believe it. . . .

That's the solemn-faced advice you get on most every corner of Chicago's great southside negro section today as the Brown Bomber makes ready for his world's title fight next Tuesday night with the heavyweight champion Jim Braddock.

Hummph! Who takes enny stock in dis stuff dat Joe ain' hussle good as evah? Ain'we almos' chasin' dem spairrin' palsiesalso a him right outta dat ring up at dat Kenosha place!

Joe the barber shop porter, Sam the shoeshine man and Duke the chauffeur—he's already got the right off alley delivery the boss—will be in the $6.60 seats at Comiskey Park next Tuesday night. There'll be from 17,000 to 20,000 Negroes, Joe and Duke watching their idol, Joe, for at the present time their ticket purchases represent between seven and ten per cent of the advance sales.

"Sure, Joe we knocked out by Schmelling," agreed Sam, whose philosophic position is only a block from Comiskey Park. "But he was jus' a boy. No disgrace to be licked by Schmeling, was there An' he can hit jus' as hard as ever. I watched him one day up in his camp and you shudda seen what he did to that big seal Harris. Me and some of the boys has $100 on Joe to win by a K.O. in six rounds—and we got practically even money."

It's the same thing down at Joe's barber shop on 35th street.

CHANGE PLAYOFFS IN S. H. LEAGUE

First Four Teams Will Enter Finals Instead of Three

Cannifton, June 16—It was decided at the last league executive meeting on May 20 th to extend the final players signing date till June 15th, so last night the S. H. League executive met here at Cannifton to give their final approval on the revised lists. All teams except the Belleville Kiwanis were represented, and although it was Mr. Woodley's suggestion that teams be allowed six extra month to unearth new play ers, the Belleville management passed up the meeting, even though they were advised by the Sec. Treas. that the meeting was time duled. The outcome was that the Belleville management accepted their revised list presented to Sec. Treas. at their Belleville meeting June 19th, or must use players named in original list when playing Belleville next game.

No alarming changes were made in the either four teams' lists, the Foxboro club possibly doing the most, and strengthening their team nearly by numerous players, having obtained employment out of town through the depression, has increased and others added. The Shannonville team remains practically intact of strictly local fellows ' with Ross and Canning adding one or two to replace players who had migrated.

Change in Playoffs

There was a bit of discussion regarding the playoffs as to the first games with the final decision being that the games would be to be replayed unless two or more teams have an equal number of points at end of schedule also all postponements must be played by July 31st. A radical change was made in the playoff procedure, formerly the first four teams had been given the privilege of playing off for league honors, but this year the first four teams will battle it out, leaving only one team out in the cold. They will play at each other end and fourth teams will play two out of three with the winners in this series engaging in a three out of five series. The reason for the change was that owing to the financial straits of some of the clubs it might happen that the last few gate affs would help take them out of the red, and another team

by Clarissa Fairchild Cushman

But Kerin could not know this. She knew only that she had been humiliated publicly, in the sight of all those new friends, in the village that she loved and had at last found security of life. And she was utterly crushed by it. It is one thing to suffer indignity in private; it is quite another to suffer it under curious eyes. Grief and shame for her in public, he had said beastly things that must surely have been overheard. Certainly Gregory Leighton had heard them. Gregory —Gregory sitting by her and chatting gallantly, saying the one thing that restored her self-confidence, would protect Carl's assurance, making her desirable, precious, a thing to protect—making her a woman a man wanted to marry. And Gregory had stood by. He had meant it, in his dear goodness. Gregory! Gregory! And she had repulsed him without even the grace of thanks. She had acted abominably. She had shouted at Carl in a public place, at a public luncheon—she, the dear of dears, everywhere people would be talking about it.

But she had so hated Carl in that moment. He had come there, he had sought her out, in the place that he was here, that she had won with no help from him, that she was entitled to. He had done it deliberately. . . . He couldn't let her alone. Whatever she did, where ever she went, there he would always be Carl. And not the Carl that she knew best, not the Carl who was clever and brilliant, affectionate to her in a negligent way; she never saw that Carl any more; that was the Carl who had gone out of her life when she had fled away, that first mistaken flight nearly two years ago.

Mistaken? Had it been mistaken? Surely this desperate bitter feeling she now had for the man with whom she had lived happily enough for ten years would never have happened had she stayed with him, content with the crumbs from his greater life. Annie Beardsley would never have happened. Those letters of Sue's would never have been written. This scene today would never have occurred. She would never have looked across the room and seen the eyes of Priscilla Ashburn, fixed curiously on her. She would never have heard Gregory having to be sorry for her, angry at Carl. Gregory.

INSTALLMENT 45

Carl had even had to take from her Gregory. It was surely beyond likelihood that Gregory Leighton would ever come back, or ever coming back would they be able to build again the friendship and companionship that had so filled her days with happiness. Otherwise he had filled her days! It had become the richest of all the fabrics in her life —a fabric she would now have to bury, as she had buried the others. But in the hurt, Gregory. There was the mark of art, now, upon the thought even of him.

Would he come to see her tonight, so she could tell him that she was grateful to him, that it was only the horror of Carl creeping into the new life where she felt so safe that had made her act so unwomanly, like a shrew?

But Gregory would not come nor write. Nor did he come the next day, nor the next. And there was no word. She wanted to write to him, to beg him to understand how grateful she was to him, how perfectly he had seen her friend on that day. But if she did that, then he would think that he must come back and renew for her pride's sake the offer of marriage that he had made.

So in Kerin's soft heart the bitterness grew. It was a thing that she hated, bursting up the pretty, happy days. She walked the little streets of the village now, from shop to shop, chatting with every one more as saying, hiding the things ever in her mind, exaggerating it until it seemed to her that every one must know all the things that Carl had ever said. Carl had hurt her in this beautiful and lovely life. He had taken it from her, and it had been hers. His face would never be pleasant now, from her thought of this little town. Any day she might see him.

So when on that third day she saw it, coming in through the door-way into her very office, she was not surprised. She rose from her desk fiercely, controlling him, feeling oddly as bitter, as hard, as she could see from his fighting face was stormy this eyes that he was feeling. And Annie Beardsley, Annie Beardsley. He would have to see her, too.

She had just strength to say to her secretary, "Alice please shut the door tight, because you won't want to have any one hear what I have to say to you."

Kerin, standing facing him, drew in a long hard breath. Something to say to her, had he?

"And I," she said clearly, "have something to say to you, too."

"I? Do you have?" Leaning forward her, Carl slammed his hand down on her desk. "You'll tell me a lot before I'm done with you."

"Carl," said Kerin, "take your hand off my desk and sit back there and sit down. Annie—sit down."

Annie sat, suddenly, her eyes fixed upon Kerin with a strange look. Her hand jerked back his head and laughed.

"Carl," said Kerin, leaning forward, "sit down. Do you hear me? This is my office. You will sit down or I will call some one to throw you out. Do you understand? Now don't touch me. There are ten people in this office that I can call. And I'll call them. I'll tell the whole world know I threw you out of my office. Understand me? I don't care any more. The damage you can do me is done. . . I'm not afraid of you." She stopped, "Have up your mind. Sit down—or I'll ring."

Carl sat. He looked at Kerin, his eyes narrow, his mouth half smiling. "Very good now. Said Kerin. I'll sit down. Now what is it you have come to say?"

"Kerin," said Carl, "you do make me laugh. Well, let me tell you that not all the lady-dean tricks you can pull can make any influence on me." The smile left his mouth and left it ugly. "I'm here to tell you that you've played me the dirtiest trick and I tell you again she didn't."

To Kerin the words came with a shock of surprise, but it was no surprise to her to see Carl flare around at Annie, venting upon her his anger he was feeling for Kerin. He was like, thought Kerin, a bull goaded by the insignificant pricks of two altogether unworthy adversaries; goaded to a fatal fury of rage.

"She didn't," said Annie, her flat calm tones surprising in the soundless fury of the room. "I tell you, Mrs. Kingsbury— Kerin— Carl's been talking just this way to me, too. All about what you were like —dishonest, and all that. But now I've seen you. You're a lady. And Carl—he doesn't know it. I would not say this to anybody but you, and I wouldn't say it now, only that I was against Carl's coming back here today, and I only came because I'm so fair play. . . You're a lady—and Carl don't know the difference."

"Annie—" said Kerin, uncertainly.

"A lady—" said Carl! "A lady! A woman is what I want!—an honest woman. . . Are you going to deny, Kerin, that you prejudiced Sadie or Adamson or both of them against me? Are you going to pretend that you didn't know I had been their surgeon to be considered for Brown's chair in law? Because I told you myself, didn't I? Fool that I was! Should have known you'd put a dirty trick like that on me—killing—then Lord knows what lies—making them stories for you because you were ill-treated, ill-treated! . . What about her being ill-treated?

But Kerin was hardly hearing him. She was seeing Annie Beardsley in a new light; this Annie, had been shouted at, and had stood up for her, Kerin. Her eyes were upon Carl, but her mind was elsewhere, was sitting there so hard and bright and unfeeling. Annie was married to him, just as she, Kerin, had been married to him. Annie married to him ten years. As she looked, it seemed as if each of those years passed over her body, one by one. She was hearing his voice and she was describing his heart to him. But when he stopped she said, without anger, without volition:

"You mean they didn't ask you, Carl?"

"And if they didn't —you're the one that knows why!" Carl's voice had risen again to a bellow, but Kerin didn't hear the bellow. She heard underneath it a note of pain and bewilderment. "It was a sure thing when I came and, I mean of my standing doesn't get asked to come and be looked over like a nobody. It was a sure thing, I tell you, and the only thing that happened in between was that Annie told me about Ira and you talked to De Hoche and Adamson, and Leighton, of course— the three of them are thick as fleas."

INSTALLMENT 46

But Kerin had ceased to hear Carl very distinctly. She was conscious that he went on blaming her for his troubles, taunting her with not having taken the trouble, for him, to "get herself up" to look like anything, as she was willing to do for Sadie or Adamson or both of them. But when he stopped she said, without anger, without volition:

"I'm sorry, Carl." . . .

"And if they didn't —you're the one that knows why!" Carl's voice had risen again to a bellow, but Kerin didn't hear the bellow. She heard underneath it a note of pain and bewilderment. "And if they didn't —you're the one that knows why!" Carl's voice had risen again to a bellow, but Kerin didn't hear the bellow. She heard underneath it a note of pain and bewilderment. "It was a sure thing when I came and, I mean of my standing doesn't get asked to come and be looked over like a nobody. It was a sure thing, I tell you, and the only thing that happened in between was that Annie told me about Ira and you talked to De Hoche and Adamson, and Leighton, of course— the three of them are thick as fleas."

INSTALLMENT 46

But Kerin had ceased to hear Carl very distinctly. She was conscious that he went on blaming her for her complete detachment must have been apparent to him, for he asked, in a strangely calm voice: "Thinking of something else, were you, Miss? say what?"

There was no question but that Kerin's dimple showed for a minute in her cheek. "I'm frightfully sorry, Carl. I was just thinking— a look as of light came into her eyes—"I think I was just realizing, for the very first time that I'm not married to you. That you can't— that it doesn't matter when you shout at me."

There was a long long silence. In it, Kerin began to feel slightly guilty, like a pert school-child. Annie—Annie was looking at her, taking it all in. But her new independence was irrepressible, "It's a kind of cheerful experience, Carl. You see? I'm realizing that I can't do anything about you any more. That it's just no good my feeling any responsibility because I can't do a thing. You see, I didn't tell them anything, Carl. You did."

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE CLOSE

Toronto, June 16.—(CP)—Aside from a modern advance in the Western Oils, the Toronto Share Market was heavy again today and the close was around the day's low. The pick-up in volume was due mainly to heavy action in the Junior Oils. Steels, Banks, Foods and Utilities all posted more than fractional gains, while the Beverages and Implements closed higher. Some of the Junior Golds sold down to new lows, notably Darkwater, Red Lake, Preston and Paymaster.

In the Junior Oils final prices showed gains of 7 to 15 cents for Calgary-Stampede, British-Dominion, Calmont, Dalhousie, Foothills, Home, Lowery, McDougall-Segur, Okalla and Vulcan. International Petroleum added the minimum fraction.

Senior Golds, including Lake Shore, Dome and McIntyre posted minor gains but the close was down 5 to 10 cents for Macassa, O'Brien, Pickle Crow, Wright Hargreaves, Bidgood-Kirkland, Central Patricia, Kerr-Addison, MacLeod-Cockshutt, Moneta, and Perron. Naybob advances about 6 cents.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Biggar and Crawford by Financial Service.

Many traders and investors are puzzled by the current action of the market. Now that it is generally admitted that there is practically no likelihood of any change in the price of gold, the expectation in many quarters was for higher stock prices, particularly after the appreciable setback of the last two months. This recovery had so far failed to materialize.

It should be remembered that the break in the security markets in the last few months has eliminated a substantial purchasing power. Then again, the situation in the United States with regards to strikes is not conducive to confidence. In addition, we are entering the summer period when business generally suffers a seasonal setback.

On the other hand, there is no reason for becoming pessimistic on the longer-term outlook. We are not entering another depression, as the Governments of such nations as Great Britain, and the United States, while depicting another boom such as witnessed in 1928-1929, are nevertheless very careful not to tamper with the economic machine so as to result in another depression. The war scare, so prevalent several months ago, has also disappeared.

There is reason for confidence. The employment situation in this country is improving steadily and if the efforts to revive the building industry are successful the amounts distributed for relief will be materially reduced. Crop conditions, while still below normal, are nevertheless more promising than in recent years. Some of our leading industries, particularly newsprint, are making rapid recovery strides.

To sum up, we might say that the reaction in the market has presented favorable buying opportunities for those investors who have confidence and foresight to take advantage of the situation. Some patience will be needed; but a diversified list of our leading securities should, over a period of time, sell higher than present quotations.

Like Gold—
Lead Enjoys a Waiting Market

. . . and what is of more than passing interest, is that there is a world-wide fear of an actual shortage of lead.

Latest figures show that available stores of lead are considerably lower than for years past, and this despite greatly increased production.

Outside of the mines in British Columbia (which produce the bulk of Canada's lead) little determined effort has ever been put behind the development of other known Eastern Canadian lead deposits. Of course, here and there has seen the odd small operation, but the fact remains that little really intelligent effort has been employed to mine this, one of the most necessary of base metals.

For a fact, it might be news to thousands of those living in the Province of Ontario to learn that some 168 (Highway) miles from Toronto proper, there is a lead deposit of such size and of such value as to raise the greatest of hopes that ere long their own Province may find itself listed among the largest producers of lead.

The particular deposit referred to, is located in Lake Township, Hastings County, some 900 acres (more or less) of which constitute the property known as the Katherine Lead Mines, Limited, actually some 4½ miles from Millbridge Station on the Canadian National Railways.

Here, along the most modern scientific lines, is being developed a lead property which, from every known angle, should prove of vast interest to both residents and the Province alike—for as industry prospers so do all concerned.

At the present time, it is expected that the Katherine Mine will be in production within 6 to 8 weeks, depending on when complete delivery of the first Mill Unit is made.

Arrangements have been completed and all preparations made for the installation of this Unit, which will be capable of treating 100 tons of mine run ore daily, while the Mill Buildings proper are of a size sufficient to accommodate a further 1½ Units—the addition of which is scheduled to follow in due course.

Unlike the production of many other metals, lead can be mined at a comparatively low cost, due not only to the need of less expensive machinery, but also to the actual mining of the ore and its subsequent treatment.

As will be remarked, Katherine Lead Mines, Limited, enjoy a very modest capitalization, and should prove of decided interest from an investment standpoint.

To complete the financing of Katherine Lead Mines, Limited, we have assumed the purchase of, and undertaken to sell, the unsold balance of the Treasury Shares, previously underwritten by the investment firm of the late Mr. F. G. (Teddy) Oke.

This unsold portion (originally 600,000 shares) we are now offering for public subscription at a price of .35 cents per share, subject to change in price.

It is our opinion that the shares of this company offer a most attractive opportunity for the investment of a portion of your current funds, and recommend it to your most careful consideration.

We invite your correspondence, likewise extend you a most cordial invitation to visit the property. Mr. C. N. Thompson, M.E., resident engineer and general superintendent, will be pleased to welcome you.

In any event, let us send you a copy of the latest Prospectus (as filed with the Ontario Securities Commission), a request for which incurs no obligation.

Steamer Madda Escapes But Concussion of Bombs Causes Vessel to Leak

Forepeak Reported Flooded And No. 1 Hold is Leaking

NO CASUALTIES

Event Happens Just After Italy, Germany Return to Patrol

London, June 17 (AP) — Lloyd's agent at Gibraltar called today that the Italian steamer Madda had been bombarded by Spanish government aircraft off Oran, Algeria, but that she was not hit.

The Madda, a 5,161-ton steamer out of Genoa, was damaged, however, from the concussion of the bomb explosions. Her forepeak was reported flooded and her No. 1 hold leaking. Pumps were holding back the water as the steamer put into Gibraltar.

There were no casualties aboard.

Bound For Clyde.

The Madda was bound for the Clyde, Scotland, from Port Sudan.

The news came just after Italy and Germany had returned to the European non-intervention patrol of Spain under a safety guarantee plan for their warships in the Mediterranean. They withdrew from the "bonds off Spain" lines, because British government planes bombed their ships.

Science Service Meteorologist
Five by Rightsell: The greatest lightning hazard, so far as heedless human carelessness is concerned, is not in the mountains about at the level of the thundercloud formation. But fires by lightning may occur anywhere. Lightning hazards include barns, oil tanks, and in fact anything in the countryside. The time of greatest lightning hazard is usually just during a dry spell in the thunderstorm season. When thunderstorms are impending the forest lookouts are informed and are more than usually observant. Lightning starts fires by igniting the dry "duff" near the roots of trees, but even the trees themselves may be fired. But it largely the condition of the duff, that is, dead wood, leaves, etc., that is responsible for the spread of forest fires.

W. C. Fields Loses Out In $12,000 Court Case

Hollywood, June 17 (AP)—W. C. Fields, the man with the big red nose, observed today he "struck out this time", but prepared an appeal from the judgment awarded Dr. James Clifton, who sued him for $12,000 on an unpaid medical bill.

"But next time I'll hit a home run," the movie comedian said.

"You got the idea—we're going to appeal."

Superior Judge O. K. Morkoll ruled in favor of Dr. Jones Clifton of Riverside, Calif., yesterday. The physician testified he treated Fields for 25 days, during June and July, 1936, and considered his fee "only fair".

Fields' lawyer, cross-complained, charging the doctor's methods retarded his convalescence. He asked $25,000 damages.

"I am a great believer in results rather than theories," Judge Morkoll said. "The defendant is alive and well."

He Figures Fish Have Lure, So Many Tourists Come Here

Deputy Minister of Game and Fisheries Compares Tourist Figures

1928-1929 RECORDS

Toronto, June 17 (CP)—Fish may not be a greater tourist attraction for Ontario than the Niagara Falls, but not by much, T. L. Taylor, Deputy Minister of Game and Fisheries, can find figures to show more tourists invaded the province in the good fishing season of 1928-29 than since the birth of the famous sisters.

"Now back in 1928 and 1929 we had fish but we didn't have any quintuplets," said Mr. Taylor. "In 1928 there were 4,280,000 United States tourists came into Ontario by automobile and in 1929 there were 10,500,000. Last year there were just a few under 9,000,000 and in 1933 only 7,122,501."

The quints were born near Callander in Northern Ontario in May, 1934, and in that area the fishing will soon be improved, the Deputy Minister said. New rearing ponds are being completed at North Bay, only twelve miles from the quints' birthplace and also on Manitoulin Island.

The Daily Star reported today how the two ministers are adventuring. They're on tiny Fairhaven Island, in Lake Muskoka, where Rev. Hunter's summer home is situated. The Star listed their strange activities:

Tim Buck, secretary of the Communist Party of Canada.

Joe Hill of Toronto, secretary of The Ontario Federation of Unemployed.

William Newman, Liberal member of the Legislature for Victoria, Haliburton.

Rabbi Maurice Eisendrath of Holy Blossom Synagogue, Toronto.

A prominent Hamilton broker.

Conservative in thought, Victoria — perhaps unconsciously — aged the advance of the machine age by merely pursuing what she considered her duties as a queen. Her passonage called wide attention in their early days to the railway, telegraph and telephone.

Few instances she abetted the railway in its battle with the stage coach when she rode by rail from Windsor to Paddington in 1842. Railways had first been built in England in 1825 and did not really win out until seven years after they reached London in 1838, but royal patronage did much to advertise their advantages and dispel fears of unsafety.

Introduction of telegraphy got wide-publicity when the queen received congratulations by that means from Napoleon III on the relief of Lucknow. So also in 1858 when the first cable was established between America and the United Kingdom. Disapproving of frivolous conversation and happiest in the country life of Balmoral, Queen Victoria yet gave her approval to introduction of penny postage stamps in 1840, and the telephone, invented by Bell in

DR. JOHN HETT'S APPEAL IS HEARD AGAINST COUNCIL

Description For 'Cure' For Cancer is Commented on

COUNSEL'S STATEMENT

Doctor Appeals Finding by Medical Council Against Him

Toronto June 17 (CP)—Investigation by the independent scientific body of Dr. John Hett's serum used in cancer treatment was suggested as "in the public interest" today by Chief Justice Newton W. Rowell of the Ontario Appeal Court hearing an appeal against Dr. Hett's disbarment by the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario.

The College Council charged the Kitchener doctor with misconduct in claiming his treatment was a cure for cancer and subsequently struck his name from the roll of physicians. Dr. Hett appealed the finding.

G. W. Mason K.C., counsel for the college, told the court he believed the medical council would accept the Chief Justice's suggestion provided Dr. Hett did not use the serum except in connection with the investigations.

Disclosing of Formula.

Chief Justice Rowell said he felt Dr. Hett would not refuse to disclose his formula to such an independent body and have it investigated. The medical profession should welcome such investigation which might exclude experimental use of the serum in the treatment of patients.

Mr. Justice Middleton replying to suggest that there be a disclosure of the nature of the ingredients in the dependent body and that there be a test of the solution with Dr. Hetts assistance," Mr. Mason.

"I would not consent to that unless Dr. Hett were dissatisfied," declared Mr. Justice W. R. Riddell.

R. H. Greer, K.C., counsel for Dr. Hett, said he did not think his client would agree to disclose the nature of his specific. Dr. Hett would be willing to treat a number of patients under the eyes of an independent committee, he said. If the committee found the solution had merit, he would reveal the nature of his specific to the medical profession.

Toronto, June 17 (CP)—Dr. John Emil Hett's conduct in publicizing his treatment for cancer as a "cure" was described today as "disgraceful" to the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario which has refused at least one of the three presiding Appeal Court judges the right of election.

The Kitchener physician is appealing a finding by the council of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario that he was guilty of substantiated claims for cancer cure. The council ordered his name struck off the college register, preventing

Miss Perkins Announces 3-Man Board Will Probe And If Necessary Act

Board to Have Power to Act as "Voluntary Arbitrator" if Requested

ROOSEVELT CONSULTED

Emergency Seen as Very Serious in United States

Washington, June 17 (CP)—Frances Perkins, United States Secretary of Labor, announced today appointment of a three-man board to mediate all current steel disputes.

She named Charles P. Taft, Lloyd K. Garrison and Adamd Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady as a federal steel mediation board, authorized to investigate, conduct hearings, make findings of fact and act as "voluntary arbitrator" if both sides in the controversy so request.

Miss Perkins said the board would set up headquarters at Cleveland immediately.

She said McGrady, returning from Europe, would arrive in the United States Saturday night.

The Secretary said she had been in communication with Taft and Garrison and they would start work at once.

She said President Roosevelt had given his approval to her executive order creating the board.

"I discussed the matter with President Roosevelt Monday and at that time he agreed if no settlement was reached before we came to it, I should be done," the Secretary said.

Emergency Arises.

The Secretary's administrative order declared "an emergency has arisen as a result of the labor dispute in the steel industry which tends to obstruct and interrupt the free flow of raw materials, and articles and the finished steel products in interstate commerce."

"It is desirable," the order said, "to provide an additional means of accomplishing a reasonable solution to this controversy."

The board was said "in my judgment the interests of industrial peace require" that the board be created.

"Perfect Pair" of Hollywood Away on Secret Honeymoon

Jeanette MacDonald And Gene Raymond Wed in Secret Ceremony

NELSON EDDY SANG

By REUBAN MORIN

Hollywood, Calif., June 17 (AP)—Hollywood's "perfect pair", Jeanette MacDonald and Gene Raymond, began their married life at some secret spot today, after a wedding that shattered every movie colony record for excitement, extravagance and glamour.

They will have a Honolulu honeymoon, sailing June 26.

More than 15,000 persons massed around the fashionable Wilshire Country Club in Hancock Park late last night, when the ceremony took place. The throbbing, cooing, wailing and struggling with 100 policemen, blotted the boulevard so badly it took a Herculean effort to bring a thin stream of cars through. The ceremony lasted approximately 20 minutes.

Inside the church, approximately 1,000 top-ranking stars and celebrated film figures were getting restless.

Crowd Out of Hand.

Outside, the crowd was all but out of hand. Stout Wally Mamlis ropes created as they strained to get into the street. A woman fainted. A child knocked down, screamed with terror.

As each limousine drew near, there would be a surge forward. The people wanted to see who was in it. "Coo-oo-oo" Mary Pickford and Buddy Rogers,

Leave to Appeal is Granted J. E. Brownlee

London, June 17—(CP Cable)—J. E. Brownlie, former Premier of Alberta, today was granted special leave to appeal to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council from a judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada of March 1 which awarded $15,000 damages to Vivian Gordon Millan, a government office employee, for alienated affections.

Damages were awarded by the jury in the original trial, but the Trial Judge set aside the verdict. The jury's award was upheld on appeal.

Frank Gahan, appearing as counsel for Brownlee, submitted that it was an important point of law regarding the construction to be placed upon Section V of the Alberta Seduction Act.

There was a subtle difference of judicial opinion, Gahan argued. The question was whether in the circumstances an innumerable female was entitled to maintain an action for damages for the loss of her husband's services, the gist of which was proof of damages of a special kind, or whether, as Brownlee contended, the section created a new cause of action.

Lord Russell of Killowen said their Lordships could not go into the merits of the case but that obviously there was a very important point of law involved. Their Lordships accordingly granted special leave to appeal.

Windsor's Solicitor On Way to Canada

London, June 17 (CP Cable)—A. G. Allen, Solicitor to the Duke of Windsor, is enroute to Canada and the United States aboard the Queen Mary on what is described as a "business trip," it became known today.

The Queen Mary sailed for New York last night. It is understood Allen will be away for at least six weeks and it is suggested the Duke's Alberta ranch may be connected with his mission.

The firm of which Allen is a member has specialized in commercial work.

INDIANS WELCOME TREATY MONEY

Annual Grant From Gov't. Enables Them to Buy Small Luxuries

Ottawa, June 17 (CP)—Officials of the Indian Affairs Branch of the Department of Mines and Resources, travelling by air, canoe and on foot, have started out for the isolated districts of Northern Canada for the annual distribution of treaty money to the Indians.

Aboriginal settlers, ceding their rights to the Dominion as frontiers pushed northward during the past sixty years, receive an annual gift of money. Collection of this money is the high event of the year among the Indians.

Treaty Indians are found in parts of Ontario, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and the Northwest Territories. There are none in Quebec, the Maritime Provinces or British Columbia. The Indians who themselves signed away their aboriginal rights to territory or direct descendants of those who became members of Indians marrying whites are not eligible.

Until the airplane came into use the distribution of treaty money was a long-drawn-out affair. Now it is a few weeks. By radio-telegraph, runner and the mysterious "bush telegraph" the Indians are made aware of the time when distribution will take place and they foregather at the various trading posts which not only provide the facilities for the agents but enable the Indians to buy the few extra little luxuries and necessities the money makes available to them.

On Wednesday of next week the Ottawa party will take off in two airplanes from Sioux Lookout. It will be under the leadership of Capt. George Patrick of the Indian Affairs Annuities Branch, who will be accompanied by Dr. H. K. Mitchell of the Royal Canadian.

This party will carry $9,500 in small bills for distribution among some 2,800 treaty Indians in the western part of Ontario. It expects to travel as far north as Port Severn on Hudson Bay. Capt. Patrick was performing this task last year.

Other parties will go from points farther west using air planes while more accessible districts will be visited by canoe, on foot or by modern means of transportation. The basket-work and bead-work of these districts will be handled by an agent working out of Moose Factory by canoe.

SELLING RUGS ALLEGED TO HAVE BEEN SMUGGLED

Complaints have been received at police headquarters of pedlars going from house to house offering rugs for sale these days, it is said the pedlars claim the rugs were smuggled and because of the non-payment of customs duty can be sold at a very material price reduction. The police will be glad to receive prompt information from anyone approached in this manner. Citizens are further requested to notify police headquarters at once, telephone 47, as these pedlars may be not in the city before the authorities have a chance to investigate unless citizens approached co-operate with the police department.

HOUSEHOLD REMEDIES FOR MOSQUITO BITES

A government pamphlet, entitled "Methods of Protection from Mosquitoes, Black Flies and Similar Pests in the Forests" states that among the remedies for relieving insect bites are included the simple household articles or plain ammonia (ten drops of iodine, borated vaseline, glycerine and alcohol. ### CANDY USED FOR BAIT PROVES A GOOD LURE

The latest one for the angler's book was told by Ernie Hall, veteran boat liveryman, a visitor to the city today.

Accompanying a fishing party including Mr. and Mrs. Gall of this city by boat, Saturday morning or afternoon, Mr. Alec Howe, Lorraine, Ont., tethered a bar of chocolate candy stringing fishworms on the hook.

"Not one," he pronounced, as others derived for their catch, and promptly cast about for a substitute.

She found it in a box of chocolates, which had been brought along the trip north. Carefully selecting a hard-centred candy, she impaled it on the hook and cast her offering into the water.

Before the gibes had faded from faces of the three, she had caught her fish, grandly, and was the proud catch of the day, and the only one landed with chocolate as bait during the remainder of the time on the lake.

It was a fair-sized bass, carefully liberated by the men there.

BRIDAL COUPLE ON WAY TO N. HASTINGS

With luggage strapped on behind, and their honeymoon travelling costumes replaced by more worn, khaki breeches and windbreakers, a young American bride couple drew chuckles from a group of men in front of a city restaurant this morning.

After inquiring as to the whereabouts of a quiet village in the north of this county, the couple moved after partaking of a hurried breakfast memorized notes made and digested, and with the young bride riding on the rear seat, roared out of the city.

How did sidewalk spectators know they were bride and groom? Beneath the rear seat, was a small card with the inscription, "Just Married" inscribed in what was apparently overlooked by the honeymooners.

MORE PAVING SEEN AS LIKELY

Roads And Bridges Board Presents Semi-Annual Report

Following is the semi-annual report of the Roads and Bridges Committee of the County of Hastings as submitted by Chairman James Moore to the Warden and Council at the morning session held in Shire Hall today. After its reading, the report was adopted by Council.

"The expenditure from Dec. 1st, 1936 to May 31st, 1937, were $23,536.00, an increase of $5,560.00 over the preceding year. Snow removal costs last winter were $11400.00, compared to $9,240.00 for the previous winter. This increase of expenditure this year, over last year is made up in making the snow fence, Division in building the new road to eliminate two railway crossings, and $2,000.00 for "Cherry" Hill as a rebate to the county from the city of Belleville on account of the closing of the above cost. The spring conditions were unusually bad and necessitated extra expense in road maintenance.

Improvements

In the months of April and May there were the largest number of men employed of any previous years. There has been good improvement carried on in Sidney on the new road over the north side of river; in Thurlow on the 2nd concession; in Tyendinaga on the north two concessions and road 49 from Hawdon on the Ridge-Road; in Huntingdon on the Madoc and Ivanhoe Roads; in Hungerford, building a new section where there were three claims purchased last winter on account of high water on the road, which is completed, and now being made in Marmora and Lake Ward. In the north part of the county, from Madoc north, with the exception of Wollaston there has been a very small expenditure, as we were advised that the Province was doing the new road from Madoc to Maynooth and as the section of the Bridge-Palmer Highway from Millbridge to L'Amable will be completed this year, we did not think it necessary to spend much money on the east road, as that traffic will use the new road when completed, and light maintenance work is all we have justified in doing this season. We have planned to improve many dangerous curves and hills, and do some new cost patching but the work will be quite limited on account of the appropriations will not be sufficient to do what we would like to do.

More Paving Predicted

"After this year, this county will be in a better financial condition as the balance of the highway cost and debt (1,044,000) will be paid and we can then do more paving work and improving of the roads.

"In 1938, the balance of the Marmora road should be paved and with the Faulkner Hill being completed there will be a good through highway to connect the county town with the north of our county.

"Last week six tanks of liquid dust-layer have been applied on the roads and two cars of calcium chloride used as a dust-layer; we expect to use one more car on the 5th concession of Sidney Township when the re-surfacing is completed with crushed gravel; this will be finished by the end of the month. The cost of the dust-layer on the road will cost about $2,000.

"Tenders were called for on the various materials including power maintainer and purchased when approved by the Highways Department.

"Your Committee was instructed to inspect and report on certain roads in the Township of Tyendinaga, Bancroft Village and the re-leading of the Marmora road to the station. A separate report will be submitted on these items.

"We would recommend that a grant be levied for road maintenance and construction on County roads and bridges for the year 1937."

Preservation of Forests And Reforestation Urged By Chamber of Commerce

Alarmed over the fact that Ontario is rapidly being denuded of its trees and forests and that natural game retreats are being stripped out and burned over, members of Chambers of Commerce throughout the Province this year have united in an effort to inaugurate tree planting and reforestation. In these areas fall bare and bleak in the wake of timber operators.

It is this matter Belleville Chamber of Commerce has led the way for united action in the central section by an official appeal to Hastings County council now in session, to seriously consider this matter, so vital to the prosperity of the county.

"Our appeal to the county is only one of many that have been made this year by other Chambers as a result of a campaign being carried on by the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade," it was explained today by Mr. J. O. Herity, local manager.

"Hastings County has three things to offer tourists who constitute one of our summer industries—fish, game and the facilities for camping in scenes of timbered and unspoiled land. Year by year this land becomes more bleak and bare. With the disappearance of woods, fish and game also are becoming increasingly scarce. The matter is one which needs immediate attention. The same attention that is being given in other countries where trees that are cut are immediately replaced by others by supervised planting."

URGES PROVINCE LICENCE DEALERS, BUYERS OF JUNK

Hastings County Council Sends Petition to Legislature

A recommendation to the Provincial Government that it license all junk-dealers and buyers in the province, will be forwarded to Toronto by the Hastings County Council, it was decided by that body in their morning session today.

This will greatly facilitate the apprehension of persons who have been conducting wholesale thefts of farm machinery throughout the county during the past few months, it was pointed out by members of the council.

Further recommendations to the government included the request to make Hastings County a restricted area for bovine tuberculosis and that fall fests be made, immediate action on this request was asked by several members in session.

Former Reeve Mourned

Prior to the first reading of the several by-laws, a motion that a letter of condolence be sent to the family of the late K. C. McCaffrey, former reeve of the council was passed unanimously.

In his appeal to Council for the annual grant to the Victorian Order of Nurses, Mr. H. S. Petterkin, Belleville, gave figures showing the activities of the Order throughout the county. The matter was referred to the Board of Health Committee.

Following announcement that the roof of Shire Hall would have to be replaced and other necessary repairs made to prevent further deterioration took place regarding the advisability of using steel or slabs of shingles. Various members contended that owing to the fact that the manufacturers of slate shingles was a county industry, and were longer lived than those of the steel make, slate should be used. Decision to leave the matter in the hands of the Finance Committee ended the discussion.

The reading and adoption of the reports of the Roads and Bridges Committee, the Finance Committee and the Board of Management of the Hastings County Home preceded the meeting of Council into the whole as Ways and Means Committee with Reeve Charles Rolling of Tyendinaga in the chair. Upon the indigent hospital accounts were discussed at this session. Council then adjourned until two o'clock this afternoon.

DR. JOHN HETT'S

hlen from practising in Ontario.

"Having regard to the dread nature of the disease, a man has no right to come forward with a claim of this kind unless it has been reasonably substantiated," declared C. W. Mason, K.C., counsel for the coroner. "I submit that in this case the claim was not reasonably substantiated."

Justice Riddell's Comment.

"I can see no intention on the part of Dr. Hett to do anything but what was right," remarked Mr. Justice R. Riddell, following the hearing the appeal are Chief Justice Newcombe, Mr. Justice Riddell and Mr. Justice Middleton.

Mr. Mason addressed the court after Mr. Orrett, K.C., outlined his main argument in support of Dr. Hett's appeal. Mr. Orrett discussed the question of what constituted "infamous and disgraceful conduct in a professional respect", citing decisions in a number of English and Canadian cases.

"The conduct must be such as honest, decent people would call it infamous," commented Mr. Justice Riddell. He noted that rules of professional conduct in England were stricter than in Canada.

In England, Mr. Justice Riddell said, advertising by a physician was regarded as "infamous" but in Ontario it was not.

Says Only Circulars Sent.

Mr. Orrer said Dr. Hett did not advertise but merely sent circulars to other medical men.

"The only thing found against your client is that he sent out circulars he treatment would cure," said Mr. Justice Riddell. "It is perfectly appalling that a man should be struck off the roll because he has not proceeded to the satisfaction of a committee that his remedy will cure."

Continuing his argument, Mr. Mason said cancer was probably the most dreaded of all diseases and the treatment of cancer, it was agreed, should begin at as early a stage of the disease as possible. There was a danger that sufferers, by grasping at anything that came to try a supposed remedy, might delay necessary treatment.

Evidence Is Reviewed.

He reviewed evidence regarding cancer sufferers who benefited from cancer sufferers who benefited from treatment by Dr. Hett and evidence he said these patients had all undergone operations or treatment with radium, X-ray or diathermy before they received Dr. Hett's treatment. His arguments were directed at trying to show these patients were, in fact, free of active cancer.

Mr. Mason discussed his contention there was no evidence Dr. Hett's medium was the cause of the improvement of any patient's condition.

Question by Justice Riddell

"Do you question the honesty of Dr. Hett in believing that there is a specific, or medicine, that was a cure?" asked Mr. Justice Riddell.

"I will say this," replied Mr. Mason. "Dr. Hett himself said it would take five years before anyone could say whether or not there was a proper treatment. Yet at the end of one year he said that was a cure."

"He said it was a specific," remarked Mr. Justice Riddell.

Mr. Mason read a circular issued in which Dr. Hett said he had found in 1922 that he had "found a serum which acts as a specific and which found a cancer wherever it is and broke down the cells."

"The committee only say this man says he has a specific and has not proved it is a specific," said Mr. Justice Riddell.

"It submits that is enough," replied Mr. Mason.

The Judge commented the committee was without evidence to prove the serum was not a specific.

VICTORIA

1896, was one of the wonders at the Crystal Palace Exhibition during her reign.

Photography Benefits

Photography has benefited from the fact the Queen was frequently photographed, and moving pictures were brought to her court in time for pictures to be taken of Victoria driving in London. Electric lights came about 1880, and the first Bell telephone was installed in 1935 —was also a product of Victoria's time.

Victoria never realized her own position gave advocates of women's rights their strongest argument. Before any definite anti-feminist she even opposed the marriage of widows, she was a thorough-going feminist in greater emancipation of women, yet in 1851 her signature was attached on the "Women's Property Act", for this first time entitling married women to the management of their own money and land.

The Queen was never absorbed in literature, but compulsory elementary education has left today in England in her time. Kipling was never forgiven for calling her "the widow of Windsor," but she has accomplimented Browning on his wife's poetry and Charles Dickens a volume of her own writings called "Leaves" inscribed "from the humblest of writers to the greatest."

Domestic Life

Domestic life flourished Victoria more than inventions, even mass travel. Bringing in it as she began her greatest success. Three of her children will celebrate her centenary.

Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll, who was in Canada during her husband's term as Governor General, recently journeyed to London from her country home to be present at a charity affair, a statue of the Queen by her daughter Princess Louise stands outside Royal Victoria College in Montreal. The Duke of Connaught, Victoria's remaining son, is recovering from illness, while Princess Beatrice, mother of the former Queen of Spain, celebrated her 80th birthday by attending a London Fashion Show.

Marks of Progress

So by the closest of ties London today is linked with Victoria's London, and when their Queen's centenary is paid, her family will note extension of the Empire almost impetus during the longest reign in British history. Radio will carry the sound of celebration to the corners of the Empire, airplanes will take letters in a few days to countries it took months to reach in Victoria's Day—all of which might or might not amaze the conservative but conscientious Queen who put by doing her duty unlimited interest in scientific and social discovery.

Springbrook, Ontario.

Dear Mrs. Foley:

We realize that the time (which we all dreaded to think of as approaching) has arrived, when you must of necessity sever your connections with us as co-workers and fellow-members of our Ladies' Aid. It seems hard to remember that today is probably the last time we will be privileged to entertain you in our Aid-meeting. Since coming into our community four years ago a total stranger as well as in various other circuits you have laboured unceasingly for the good of making your setting to advance the kingdom of God on earth. Now no doubt you feel you are entitled to a well earned and appreciative rest, which we hope you may be spared to enjoy for many years. Your sojourn here has added many friends to your list and we know that in your new home the same opportunity will be yours. As the river pursues its course it and out among the rocks and hills ever increasing in strength and making the land with which it comes in contact of increase in value so too you have gone in and out amongst us a friend, thereby setting an example and we certainly felt our lives benefited and encouraged by your presence and cheery word.

Although removed from our midst in person alone, and not too great a distance we hope we may be privileged at some later date to associate with you in your new home in the town of Newmarkets. And now as time for separation draws nigh we will just say "Au Revoir" but not good-bye and ask you to accept this gift, not for its intrinsic value but that as you look at it and use it you will ever have occasion to remember the members of Springbrook Ladies' Aid.

Signed: Mrs. W. A. Bateman, President, Mrs. Thos. McKeown, 1st Vice-President, Mrs. C. E. Bailey, Secretary, Mrs. A. P. Williams, Treasurer.

Mrs. Foley graciously thanked the Ladies' Aid for their lovely gift and all joined in singing "Auld be the Tie that Binds."

The ladies then enjoyed a very appetizing lunch and departed wishing Mrs. Foley much happiness in her new home at Bowmanville.

Mrs. John Starr recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. George Hamilton, Thurlow, Mr. and Mrs. Will Hamilton, Sidney.

HOW ACCIDENTS OCCUR

The rate of casualties on the roads, highways and streets of Ontario is higher, especially for the first quarter of this year, specially for the first quarter of this year.

It is to be noted that there were 829 accidents—one per cent fatal, sixty-two of these were fatal, while there were 767 cases of injury. Collision with pedestrians were excelled only by collisions with other automobiles, namely 944 in number in which twelve were fatal. The total of fatal accidents was 106. Accordingly nearly sixty per cent of the accidents in which lives were lost were pedestrian collisions, and only little more than eleven per cent of the fatal accidents were car collisions, and less than one per cent in collision of cars with a horse drawn vehicle, slightly less than seven per cent in collisions with trains, four per cent with street cars, nine per cent with fixed objects and four non-collision accidents and one miscellaneous. The pedestrian, the people in the other cars and the bicyclist and fixed objects account for the great death list on the roads.

The case of the pedestrian is this. Thirty five persons were hurt crossing with the signal at a street intersection, one was killed and 32 injured crossing against a signal, eight were killed and 169 injured where is no crossing signal, and one killed and thirteen hurt crossing streets diagonally. There were 18 killed and 172 hurt crossing between intersections, 18 hurt waiting for or getting on or off street cars, one hurt in a safety zone, two hurt getting on or off another vehicle.

Nine children were killed and 125 hurt playing in streets, 4 persons were killed and 12 injured at work in roadway, 11 hurt while riding or hitching on vehicles, 13 were killed walking on highway and 32 hurt, four lost lives coming from behind parked vehicles or objects and 102 injured. Nine were killed at crossing highways and 36 injured. Sixteen were injured on sidewalks.

The state of the pedestrians is given as follows—2 intoxicated were killed, 22 intoxicated were injured. Three of those killed had physical defects; 10 of this class were injured. Three were killed and 69 injured when confused by traffic; 4 killed and 49 injured when view was obstructed; fifty normal persons were killed and 584 injured.

Victims are classified—drivers killed, 23, injured 357; passengers, 22 killed, 507 injured; pedestrians, 63 killed, 827 injured; bycyclists, 6 killed, 169 injured; motorcycle drivers, 18 killed.

Another tabulation shows weather conditions. Most accidents occurred in clear weather, a total of 1565; 240 in cloudy weather, 46 in fog, 210 in rain, 284 in snow or sleet.

Accidents were at street intersections, 868, between street intersections there were 696; 98 on rural intersections, 455 on straight road, 67 on private driveways in which three persons were killed; 142 accidents on curves; 104 on hills; 3 at R. R. crossing with man on duty or gate; 6 on R.R. crossing with automatic signal; 26 at unguarded railway crossings and 21 on bridges. Nearly half the accidents were on dry roads, over one quarter on icy roads.

There were 2536 accidents when cars were going straight, 106 at right turns, 290 with left turns, 51 backing, 224 parked or standing still, 69 slowing down or stopping and 312 skidding.

Action of the drivers in 675 cases were: speed too fast for road or traffic conditions 228; 196 on wrong side of road; 121 where the drivers did not have the right of way, 11 cutting in, 10 failure to signal, 73 driving off roadway.

This total of means by which the list of dead and injured victims is maintained makes tragic reading and makes one realize how heavy perils to life and limb there are in modern civilized life.

RECORDING BIRD SONG BY RADIO

Sound recording of bird songs by short-wave radio and mapping by aerial photography are leading features of the plans of a scientific expedition being sent to the Bay of Fundy under the auspices of Bowdoin College and with the co-operation of Harvard and Cornell Universities and several other institutions.

Calls of various rare marine birds will be picked up first on a sensitive microphone equipped with a reflecting mirror for concentrating the sounds, which can thus be detected at a distance of half a mile. They will be carried over a long portable cable to a powerful short-wave transmitter. The calls will then be received and recorded on films by a sound truck on the mainland sixty miles away.

I have heard them many a day
Elfin voices soft and gay,
When in solitude I find
Rest for weary limb and mind,

Speaking low but very clear
Words of Wisdom I hold dear,
Words that tender memories move
In their old forgotten groove.

You have doubtless heard them too
When the wind came soft to you,
In the darkness, in the gloom
In the quiet of your room.

Elfin voices soft and gay
Swiftly driving fears away,
Bringing rest unto the mind
Elfin voices—soft and kind.

SOME FOLKS ARE ALWAYS AILIN', FEELIN' POORLY, AND A' THAT, bathing themselves with waves of pity when begosh they shpuld be thankful for the measure of health and wealth they have. Health and wealth are two very wonderful things but are not always pals in fact you'll find more ills, mythical and otherwise among the wealthy than among the poor. Fact is the poor haven't so much time to think of themselves bging busy keeping that bad ole wolf from the door—and by poor we mean that great multitude of people who live by the day and take little thought about the morrow save to be sure and get up in time to go to work at whatever their daily tasks may be. We have just to look around us, walk a block or two on a busy street to meet people who have much less to be thankful for than ourselves. To stop this incipient garrulity let us say that these thoughts were inspired by the plight of a young man who is living in a respirator and depends for every breath he draws upon mechanical means. Frederick B. Snite, Jr., son of a wealthy Chicago businessman, flying for pleasure in China developed infantile paralysis. He was paralysed from the neck down and would have suffocated had it not been that the hospital in Peiping contained an artificial respirator, the only one in China—a casket-like steel box 74 inches long, 65 inches high, 44 inches wide. His father determined to bring him back to Chicago, a journey by truck, train and ship of 9,000 miles. He was taken in the hospital respirator to the ship where he was transferred to another and the original respirator returned to the Pieping hospital. Supplies of electricity had to be arranged for all along the route. Incidentally the China press raised a storm because a wealthy American was monopolizing the respirator which might otherwise have saved some Chinese life. A twelve-cabin suite on the S.S. President Coolidge had been reserved for the parents and medical retinue. Cost of transferring the patient from China to Chicago is given by the father at $50,000, and his 14 months expenses at Peiping as $150,000.

Arrangements had to be made for a supply of electricity en route to supply the pump of the respirator.

x

The patient was wheeled to the elevator in the hospital, electric cord attached to respirator—disconnected —elevator dropped to ground floor where another electric cord was waiting. Then the patient was placed on a motor truck where a special gasoline motor was generating electricity—thence to a special train and baggage coach equipped with gasoline driven motor and an extra respirator in case the one in use broke down. At Shanghai after nine hundred miles train journey the patient and respirator were transferred to a tender and carried alongside the President Coolidge.

x

For three minutes the patient stared death in the face while the transfer to the ship and another respirator was accomplished. Then the voyage began.

x

It is interesting to note that correspondence is being carried on between a young woman in the United States, who also lives in a respirator, and the young man now returning in similar plight from China. She saw a report of his case in a newspaper and wrote him. He replied and letters have been going back and forth ever since. There is little hope that either will ever be free from the respirator cage or that they will be able to meet each other.

County Council Passes Motion To Withdraw Writs Issued Against North Municipalities

Action Follows Address Given by Minister of Municipal Affairs

INTEREST RATE CUT

Municipalities Given Three Years to Pay Debt

The misinterpretation of a remark by a member of the Hastings County Council aligned the bailiwicks of the northern municipalities against a solid southern front in a storm of lay fiery debate at the afternoon session held yesterday in Shire Hall which terminated shortly after five o'clock with the passing of a motion to withdraw the writs issued against four northern municipalities, Wollaston, Faraday, Monteagle and Herschel and Bangor et al, for non-payment of county rates and indigent hospitalization accounts, by the County Treasurer last year.

Additional concessions to the townships in arrears were included in a motion to the effect, that a three year period be granted to pay off the debts with payments to be made in yearly instalments of all debenture rates of interest, and to include the 1936 tax rate, and the formation of a committee consisting of Messrs. Charles Rollins, Reeve of Wollaston, Reeve Campbell of Dungannon, County Clerk Eric Denyes and County Treasurer James Haggerty to wait on the County Solicitor to prepare a bylaw regarding the withdrawal of the writs.

Standing Vote

An unanimous standing vote greeted the motion of Reeve Jeanne Moore of Elzevir, that the rate of interest charged the northern municipalities on these debts be lowered to a four per cent rate.

The rapid crossfire between the benches of the North and South resulted following a series of questions asked by members of Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs, E. H. Horton, of Toronto, who addressed a meeting of the council regarding the findings after an intensive survey of financial conditions of the northern municipalities.

Inadequate systems of bookkeeping, insufficient pressure on 'crony taxpayers, and laxity in the collection of taxes, were the main reasons for the financial conditions of these townships, Mr. Horton stated. The financial picture is not a very happy one and consequently there is a considerable liability owing to the county, Mr. Horton stated, that had been paid and four had not.

Inadequate System

"Monteagle and Herschel" the speaker said, "had suffered from an inadequate system of bookkeeping, and to advise an entire new system of records and tax collections. It is of vital importance, that books be set up for at present there is no system and consequently no method of abetting up on the records. This condition was to be found in all four townships."

"Certain things should be done," Mr. Horton advocated, "and it is of paramount importance that the council act with the townships, suggest, that council meet with the Finance Officers and the townships and get this thing straightened out."

"Faraday is in bad shape," he continued, "the future is not there, and consequently taxes and other sources of revenue producing will never be what they were."

"Wollaston has made some progress owing to certain improvements. Regarding Monteagle-Herschel, Mr. Horton stated there was a decided leaning by Herschel on Monteagle. Unfortunately there is a decided leaning toward inefficiency in bookkeeping and not sufficient pressure put upon tax collectors in all the townships."

Ranger Pays Some

"Ranger has shown its willingness to co-operate by paying a substantial amount on its debt."

Summing the situation, Mr. Horton declared the future is not in these townships, and that township budgets were being cried for by allowing taggayers to do road work in lieu of taxes. Municipal budgets take up only certain work and this included road work. But this procedure encourages people to let their taxes slide to get road work done. If a man pays his taxes in road work, it encourages his neighbor who pays in cash, to work on his taxes in a like manner. Then where is the revenue. But the figures we get in our county would show that the situation is not entirely hopeless."

Mr. Horton invited members of the council to ask questions if they desired.

"It is true what you say about the road work," said Reeve C. A. Hubbel of Faraday, "yet it it was not for that we could not exist, for me it looks like a hopeless case."

Pay With Assistance

"Would you want Faraday to pay off its debt?" Mr. Horton asked. "If the government assisted Faraday can pay off its debt in twenty years."

"Can Faraday do that?"

"With a good council and government assistance, yes."

"We are making an endeavor to pay off its debt," Deputy Reeve D. M. Anderson of Herschel and Monteagle stated, "but it cannot be done on four cent woul."

"Didn't you have large hospitalization accounts?"

"Yes, we had several long period accounts at ten dollars per day. We are burdened with a heavy population, and we feel that we are getting a square deal from the county."

Reeve R. J. Davis of Wicklow struck a more optimistic note. "We feel that we made a good start last year," he said, "and our standing now is better than it was four years ago. If we can get 2-1 on our bylaw, get our subsidies in time and curtail expenditures, we will be able to square our debts by December."

Amalgamating Offices

Turning to Reeve C. Rollins of Wollaston, the Deputy Minister asked "You have our figures, do you believe, one man who is on full time arranging municipal affairs. Is that true?"

Reeve Rollins: "We have paid $1,500 on our $2,000 debt. Our new tax collector just sent me a check for $600.00. As for Deputy Minister, I can see we expect to have more money, and we haven't any doubt, that we can assume our debt. The citizens and taxpayers are behind me 100 per cent, and we are for some reasonable time we can pay."

"You are talking of not the consolidate your offices according to my suggestion?"

"Yes, we are amalgamating all municipal jobs in one position and if we can get the co-operation we shall start a new sheet and a new budget."

Reeve W. H. Sayers, Tweed—"You mentioned there was no future to these townships. What did you mean by that?"

Mr. Horton: That the bigest majority of the timber had been cut, and the future is not growing in there," replied Mr. Horton.

Little Revenue In Sight

Reeve Sayers: "It seems to me its pretty hard for Tweed to get ahead. They have to maintain their roads with no revenue coming from the Crown."

Reeve Rollins: "Out of 47,000 acres we have a very low percentage of woodland. As you say, we have no future at all. Our only hope is in the mines. Tourists are coming in very slowly."

Reeve Hubbell, Faraday: "We have a very small percentage of Crown land and there is practically no timber left in Faraday today, one can't see a hundred feet can you find. I feel sorry for the settlers, they are only existing and we have about fifteen farmers who be able to pay taxes."

Mr. Horton: "These men have concentrated on pulpwood to the detriment of farming. Could they not make themselves self sustaining by clearing land?"

Reeve Hubbell: "Yes I suppose they could."

Herschel and Monteagle was mostly deeded land with only the Crownwood corner timbered, stated Reeve Anderson. Wicklow had lots of Crown land but of no value to the municipality. "We are getting nothing from Picton hospital and is considering an increase in our mother, Mrs. Allie Jackson.

The Misses Allison and Jean Mallory have been visiting among relatives at The Ridge, near Joe Hill and in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hook were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Mullins on Sunday.

Reeves Line Up

At this point Reeve George Jordan, Hungerford interjected a question, which brought the representatives of the northern municipalities to their feet in a stingy defence of their township and district.

"Did you think," asked Reeve Jordan, "it would be wise to turn the northern part of the county into a district under government supervision. And what would be the result?"

"It would be a blot on the fair name of Hastings County" replied Mr. Horton, "and the situation would become progressively worse. If you drive me at No 7 Highway—will I don't know what would happen."

Reeve Jordan: "Well the government gets the revenue, and they would be better able to look after than the county."

Deputy Minister leaped to his feet at this point." I think it is the best thing in the world," he said, "the south is no good to us and we are no good to them. They want to get rid of us and we, are better off without them."

No Burden to South

Reeve Bronson of Mayo, rose to the support of his fellow northerner. "The attitude of the north," he said, "has never been a burden to the south. We own the moon for the thousands of tourists, who come through that county. Their money there, and the revenue from the thousand acres in the north has gone to build the highways in the south. We in the north, have no apologies to make to the south at all. We have been an asset to them."

We have paid for County Roads and bridges since incorporation, but we have not one foot of county road or cement bridge built by the county. We feel that we can look the south in the eye."

Mr. Horton interposed at this point, "Gentlemen," he said, with a smile "we are here to discuss the payments of municipal debts not the difference between the north and the south."

Reeve Rollins turned to another question, "Suppose we cannot pay our debts?" he asked the Deputy Minister, "can we appeal to your Department for help?"

Mr. Horton—"What assurance have we got that the people of Wollaston won't lead the Council another song and dance?"

Reeve Rollins—"Don't worry. We have danced long enough and now we must pay the fiddler." (Laughter).

At this point the Deputy Minister asked leave to withdraw from the count of pressing business elsewhere. His assistant Mr. Moore of the Department of Municipal Affairs offered his services in an advisory capacity, which was accepted by Warden Gray.

Reeve Rollins here injected a motion that the Sheriff be authorized by Council to withdraw writs. Amendment followed motion as Council attempted to form a committee to look into the matter. Opinion was divided whether the Finances Committee should act, or the Council as a whole. But Reeve Larkin threw fuel on the argumentative fire here, when he demanded of Council, "What are these four municipalities on arrears for when the rest are not? I do not think we should withdraw these writs. If they can pay within three years, all right, but do not withdraw the writs."

Ready to Resign

Reeve Rollins—"All right if that is the way you feel about it, then go ahead and collect. I am tired of being beaten over the back with a club. If it keeps up I'll resign, and go home tomorrow. We of the north built your roads for you flity and sixty years ago, and we are still paying for them. We are not trying to dictate terms to you, but we do want a fair show."

Reeve Larkin—"Reeve Rollins misunderstood me. I did not mean it in the way he took it."

Deputy Reeve Rowson Hobson attempted to throw oil on the troubled waters. "We don't want any trouble either," he said, "let's give them time to get this thing straightened out."

But Reeve Rollins was far from satisfied. "They do not charge us a higher rate of interest than the bank," he demanded.

"You are being charged a higher rate", he was told.

Deputy Reeve Hobson forth the motion re the three year period of time with payments divided into yearly instalments.

Can Rate to 4 Per Cent.

Reeve W. E. Sharpe, ("Ned"—) take great pleasure in seconding Reeve Moore's motion, that there is no ill feeling between the north and the south, but that money taken from the north for road purposes was spent all over the province."

Reeve Moore—"Ned"—By way of showing we are ready to help the north I move that we cut the rate of interest on debts from 6 per cent." This was seconded by the Reeve of Madoc. An unanimous standing vote in the affirmative carried the motion. Reeve, however, County Clerk Denyes pointed out that it was necessary for the by-law to lower a county rate of interest. Mr. Moore, on the advice of the Municipal Affairs thought it was better to pass a bylaw in an agreement of this title.

Reeve Larkin, Tyendinaga—"To show I hold no animosity I now take pleasure in seconding Mr. Rollins' motion to withdraw the writs."

Mr. Moore injected a warning at this point, when asked by council for his observations of what had transpired.

Establishing Precedent

"Look at the precedent you are establishing", he said, "by giving you give special concessions to the four delinquent townships and none to the two which paid their writs in full. Next year the personnel of this council may change and many explanations would be in order should the same situation arise. I would suggest that payments be made, say in quarterly instalments." He would suggest that not take the attitude that they did not have to pay anything for a year."

"When you are too lenient with a man, who owes you money, you are more liable to do him harm than a favor by giving him long periods of time in which to pay. I don't want to appear 'tough', but they are my suggestions."

Reeve Rubbell again rose to his feet. "It is impossible," he said. "We in Faraday cannot pay a dollar in three months time nor is it month either. We have only collected £90 during the last year. We have not a dollar to pay our school teachers and will soon be forced to close our schools. If You may as well go ahead and serve those writs."

Further discussion ended in the appointment of the committee to interview the county solicitor to draw up the bylaw withdrawing the writs.

Reports of the Equalization Committee and the Committee on Bills matters were read to council. The latter advocated the rate of fifteen mills for 1937, a decrease of one and one half mills from the 1936 rate, was adopted by council.

Adjournment was moved at this point to allow the Roads and Bridges Committee to conclude business in special session.

"Stanley Baldwin-we salute you"

Mr. Picobac took his pipe from his mouth and looked up from his newspaper.

"Stanley Baldwin," he said with slow deliberation, "you are a great Englishman — a thoroughbred of the old school. You deserve the title and Honours conferred upon you by your King after long and distinguished public service. As one pipe smoker to another — and on behalf of pipe smokers throughout the British Empire — permit me, sir, to say: We salute you."

"What will he do now, I wonder?" mused Mrs. Picobac.

"Read books . . . smoke his pipe . . . enjoy life . . . and continue to serve the Empire," said Mr. Picobac promptly.

"And I was reading about how he is going to make a long tour of the Dominions next year, representing the King."

"Will he come to Canada?" asked Mrs. Picobac.

"Of course he will," said Mr. Picobac. "And when he does, I only hope he will discover what a mild . . . cool . . . sweet smoke Picobac gives."

Waterfront Opportunity Seen, By Experts After Survey

'Real Project Possible' Says Prof. Tomlinson of O.A.C.

ARTIST SKETCHES

Members of the Bay of Quinte Beaches Association, Inc., in their effort to beautify and build up Belleville's waterfront, received from the government dock, will work during the last stages of the project from plans and drawings prepared by foremost landscape experts of the Dominion at the behest of the visit yesterday to the site by Prof. J. Tomlinson of the Horticultural Department of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, and Miss R. Heritage, formerly of Holland, and acknowledged one of Canada's most noted artists.

Both experts, in company with Mr. Bowes of the local Dominion Entomological Laboratory, Reg Moncrieff, president of the Beaches Association, and Alderman Bert Jennings, chairman of the local Town Planning Commission, spent the afternoon on the beach location with prepared plans, from which final sketches and improvements will be drafted and suggested.

Wonderful Opportunity

"Belleville has a wonderful opportunity for beach and waterfront development" was the unanimous opinion of both experts following their survey.

From the eastern extremity of the beach at Meyers Creek, west, step by step to the government dock, the visiting experts explored the possibilities of the site, marking locations and photographing as they moved. Advice and suggestions were offered at each individual location inspected. The whole will be incorporated into detailed plans and drawings of the work which will be submitted as soon as completed at the college.

Art of Landscaping

"The art of landscaping is again coming into recognition after a lapse of several years. And once again cities are recognizing the need for this type of work," submitted Prof. Tomlinson. "Belleville is peculiarly adapted to take advantage of this service. This waterfront site could be made into a real project. It appears to have great possibilities."

Miss Heritage, particularly active with camera, notebook and pencil, Holland born, gained much renown as landscape artist in her own country that she came under the recognition of the Canadian Government. For the past nine years she has been employed in special landscape work through the Province. Their visit to Belleville was made possible through the efforts of the Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, local representative.

Northern Resident Likes Fishing Here

Northern fishing grounds to which Belleville residents flock during week ends and on holidays apparently hold no appeal for those who reside along the shores of the allegedly fish-filled lakes. It is revealed by the story related by Reg Moncrieff, president of the Beaches Association of this city, who sought recreation with a fish pole some distance north of Madoc recently.

"We were fishing from a bridge over one of the streams back there, a location we had arrived at after much twisting and turning over pretty rough roads.

"Then we were joined by a venerable, old, battered-hat fisherman of the district who carried a long bamboo pole and hook baited with a ball of worms.

"We fished silently, without success. Finally the old fellow turned to us:

"Not much luck here. Do you know where I'd go if I had the day off and the old car was running? Down off the end of the government dock in Belleville. Fishing's always good there."

POLICE COURT

Complaints that teen aged boys were destroying the property of the Modern Cleaners' plant, West Moira St., was culminated when six youthful lads were apprehended by Traffic Officer Ellis yesterday afternoon and instructed to report to Chief Kidd after school hours today. The boys are alleged to have been throwing stones in the general direction of the Modern Cleaners' plant with the result numerous panes of glass were broken. The matter of restitution and discontinuing of such practices will be the chief topic of discussion, when the blacksheep lads and their parents report to the chief constable today.

No arrests were necessary in Belleville during the past 36 hours, leaving the call book at the police station unsullied for the time translents to make application for a night's lodging.

Buttermakers Meet For Informal Talk

Ralph Dudgeon Discusses New Butter Grading Regulations

Buttermakers of the district gathered at Tweed last evening, on the occasion of the June meeting of the Quinte District Buttermakers' Club held in the Tweed Creamery.

Chief topic of discussion following the regular business of the evening concerned the new butter grading regulations, the informal talk being led by Ralph Dudgeon. Many interesting points were brought out for the enlightenment of members.

At the regular cream and butter grading competitions held by the club, Frank McConachie of Tweed Creamery, was awarded points as high man in butter scoring, with T. V. Malette of the Swift Canadian Company, Belleville, being given highest place in cream scoring, and declared grand champion of the evening and awarded the monthly prize donated by the club.

Letters of appreciation from Mr. John H. Scott, chief creamery instructor, and Mr. S. O. Graham, of Riverside Dairy, Trenton, who have been ill for some time past, were read, in which expressions of gratification, remembrance by club members were also contained.

Next meeting of the Club will be held in the Maple Valley Dairy Company plant, this city on July 15th, it was decided by the executive.

Following the official business and competitions last evening the staff of the Tweed Creamery concluded the evening by serving refreshments in which fresh strawberries and cream played a prominent part.

The meeting was presided over by Geo. Palmer, Desoronto, and president of the Club.

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Columbia, S.C., June 17 (AP)—A Columbia mother boasts the distinction of having seen her new-born baby in motion pictures before she saw the child in the flesh.

The baby was so weak at birth she had to be placed in an incubator in the hospital nursery. The mother, too weak to be moved, could not see her baby immediately. So a doctor took movies of the infant, and the pictures were shown in the mother's room.

London, June 17 (CP)—David Lloyd George has offered for sale his London home, Dyrdyr House, Kensington. Now that he spends most of his time at Churt, Surrey, he finds Dyrdyr House too large. When in London he prefers he will reside in a modern service flat.

North Arlington, N.J., June 17 (CP)—A baby sparrow living near the home of Harry Galbraith here, has adopted a rubber ball as a parent.

It started when Galbraith put food for the bird on the hall. Now the fledgling follows the ball everywhere and chases plaintively when it is removed from its sight.

Windsor, Berkshire, June 17 — (CP)—Forty years ago four Eton boys planned a lark.

They dressed up as heralds to give Queen Victoria a surprise fanfare as she drove to Windsor. But their timing was at fault. They sounded the fanfare a few seconds before the queen drove by.

The other day the four boys—now Lord Vivian, Lord Francis Scott, Colonel H. Pryce Jones and Colonel E. L'Estrange Malone—met in a Windsor photographer's shop and had their picture taken to celebrate the anniversary.

Guelph, Ont., June 17 (CP) — Bessie Kornyder, Gerbera, an Austrian-born girl detained in Ontario Reformatory here, has been declared the highest 365-day producer by the Montreal Friesian Association of Canada. Records show that in 31,122 pounds—in measured quarts enough to supply 54 families with one quart of milk a day for a year.

The actor who never acts, Mr. George Arliss is seen in two roles as twins, as a mere diplomat, as the black sheep of the family in "Man of Affairs" now on the Bells screen.

ANOTHER HOCKEY PLAYER TAKES A WIFE

STRAWBERRIES QUITE PLENTIFUL

Offered First at 15 Cents Box Then Reduced to Two For 25 Cents

Homegrown strawberries dropped to a new sensational low today at the city market, showing a marked decrease of twenty cents per box over the period of a week, as vendors vied for business. The berries were plentiful and generally sold at fifteen cents the box, with some vendors offering case lots at twelve and one half cents per box. A few vendors dropped their price to two boxes for twenty five cents as the morning progressed, constituting a new price record for this time of the year.

Vendors prophesied a bottom price of three boxes for thirty five cents should rain fall within the next few days.

New potatoes made their initial appearance of the season today, a fairly good quality being offered at twenty five cents per berry box.

Grown in Prince Edward County, the potatoes were the forerunners of a good crop, the seller pointed out. Old potatoes, imported from the northern part of the province, were offered at $1.60 and $1.40 for the ninety and seventy-five pound containers respectively today.

New asparagus selling at fifteen cents per half-peck, asparagus, now showing slight decrease in quantity at ten and fifteen cents the pound bunch, and onions, radishes and lettuce at popular prices rounded out a rather brisk Thursday morning market.

Eggs were quoted at twenty and twenty-two cents today. Chickens were scarce and were offered at from 60 cents to eighty five cents.

AT THE BELLE

Arliss Performances Tops Previous Hits

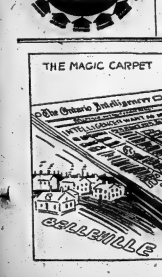
A George Arliss picture is always a treat. But there's a double treat in store for Belleville and vicinity screen lovers in the new comedy-drama, "Man of Affairs," which brings the one and only Arliss back to screenland in a dual role for the first time in his brilliant career. Arliss impersonates twin brothers ....one a pompous, smug Cabinet Minister, the other a happy-go-lucky, haram-scarum who leads a dashing, inconspicuous life.

"Man of Affairs" now on the Belle screen until Friday, with George Arliss given excellent opportunity for exercising his dramatic and comedy talents in the dual role. Arliss impersonates twin brothers, Richard Dunchester, the lighthearted, witty ,twin-brother of Lord Dunchester, Cabinet Minister, and accompanies Howard to London to inform the Emir's son of the intrigue and exploitation in the Emir's country.

Lord Dunchester, Richard's brother, makes a mess of the situation, creating compounly and deciding Richard must go. He is only solution to the tense state of affairs. Richard tries to talk sense to his brother, but failing, undertakes a reckless plan. He kidnaps his own brother, and manages to meet in a meeting with the sheiks. He not only unravels the mystery of the murder but succeeds in thoroughly outwitting the foreigners, thus dispelling the cloud of war and saving the day, clever diplomat. Richard, however, misunderstood by sightless and welfare, never discloses the truth of the impersonation.

He let his brother, Lord Dunchester, take all the boughs and later wreaths making immediate plans to return to the glamorous and mysterious East.



Jean Winter, John Ford and John Turnbull supply excellent characterizations in the leading roles, while Herbert Mason, the director, earns himself further kudos for the swift pace and excellent timing with which he has endowed the picture. Interior and exterior scenes, and action-full scenes, and the pictorial brilliance of the latter form an ideal background for the brilliant dual performance of George Arliss. Remember, Arliss headlining a young lady who almost upsets her own love affair and the fate of England in her several madcap caprices, plays her role with telingling charm and subtlety. Romilly Lunge, as her heart interest, also supplies an excellent portrayal of a young lover who is both witty and wise.

Exceptional Featurettes

A funny Johnny Arthur Multiple-reel comedy, "Fall Guys of Fall Day, and "Melody Girl" a smart and tuneful musical revue with a host of singing and dancing night-club entertainers will be exhibited on the same program.

PERFECT PAIR

"there's Nelson Eddy." "Isn't that Clark Gable? Have you seen Clark Gable?"

There were nearly 1,000,000 roses inside the church. Six candelabra, each bearing seven slender tapers burned in the chancel. The middle aisle, bounded by pink silk ribbon along the whole length. Also was lined with seven candles on a side, white gloved ushers — Ted Lloyd, John Mack Brown, Allan Jones, Basil Rathbone, Warren Rock and Richard Hargreaves—escorted feminine guests to their places. Jones' shoes squeaked.

Nelson Eddy Sang.

Finally, Nelson Eddy began to sing "I Love You Truly" as the bride's mother, Mrs. Anna MacDonald, took her place. Then the familiar "Here Comes the Bride", the Lohengrin wedding march, rang out.

The ushers, two by two, in conventional halting steps, started down the aisle. They were followed by the bridesmaids — Ginger Rogers, Fay Wray, Mrs. Richard Hargreaves, Mrs. Warren Rock and Mrs. John Mack Brown.

Then came the bride, 30, a year older than the bridegroom.

She wore plain pink mousseline; with a redingote, long, full sleeves, a high neck and lace collar, and tiny bouquet of flowers. The skirt was full. Her veil was pink tulle. She wore a shelshaped lace cap; carried a gold-embroidered pink satin prayer book.

Woman Fainted.

Raymond, his corn-silk hair shining, smiled as she came near. He held out his arm. She gripped it tight.

As the service began a woman in the balcony fainted.

It was a single-ring service. The Rev. Willis Martin officiated. As he intoned the Lord's Prayer, near the end, a dull roar from the thousands outside echoed in the church. The flash of photographers' bulbs flared against the stained glass windows.

Then, the joyous strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march followed the Benediction and Nelson Eddy's second song, "Perfect Love". The bridal couple kissed, a medium-long kiss.

Mrs. L. G. Geggie Veteran Worker Still Enthusiast

"At eighty-three the outlook is brighter than ever" triumphantly declared Mrs. L. G. Geggie, Belleport, Quebec, the oldest delegate to the Canadian Woman's Christian Temperance Union in convention at Bridge Street United Church as she outlined her splendid record on Legislation, Petition and Equal Franchise, of which she is Dominion Superintendent.

Mrs. Geggie is a charter member of Quebec Union. For over fifty years she has been an earnest and brilliant worker in the temperance cause. From her parents, who were strict Methodists and in whose home there was never alcohol or tobacco, Mrs. Geggie learned the principles of temperance and has devoted her life to furthering the cause. Frances Willard, "founder" of the temperance movement visited at her home in Quebec in 1885 and Mrs. Geggie treasures the memory of the occasion, retaining vivid impression of Miss Willard's remarkable personality.

Interesting Home

Mrs. Geggie was born and brought up in the Manse House at Beauport. An ancestor having come over with Wolfe and established the family in the country. In the study or family love she is especially interested in the "Story of Canada" and its history is a most fascinating pastime.

A son of Mrs. Geggie was first Canadian to graduate in medicine and bons grafting operation before the war. Besides children in this country Mrs. Geggie has a daughter in England, a grandson and great-grandson in Quebec, Egypt.

Mrs. Geggie's interest in the temperance cause takes at all times a most practical form, as an instance this morning showed. At the conclusion of the financial report and the need of cash in the general fund, Mrs. Geggie volunteered a generous donation which was the stimulus for thirteen members to follow cheerfully her example and the fund was instantly increased by four hundred dollars.

MANITOBA WINS

Effect of Alcohol on Human System Shown Delegates

Representative of the thousands of young people across Canada, who are banded together in the temperance cause, children of Bridge Street United church Sunday School, took part last evening, in the program of the Dominion convention of the Canadian Women's Christian Temperance Union held in Bridge Street United Church.

Mrs. N. W. Rees of Athelstan, Que., Dominion Superintendent of "L. T. L." work presided and after the singing of the "T" hymn, Miss Muriel Latner, B.C., Provincial "T" Secretary read the Scripture lesson. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Ambrose of Hamilton.

Members of the Boys' Choir of Christ Church under the direction of Mr. Charles presented two numbers in a splendid style.

Playlet Given

An interesting playlet "You Can't Fool Us" was presented by children of Bridge Street United Church Sunday School, directed by Miss McPherson and Miss McGuire. Little Miss Margaret Ann McGuire presided at the piano and also proceeded to demonstrate by dialogue and song that so-called advantages of alcohol cannot fool children, who have had scientific temperance education. Those taking part were:

Bobby Dickens, as Mr. Wet; Billy Stevenson as Mr. Alcohol; Helen Liddle, Gwendolyn Smith, Shirley Smith, Donald Douglas, Andrew Stevenson, Billy Wills as the children. About twenty girls in pretty costumes took part in the chorus.

Present Awards

Award of prizes was an interesting part of the program: Mrs. Wallace made the presentations, which were as follows: Mrs. McLachlan prize of $10 to the province making the most gain in membership won by British Columbia; banner for greatest increase in "T" membership won by Saskatchewan, which captured the prize at the last convention; Trophy Cup for the largest proportionate increase in "T" membership won by Regina, first with 83 points and British Columbia, second.

Of absorbing interest to young and old was the visual demonstration by Miss Rosamond Duff of Toronto, of the effect of alcohol. Miss Duff used as illustrative substances in water and in alcohol, that showed the preservative and dehydrant with a legitimate place in the manufacturing world but not in the human body.

Miss Duff showed step, by step, the effect of alcohol on the human system and demonstrated to the delegates how these facts could be impressed on children through charts, and displays, such as she had prepared. After her demonstration to children the audience heard about the display to examine the various articles.

The singing of the National Anthem brought the meeting to a close.

BORSTAL SYSTEM FOR DELINQUENTS IN SASKATCHEWAN

MEMORIAL SERVICE

No Liquor Advertising Over Government Owned Stations

In the impressive W.O.T.U. ceremony a memorial service in charge of Mrs. W. R. Morrison, Regina, Sask., was held on Wednesday morning by the Dominion Convention assembled in Bridge Street Church, in memory of officers who had passed away since the last convention.

Mrs. M. P. Duff sang very effectively "The Line Must Not Break Where I Stand", Mrs. Will Pugsley, Toronto, presided for the devotional service.

Tribute was paid by Mrs. T. H. Wright to the memory of the late Mrs. F. C. Ward, Dominion president, and inspiring leader, who passed away a few weeks ago. Her life, the speaker pointed out, was literally poured out in service to youth. Willard Hall in Toronto, will always be a memorial to her. Miss Rosamond Duff, Toronto, told briefly of Mrs. Ward's deep interest in the addition of Willard Hall.

Late Editor Praised

Reference to the late Mrs. Lottie MacAllister, for thirty years editor of the White Ribbon Tidings and to the late Mrs. Arthur Kelly, business manager was made by Mrs. Cottam, who told of their earnest devotion to their work. Mrs. Bingham, Provincial President of New Brunswick, spoke in memory of Mrs. Allen H. Wiggins. Parlour Meetings superintendent and President of Fredericton Union, whose life's motto was "Be faithful unto the Last, as well as Dominion officer. As each name was mentioned a white blossom was placed in a large basket at the front of the stage, and as the members stood in honor by a minute's silence, all the white flowers were given to Mrs. Bingham, who has died since the last convention, additional white flowers were heaped into the basket. At the conclusion of the service, Mrs. Houston sang "There Is No Death."

Present Portrait

An interesting part of the morning's program was the presentation of a portrait of the late Mrs. L. C. McKinney, of Clarahalen, Alberta, outstanding Canadian and a great temperance advocate, by her sister-in-law, Miss M. J. McKinney, of Toronto. Mrs. McKinney was a member of the British Empire to be elected to parliament, when she became a member of the Alberta Legislature. She was vice-president of the World's W.C.T.U., President of the Dominion W.C.T.U., president of Alberta W.C.T.U. and for twenty-five years president of her home local union.

The gratitude of the Convention for the gift of the portrait was expressed by Mrs. Grace Ridgett and the portrait will be hung in Willard Hall, Toronto.

The meeting yesterday morning at which Mrs. T. H. Wright presided, opened with devotional service conducted by Mrs. Ambrose of Hamilton, assisted by Mrs. E. A. Dupuis, President of Ottawa District.

Reports Received

Mrs. T. H. Wright presided. The report of the work of the Young People's Branches was given by Mrs. W. F. Wallace of Winnipeg and that of children's branches by Mrs. Loyal Temperance Legion was given by Mrs. N. W. Rees of Athelstan, Que., where in an affiliated membership of 5137 Dominion is amongst.

Mrs. L. G. Geggie of Beauport, Quebec and Mrs. R. T. Kerr, Ottawa, were the speakers on Legislation, Petition and Equal Franchise. Among the interesting facts presented was that the W.C.T.U. of Saskatchewan is asking for the establishing the Borstal system for young delinquents. Quebec women are still without a vote and cannot even be members of School Boards.

A deputation met Major Gladstone Murray, director of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation asking that all liquor advertising be eliminated from Canadian radio stations. Such advertising he said was not accepted on governmental stations but only on privately owned stations of which there are about seventy.

Mrs. E. D. Craw, Toronto, gave the report on the press. In British Columbia a press contest stimulated the subscribing of items to newspapers. In some larger centres it was difficult to have temperance facts accepted as news, although the majority had accounts of meetings accepted in such manner. It was well worth paying for having temperance facts published. Mrs. Cottam, gave the report of publications.

Progress Made

The work of temperance in the Sunday Schools is shown to be making marked progress, according to the report of Miss Edith Giles, Brockville. Co-operation with the Religious Education Council of Canada in the teaching of Temperance in Sunday Schools has been most helpful in advancing this work and four thousand children and young people have written in the series contests. The Temperance lessons are published by the R.E.C.C. in Sunday School papers. Twenty-six Christian denominations have been represented by the students taking the lessons.

Mrs. Andrew of Brome County, Quebec, showed what could be accomplished in the Performance of Scientific Temperance Instruction by outlining her plan in the National Temperance Campaign. Five years ago with a group of ladies the work of visiting schools in that vicinity was undertaken and the children and teachers were most enthusiastic. Pins, books of New Testaments were presented to contest winner and great interest has been manifest in contest work in succeeding years.

Her encouraging talk concluded the Conference on Temperance Study courses which is in charge of Mrs. T. T. George, Parkhill, and Miss Giles.

Following the memorial service, Communion service was conducted by Rev. Dr. James Semple.

Final Message Read

Her last action before being stricken with the illness which caused her death on May 31st, the beginning of her address to the convention over which she had planned to preside made the final message of the late Mrs. F. C. Ward of Toronto, a poignant challenge to members in convention at Bridge Street United Church yesterday. Mrs. Ward collapsed at her desk as she was penning lines of inspiration, and passed away at her home a week later.

As the paragraph she had written was read by the presiding officer Mrs. T. T. George, delegates, the members heard it in hushed silence.

"Dear Comrades" the message read. "As we come together in this the Silver year of our organization to talk of the past hours of the two periods that have gone by and the years, with the poet 'what account of stock it brings to Heaven, and if it might have been more helpful news' or if it may be said 'she hath done what she could' for the purposes on and up that we may make this world clean in God's own plan."

The members stood in silent memory of their leader's words.

The afternoon's program was opened yesterday by devotional service in charge of Mrs. A. Van Vliet, Quebec and considerable time was taken up with the presentation of the "Sara Rowell Wright Memorial" Endowment Fund to Willard Hall Pugsley of Toronto. The fund totals $17,000.00. The incoming president, also Miss Florence Edwards of Carleton Place were named to the advisory committee with Mrs. Pugsley.

In the discussion of plans for increasing membership through the "Frances E. Willard Centenary Program" memories of Miss Willard were brought by Mrs. Geggie of Quebec, to whose home she had been a guest and who spoke of her charm and her beautiful mind and unselfish devotion. Miss Rosamond Duff of Toronto, who possessed an autograph, whose message was "Life Without Purpose is Orion", and by others who had had the privilege of hearing or seeing Miss Willard. Members were called upon to suggest ways in which the program outlined could be made most effective.

North Hastings Helps Hay Fever Sufferers

(Chicago Manufacturer States It is One of the Few Places Where One Can Get Relief

Relief from relief from his annual attack of hay fever, Mr. Chas. Elkins, Chicago manufacturer, passed through Belleville last week-end en route to Baptiste Lake, North Hastings where he will spend the month of August. Arriving here with kit and baggage, the expensive automobile conveying him to the lake was left in Belleville and he will be returned to Chicago for the remainder of Mr. Elkin's family who will vacation at the lake later in the summer.

"North Hastings is one of the few places I have ever found where I suffer from hay fever is really to be had," stated the Chicago visitor. Backed by statements of local physicians that an anti hay fever belt extends across the province from Madoc north, Belleville Chamber of Commerce has made this one of the strong selling points in extending an invitation to tourists to vacation in Hastings.

The Prince Edward Section Of the Belleville Presbyterial Holds 12th Annual Meeting

The Prince Edward section of the Belleville Presbyterial held its twelfth annual meeting in Bloomfield United Church, Thursday, June 10. The morning session commenced promptly at 9.30, with devotional music.

Mrs. Rightmeyer welcomed the ladies and Mrs. F. W. Robbin ably replied.

The worship period was conducted by the ladies of the Bethel Auxiliary.

The President, Mrs. Wilkinson was in charge of the business. The minutes of last year's rally were confirmed, after which Mrs. Waldron announced her retirement from office. Mrs. R. Farnsworth gave an inspiring address on Christian Stewardship and Finance. She said that to be a Christian Steward requires service on the part of each individual and it was only through a united effort that a kindly spirit of Christian womenhood could be attained.

People must go back to the adoption of Christ and their preaching. John Wesley's motto was "To earn all you can, save all you can and give all you can." To him material possessions had no value except when used to exalt Christ. As we himself taught that we have financial investments to make which are lasting—rather than earthly investments which have no assurance. She urged the ladies to follow Christ's example and the difficulty of furthering the cause of Christ on earth would be overcome.

A solo, "The glorious crown" was rendered by Mrs. Richard Barber.

Mrs. Haggerty was in charge of the junior hour. Her prayer was delivered around the following verse: "If I go into the world with Thee, Thou shall in the general plan I will grow and my gift will grow also

If I give what I can.

The greatest problem was that of reaching an allocation. Giving of one's time and money in order to carry on the work of Christ successfully, must be done by each member, through the channel of prayer. This problem of finances could be solved for all things can be wrought by prayer. She urged the ladies to adopt the idea of a special objective which was to pledge themselves to give to a work more next year. This would amount to approximately $100 from county auxiliaries. The good could be done with this money. This incident was related by Mrs. Haggerty. In 1934 the first session of conference made from green vines representing everlasting life was pasted in front of the altar. While the names of the deceased were read, a lady representing each centre placed a spray of fir on the cross, completing the whole into a beautiful living picture.

Concluding the very effective service prayer was offered and a benediction rendered.

Rev. Mrs. Blandford then led in prayer closing the morning session.

Afternoon session was opened by a song service. The ladies of the Wellington Auxiliary conducted the devotional period. The Call to Prayer was explained by Mrs. F. Harris. She stated that every auxiliary privileged to address God as Our Father, and through this medium of prayer everyone may ask for those things desired. God loathes that He never does for us what we can do for ourselves.

This was followed by a Recitation "The old violin" by Miss Cora Pettingill and a solo by Mrs. E. R. Wills.

Election of Officers

The results of the Nominating Committee were then heard. The officers for the coming year being: President, Mrs. W. Osborne, Massanaga; Secretary, Mrs. K. Ward, Picton; Treasurer, Mrs. F. N. Herrington, Picton; Executive, Mrs. Person, Mrs. Norton, Mrs. Brickman.

A hearty vote of thanks to the retiring president, Mrs. Waldron, was moved by Mrs. Young and seconded by Mrs. Woods.

Mrs. R. Sprague lit her report stated that $700.00 had been raised by the County Auxiliaries.

The Thanksgiving Special fund had been donated in memory of Mrs. C. C. Spencer which is to be used in carrying on the work in Japan.

Mrs. Thompson of Bloomfield then sang a solo.

School For Leaders Described

The school for leaders at Whitby was skillfully described by Mrs. S. W. Spafford. She emphasized the necessity of properly preparing Christ's love and teaching. To start this everyone must gain strength through repentance and a total understanding of God's love summers. The fellowship of the Women's Missionary Society is the richest blessing in the world. In striving to uphold missionary work all should continually pray for those engaged in the work. The young people must be educated in a Christian way of living. This is the solution of bringing about the blessing of peace to this war-stricken world.

Miss Helen Shannon favored the ladies with a piano solo.

Memorial Service

A memorial service in memory of the deceased members of the County Auxiliaries was conducted by the Picton Evening Auxiliary. A playlet was presented by Wellington Evening Auxiliary. This depicted the transformation wrought

The happy couple were completely surprised at the invasion, and after an enjoyable time of chatting had passed, the chairman Mr. Harry Reid called the meeting to order.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonisteel was presented with a silver tea service after the following address had been read:

Holloway, June 8 1937

You Lottie have been a faithful friend willing at all times to help in any way possible to make our social events a success. Your presence among us will be greatly missed.

With these thoughts in mind we ask you to accept these gifts in remembrance of your friends.

Signed on behalf of your friends, Mrs. S. W. Hamilton, Mrs. Wm. Faulkner.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonisteel made suitable replies and cordially invited all present to visit them in their new home.

A delightful lunch brought this pleasant evening to a close.

—DAILY SHORT STORY—

River, Don't Tell

By Loranna Johnson

It was fearsome standing there on the lawn within Jim's family group feeling that it hated her as Jim's fiancee.

Jim was afraid, too, it seemed to Minetta, after all his gay bravado on the way from the city to the farmhouse where he had been born, and his father brave him. "Think you can endure being a farmer's wife, darling, after a debutante's education?" he had bantered.

"Silly! Of course, if the farmer is you—" there had been a little breathless pause while their eyes shared the implied absurdity. "But will your mother and the girls approve of—"

"How could they help it?"

"You said, once, nothing would suit them better than for you to marry Bertha Schneider," she had reminded him.

"Albertina's their first choice. Might have been mine, too, if a certain little ebony-haired gal hadn't popped up in my chemclass," Jim had admitted.

Now, she could feel Jim's mother eyeing her in a way she might some culprit on reprieve. She could feel Jim's sisters, Frieda and Bertha, disapproving her backless pride and liberally rouged mouth and long bright nails; hating the kind of girl they judged her to be.

"Albertina's here Jim." Frieda glanced toward the house and called "Come on out, Bert—"

And Albertina, stout and lumpy, came down the flagstone to meet them. "Hullo, Jim," she said, giving him a large, sunburnt hand. She turned to Minetta as Jim introduced her with a stiff, constrained, "How d'you do, Miss Timm?"

Frieda and Bertha started to move more wicker chairs out on the lawn, but Jim stopped them. "How about a picnic supper on the river, Mother?" he asked.

Everybody did something. Everybody but Minetta who sat nervously on the edge of a kitchen chair and watched their preparations without offering to help.

"Do you know how to clean a chicken?" Bertha asked her, taking down a platter.

"No. But I'll learn, I guess —" Minetta hesitated.

Then Frieda put in, "Did you make the dress you have on?"

"No—but I haven't learned to sew yet. Besides, it's just about as cheap to buy clothes ready-made," Minetta defended.

The lunch is ready," Bertha announced.

"Let's get into our nautics," Jim suggested. "Might want to take a swim in the river."

Smoothly slim all over in a wisp of scarlet, Minetta walked beside Jim down the slope, along by the apple trees to the river below. Albertina, with a chic easy stride that whipped the fullness of her skirt about her, went ahead of them all.

"Think I'll have a swim while you women-folk spread the lunch here in the shade of the sycamore," Jim said, and was off toward the saffron and purple sunset.

Albertina's dimples looked, expectingly to see him streaking across the river in his good American crawl, he seemed to be having trouble only a hundred feet out. Another instant, and she was sure she heard Jim's cry for help. And then nothing except the river's own sounds, and somebody's terrified, "Oh, Lord! Doesn't anybody save him?"

Minetta hardly knew when she had kicked off her sandals or ran down and dived off the boat dock. But once in the river her arms rising and falling cleanly, thought she heard round her, clear and helpful. Jim was a stranger of drownings! She was the only one who could do him any good. Elating carried her along. Maybe she couldn't milk a cow or dress a chicken—yet. But she had the skills of thrifty frugality for the most competent "Tired Debutante's Crying" for nothing.

Her head functioned coolly through it all. Her arms and legs did their part, too.

Presently she was in motherly Albertina's beating all about her. Then one voice became low, seemed meant for her ears alone. "You're courage and common sense, dear. You'll make my son a fine wife—"

Minetta and Jim sat alone in the warm night air, and heard the river rippling down below.

Jim, said: "I thought sure you'd catch on, darling"

"Catch on?"

"Yes. That I was shamming. In the river—"

"I—I didn't think of that," Minetta said slowly.

"No, of course not, but I did!" Jim chuckled.

Change of Air and Scenery Helping Ferrell, Newsom to Recover Some Lost Prestige

Each Has Won Last Two Starts For New Owners

CARDS WIN FIFTH

Clout Philly Hurling For 15 Blows in 7-6 Win

By SID FEDER

The change of air and scenery, from Washington to Boston (and vice versa) seems to have been just what the doctor ordered for Rick Newsom and Wes Ferrell.

Whatever else last week's deal between the Senators and Red Sox may prove in future, it already has shown definitely that there's still a lot of pitching left in the gangly wings of both Newsom, now with Boston, and Ferrell, at present service them up for the Nats.

Until they were traded, both were well on the way to having the worst years of their careers. It was a big rule rather than the exception for each to be belted freely and easily, and to make early visits to the showers. Newsom had won three, lost four and pitched in two relief games out of eleven. Ferrell, going the route five times in twelve, had dropped six decisions and won but three.

Each Traveling On High.

But, whether the change of locale also fixed the well known temperament of each, or whether the new air put some of the old zip back in their "soupbones", each is now traveling at a 1.000 clip in his new uniform.

Ferrell started out by slopping the tarnishing White Sox in his first action as a Senator last week, and yesterday topped the Tigers 2-1 in 12 innings.

Newsom, just reversing the procedure, whipped the Tigers first and followed up with a 3-2 win over the White Sox yesterday.

The defeats for the White Sox and Tigers helped the Yankees stretch their American League lead to two full games yesterday. The New Yorkers, themselves, took a hand in the pastime of belting first-division contenders by slopping Cleveland Indians 4-1 behind Lefty Gomez's six-hit nine-strikeout pitching.

Giants Rally in Eighth.

New York Giants came from way behind to top Pittsburgh Pirates 6-5 with an eight-inning, three-run rally and thereby advanced to within five percentage points of the National League lead, held by Chicago Cubs whose game with Boston Bees was rained out.

Cardinals clouted Phillies' pitching for fourteen hits and a 7-6 win for their fifth straight triumph. The St. Louis Browns tagged the Athletics 9-2. Rain washed out the scheduled night game between the Dodgers and the Cincinnati Reds.

WITH THE LAWN BOWLERS

by GEO. E. WATKIN

A special meeting was held on Tuesday evening for the purpose of selecting a new chairman of games to replace Fred Hindle who has gone to Simcoe. Harry Post was the choice of the meeting. Harry is a new bowler coming to the club last year. He has had lots of experience in organizing with Y's Men and other clubs, is a real worker in anything he undertakes and should fill the position. He will have the full support of the members of the club. Chairman of games is the most important office in the club and I am confident that Harry is the right man in the right place.

On Friday evening there will be a mixed jitney at 7.45 sharp. Let us all get out to welcome our new chairman.

I spent most of Tuesday afternoon watching the ladies bowl rinks. The men were playing in the other. The conclusion I came to was that the ladies hold their own very nicely.

The finals of July will soon be here.

We want a real entry from our own club this year, so make a point to be on hand.

OFFICIALLY OPEN TENNIS COURTS

Mayor R. D. Arnott Officiates at Opening Ceremonies

Graced with six of the finest clay courts in this section of the province the tennis section of the Quinte Skating Club witnessed its inaugural opening under ideal weather conditions yesterday afternoon. Mayor R. D. Arnott, assisted by Mrs. Arnott, officially declaring the courts open for play.

Over thirty enthusiastic club members were on hand for the initial day's play while the Belleville Collegiate band graciously supplied the music for the official inaugural. Mayor Arnott was introduced to the club members by Ivan Scott, in charge of the men's section of the tennis club, that is situated at the corner of Dufferin avenue and Queen street. Prior to introducing his worship Mr. Scott made it known that the newly organized tennis club in East Belleville was a civic venture and would gladly accept entries from interested tennis players.

"I have watched development of this club since its inception and I feel it fills a long-desired need in Belleville. I am sorry the city is not in a position to assist such ventures with finances at this time, but we hope the day is not far off when such will be the case. You here have provided a source long needed in Belleville, something for the interest of our younger folk and I would at this time like to tender my appreciation for membership," stated Mayor Arnott after which he served the first ball, Mrs. Arnott being on the return court. After officially opening the courts, Mayor and Mrs. Arnott were presented with honorary membership cards for the current season.

At the time of official opening all six courts were occupied with doubles on each court and play was then enjoyed until refreshments were later served by the lady members of the club under Mrs. Georgia Smith. Considerable work in connection with the tennis section of the Quinte Skating Club has been completed only through the efforts of Johnnie O'Gorman, Cyril McBride, Steve Lizenby, L. E. Scott and other members of the club, who today can boast of six fine tile-drained clay tennis courts that are a credit and asset to the city.

ETHIER'S BINGLE HELPS CORBINS

Victory Over Aajmaas Elevates Squad to Top Position

Gerald Ethier's mighty three-base hit gave the Corbins a 7 to 6 victory over the Aajmaas Dairies after two extra innings of softball at Coleman Field last evening when the Corbins took sole possession of first place in the local senior softball loop gathering on the idle Point Anne squad by virtue of their victory.

Con Harris started on the mound for the Corbins but was forced to relinquish his hurling duties after sprahling his wrist in the sixth with Johnnie Rawden finishing the game. Harold Dracup hurled for the Aajmaa kids and turned in his usual steady performance. The Junkers took the lead by scoring two runs in the initial frame but the Corbins knotted matters up by notching three in the second after the Aajmaas added one in their half of the second. The Aajmaas counted two runs in the seventh inning to tie the score six all and force the issue into overtime after which the Corbins scored in the tenth to win with two out Henn singled and Ethier followed with a home run blow.

Teddy Henri led the hitters of the night with three singles, Rene St. Denis getting a triple as he appeared as a pinch hitter for Harris in the sixth. Reid collected a brace of singles while Hanna cuffed a double. For the Aajmaas Amo helped himself to a double and a single, Ronsky had a brace of one base hives and Westfall got a triple.

OSHAWA GM-MEN LEAD C. O. B. L.

Defeat Peterboro 5-2, While Napanee Take Ponies 5-4

Marching along to another Ontario senior championship, Oshawa was a full stop ahead of the Peterboro Ontario Baseball League today. The Motormen beat Peterboro 5-2 yesterday to go a full game on top of the league standing as Kingston lost to Napanee 5-4.

Jack Turner held the Petes scoreless until the final stanza and smacked a home run over the left-field fence for the second time in the history of the Peterborough park. Three pitchers failed to hold the Oshawa outfit and they put over three runs in the fourth and single scores in the sixth and eighth innings.

First win in seven starts, Napanee Gibbards eked out a single run victory over the Ponies. The Gibbards got the game away in the fourth with three runs. Arniel failed to score a man from third with the tying run for Kingston when he struck out a batter that was awarded by Ford to retire the Ponies and end the game.

FOXBORO LOSES TO LATTA BY 4-2

Callaghan Unhittable, With Runners on The Base Paths

Latta, June 17—The inability to hit safely with runners on the base paths cost the Foxboro nine their first ball game of the season here last night, as in a keenly contested game the homsters made their hits count when they squeezed out a 4-2 victory.

Callaghan was poison to the Foxboro batters with men on bases, they having many chances to pull the game out of the fire but failed miserably in the pinches. Callaghan gave up five hits while striking out an equal number and giving three walks. Wilkins pitched a fair game for Foxboro granting five hits and fanning six, but a couple of errors in the first inning spelled disaster, allowing the Latta team to score two runs.

Foxboro Misses Chances

Foxboro missed a glorious chance to put the game in the bag in the first, when they filled the bases with only one away, but Callaghan turned on the steam forcing Stewart to pop out to short, while Williams whiffed to end the inning without a score. Latta opened out in their half to score two as Gowe hit safely, Marsh dribbled one down between third and short with Parks scoring both with a double. Again in the second Doherty walked, was forced around by Wilkins hitting two batters in succession and scored on an error. Foxboro got one back in the third on Murray's single and Wilkin's double, but Latta came right back and retained their margin in their half on Clompson's single and Fargey's timely double. Foxboro finished the scoring in the fourth when Wall got on to scorn on V. Gray's single.

Peacock's running one handed catch of Orr's drive to double Callahan off first in the fourth was the highlight with Gray's catch of Marsh's fly behind short a close second. Simpson and Marsh played snappy ball at third and short for the winners with Gowe making some nice catches in centre.

Line-ups—Foxboro—V. Gray ss, Murray c, Osyth, Wilkins p, Stewart 2b, Williams rf, Wall 3b, M. Guay lf, Peacock cf., Latta—Gowe cf, Orr c, Marsh ss, Simpson 3b, Parks 1b, Hall 2b, Fargey rf, Doherty lf, Callaghan p.

JOKA BEST BOAT IN TIDY STRUGGLE

Many Boats in Races Hit Calm Before End

A spill three seconds ahead of the field, "Duke" Smith's "Joka" broke the finishing tape in the "A" class of yesterday's Belleville Yacht Club punt races to head Maurice Callaghan's "After You" after a two and a half hour struggle in the waters of the Bay of Quinte. The race in the "A" class developed into a two-boat tussle after the initial lap when Harry Semark's Alaska ran afoul of a calm off Cow Island and was becalmed for some minutes, giving the winning "Joka" and the "After You" too substantial a lead to overcome.

Smith and Callaghan tangled in a close angle from the barrier to the wire, the wind being south-west and never certain until the last thirty minutes when a stiff sprightly gale let Joka a slight advantage on a calm sort of water, after Smith had gained ground on a port tack off the easterly buoy. The Joka's winning time was two hours, 22 minutes and 11 seconds, three seconds faster than the second place After You. The Alaska was third.

In the "B" class Art Rushlow's Dorothy was first, Keller's Scrapper second and Ralph Rushlow's Mohigo third after the time was 1.45.

A tidy sailing race was witnessed in the sow series as Ted Hinchey's Allegro bested R. Salisbury's Presto. All in all the day's sailing was one of the best of the season despite the fact the wind flattened out at times, becalming the craft, but splendid manoeuvring on the part of the various skippers saw the craft finishing well within the three hour limit.

A large flotilla of sailing craft ranging themselves under the banner of the Belleville Yacht Club are planning to compete in the Picton Regatta on Dominion Day while a number of local power boats may also be present at this outstanding aquatic event of the year.

Dunlop Injures Shoulder, John Katan Winning Bout; Chief Lynx is Disqualified

Second Main Bout One of The Best Seen in Some Time

PLENTY OF COMEBACK

Bowhickered Brown Throws Large Number in Gales of Laughter

John Katan, Winnipeg, and former Canadian wrestling champion continued his undefeated string of victories at the Belleville Arena on ring last night when he was awarded the decision over Al Dunlop, Trenton, after the latter had rendered himself hors de combat by injuring his shoulder in the initial fall of the main bout of the evening. Dunlop literally threw his shoulder out of joint and seemed headed towards certain victory, following a series of flying tackles and a body slam which left upon the villainous Katan, but Dunlop foiled a fourth attempt at a flying tackle, after 46 minutes of wrestling in the initial round and crashed bodily against the rope and post in a neutral corner that resulted in injuries to his shoulder to such an extent that he was counted out for a first fall.

Dunlop refused the advice of more level heads regarding his return to the ring and demonstrated his willingness to again enter the squared circle, even under adverse conditions. He was an easy victim of three flying mares and Referee Robert Wells rightly awarded Katan the decision. Katan has to his credit a topple over Steve "Crusher" Casey in the main bout of tonight's wrestling card, which brings him to himself a shot at the world's title, now held by Ed Dutton.

Two Main Bouts.

Two main bouts were advertised for last night's wrestling show at the arena, both of which were disappointing affairs. In the second main bout Tex Mosby, the Mexican champion, was matched with Chief Chief Lynx, the Rama Reserve Indian, each fighter winning a fall prior to Referee Wells having to disqualify the "Redskin" for continued illegal tactics in the third round. The initial round between Chief Lynx and Mosby was undoubtedly the best round of professional wrestling seen locally in many months. Both wrestlers showed willingness to mix matters and there was never an idle moment, each even in the management of busting tossed in for good measure. Perhaps the best flying tackles Mosby finally pinned the Indian with a body press, the pattern of the game being more quickly established with the result. Although Chief Lynx reverted to rough and unorthodox methods in the early moments of the second round, Mosby eventually gained the upper hand and was the aggressor with a series of flying tackles when he actually ran into a "face lifter" at the hands of Chief Lynx and was laid out prostrate and an easy victim for a body press that the Indian applied and evened matters on one fall each.

Chief Disqualified.

Following repeated warnings from Referee Wells for continued illegal practices and delaying, Chief Lynx was rightly disqualified after choking, kicking and applying rough body attacks unto Mosby. Even though having to be raised to his feet by his manager and Referee Wells, Mosby had his hand raised in victory when the disqualification was announced, but was most pleasing until the Indian reverted to unorthodox methods — some really splendid wrestling holds being exemplified by both exponents.

Much to the satisfaction of the patrons of the game Bad Boy Brown, the bewhiskered Kentucky "hillbilly," fell victim to a series of flying headlocks and was pinned by Lonely Lou of Georgia in the opening bout. Brown proved to be quite a showman with plenty of ring color. The bout resembled a cross between a marathon race and a battle of making faces at their opponents at times, but was a crowd-pleaser, as far as antics, especially when his whiskers were pulled, were little short of comedy. In all, the bouts were much superior to those of the week prior and professional wrestling will be returned to the arena next week.

Yesterday's Stars

There is a Santa Claus, if you dont believe it ask Walt Abbott. Why? Well his Napanee Athletics finally won the ball game in the C.O.B.L., but only after the narrowest of escapes. The Gilbarco batted Orville Williams as the 9th men 5 to 4 over the Pemies. Udy Bleaclick went well for the homesters and was leading 5 to 1 in the ninth when suddenly Joe Daley's long range battery of swizzsticks swung into action and zowed three runs before the side was retired. Oshawa slapped into Peterboro and handed the Peies a 3 to 2 lacing and pulled a fall game ahead of the Peies to lead the C.O.B.L. yesterday.

WICKER BEATEN FOR FIRST TIME BY TORONTO TEAM

Bears Lose Series For Second Time Only This Season

ORIOLES DOWNED

Royals Lose Although Harry Smythe Turned in Three Hitter

Toronto Leafs, whose meteoric start in the International League was followed by a rapid decline, believe they've found the winning combination again.

As evidence of their comeback the Leafs today proudly pointed to a feat that hasn't been duplicated this season by besting Kemp Wicker. They defeated Newark Bears 5-2 yesterday to take the rubber game of a three-game series and become the first team to down a Bears from the league-leaders since Buffalo Bisons turned the trick in late April.

The hustling Leafs belted Kemp Wicker for twelve hits, among which were homers by Frank Mancuso and Don Ross, to hand the Yankee farm hand his first defeat in five starts. Woody Davis, the Leafs' rookie right hander, hurled beautiful ball, limited the powerful Bears to six hits and fanned as many.

Despite their defeat, Bears maintained their nine-game lead over the Montreal Royals who lost 1-0 to the Syracuse Chiefs. Harry Smythe, the Royals' veteran pitcher, allowed the Chiefs only three hits but found his pitching opponent, Frank Pearce, wasn't giving anything away either. The Royals hit Pearce for seven safeties, but tight fielding in the pinches and some steady fielding by his mates kept the Canadians scoreless.

The Blazos moved within 3½ games of Montreal, but Jersey stood out a 3-3 victory over Jersey City. Hollywood and Newark turned in their third straight triumphs as they blanked Baltimore Orioles 3-0.

Milton Wallace, Monarch A.C. Winner Rotary Carnival Race

Second Victory For Toronto Runner But Time is Slow

POLICE COURT HELD

TRENTON, June 17.—(Special)—Sixty-three minutes and ten seconds after leaving the starting point of the yearly Rotary road race from Belleville to Trenton, Milton Wallace, crack Monarch, A.C., distance runner of Toronto arrived the finishing tape at the entrance to Governor Simcoe Park on Albert Street, last night. Two hundred yards behind the runner was Alec Galbraith also of the Monarch A.C., and Sid Hardacres made the third Monarch man to complete the grind, when he breezed over the line three minutes after the leader. By winning Wallace retained his title for the annual marathon but his time was four minutes slower than last year. Little Freddie Coulter only Trenton entry crossed the line in fine style in ninth position and William Lawrence of the R.C.A.F. was forced from the race after covering the first four miles. Both suffered under the terrific pace set by the front men. Ray Mackie of Gladstone, A.C., Toronto, Grant Hackley of Monarch A.C., Toronto, Bill Reid, Monarch A.C., Toronto, Bill Thompson, Forest Hill A.C., Toronto and Warren Byre of Gladstone A.C., Toronto also finished.

Start in Belleville

Starting gun was fired by Fred Douglas, president of the Belleville Rotary Club. Champion Milton Wallace broke into the head position at the start and was never headed, extended, at any time. Claude V. Graham, president of the local Rotary Club presented the first six runners to cross the line with prizes late in the evening at a usual Rotary parade, which was composed of two bands, decorated motor cars, comic characters, historical characters, fancy costumes, decorated bicycles was the centre of attraction a large crowded lined the procession route from Coulter, Belleville, Bridge Street along Dundas St., to Governor Simcoe Park. The Rotary Ages Competition in the Standard of Living W.C. was prettily decorated and was one of the features of the Carnival.

Fortune Teller Busy

The fortune teller was about the busiest person on the grounds and was surprising the number of people, that entered her booth for a hearing. Mrs. Claude V. Graham was crowned Queen of the Carnival Fortune and Mrs. G. Sprenkle second ice. Women assisting were Mrs. John MacNab, Mrs. R. J. Whitley, Mrs. G. Cobley, Mrs. Clare Workley, Mrs. J. Holmes, Mrs. K. Gough, Mrs. G. Ash, Mrs. W. R. Mikel. All the members of the carnival hocky draw prizes were presented by Trenton merchants awards were $100 silver tea service, Mrs. E. R. Smithrim, Trenton; 2nd length, Mrs. Hamilton, Trenton ladies' travelling bag, Grant Goodfellow, Trenton; lamp, Mrs. Nick Shonker, Trenton; table lamp, J. Parker, Cobourg; Mrs. W. Johnston, Trenton; Mrs. Brown, Trenton; J. Cote, Trenton; L. Robichaud, Trenton; Mrs. Mellon, Toronto; C. H. Scott, Trenton; Mrs. R. Hall, Trenton; Mrs. Oliver Barker, Rochester; Mrs. Gerhaan, Scott Trenton, Mac Haig, Trenton.

R.C.A.F. 17; Graham's 7

At Bayshore diamond last night the softball team from the R.C.A.F. stationed here defeated the Graham sagumen 17 to 7 in seven innings of ball that had their bright spots and dull ones. Attendance was good. Pitching staff the Flyers exhibited were far superior to the Graham moundsmen. By winning the Flyers eliminate their rivalry to their town league lead.

Following a visit to Belleville it was announced today that the Ciaco softball team had relinquished their franchise in the local senior softball loop, following their inability to obtain additional playing strength from outside sources and fairness to the Ciaco club it might be stated that they have acted well under adverse conditions all season, confining their playing roster to employees of the plant and its environs. The decision of the Ciacos leaves the local senior softball loop with five clubs to finish the season, one Junkyer, the Asimas kids, one Intermediate "B" club, Point Anne, and three class "A" clubs, Corbins, Percival Belleville-Sargent. Last night the Corbin squad were forced to the limit to win over the Asimas juniors after two innings of overtime, beating the Asimas Kids 6-4 in nine frames. After the decision of the Ciacos the league moguls met and decided to revise their schedule and advance it to quadruple play, thus giving each club four games versus each other team. This decision has not been ratified by all teams, however, and is still in abeyance. In an exhibition game last evening Point Anne again beat a Napanee softball outfit 8-0 on their home diamond.

Golf Meet Here

After looking over last night's bowling show at the arena we are very much like the work of Tex Mosby, whose real name is Lopez, but refused to comment when asked weight wrestling champion working under an assumed name for reasons he refuses to divulge. We observed a sun-tanned "Mex" in his dressing room where he would net deny his name was Lopez, but refused to comment upon the whys and wherefores of the matter. Mosby, Aside from that, however, the wrestling fans of Belleville have taken to the Mexican and he can take his top row locally most any day. Then there's that guy Bad Boy Brown, as he calls himself, but he's still a Kentucky "hillbilly" to us, but a likeable bowdy's bowdy at times. The "Bad Boy" last last night, but he'll still be a top-notch card say old day in this man's town.

If the local wrestling promoters want to satisfy the patrons of their game all they have to do is bring in any old wrestler, as long as he beats John Katan. Personally we respect the former Canadian champ, but getting a little too apoplectic so far as wrestling in Belleville is concerned. There are those who claim he gets quite a kick out of trounced at the hands of Steve Casey tonight.

After receiving no end of enthusiasm from Belleville regarding playing host to a delegation of Kingston lacrosse artists, who were invited to play with Belleville and subsequently cast aside, are today in a fine position to champion the game right in the Limestone City, according to sport writer Bill Walshe's comments. Kingston has been with and without lacrosse teams at different intervals for some years but are to be tendered a bye into the intermediate O.A.L.A. play-down as rumored.

Congratulations are in order for Doc Rowden, Oshawa outstanding athlete for those many years past. "Doc" has been appointed as coach of the Oshawa junior hockey club and playing manager of the Oshawa seniors for next winter. This announcement took the cream of the Bill Hancock, but "Doc" Rowden is of the type of hockey player needed and doubtless commands the respect of his fellow-townsmen, as he does the fans everywhere, throughout the Central Ontario zone.

On the evening following the announcement that softball player-ex would be welcomed at all practices of the Kiwanis juniors, Coach "Twig" Woodley, had no less than 34 aspiring athletes out to practice. Asked whether or not there was any potential material in the lot, Skipper Woodley stated it would be unfair to make comments on any one at this time. If these boys are anxious to play ball they'll return and in time I'll be able to ascertain what material there are so many kids shagging flies that will be a credit to the club and a chance to show their wares, but the future of youthful players speaks for itself.

Anglers, especially veteran disciples of Izaak Walton when fishing was something to write home about in the Bay of Quinte, are receiving quite a kick out of reminiscing over the photographs and snapshots of "the day's catch" on display in the Bogwa store window. Some old timers as well as present day fishermen are seen proudly displaying the finny beauties.

Cliff Bennett, former Belleville bolster, helped himself to four hits in as many times at bat yesterday in Napanee.

Without thinking, so habitual was the gesture, she leaned forward and burned the bell for her secretary. "Alice!" she said, as that pretty dark-haired girl appeared, "what exactly does that noon train leave for the west?" She turned to Carl. "We've only the one good train, and it would be a pity to miss it."

"Thank you, Kerlin," said Carl in a heavy sarcastic voice. "You're very kind to train leaves. It leaves at twelve-thirty."

Kerlin didn't hear the sarcasm. She glanced at her clock and said, "Thirty-five minutes. I'll tell you I'll drive you down in my car. At first I want to speak to Annie. Alice, is there any one in the little reception room? You wait here, will you, Carl?"

"Annie," said Carl, "you'll stay here with me."

But Annie only looked at Carl and turning followed Kerlin, who was already in the hall saying in a low voice to her secretary, "Three times there are my desk and mine. If you'll get them off on the mail." and with her hand lightly on the arm of the second Mr. Kingsbury, Kerlin went down the hall and shut the door.

"Annie," said Kerlin directly, "aren't you happy?"

She looked into the girl's face. It was a broad face, but not coarse; looked at closely; and the eyes were wide and dark and intelligent, and now oddly hurt and perplexed. No older than many of my thought Kerlin; Just one of my girls in trouble.

"Why sure, Mrs. Kingsbury—Kerlin, I mean. I guess so. Only not—not quite what I thought it would be. You see, they're your friends out there. And Carl hasn't—People resent—the girl threw back her head. "Nobody's said a word to me, body. Not one person. It isn't an accident."

Kerlin put out her hand and touched Annie's sleeve. "Annie, my dear—" Annie's words fell from her. Kerlins lips! They didn't seem strange to either of them. "What you've only been married six months—"

"Long enough to be shouted at and found fault with. Not much yet, but I'm learning. You know, I believed what he told me about things. That you were trending you kind of low. I thing—I don't think I minded. It was just kind of a game and I was willing. I'm ashamed of it now. But I'm not sorry for you any more, Mrs. Kerlin." The dark eyes looked at Kerlin. They were large soft eyes, and they were full of hurt and uncertainty and a kind of puzzled wonder. "He thought, and I did too, that it would about kill you, to be kind of lifted that way. He thought it was smart of us. Funny. I was sorry for you and now I kind of envy you. I suppose it's because you're free of Carl—though believe me I can see what that's done for you, too." Her eyes, seeing Kerlin appreciative of her quick intelligence, were speculative. "Yes, I kind of envy you—but it's really because you're the kind of person you are. When I saw you at that luncheon, so well dressed in your plain white linen suit, and me all dolled up fit to be tied—and you with your nice friends—"

Across Kerlin's mind came the picture of herself, standing in a station, seeing Priscilla, and Alice, and Gregory, Gregory's head slipped from Annie, and followed him. It was with an effort that she brought it back.

"Annie, people will forget. When do we go back?"

"I don't know that we're going back. Carl's too proud. He can't take this—what's happened to him. And if you ask me there'll be talked back went to let him out."

"Oh, no!" said Kerlin. "No! That mustn't happen. It's too big, too important—"

"He thinks he is, that's certain. Been telling me what a big hit he could make in private practice." Annie turned her eyes out of the window. They could be, Kerlin saw clearly, sullen eyes.

Private practice, thought Kerlin, seeing, in a flash, Carl's sure personality, his scintillating mind. It might be—it would be—the very best thing.

"And he could!" said Kerlin. "He would make a big name for himself if he went into private practice." Time was passing. "Look, Annie, this is what I suggest. Say to you, Carl can be a very great man—"

"Maybe. If eliminating down and saying, 'My lord! Annie!' makes him a big man, why—then—that's fine. I'll do it—about the next time—I'm going to slap his face for him."

"Annie, my dear, listen." Kerlin put her hand on the girl's arm urgently, but inside her head a voice was saying that that, too, might be the very best thing that could happen to Carl. "Annie, I wasn't the right woman for Carl. Truly, I never was. And in a very real way I wasn't big enough. Perhaps I was too much a lady. I'm him about as me, and I don't think really, he ever wanted in. I mean it too easy. But you're not like me, Annie. You're fine and big and a fighter. That's what he needs, that's what he wants. Some one to slap his face when he's boozy and laugh with him when he's gay and love him a lot, some one to grow with him—Annie, to keep step with him in body and mind. You can do that. You are the very person. You're trained in his field. You've got a fine mind of your own—I can see it, Annie, in your eyes. You're some one he can talk to. You don't let things get you down. Put your shoulders up beside Carl's and pull with him! Be nice, expensive clothes—plain clothes. Annie always —yes, Carl will too give you the money, or you can get out and earn it."

"And have him divorce me?"

"Carl won't divorce another wife. Remember, Annie—" Kerlin's voice was flying. "You're smart. You can find the way to manage Carl. I never did. Not you skin. You know you can, don't you?" There was a gleam in De Annie eyes that answered her, a gleam that comforted Kerlin, who would never hate Carl, nor love him either. "You see, Annie? You can't sit down on the job. Even I never did. Not once in ten years. You know that, smudge in the distance.

Kerlin drew a long breath and stepped on the starter. She turned the nose of the bright new roadster away form that faint smudge, back into the clean bright town full of trees with new green leaves and young people in bright sweaters and dresses and girls waving their hands to her and the sound of a lawn mower filling the bright noon. The world shone. Her teeth caught her lower lip. She hoped Agnes would have something especially good for lunch.

And into this newly beautiful world, into the cleared choppy spaces of her life, came the thought of Gregory. It came as gently, as inevitably, as if all the time it had been waiting there, waiting for the rubbish of ten years to be cleared away and give it room. Gregory. The very name lent a brightness to the bright June days.

There seemed to be in Kerlin's mind no real consciousness that she had refused him—refused him, bitterly, utterly. The emotional contents of all those scenes—the distress, the hurt, the anger—had gone out of her together, and taken their words with them. She no longer felt them, she could no longer remember them. Who in the world, being well, can keep in mind clearly the feeling of old pain?

Day after day passed, and no Gregory appeared, but that was of the least concern to Kerlin. He was Gregory. He had asked her to marry him. She saw his eyes, now, as every turn of her head, and they told her something that she knew was true. He wanted her to marry him. He wanted her, Kerlin Kingsbury.

And she saw the eyes of the students about her, hurt, or defiant, or filled with dreams, and they brought her a thrill of emotion, of new understanding, and she would find herself standing at her office window and looking out into the bright hill, following in her mind the eager feet that sought out the little paths. Gregory.

She could go down to New York and see Mary Alice, and get some very new things. And when Mary Alice (who had become permanently Martha) looked in her smiling eyes, she was encouraged into being a little indiscreet.

"Somebody looks pretty happy this spring. If what the girls tell me is so—do you know, Kerlin, that you've brought me over thirty new customers? Certainly. And I'll tell you why."

"It's your clothes," said Kerlin, turning in from of the mirror.

"It's the way they look on you," said Martha. "Figure and carriage. But that isn't all." She glanced at Kerlin's face in the glass. "You wear them as if you were living on a simply frightfully nice time. And that's what the girls are saying. That a perfectly nice creature named—oh, dear, I've forgotten—Gregory," said Kerlin. "Gregory Leighton."

But it was the end of school; examinations were over; Commencement was at hand; and he hadn't come. Alice came home, and finding her uncle at the breakfast table—he had lost no moment in making this much contact with Kerlin—she spoke her mind.

"I'm disappointed in you, Uncle Greg. Honestly, I am. And all the girls are."

"Why, Aline! Didn't the black dress suit?" He was looking very thin, and his eyes were tired, but he smiled at her.

"Oh, it was perfect—and effective, too. Didn't I tell you? But I'm not so crazy about him now as more. Distance lends enchantment. That's from Shakespeare. He got too close." She moved into the hall to see if her mother was coming, and helped herself liberally to jam. "Say, it isn't about the dress it's about Mrs. Kingsbury—"

"What would Mrs. Kingsbury?" said Gregory.

"Well, you see, after your telegram came—you know the one I mean—I laid a few bets."

"Bets?"

"Bets. Oh, hello, mother. It must have been Uncle Greg who ate up the jam. Certainly, bets. Why Uncle Greg—some of the girls keep regular calendars of when you've been up last, and when you're likely to come again, and we—I mean they—lay bets on it."

Brazilian Earnings Expected to Improve

Toronto, June 17 (CP)—Trade conditions, exports and the exchange situation are gradually improving in Brazil and the betterment will be reflected in the earnings of the Brazilian Traction Light and Power Company's properties, President Miller Lash, K.C., told shareholders at the annual meeting of the company at noon today. The meeting was routine in character and directors were all re-elected.

The company's annual statement of earnings for 1936, together with the balance sheet, recently distributed to shareholders, was adopted without comment. Net revenue of $6,243,866 compared with $5,186,634 for the previous year. Dividends equivalent to $1.20 cents were paid out of 1936 earnings and already a 50-cent dividend has been declared in the present year, payable July 10.

Mr. Lash said Brazil had a favorable balance of trade in 1936 of about $115,000,000, due to expansion of exports of fruits, vegetable oils, nuts and other items. Whereas coffee was the chief export over a period of years, other exports for last year, combining, now stand at 50 cent of the total and that of coffee has dropped to 46 per cent of the total.

OPINIONS DIFFER IN KIDNAP CASE

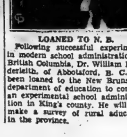
Federal Men Believe it is Kidnapping And Local Police Think Murder

Stony Brook, N.Y., June 17 (CP)—Sharply growing differences of opinion between the federal men and Suffolk County authorities investigating the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Alice McDonell Parsons, Long Island matron, was evidenced today as the government agents pursued a kidnapping theory, the others expressing the belief she was slain.

A Suffolk County official, who asked his name be withheld, said the county and state authorities and the agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation were reaching a climax in their relations.



The federal men think it is a kidnapping" he said. "We think it is murder, and we are ready to proceed on that theory and to act quickly. There seems to be evidence enough to make it possible to prosecute in the Long Island court."

This official said robbery did not appear to be material so far as local men could determine but declined to comment further along this line.

DRIVER PAYS FINE

Toronto, June 17—(CP)— Although it was his girl friend who said him, Donald Patterson was fined $10 and costs in court at suburban Long Branch court yesterday. "Was it a long one?" asked Chief Robert Smyth for the Crown. The reply was lost in laughter from the court.

HIS WIFE KIDNAPPED

William R. Parsons (above), husband of Mrs. Alice McDonell Parsons, Long Island social registerite, who disappeared from her home near Stony Brook, L. I., is pictured as he appealed to his wife's kidnappers to communicate with him. Outside of the finding of a $28,000 ransom note on the day Mrs. Parsons vanished, no other word has been heard from her abductors.

Little Benny's Note Book

Me and pop was taking a wawk before supper and I said, Here comes Puds Simkins's father, Ol look at the size of his new hat.

Morning boy, and pop said, Yes gods how can an allegedly intelligent man make such a spectacle of himself and apparently be unaware of it? That lid is 2 sizes too big and seems to be still growing, he said.

Why dont you tell him about it, pop said, and pop said, By golies I believe I will. I know I'd want somebody to tell me if I was hiding my bean under a bushel basket. I guess believe in this principle of attending strictly to your own business no matter who suffers. Why should a poor nutt be aloud to go on making a fool of himself when a kindly wert would set him rite? pop said.

Wich just then Mr. Simkins said, Good afternoon, nice day, isn't it? and pop said, Not bad, I see you have a new hat?

Yes, what do you think of my Panama? Mr. Simkins said, and pop said, Well uh, it's a trifle on the large side, isn't it?

Well if it is that's news to me, after me paying 17 bucks for it and having every salesman in the hat department pay me to take it and congratulate me, Mr. Simkins said. What do you mean, too big, are you trying to kid me? You're not jellus, are you? he said, and pop said, Certainly not, by gods it's too small if anything, but as a matter of fact it's not any of thing.

And we kept on going, pop saying, Let them suffer and like it, that's my motto from now on.

Meaning if people cant find out their own mistakes he's not going to help them.

NEVER-CONQUERED BASQUE CITADEL NEAR FALL

Insurgent Troops Look On War-Scarred Bilbao, Expect Advance Order

Fierce Fighting by Basques Against Weary Rebels

OCCASIONAL FIRES

Basque Troops Snipe Across Nervion River at Enemy

By EDWIN J. NEIL

With the Spanish Insurgents on Mount Archanda, in the suburbs of Bilbao, June 18 (AP)—Bilbao, dotted with fires and scurrying government snipers, came under the very eyes today of thousands of leg-weary Insurgent troops. They may enter the never-conquered citadel of the Basques in a matter of hours.

The troops east of Bilbao have conquered some of the last fertile mountain farmlands and picturesque cities in all Spain. Now they are waiting only for the completion of the encircling movement by their comrades west of the city.

Expect Occupation Order.

Those troops are toiling up the tortuous hills to the west, toward Santander. When their dominoes Bilbao from the western hills, they expect the occupation order from "El Caudillo"—General Franco.

Today we can look into the Bilbao streets, here scouts of Basque Government troops are roaming about and sniping now and then across the Nervion River. There are occasional fires, one in particular, seemingly from a chemical factory, belching great clouds of dirty white smoke. But there is no sign of any systematic destruction from within the city.

Why the Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Rain and baseball Rowing or sailing in competition is an early season sport because of the heat in midday and late summer, made greater by the total reflection from sky and water. But rowing and canoeing for pleasure may be indulged in all summer long, especially in the early morning and evening, when pleasant temperatures prevail. These can hardly be a more exhilarating pleasure than shooting one's best or causes the last set of varsities and shade in the early morning. Light rains or a little wind do not deter the enthusiastic oarsmen or bathers, but add zest to the sport. The nightime temperatures generally occur between 2 and 4 a.m. and the afternoon ones are avoided.

EXPECT FLEET LATE TODAY

Two Sea Planes And One Amphibian of R.C.A.F. to Land at Airport

Two seaplanes and one large amphibian of the Royal Canadian Air Force Instructors at Ottawa are expected to arrive at the Trenton airport in the vicinity of 5 o'clock this evening. These planes are of the latest design and construction having been designed and assembled in England, before being shipped to Canada, but add zest to the sport. The nightime temperatures generally occur between 2 and 4 a.m. and the afternoon ones are avoided.

Canada's Oldest Man, and Crimean War Veteran, Dies

Celebrated His 114th Birthday on June 3rd Last

DID NOT LOOK AGE

North Bay, Ont., June 18 (CP)—Believed Canada's oldest man, John Birch died today at his Nipissing Junction home near here in his 115th year. The Crimean War veteran whose only explanation of his longevity was "I guess they have put room for me in heaven", celebrated his 114th birthday June 3 last, in his sickbed.

The old man who watched the progress of the country quintupled, born near his modest farm home, until shortly before death, gradually became weaker and died peacefully. He regretted not being able to act as host to newspapermen on the last birthday as he had done on several previous milestones in his life.

Death of Birch, a native of Russia, left old age honors for Nipissing district to Simon Commando, 110-

DOUMERGUE DIES, FORMER HEAD OF FRENCH REPUBLIC

First Protestant To Hold Office Under Third Republic

HAD HEART ATTACK

Called Into Service to Weld Parties After "Stavisky" Riots

Aigues-Vives, France, June 18 (CP-Havas)—Gaston Doumergue, former president of the Republic and Premier, died here today. He was 73 years old.

The elderly statesman had lived in retirement among the vineyards of his countryside since he slipped quietly out of Paris Nov. 15, 1934, at the end of his second term as president.

"Papa" Doumergue, as he was known throughout France, was recalled to the presidency in 1924, the first Protestant to hold that office under the third republic.

Despite his sickness, Doumergue was a healthy man until he was 67. He was married to Madame Jeanne Gruzy, a widow, died twelve days before he left the Elysee Palace at the end of his presidential term in 1931.

Record in Service.

In February, 1934, after the bloody "Stavisky" riots, the aging statesman was called to the service of his country once again to weld all parties except Socialists and Communists into a National Government.

In November of the same year, however, he resigned the premiership when the cabinet split over his demands for more power.

Doumergue died suddenly shortly before 9 a.m., apparently from a heart attack.

He came to Aigues-Vives Tuesday from his home at Tournefeuille for a week's pilgrimage to the ancient middle-class home of his family in this little village of Southern France.

For four centuries his parents had

Blood Test Urged After Car Accidents to Determine if Drivers 'Under Influence'— Inclusion of Peace Program Advocated in Curricula of Schools — Gambling in All Forms Called Anti-Christian — Recognition Sought For Noted Canadian Women.

Canadian Woman's Christian Temperance Union meeting at Bridge Street United Church considered late on Thursday afternoon, the passing of resolutions, recommended by the committees of which Mrs. Grace Knight was convener. All were carried and among the resolutions were the following:

Peace Study in Schools

"Peace—This Canadian Women's Christian Temperance Union declares its conviction that international friendship is the primary essential in the prevention of war, and that this international friendship can be attained by creating goodwill based on Christian principles of justice and in political and economic co-operation to attain that justice. We believe that the scope of the League of Nations should be expanded to include further experts studies of conditions constituting the war, with a view to eliminating the causes of war. We declare for the sanctity of treaties, for the Briand-Kellogg Pact, for the setting of disputes arbitration between international law, for the collective responsibility of nations to prevent breaches of peace and disregard of treaty obligations. To attain this we urge: The personal responsibility of all citizens to learn the facts in regard to the economic interdependence of nations, and to assist in creating an informed public opinion on all proposed solutions of the problems of international peace in order that governments may be supported and checked in political enterprises affecting the peace of the world. Such facts in simple form should be included in the curricula of all schools.

Federal Inquiry on Armaments

"Armaments:—

"Whereas there is daily evidence of the increased seriousness of the world's armament race, indicated by ever increasing expenditures by all nations; and

"Whereas the economic condition of the Dominion of Canada under October 1st, 1936, has prevented the proper economic care of vast numbers of Canadians, and has resulted in huge National debts continually accumulating and fast becoming entirely unbearable by our population; and

125 Years Ago War Declared By U. S. Against Great Britain

Mr. W. C. Mikel Writes on Anniversary And Outlines Story of War on This Continent

Belleville, June 18, 1937

The Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,
Belleville, Ont.

125 years ago today, June 18th, the United States declared war on Great Britain with included Canada, namely June 18th, 1812. The battle ground of that war was Canada. The inhabitants of the U. S. were misled into the belief that Canada desired annexation with the British Empire and union with the U.S. Members of the U.S. Congress were so convinced of the easy capture of Canada that speeches were made in Congress by prominent members to the effect that a small army will be sent to Canada could enter Canada and march through the country with little or no resistance. The U.S. Government organized three armies for the attack on Canada. The army under General Hull, a veteran of the American revolutionary War, was to enter Canada with about 2,000 troops at Detroit; another army under General Van Rannaller was to enter at Niagara and a third army was to enter at Lake Erie. Every one of these armies was defeated by the Canadians.

General Brock gathered up a small army of a few hundred men, mostly from the farms and villages from the Bay of Quinte, Lake Ontario and Lake Erie army under accompanied by some Indians. They proceeded by overland marches and small boats to Detroit where Brock's small army of Canadians defeated

SCHACK NAMED IN TAX PROBE

Emery Irey States Schick Given Special "Dispensation" in Canada

Washington, June 18—(AP)—Name of Jacob Schick, retired Schick Shaving Razor and electric razor manufacturer now a Canadian citizen, was among a group of capitalists named today before the congressional committee investigating income tax evasion and avoidance.

To a direct question Emery Irey, chief of the Internal Revenue Department's Intelligence Unit, said Schick was a friend of "the Prime Minister" and was granted "special dispensation" to get around Canadian law requiring five years' residence before a foreigner can become a citizen of the Dominion.

Charge of Citizenship

Roswell Magill, undersecretary of the treasury, told the committee Schick's citizenship papers covering changed his citizenship it might be impossible to make out a taxation case against him.

"We'll go after him as hard as we can under the law we have," he added.

It was then vice-chairman Harrison (D. Miss.) interposed to ask whether there was anything unusual about Schick's acquiring Canadian citizenship and Irey mentioned the name manufacturer as a friend of "the Prime Minister."

FOODLESS VIGIL BESIDE GRAVE ENDS IN ARREST

Charles E. Herd, Held For Hammer Slaying of Mrs. Armstrong

STATEMENT GIVEN

Blood Choked Woman And She Couldn't Speak Say Girl

Montreal, June 18 (CP)—As he staggered home from a footless 36-hour vigil beside his mother's grave, Charles E. Herd, 36-year-old commercial artist, was arrested early today for Wednesday's hammer killing of Mrs. Elizabeth Armstrong, mother of seven children.

Driven from the cemetery by a chilling rain, the eccentric young painter was arrested on his doorstep by police who had been watching the house since the woman was found dying on the floor of her home in suburban Verdun, her skull crushed by heavy blows.

Submitted Quietly.

Tired and shaken, Herd submitted quietly to arrest. A short time later, police said, the man known as "Uncle Charlie" to the Armstrong youngsters made a statement concerning the slaying.

All the while police combed Montreal Island and even dragged the St. Lawrence River for him, he told them, he had been watching quietly beside his mother's grave. He had not left the graveyard, he said, since Wednesday afternoon.

Before the woman's death brought police on his trail with a murder warrant, the artist had been sitting in the Armstrong home paying for candy and ice cream for the children. Fourteen-year-old Elsie Bruce, another visitor, told police that he was grumbling because Mrs. Armstrong wouldn't let him have some beer sent in also.

Edmonton Signal Station Informed of Departure Of Russian Aviators

No Contact Made This Afternoon With Airmen

NEWS OF START

Major Genet Notified by Meteorological Bureau And Soviet Agents

Edmonton, June 18 (CP)—Soviet aviators took off from Moscow at 2 a.m. E.D.T. Greenwich time this morning on a non-stop flight to San Francisco, Major J. E. Genet, officer in charge of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals Station in Edmonton, said he had been informed.

Major Genet said he had been notified of the Russian flares taken off by both Director Patterson of the Dominion Meteorological Bureau in Toronto and the Soviet agent in Seattle.

The Signals Corps official added his station had not made any contact with the aviators yet.

5,000 Mile Journey.

From Moscow to Edmonton via the North Pole is about 3,000 miles and it has been estimated the fliers would reach Alberta, capital about 36 hours after leaving Moscow. This would be about 10 am. E.D.T. tomorrow.

Aided by a recently-established meteorological station on the North Pole which is expected to furnish valuable reports on weather conditions in the Arctic, the Russian airmen are making a second attempt at a non-stop transpolar flight from Moscow to San Francisco.

Course Unknown.

If the Russian plane travels via the North Pole, it will be forced to veer sharply to the southwest after crossing the Pole if the pilots intended to fly along the Mackenzie River valley, going straight south from the Pole, they would fly over the barren lands of the Northwest Territories for hundreds of miles at altiments and a forced landing might result in their being lost for months.

Says Charcoal Burner Trucks Much Cheaper to Operate

Cost 24 Cents to Move Ton One Hundred Miles

GAS TRUCK 57 CENTS

By JOHN DAUPHINEE

Vancouver, June 18 (CP)—Charcoal will probably replace gasoline as fuel for motor trucks and stationary engines in outlying Canadian districts within a few years, John H. Jenkins of the Dominion Forest Products Laboratories here predicted today.

Mr. Jenkins said producer-gas, which can be adapted to any type of gasoline engine, was a mixture of combustible and non-combustible gases—the former being chiefly carbon monoxide and hydrogen.

How Burner Works.

By the ordinary method of burning charcoal on a grate the fuel is practical results obtained by research workers in the federal laboratories who followed the lead of European scientists in developing "producer-gas" equipment.

These workers had learned, he said that it takes 24 cents to move a ton 100 miles with a truck run by gasoline — and that the same truck, equipped with a charcoal burner did the job for only 24 cents.

Calculations were based on Vancouver average gasoline price of 20 cents a gallon, and delivered charcoal price of $20 a ton.

Mr. Jenkins said producer-gas, which can be adapted to any type of gasoline engine, was a mixture of combustible and non-combustible gases—the former being chiefly carbon monoxide and hydrogen.

Enemies of Church Called 'False Shepherds And Hirelings'

Berlin, June 18 (AP)—More than 500 pastors of the Protestant Confessional Synod have been arrested under Nazi rule, Rev. Martin Niemoeller, militant leader of Protestant opposition to government domination of the church, charged today.

Most of the clergymen, Niemoeller said, were arrested soon after the Nazis came to power in 1933. Ultimately almost all were released until a new wave of arrests helped recently.

There were between 20 and 30 in the most recent group of arrested clergymen, said Herr Niemoeller. Last night Niemoeller addressed a large congregation in a residential suburb. He had to repeat his sermon to a second audience.

DUNDEE GREETS MACKENZIE KING

Grandson of William Lyon Mackenzie Welcomed in Ancestral Town

By GEORGE HAMBLETON

Dundee, Scotland, June 18 (CP)—The old town of Dundee, Perthshire, Lyon Mackenzie King.

The Prime Minister of Canada it is more than a visit. It is the beginning of a pilgrimage to the land of his Scottish forbears. For it was in Springfield—in a short street that runs through Dundee—that the old Perth road—that Mackenzie was born. It was in the drapers shop on High street—now lined with modern drapery—that he worked as an assistant. In Montreal he married a girl from Dundee.

Quiet Dignity Shown.

Dundee's welcome to his distinguished son lacked not in the quiet dignity of Scotland. Lord Provost John Pitkin, the city official was in the station to extend a welcome. For a couple of hours they toured the city together, visiting places old and new, from Springfield to the Law, from the grimness cast by the Firth of Tay to the summit of Dundee Law where the memorial to Scots who died in the service of the countryside from the sea to the Himalayas.

At a lunch given by the city corporation Mackenzie King spoke of the gathering of the British Family of Nations in London for the Coronation and the Imperial Conference.

"I am convinced," he said, "that the discussions of these events is a closer, stronger union between all parts of the empire—stronger than it has ever been before."

Links Are Recalled.

He recalled his ancestral links with Dundee through Mackenzie and with Aberdeen through his paternal grandfather. He said how throughout his life he had found inspiration in the life and works of William Lyon Mackenzie. But for the sacrifices of Mackenzie, he said, those with him in Canada would not be enjoying her freedom today.

"We in Canada," he declared, "owe a lot to Scotland, but we owe it above everything else to the sacrifices and privations and the noble spirit of Scottish men and women who went to Canada 50 to 100 years ago to pioneer for their homes, their children, and their children's children."

ELIMINATE ANNOYANCE OF FROZEN MOTORS

Enthused over the success of a working model that has been installed on his own machine for some time past, a local inventor who prefers to remain anonymous for the present, has submitted plans and applied for patents in Canada and the United States on an automatic automobile clock gadget by which it is hoped to end the annoyance of cold and frozen motors in cold weather. Simple details of the plan reveal that the clock, controlled by thermostat will automatically start the engine motor of the car when there is danger of it failing below freezing temperatures, and will close the ignition switch when proper heat has been obtained thus ensuring a consistently warm motor.

"The present rain will do a lot more good in this district than the Sudan grass, and will be especially beneficial to spring grains, oats and barley" according to confident predictions of farmers in the immediate district surveying still dripping fields today. Reason for the removal of the men is that they are needed elsewhere on city work, it was stated by the public works department.

Reeve U. A. Riddell of Faraday, said he had had a wagon stolen in its entirety, and thought he recognized its wheels on a truck, which later left his place the same day in a quest for the valuable oil-iron.

Japanese Temperance Worker Convention Guest Speaker

Mrs. Trune Gauntlett Speaks on Effort of Peace in Japan

OTHER SPEAKERS

Belleville was privileged to have as a distinguished visitor yesterday Mrs. Trune Gauntlett of Tokyo, Japan, president of the Pan-Pacific Women's Peace Conference and vice president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Japan. A writer of note, an eloquent speaker and one of her country's leading women, Mrs. Gauntlett, who was heard at the evening meeting of the Canadian Woman's Christian Association impressed her hearers with her brilliant mind, her sincerity and her charm.

Captivates Audience

Miss Marion Ferguson, Glasgow, Scotland, bringing greetings from across the Atlantic was another interesting visitor last night and her pleasing manner and droll humour captivated her audience.

Rev. George A. Little, B.D., Toronto, editor of Sunday School publication of the United Church, and member of the Religious Education Council of Canada was the third speaker on the final convention program and his address was followed with interest by the delegates.

The meeting last evening over which Mrs. T. H. Wright of Vancouver presided in the auditorium was opened with devotional exercises in charge of Rev. A. G. Sinclair of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church. Miss Leona Riggs sang a vocal solo, with Mr. Alec Gordon acting as accompanist. Musical entertainment in the convention evening program included a vocal solo by Mr. J. D. Bankier on Tuesday and a vocal solo by Mrs. J. G. Bradley on Wednesday.

Miss Ferguson bringing a message of friendly greetings from the W.C.T.U. of Scotland said that her country had had dark days, days of depression but had never lost heart. The cause of temperance was steadily advancing in Scotland. Speaking of the co-operation of the Church of Scotland which has a definite temperance program in its aims, the Band of Hope temperance organization" and the educational work with Sunday schools throughout the country, various churches, all working together with the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

20,000 Members in Scotland

The Union in Scotland has 30,000 members, and includes young and old. Miss Ferguson gave some examples of the type of work being undertaken by the various unions. For its Highland Agricultural Show which meets this season in Glasgow the W.C.T.U. provides meals for those who attend.

In Glasgow, where a great housing program is being undertaken, thirty-five thousand houses being planned a year, no saloon can ever be placed in these areas, but public halls, swimming baths and libraries are being constructed within this section.

Temperance instruction is compulsory in all Glasgow schools. The Band of Hope Union is the most powerful organization in the land for the spread of Scientific Temperance.

Miss Ferguson spoke of the Shetland Islands, a dry area, after trying out prohibition for a few years the inhabitants found that their country was progressing to such an extent that they retained the legislation.

The members in Scotland were trying to do their very best to hasten the day when their land would be purified of the evil of strong drink.

Traces Movement

Mrs. Trune Gauntlett of Tokio, Japan, a dainty figure in her kimono of pale gray, with white satin sash, and traditional footwear conveyed best wishes from the land of the rising sun to the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Canada.

In a very interesting manner she traced the growth of the movement since its institution in Japan 53 years ago by that great leader, Madame Kaji Yajima. At first she was faced with great difficulties but with the aid of membership increased and now the rolls includes over ten thousand names.

The women have come to realize the educational phase of temperance work and the need of legislation. Text books are distributed to almost all of the over-seven thousand schools and bring a great deal of effect on the attitude of the children. Temperance lectures, and cities are dry areas and enjoy prosperity. Therefore any slips come into the harbours of Japan, the captains refusing to unload cargo who drinks. Concentrated effort is needed in order not to lose the gains already made, and there is a big force which are very strong. The purity and peace work of the Y.W.C.A. organization are not neglected by the Japanese unions.

Prizes are offered for songs and essays on peace in the schools, for the speaker remarked "We think that when the world is full of the minds of children and grown ups singing of peace, the Kingdom of God will be established on earth."

Women are organized into small groups for the study of other countries, realizing that only by such research will they come to better understanding of the nations.

Stirring Appeal

In conclusion Mrs. Gauntlett made a stirring appeal to the West to continue sending missionaries to the Orient. The coming of Christianity has wrought great changes especially for the women and children. Although there are three hundred thousand Christian Japanese that is a small portion of population of nine billion, and while expressing their gratitude to the work of the missionaries, the Japanese ask their Western brothers and sisters to continue sending these emissaries of Christianity.

Mrs. Grace Knight on behalf of the convention presented to Miss Ferguson, Mrs. Gauntlett and to Mrs. A. H. Mackay, president of Belleville Union gold replicas of the consecration spoon used by the Archbishop of Canterbury in anointing the Sovereign of Great Britain.

Rev. George A. Little, B.D., of Toronto, addressed the convention on Home Traffic in the Dominion particularly in Ontario and urged women to work with renewed energy for the temperance cause.

At the conclusion of his address the program was brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

Delegates and visitors attending the convention commented on the beautifully arranged floral decorations at the front of the platform. Large baskets of peonies, and tall standards with ferns, graced the front of the church and made a very effective setting for the convention program.

"Mannie" Feder

Frank Mann

Considered a sequel to action of the Incorporated Canadian Racing Association action in suspending, before the spring meetings, eight well-known jockeys riding on said area Canada tracks, Murray "Mannie" Feder, 36, of Toronto, was arrested by Toronto police and charged with conspiracy to defraud. He was remanded under bail of $6,000 in his police court appearance. Named with Feder in the conspiracy charge is Jockey Frankie Mann one of the "top" riders in eastern Canada last year. The charges arose from a race run at Thorncliffe race track, Toronto on June 9, 1936, when Deedie, a Toronto-owned horse was paying $8.10 to win. Five of the eight jockeys who rode in the race are under suspension. Authorities probing the possibility that a race track "ring" existed at the time of the meeting. New York was operating on Canadian tracks, will decide if further arrests are warranted.

IMPROVEMENTS AT COUNTY BLDGS. DURING THE YEAR

Cement Floor Laid in Corridors And Cells of Jail

ACCOUNTS PAID

More Check on Pedlars Advocated by Finance Committee

Investigation of unlicensed pedlars operating in the county, by county constables was recommended in the report of the Finance Committee of the County Council submitted to council Thursday in session in Shire Hall, by Chairman O. M. Campbell.

The report also urged the co-operation of councillors in assisting to keep to a minimum the cost of indigent accounts an increase of $3,000 in which was noted over the same period of a year ago. Many improvements in County Buildings are also embodied in the report, which follows:

All matters pertaining to County business coming before your committee, also care of the buildings and property belonging to the county, have had our very best attention.

Your Committee has met twice since January.

At the February meeting certain matters referred to the committee from the Janfhry session were discussed. The matter of supporting Wm. Bowman, Hungerford, in the House of Providence, Kingston, was referred back to the County Council, and will be discussed at this session. The County Clerk was authorized to consult the Solicitor regarding the collection of $876.13 Indigent accounts for Mcnicagie Ac Hatched township, and the Solicitor laid over until the next meeting of the committee, when it was again referred back to the County Council.

The printing of the Auditor's Reports was also let by tender, and was given to the North Hastings Review, Madoc, they being the lowest tender at $1.00 per page. This is a saving of 30c per page over last year.

Paid $14,064.28 Account

Since January, a total of $16,-064.28 of indigent accounts have been paid. This is approximately $2,000 more than for the same period last year. You will notice by the this that the indigent accounts are not decreasing, and we ask the co-operation of the entire county in keeping these accounts to a minimum.

We notice that the receipts from pedlar's licenses are still quite small. To date only four licenses have been issued by the Treasurer since the beginning of the year. We would ask that County Councillors bring this to the attention of their County Council and that they also check up on the pedlars in their districts.

We would also urge that councillors keep in mind the inadvisability of excessive grants.

At the meeting of the committee held on May 11th, a grant was authorized the payment of the High School grants for 1937, as has been done previously, owing to the new amendment of School Law Amendment Act.

Drain is Completed

The drain from the cellar in Shire Hall to the storm sewer on Campbell Street has been completed early in the spring, and has made the cellar dry. Previously in the spring, the cellar was quite badly flooded, but the installation of this drain has overcome this drawback. The work was done by the Public Works Department of the city of Belleville, and cost $78.00.

As you no doubt know, the Province has now assumed the county's share of the Mothers' Allowance and Old Age Pension accounts from the first of April, last. This will make a great saving, as these two accounts cost the county approximately $45,000 a year.

Cement floors were installed in the corridors and the cells of the jail. Other than this, only ordinary repairs were done to the County Buildings.

The cement walk adjoining the Treasurer's residence has been badly broken up by trucks taking wood into the Court House yard, and has been replaced.

At this time, with the consignment Mr. Denyes, Mr. Haggerty and their staff for their co-operation and information through the year.

this country which took six weeks in a risky sail boat when he was "just a kid"—he was 64. Although he spoke little Russian, to the end he said his prayers in his native tongue. He took oath and swore allegiance to the British flag in Pembroke, Ont., his first Canadian home.

Did Not Like City.

Six years ago he moved from the Birch homestead which was taken over by his son Adam to the Home of the Aged here but he longed for the country and three years ago returned to a small dwelling near the family farm. Chopping wood, carrying water and other chores were customary to Birch as late as 1936.

Beloved in this district, the grand old man was cheered by thousands as he rode with other old-timers of this district in parade in celebration of North Bay's Old Home Week in 1935. A pipe smoker since the age of nine, Birch puffed on his favorite briar as he waved to those on the sidelines, many of whom he had seen grow from babyhood.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. J. Balcolm of Windson, Ont.; Mrs. J. Morrison of Nipissing Junction; Mrs. S. Clayton, of Sudbury; Mrs. J. Giroux, of North Bay, and three sons, Adam and Joseph of Nipissing Junction and Anthony whose address is unknown. He had about 26 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

conclusive evidence that International Trade Competition inevitably led to war, and that a policy of huge armaments serves to greatly accentuate the danger and immediateness of war; and

"Whereas there is urgent need that all available monies and credit be utilized for the rehabilitation of all sections of our distressed population:

"Therefore be it resolved that this Canadian W.C.T.U. petition the Federal Government to name a Select Standing Committee who shall immediately and thoroughly investigate:

"(a) The entire question of the manufacture, purchase and sale of munitions and armaments in Canada with all available data and information from other countries;

"(b) The extent to which the economic development of Canada is retarded by diverting Natural Resources, Primary Products, and Human Endeavor into the channels of armaments production;

"(c) The extent to which the manufacturers, purchase and sale of armaments and munitions may influence the economic conditions of the Dominion of Canada;

"(d) The extent to which the present and proposed armaments and defence expenditures can be advantageously applied to the task of Canadian Rehabilitation.

Gambling Called Anti-Social

"Gambling:-

"Whereas the Criminal Code allows certain exemptions in its gaming prohibitions to clubs and churches seeking funds for "Charitable and patriotic purposes"; and

"Whereas further exemption is now being sought whereby bingo, lotteries, slot machines and other gaming devices may be used for these purposes;

"This Canadian W.C.T.U. declares its belief that gambling is anti-social and out of harmony with the spirit of Christianity, and urges its members to discountenance all forms of gambling and to use all possible influence in discouraging this practice. Besides condemning the practice, we call upon Governments to enforce the present gaming laws and ask that no exception be made in the case of either church, service club, or other social group.

"Lord's Day:-

"Whereas that we endeavour to promote the work and principles of the Lord's Day Alliance and take our full share in apprehending those who unnecessarily buy and sell on the Sunday, and in every way give our support to the Alliance to help maintain the sanctity of Sunday.

Tobacco by Minors

"Use of Tobacco by Minors—

"Whereas the enforcement of the Dominion "Act to restrain the use of tobacco by young persons" is left to the jurisdiction of the Provincial Governments; and

"Whereas there is daily evidence upon the streets and in other public places that juveniles under the age mentioned in the Dominion Act (16 years) are able to obtain cigarettes freely;

"We recommend that the women of each province request their Provincial Governments to supply copies of "The Act Dealing with the Sale of Tobacco" to all persons licensed to sell the same and to instruct all purveyors of tobacco in any form to display such copy of the Act in a conspicuous place in their premises.

Sunday Advertising on Radio

"Alcohol:—

"Resolved that this convention of the Canadian W.C.T.U. now in session with representatives from every province do urge the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to take steps to ban all liquor advertising over the air and to eliminate all commercial advertising of any sort on Sundays. (Proposed by Mrs. E. T. Kerr.)

"The Canadian W.C.T.U. in convention assembled deplores the tremendous influence which is exerted upon young people by the showing of films depicting disregard of law and order with a very serious and unnecessary increase in scenes showing the drinking of alcohol in all its forms and hereby resolves that this matter be brought to the attention of the Board of Censors as well as to the producers in Hollywood in order that they may know the attitude of this organization. (Adapted from National Council of Women's resolution.)

Blood Test After Accidents

"Blood Test:

"Resolved that we recommend that action be taken to provide that a blood test be made in case of accidents to determine whether there is alcoholic content which would affect the drivers' efficiency and, if so, that a charge be made under the Criminal Code.-

"Nutrition:

"We ask the League of Nations to instruct its Committee on Nutrition to investigate the effect of alcohol on the nutritive value of foods and so on the health of the people.

"Alcohol and Transportation:—

"Medical opinion has demonstrated that small does of alcohol quickly affect mental alertness, and eyesight and create dangers in every kind of transportation. They reveal, on judgment, distrust attention, and slow down reaction. This Convention, therefore, calls upon the Government to prohibit the consumption of alcoholic liquors by the drivers of road vehicles, by the pilots of aircraft, by the operating personnel of railroads and water craft when on duty and for twenty-four hours before going on duty. In the interest of public safety we also ask them to prohibit the sale or supply of alcoholic beverages at airports, aboard aircraft, and to anyone preparing to operate a public conveyance.

Correspondence With Prisoners

"Prisoners:—

"Resolved that this convention petition the Department of Justice to allow accredited members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union to correspond with prisoners in our larger prisons and penitentiaries with whom they may come in contact in the local jails and have influenced for good and also help to foster the desire and in some cases the determination to live a different kind of life."

Federal Recognition Sought

The following was introduced from the floor by Mrs. E. T. Kerr, Ottawa, and unanimously carried:

"Realising the contribution that has been made to the status of women in Canada by the efforts of Mrs. Nettie McClung, the Hon. Irene Parlby, the late Judge Emily Murphy, the late Mrs. L. C. McKinney and the late Mrs. O. M. Edwards, resolved that we the Canadian Women's Christian Temperance Union earnestly petition the Federal Government that some permanent recognition be made in their honor, their accomplishments being an event in history and suggest that a plaque bearing their names with suitable inscription be placed in the Federal House."

The girl took baby Ethel and went over to a store to buy two cones of ice cream. Three minutes later Armstrong walked back into the house, to find the woman dying, a blood-stained screwdriver lying by a basin of water.

"She opened her mouth to speak, but each time the blood came out and choked her," Elsie told police. "She looked at me so pleadingly . . . it was horrible."

An inquest determined later the woman had suffered eight skull fractures.

ZELLERS FIRM ENTERS ENGLISH RETAIL TRADE

Acquires Control of Chain of Stores in United Kingdom

DEAL ANNOUNCED

Montreal, June 18—At the head offices of Zellers Limited in this city it was stated that Walter P. Zeller has just concluded negotiations in London, England, to acquire control of a new company to be registered under the name of New Universal Stores, Limited. The new company will acquire and operate a group of retail stores in leading cities of the United Kingdom, such as: Wolverhampton, Exeter, Stafford, South Shields, Hampton, Hull, Lincoln, Lowestoft, Dudley, Dundee, Dunfermline, Norwich, Ayr.

The above-mentioned stores are at present being operated under the above name by a wholly-owned subsidiary of Great Universal Stores, Limited, the largest mail order and catalogue house of its kind in Great Britain. The latter company has recently further expanded its mail order business and relinquished its retail, or over the counter store business.

Walter P. Zeller is president and chairman of the board of Zellers Limited, a Canadian-owned and Canadian-managed organization, which operates 200 stores throughout the Dominion, and which has grown in six years from a total of 12 to 31 stores. Mr. Zeller will be chairman of the board of the new British affiliate, which will have a capital of two hundred and fifty thousand pounds.

Mr. Zeller is a native-born Canadian, whose 25 years' record of outstanding achievement in the field of merchandising is well known. He has stores in Westmount, Que., and he is vice-president of the Montreal Kiwanis club.

Brock then left General Proctor in charge of the captured State of Michigan and proceeded to the Niagara Frontier to meet the United States forces under Van Rensallar. General Proctor issued a proclamation to the people of Michigan to the effect that their laws would be respected and confirmed by the Canadian authorities and also that their property and other rights would be respected.

The Canadians defeated Van Rensallar and the battle of Lundy's Lane and drove them back to the United States with serious loss. ## CANADIAN W. C. T. U. DELEGATES

This week Belleville has entertained in its homes delegates by one of the most prominent organizations in the Dominion, the Canadian Woman's Christian Temperance Union, representatives from coast to coast and from intermediate points having met here in conference. The field they have for their work and influence is one of the largest and most important dealing as it does with some of the more prominent phases of modern life on which decided opinions are held.

These women, devoted to their cause, have not hesitated at any time to voice their views and to exert their influence on the public mind.

The biennial convention hears reports from all parts of Canada and also is able to gather world data concerning the cause of temperance as to its growth among the nations of the world. They obtain a world wide view of the progress of their cause.

With their ideals of human conduct they have dedicated the aim of world peace. This society was the first organization to adopt this aim.

As the delegates leave for their homes scattered all across Canada, they carry from the friends here with whom they have been billeted and from the city pleasant memories of a most profitable and enjoyable gathering in Belleville.

Their choice of Belleville for the biennial gathering was a tribute to the local workers in their cause and to this city.

MATERIAL BACKGROUND OF NATION

Lord Tweedsmuir stands in the ideal position as a guide to Canadians in so many ways. Experienced in the diplomatic field work which is so much associated with his office and for which he was trained in his earlier years, an artist, whose sympathies are not confined to literature but touch the whole field of art and humanity and coming from an older world where the various forms of art have flourished and developed many years and periods, the Governor-General is qualified to speak on such matters as "the material background of a great nation." This was his subject in an address before the Engineering Institute of Canada when he pleaded with the engineers to aim at the aesthetic as well as the utilitarian in building.

He spoke on the balance between what is useful and what is beautiful, and of natural beauty in Canada even "where you are dealing with it in its wildest form" and said that even here the engineer should be a sort of artist, as he emphasized his view that "man-made scenery does not spoil but rather dignifies any landscape." He stressed the obvious artistic purposes particularly in bridges, which should be adequate to the grandeur of the natural setting. He foresaw Canada as the playground of North America and said visitors would add greatly to our wealth.

He called the engineers "the cyclopean architects of a land whose horizons are not limited and whose development no man can assess."

The art principle must develop in a race. Greece developed a style of architecture suited to her landscape when she had found her soul and was able to express herself. With Canada the problem is complex of course with influence of old world tyles and with the vast possibilities of a native and or North American type of art suited to the New World.

Canadians must thank Lord Tweedsmuir for this insistence upon artistic element. Engineers probably are brought more closely into keeping with the spirit of natural scenery and of the heroic nature of a people than any other class and probably see more deeply than any other group of men what is essential for the expression of art in great national undertakings, as of bridge building.

FORESEES MUCH CONSTRUCTION

An enormous amount of construction must be done in the years ahead, Harvey Wiley, New York architect, said at Columbia University the other day. He remarked that the extremely modernistic, highly stylized character of the past two or three years is settling down to a more rational basis. While architecture is in the long run an expression of the condition of the people, is never an expression of the moment, he pointed out, like the daily news columns, because there is a time lag between the conception of the artist's idea and the finished building. Speed in building has dimished this lag.

"After long experience in the world, I affirm that I never knew a rogue who was not unhappy."—Junius.

HONEYSUCKLE

Honeysuckle,
Spring,—
Birds by the window singing.
All the air rare laden with honeysuckle,
Faint, elusive, captivating.

In the kitchen one moves unaware Busily singing;
Captivating, elusive, faint yet
Persuasive as the spirit of Honeysuckle
In Spring.

The clock speeds fleeting time.
Chidjren in the yard call louder
At each turning;
Passing from infancy to age
Each ticking moment—
Building up toward a fatal hour
When like Spring, Honeysuckle, Time,
And one in the kitchen
They will fade—into oblivion.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS ARE READ BY MANY PEOPLE DAILY. Some read because they want something and hope to find it offered in the classified columns. Others read because there is a peculiar fascination about the Classified Page which makes interesting reading. There is always News on the Classified Page. News, and humor and tragedy, if you know where to find it. Folks have things which they have no longer use for and wish to turn them into money. The March of Time is evidenced by the advs. which offer baby carriages for sale, as contrasted with the WANTED which contain a request for a Baby Carriage, slightly used, preferably a PRAM, whatever that is. Attics are ransacked for saleable articles, antiques, etc., and the Classified Page bears the message. Used auto cars is offered, perhap, by some one who found that it wasn't the initial load that broke the camel's back, but the upkeep, and seek to get out from under, if you understand mixed metaphors. It is also a matter of record that men have won wives through the Classified Page, and women husbands, through discreet feelers, chaste ly barged in non-committal words on this same wonderful page. Then the Lost and Found adv's. are always interesting for folks like to know when their neighbors lose anything and contrawise are glad to rejoice with them when the Lost is Found in the Found column. Wanted column is capable of innumerable surprises for the Wants of man are many and never satisfied and the Wants of Women—who can number them? Then there is generally a Personal column which may contain most anything, and on this page generally is posted the Births, Marriages and Deaths, among the most important happenings of the day, known in the rural press in days gone by as the Cradle, The Altar and The Tomb. That gives you a general idea of the importance of the Classified Page where messages are printed at so much a word, twenty words for thirty cents, for instance, three insertions for seventy-five cents. Its popularity among readers has always been high. If you are not acquainted with the pleasures of the Classified Page, try and make up for your loss by beginning at once to be a daily reader.

When You Enter Traffic

WHEN we enter or leave a store we are all most courteous. We stand back for one another, hold open the doors, make way for the children and otherwise act in a most courteous manner towards our fellow-shoppers. But do we continue this same friendly mental attitude towards each other when we get back into our cars and enter traffic again? Do we follow-shoppers, for whom we held the door open, do we show courtesy when he becomes our fellow-motorist?

Do we warn him of our intention to pass by sounding our horn? Having passed him, do we get well ahead of him before swinging back again into our traffic lane? Do we dip our dim our lights when we meet him at night? Do we keep well to the right side of the road when meeting him? Do we give him the benefit of the doubt in a "fight" for the right of way, or push out of it unhurt? And do we, in the many other ways that come to our mind, act and think towards our fellow-motorist in the same kindly and considerate manner as we did when we held the door open for him as a fellow-shopper?

I earnestly request that, when you get behind the wheel of your car or truck, you continue to be the same courteous person that you are afoot and "Try Courtesy" when you "Enter Traffic."

By so doing you will help to make motoring a safe and enjoyable mode of travelling.

West Belleville Church Spire Is Removed After 61 Years

Tower Will be Covered With Roof Which Will Replace Steeple

SPIRE HAS HISTORY

West Belleville's one spire has disappeared and only the remnants of the steeple remain to be taken down.

Built in 1876 Holloway Street Methodist Church has a modern tower of brick construction rising some distance above the peak of the roof and on this foundation was built that spire of framework covered with cedar shingles with the pinnacle many feet above the tower. There for sixty-one years it has weathered the storm and wind and rain, a landmark for the entire West End.

But it is then no more. It has been removed because the time was fast pinning to wreak its revenges against the structure. There at no time was danger of collapse of the top of the spire because it had been fully protected against such a contingency by the supports within the spire, but the very top itself was showing decay and the church board recently decided to make the most momentous change which the church exterior has known architecturally, to take down the spire and roofing over the tower. Henceforth a flat deck hence the church will take on quite a different look, its aspiring steeple gone, one of the most pictorial sign posts of that part of the city. The tower, however, fits in admirably with the design of the church.

Steeplejacks at Work

Three steeplejacks from Trenton were secured and these undertook the work of demolishing the spire. They removed the tall spire piece by piece, working at the pinnacle with about ten feet of the spire itself, then cutting at the supports from the inside they weakened the strength of the spire and brought down the top with the case with which a practised woodsman fells a tree. So adept were they in their work and so accurate in their judgment that the top fell to the ground towards Hillside Street without as much as doing the slightest damage to the roof of the church or the front of the building.

Local carpenters have been busy since taking down the lower portion of the spire. The solidity of portion part like that of above was indicated by the multitude of joists and beams which projected into the air as the roof part of the building was taken off. Once the spire is all down, the roofing of the tower will be started.

The Spire and History

There is history in that 'there spire.

This steeple, the sign of man's aspiration for the highest in life and in purity of soul and in its ambition, was once the retreat of two men who had fled from the law a citizen after they had been seen following a break-in at an axe factory on Mill Street about fifty years ago. One man traced a pair of them and saw them go into Holloway Street Church. As workmen were passing on their way to work early that morning he informed them of what had occurred. The men kept watch with him and one of them hurried all the way to the police station (there being no telephones like phones at in those days) and notified the police. Constable John Newton, who later became Chief Constable, answered the alarm and went to the church. Someone he went in and climbed up into the tower and finding that ladders led no further up among the wood work, he summoned them to come down. The two men did come down and the gallant officer "marched" them to the police station. That story was one of the most thrilling in police annals of half a century ago in Belleville.

Mr. Patrick Hayes, Catherine Street, a former sergeant of police here was a very young constable at that time and was not on duty on that day long ago, he told the Ontario Intelligencer, when his attention was drawn to the fact that the spire was being removed. He remembered the time very well, he said.

WRECKERS ANNOUNCED

Moscow (Tass)—A sixty-man undisclosed number of supposed counter-revolutionary wreckers have been arrested in the archdiocese of Tashkent, in Asiatic Russia, it was declared today.

Seven officials of the Middle Asian Railway shops have been convicted on charges of sabotage. Reports also referred to others but were not clear as to the extent of the round-up of alleged saboteurs. Neither were any clues about what had become of the prisoners.

THE SAFE, SENSIBLE WAY TO RELIEVE CONSTIPATION

Every one knows the dangers of constipation. Pills and drugs usually bring only temporary relief. But a sensible way to relieve constipation is due to meals low in "bulk."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a delicious "bulk" that does not break down in the body as does that of cereal leafy vegetables. ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water and forms a soft mass that gently sponges the intestines.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a food—not a medicine. In addition to "bulk"—it gives vitamin B to tone up the system, and iron for the blood. It is a healthful way to get rid of constipation and all its evils.

Eat two tablespoonfuls daily with milk or cream—three times a day in severe cases. Or use it in making bran muffins, breads, in salads or soups. Guaranteed by Kellogg in London.

The final score was 13 to 8 in favor of Toronto. Our boys considering the short practices they have had and the strength of their opponents, have every reason to be well pleased with themselves. Mayor W. H. Bigger umpired the game to the satisfaction of both teams. The features of the game were Frank Lewis' home run in the 7th innings and that of Slattery of Toronto, in the 8th innings. ## Little Benny's Note Book

My sister Gladdis and Harvey came around after supper, and they was tawking to ma and pop about diffrent subjects, ma saying, I see by the papers there's likely to be still another woman ambassador, isn't that wonderful?

And pop kno women down forever, Gladdis said, and pop said, You cant keep them down for a minute, but the point is, they ought to be employed in jobs that their naturel capabilities make them suitable for.

Hear, hear, Gladdis said, and ma said, Hark yes all, and pop said, I'm no anty feminist, pop by a long shot, in fact I believe women is the finest flower of the female sex. Her intuition is justly famous, in other words her mentality is functional rather than intellectual. The cold calm reasoning ability that distinguishes a man's intellect is just simply no part of a woman's equipment, that's all, he said.

3 cheers and 4 sneezes, Gladdis said, and ma said, Isn't it marvelous, how all that wisdom can get into one head. Let's change the subject for land sakes. Did you get that little package that came for you, what was it? she said.

O, that, I want to tell you about that, Harvey, pop said. It's the greatest invention you ever knew of. It's a little toy size razor that just fits the upper lip. In fact that's all it's intended for, just to shave the upper lip. You know what a nuisance it is to fit the ordinary razor under your nose. Well, this contraption solves the upper lip problem, and for the rest of your face you just use your usual razor, he said, and ma said, 2 razors for one face, for my, did you buy that in a form of cash, Mr. Micawber?

My stars, father, no woman's intuition would of permitting her to buy a thing like that, I'm proud to say. Doesn't your masculine pride still ake from the effort? she said, and pop said, O, let's get down to brass tacks, I'm going to.

Which they did.

County Council, Corporation Will Unite to Ask Government To Make Street Suburban Rd.

Committee From Both Bodies Will Go to Toronto Soon

FAIR GRANTS PASSED

County Asked to Lose No Time in Attracting Tourists

A delegation consisting of specially appointed committees of the Hastings County Council and Belleville City Council will wait upon the Department of Highways, Toronto some time this summer, to recommend that the Provincial Government take over the road known as College Street, starting from the Canadian National Railway Roundhouse, extending eastward across the Tweed road passing Albert College and crossing the Moira road to the Sidney boundary and connecting with the County Road at the Rubber Plant, as a suburban road, it was decided at the afternoon session of the County Council yesterday.

This decision followed a request by a committee of the Belleville City Council, composed of Mayor R. D. Arnold, Chairman of Public Works; Clarence Clapp, and City Engineer Charles Mott, for County Council to collaborate with city officials in reaching a solution for a permanent remedy for the deplorable condition of this road.

Road Dependable

"The city feels, that something should be done regarding this road", Mayor Arnold, spokesman for the City Committee, stated in his remarks to council. "We cannot see the advisability of spending large sums yearly in repairs. We would like to reach a permanent solution, either by means of a new road or a suburban one for which the city, county council and the government would share the cost. The city would share the cost. The city would finance it, but owing to limited finances will be unable to do anything this year, but we would like to see something started, and are willing to cooperate with the County in any way."

Chairman of Roads, James Moore stated that the government would have to be approached and asked to take over this road before it could, be made a suburban highway. "As far as finances are concerned," he said, "the county is in the same boat as the city. We have no money with which to do anything on project this year."

Warden Gray: "By making the street a suburban highway, the cost would be split up. If this council applies to the government to take over the road with that view in mind, we can draft a bylaw to that effect and present it at our December session."

Mayor Arnold:: "We want something done, as this road has already cost both the city and the county too much money. It should be dealt with in a permanent way. And I think the suburban Mile is a splendid one. The city will be glad to assist in any way and will appoint a committee to act with a county one in approaching the government."

County Council then appointed Chairman of Roads, James Moore, Road Superintendent Simeon Fox, and Warden Wesley Gray as committee to represent the County at Hastings on the joint conference of delegations from other officials of the government.

Urges Efforts For Tourist Trade

Urging council to lose no time "in attracting the golden harvest of the tourist business," Mr. J. O. Herity, representing the Ontario Motor League, in addressing Belleville Motor Club, in an address to council yesterday stressed the fact that "Hastings County people should take more effort collectively and individually, to get its fair share of the three hundred million dollars, which, it is estimated, will be spent in Canada this summer by tourists."

"This expenditure means a tremendous lot to the country, and I don't think we realize its importance in this district, or the possibility of what we might share", said Mr. Herity. "These expenditures are to be made and I hope every individual of the municipalities represented here will use every effort, publicity and otherwise, to attract these tourists."

"There were two things, which saved Canada from repudiation and bankruptcy during the dark days of the depression," the speaker continued. "The first was the gold-mining industry and the second was the tourist trade. The latter has grown to the an extent, that it is now Canada's fourth largest industry."

"I am not here to ask for money, but to suggest that all take a decider interest in the tourist business and its importance to this county. The estimated cost of one pound of game fish was placed at $60.00 to an American tourist, and this money is spent here.

"I hope I have sown a seed that will bring results", concluded the speaker, "and that you will do what you can to speed up communications, better roads and publicity. I am not recommending that you waste money, but to lose no time to attract here the golden harvest of the tourist business."

Concur in Resolution

Concurrence with the Wentworth County Council in petitioning the Government to reduce the cost of licence markers on farmers' pre-dunk trucks was decided by the council.

Regarding the offer made by the Department of Highways to purchase a strip of land extending fifty four feet south of the highway and running the full width of the property owned by the County of Hastings Home on No. 2 Highway, one mile east of the city, a special committee composed of members of the Board of Management of the County Home, and the respective Chairmen of the Finance and Roads Committees, was appointed to thoroughly investigate the offer.

On motion it was decided that the regular Land Sale would be conducted in the County this fall.

A motion to the effect, that the County petition the Department of Game and Fisheries, to issue licenses to the farmers and farmers' sons of the county at a fee of one dollar for hunting within the said county, brought about a mild discussion before being carried.

Reeve D. R. Ketcheson, Frankford:—"Why not issue them to the residents of the county. Why pick out the farmers?"

Reeve Hubbell, Faraday.:—"I am afraid the government will laugh at this. Anyone who can afford to hunt can afford to pay the extra say $4 license."

Going into committee of the Whole on Ways and Means, Council unanimously passed grants of $100.00 to the Hastings County Cheesemakers taking part in the Eastern Ontario Cheesemakers Convention held here, the money to be used as prize money; $75.00 for the Championship School Fair to be held in Stirling, and $35.00 to Mr. Joseph Wilson, Agriculture Representative at Stirling for Boys and Girls' Club work in Agriculture.

Fair Grants Passed

Then a lively debate ensued before the motion granting $175.00 to the Belleville Fair Board, and $100.00 each to the County Fairs was finally passed by the Ways and Means Committee.

Reeve Ketcheson, Frankford, moved an amendment, that the grants be the same as those of a year ago, $125.00 to Belleville and $75.00 to the county fairs.

Warden Gray: "I cannot see where the grant is increased this year are too much. These people work hard and are deserving of the support of this council. In fact, I want to see the Belleville grant increased to $200."

Reeve J. L. Churcher: "We are suffering an agricultural depression and any money spent on agriculture is well spent. This council should promote agriculture rather than instead of sitting down on them."

Reeve Geo. Jordan: "We of the Committee viewed the question from all angles and felt, that we could extend the grants this year."

Reeve Cranston: "In my opinion in view of the fact, that we are living in an agricultural depression we would do all we can to promote these fairs, but there should not be any discrimination shown between the Belleville Fair and the county ones. Give them all the same grants."

Reeve Bristol, Madoc: "Madoc has the best fair in the county, is centrally located and is deserving of everything it can get. The county fairs are entitled to as much consideration as the city ones."

Directors Work Hard

Warden Gray: "The Fair Directors have worked hard under adverse circumstances and are deserving of more consideration. The fair here is not a city one but a county fair. The prize money generally goes to the people in the district and I feel their grant should be increased to $200.00. When they suffered heavy losses, their lot in life did not decrease one cent the following year and I think the government should be big enough to increase their grant."

Amendment following amendment but council, learning, that the motion in view of the fact, that it was a money bylaw, the body could not be changed, withdrew its various motions and amendments and the grants were passed at the original figure of $175.00 to Belleville Fair Board and $100.00 each to the county fairs.

Grants of $100.00 each to the Red Cross Hospitals at Bancroft and Coe Hill were passed by council.

Complaints that an eleven ½" stretching of road north of the village of Madoc, had not been covered with dustlayer was made by Reeve Bristol, Madoc, and Marmora Township. "This road is in a terrible condition and something should be done right away to remedy it."

No Estimates Made

"This piece of road", stated James Moore of the Roads Committee, "is supposed to have been taken over by the government, in fact any day we expect to hear, that they have done so. To apply dustlayer to such a short piece would be a waste of money."

Reeve Bristol of Madoc Village, concurred with Reeve Nickle, that the road was in a deplorable condition as regards dust, and moved that the Roads Committee get in touch with the government with regard to the immediate application of dustlayer. This motion carried.

Following the disposition of several hospital accounts, Superintendent Ruston, of the Children's Aid Society presented printed copies of his report to Council. Expressing his pleasure at making his twenty-first appearance before Council, Captain Ruston voiced his extreme appreciation of the splendid co-operation he had received from the Council and its individual members in the discharge of his duties. "Regarding my office", he said, "we are finding more homes through the Delegates were urged to enter zealously into the proposed program by acting upon the ideas contained in the report. Among the recommendations were the following:

the great need of increasing funds in local, provincial, and national budgets in order to carry on any successful campaign of temperance education, we recommend that our organizations give attention primarily to providing for regular and specific needs in our own organization, seeing that their own local and provincial budgets are met before giving freely to outside interests that feel no definite or personal responsibility for the success of our organization.

We recommend that Unions be urged to give leadership in Education on the narcotic problem, dealing especially with the effect of tobacco on youth and urge the increase of smoking-among women, and that a programme be taken up at least once a year in each Union on Narcotic Medical Temperance and Social Hygiene combined, and that each Union see that a copy of the law governing the sale of cigarettes to minors be conspicuously displayed.

We recommend that in provinces where liquor is advertised publicity we petition the Provincial Legislatures to prohibit the same, and that each Province be urged to observe any further increase of sale of beverage alcohol while protecting such restrictions as it involves.

We recommend that a plan of higher type advertising be developed—the signs to be prepared nationally and each province arranging for their use according to the laws that may govern in its own section.

Whereas the Government of our Provinces, except one, are at the present time in the business to recommend that agitation and organization begin at once for placing a referendum clause on ballots at either man or woman in every ridding, for voting at elections both Provincial and Federal.

Whereas the dope traffic in Canada has increased at an alarming rate and has become a menace to the nation in its far reaching effects we recommend a more intensive study of this evil by our members and a stronger campaign of education in this department of our work through the press, in the school, and women's and Y.P.B. groups.

SALEM W. M. S.

The regular monthly meeting of the Salem W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Beth Leslie on Wednesday, June 2, 1937.

The meeting opened by the president Mrs. Leslie reading the lesson followed by singing together hymn 260, and Mrs. Hannon of Mirmed led in prayer. Mrs. C. Hagerman read the Scripture lesson, the 61st Psalm.

It was decided to have a lawn social at the church on the 23rd of June.

Mrs. Leslie is sending a donation to China to help to provide food for the children.

Hymn 240 was sung Bernice and Mrs. Robinson sang a beautiful duet "No Disappointment Over Heaven". A Temperance reading by Mrs. Haight.

At the close of the program an autograph quilt was presented to Mrs. (Rev.) Allen, who left for Mr. M. S. and friends of Salem.

Mrs. Clarke Hartleigh replied, expressing her appreciation for their thoughtfulness and kindness in giving her the quilt.

After which another hymn was sung.

The address which was read by the president Mrs. Leslie is as follows:

Mrs. (Rev.) W. H. Clarke:

Dear Friend:—

It is with pleasure mingled with feelings of regret that we have gathered with your companionship in our W. M. S. meeting this afternoon.

We have always been pleased to have you with us in our meetings but today there is a note of sadness when we come face to face with the fact that you are soon to be leaving our circuit.

Your quiet, sympathetic personality has been a source of great comfort and stay to many, the memo ry of which shall long linger in our midst.

You have always been willing to help in every way as far as health and opportunity permitted, and at all time we have of your interest and prayers in our behalf. We feel that we have all been benefitted by our meeting with you from time to time in our church service and in our homes.

Your bright manner and cheerful smile will ever be remembered by your friends you leave behind.

Just a little remembrance from Salem W. M. S. and friends we ask you Mrs. Clarke to accept this friendship quilt, not for its value but in the spirit of which the name of the gift implies namely "Friendship".

As memories blossom with the years and you with Mr. Clarke may some times look over these names, may they recall many pleasant recollections of your nine years sojourn with Salem congregation.

Our very best wishes accompany your both, also your family for renewed health to enjoy life and many years of usefulness in the Master's service.

Signed on behalf of W. M. S. Mrs. Tron Leslie, President; Mrs. Jared Hanna, Vice President;

Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck in "This Is My Affair"

Two great stars, Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck achieve their true greatness together in "This Is My Affair," the picture the world is talking about, coming to the Belle tomorrow (Saturday) and Monday, matinee daily.

In "This Is My Affair," both Taylor and Miss Stanwyck find the most important story either one has ever had, a dramatic account of a love that seemingly courageous and unashamed, endangering the nation's highest places and gambling life itself for a higher stake. As Taylor McLaglen, who leads the strong antagonist, it made the strongest role he has had since his powerful characterization in "The Informer" earned him the acclaim award of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

A picture in the mood of great romance, with the surge of mighty drama, "This Is My Affair" not only provides Robert Taylor with a highly prize-ready role, although Barbara Stanwyck to match his greatness with the acting power and full scope for the first time, but it gives them their supreme opportunity to play together, together.....to be together, to act together, to become greater together.

The exciting events of "This Is My Affair" take place at the turn of the century, when the stability of the nation is threatened by an unprecedented series of sensational bank robberies in the Middle West. In a desperate move, President Mc-Kinley calls upon a young Lieutenant, Robert Taylor, who has the brilliant record under Admiral Dewey.

Sworn to secrecy, Taylor is instructed to disgrace himself in the Army, to be dishonorably discharged, ostensibly to find his way to the bank robbers. Information turned up in his case is forwarded to the outlaws in a specially marked envelope which Taylor is brought to him unopened. No one, not even Admiral Dewey or Secretary Hay, knows the secret he is told of his plan.

In a mid-western city known as a criminal centre, Taylor meets a cafe owner, Victor McLaglen; his right-hand man, Sidney Dooley; and the singing and dancing star of the show, Barbara Stanwyck. Hearing that the trio have come into large sums of money through mysterious channels, Taylor notes that their absence from the cafe coincides with a bank robbery in another city.

Pressing his attentions on Barbara in the film star's dressing room, Taylor fails deeply in love with her, but goes through with his plan. Her apparent thrillingly to a dramatic climax which finds Taylor apprehending the bank robbers, even captured with—the gang during a bank robbery in which a secret service man is killed. He learns that the one man who could clear him of the murder charge, has been assassinated.

The strong supporting cast includes Sidney Blackmer, John Carradine, Alan Dinehart, Douglas Dumbrille, Helen Lowell, Frank Conroy and Sig Rumann.

"No Disappointment Over Heaven" wrote the music and lyrics for the three atmospheric songs of the film. "Little Sweet Pea" a funny negro ballad, and "Swing Low" a spiritual, will be exhibited on the same program.

George Arliss, Leaving

"Man of Affairs," the sestful and thrilling romantic-adventure story that was brilliantly adapted from Neil Grant's stage play, "The Netson Touch," comes to George Arliss to the screen of the Belle Theatre last night amid unstinted praise.

George Arliss turns in two of the most polished and sophisticated performances of his career in portraying the contrasting roles. The dramatic interest of the story is in the capable hands of Rene Ray, mastered with banisters Kerrith Lunge. The story unwind with sparkle, humor and charm.

Many interesting Pathe Topics, a funny Johnny Arthur comedy "Hiring Help" and a splendid Movietoneel Musical Revue precede the George Arliss feature attraction.

The entire program will be repeated again tonight for the last times.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE
(Close)

Toronto, June 18 (CP)—Prices perked up slightly this afternoon on the Toronto share market but buyers displayed no enthusiasm for advance and the result was low aggregate trading, totalling around 40,000 shares. International Nickel gave strong leadership to the base metals and mining gains were showing in the group at the close, while golds and oils were also irregularly higher at the finish and the industrial group was fractionally more gains than losses.

Nickel traded in comparatively heavy volume at an advance of 1 3-4 to 58 7-8 and Noranda and Hollinger, Sherritt Gordon, Howey down and Sudbury Basin weakened a few cents.

Senior golds made the best showing in the yellow metal group. Dome, Hollinger Lake Shore and McIntyre added fractions and the close was at the top. Oils were active for Pioneer. Wright Hargraves, Ven Hughes, Kirk Lake and Kirkland Lake O'Brien churned about over a wide range, selling down to 7.30 and closing around 7.55 for a net gain of 20 cents.

The industrial share division was dull on the whole. Senior changed issues were Consolidated Mining and Smelting showing for Imperial Oil, British American, International Nickel and McColl common and in the list of Juniors the closer was Fanny Farmer 20 1-2 for British Dominion, A. P. Consolidated, Gypsum and Canada Dredge 43.

Utilities harbored some soft spots. Brazilian, Consumers Gas, International Utilities A and the Winnipeg Electric issues were down while Bell Telephone was up on good volume and Union Gas improved narrowly. Waterloo common and Distillers-Seagrams finished with gains of 1-4 to 1-2.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, June 18—(AP)—Selected stock extended their advance moderately in today's market but many others were down in the backgound by profit selling.

While hope for peace on the United States Steel battlefront were a bit firmer, some traders raked in at least part of their gains on yesterday's rally.

In generally slow dealings Utilities and a few Oils, Rails and Specialties were favored. Transfers were about 700,000 shares.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Biggar and Crawford by Financial Service.

MARKET COMMENT

Now that the gold question is fading into the background the markets are taking the line of the most unfavorable effect on the New York market which in turn has affected locally. The public has not yet been able to regain its former confidence although the majority of market commentators feel that the decline has been overdone and the most issues are at attractive levels.

F. O'Hearn & Co. present the following opinion on the market:—

"We are now fully of the opinion that the reaction has run its course —that the decline has bottomed out —that the technical position of the market is now better than it has been for a long time—and that the fundamental conditions underlying general business and the markets are now even better than those which existed prior to the last big bull market in August 1929, which gained the current reaction merely as a much needed correction, or interruption, in a major bull swing. We look for a gradual re-establishment of confidence and a return to much higher price levels in the stock market."

American Stocks Could be Listed Here to an Advantage

The many restrictions imposed by Washington make trading on the New York Stock Exchange very unattractive and should the margin requirements be advanced as many believe they will, to 100 per cent it is believed that some of the leading issues could be listed here with a change might be listed here. Stocks like U.S. Steel, General Motors, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Chrysler and American Tel. and Tel. would be a large influence in this country and because of this it would seem advantageous to have such issues on the Canadian Exchanges and the large American traders do their purchasing through Canada which now—more are to follow.

Indians Play Like Bushers Once They Leave Wigwam; Cards Belted by Philadelphia

Have Lost Three Straight to Yanks Since Taking Road

/RED SOX WIN TWO

Dizzy Dean Not Feeling Right And Hit Hard by Phillies

By SID FEYDER

Associated Press Sports Writer

There's no place like home, sweet home for those Indians from Cleveland.

Put them in their own ballwick and they look like money in the bank. Send them on the road and they flounder around like a basketful of freshly caught fish.

For three years they've had one of the strongest clubs on paper, in the American League. Year after year, the "experts" have named them a top pennant contender. Yet, that habit of leaving their winning ways in Cleveland has shut them out of the pennant chase each time. Last year, it even cost them a first division berth.

It appears they haven't changed a bit. Only last week they concluded a fairly successful home stand with 11 victories against eight defeats. At one time during the Cleveland stay, they were as high as second place.

Lou Dailey Affair

Unfortunately the schedule forced them to pack up and take to the road again. And, unfortunately, their first stop in the east was at Yankee Stadium. They landed in New York Tuesday and since then dropped three straight to the Yankees, losing a daffy 8-7 affair yesterday in which the Yankee homerun hitters came from behind with a five-run splurge in the seventh.

Young Jack Wilson and old Rube Walberg turned in a pair of tight pitching performances yesterday to give the Red Sox both ends of the Shibe Hill Day doubleheader, 5-3 and 3-2, the latter going 10 innings.

Only one other game in the big leagues got by old man weather on yesterday's program as the rest of the American League and all but a single National League contest were rained out.

Dizzy Dean, admittedly not feeling his best, was belted over by the Phillies' power hitters in the only National League contest and the Cardinals went down 13-7.

A WILD PITCH CAUSE OF LOSS

Bots Nekola of Toronto Throws One Away to be Beaten 2-1

By The Associated Press

Invading clubs of the International League are finding a trip to Jersey City a certain "road block" these days before or after meeting Edwards's powerful Bears.

Montreal Royals are the latest guests to take advantage of the hospitality of Jersey City's little Athletic Bowlen, in four of their six games since leaving with three out of the defeats at the hands of the Bears' pitching staff. Baltimore Orioles regained their winning habits at the expense of the Giants.

They took both ends of a double-header yesterday from Travis Jackson's players, winning the final game 2-1 in 13 innings and 'taking the five inning nightcap by 4-3.

Don Brennan was socked for five hits and four runs by Royals before rain halted the second battle. It was his second defeat in as many starts since joining the Giants.

Bears took a 4-3 ten-inning thriller from Rochester Red Wings in the first game of another doubleheader bill but a heavy downpour halted the afterpiece in the sixth inning with the teams deadlocked at three-all. Nolan Richardson, Bears' shortstop, was the unsung hero of their attack. He poked a single during the bot in being home the winning run in the opener and belted home the tieing tally in the nightcap with a triple.

Bill Lohrman, Orioles consistent right-hander, scored his seventh victory of the season as the Birds defeated Toronto 2-1 in a twilight encounter. The night half of the scheduled twin-bill was rained out. Bots Nekola, Toronto southpaw, netted his own game in the fifth inning when he heaved a wild pitch to send home the winning run.

The Buffalo-Syracuse night double header was rained out.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

Associated Press Sports Writer

Grand Beach, Mich., June 18—(AP)—Ray Arcel and Whitey Bimstein, two crack New York fight trainers, blew in today to help Doc Robb handle Jimmy Braddock against Joe Louis. Arcel and Bimstein used to be partners...They fell out and haven't spoken for years...But they'll work together like brothers in Braddock's corner Tuesday night...That's the fight racket for you...Four hundred of the 600 newspaper men who asked for working press tickets will get 'em...Nate Lewis, Chicago promoter, who knows what's going on in fight circles, says if the ancient City of New York money rolls into the loop over the week-end, Louis will be a four to one favorite...If the odds are that high, we're grabbing some.

Joe Louis collected $240,000 for beating Max Baer...He got $140,000 for the Max Schmeling fight ...$60,000 when he beat Carnera ...$32,000 for the Al Ettore Philadelphia engagement and $53,00 for battering old King Levinsky in Chicago...His share of Tuesday's ate may be around $250,00...You read these dazzling figures, and find it hard to believe that just three years ago Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune, advanced Joe $15 to go to Chicago from Detroit and fight in a Golden Gloves tournament...So far, Louis has earned a total of $750,000 for the ring, a far cry from the $50 he got for his first pro fight.

And here's still another angle. It is probable that Jimmy Braddock, who has earned less than any champion in recent years, will draw down the largest purse since the days of Gene Tunney for the fight with Louis...Braddock is flat broke, but he won't be after Tuesday night...And if he licks the Bomber and goes on to fight Max Schmeling, win lose or draw he can quit the ring almost a millionaire...There's the fight racket for you again.

Then there's the certain member of the County Council, now in session at Shire Hall, who contends he has wrestled every lumberjack in North Hastings. "Why I've rassled over 70 men in my short career and only lost to three," boasted the County Councilman. "Are you going down to the wrestling bouts at the Arena tonight?" queried a rather skeptical newshound of the councilman on Wednesday. "Gosh, are they built? a really honest to goodness rasslin' show here in town? Guess I'll go and see a rasslin' bout," stated the north countryman putting emphasis on the 'rassling.'

Elsewhere in today's issue we are publishing a letter received yesterday from George Pepper, that was mailed from the Isle of Man on June 7th, seven days prior to his first race. The letter not only explains the difficulties experienced by green and seasoned riders alike, but gives a general description of the course. Although George did not mention the altitude, we understand there is an altitude record to be established in certain parts of the course. In George's absence the Quinte Motorcycle Club is continuing their plans for the 200 mile Canadian road race scheduled for Labor Day, however.

In order that the attending large crowds may be accommodated, various players on the Belleville baseball team, Cecil Delaney has requested we publish the local lineup, including the numbers worn by the Rovers before tonight's game versus the Norwood Terriers. The lineup will be (Name, position, number): Clay 2; Goodier 3; 'Step' Day 4; Burke 5; O'Hara 6; Whirling (relief) 6; Lalone 7; Logie 9; Murphy 10; Hudson 11; Sharpe 12; Mc-Gould 13 Kerr 14 and Slim Burden 15.

Commenting upon the Rovers, Harry Hall, secretary-manager of Central Ontario Lacrosse League, says "any kind of a game staged between Belleville and the Air Stations is a sure knock", referring of course to lacrosse. Harry says there is no connection whatsoever with the R.C.A.F. and Belleville in the team, which may be all the true, but after planting over the Rovers' line-up we find only three Belleville players while there are seven members of the Airport included in the above line-up. Then there are players from Trenton, Deseronto and Napanee also included. The Rovers' outfit is the cause is doubtlessly the greatest regardless.

At last night's session who Belleville's famed "Mighty Atom" whiffed in that memorable game, so many years ago, to plunge Madvillet baseball bugs into the depths of despair, has been brought to light. Don Fairbairn, poet laureate of the Evening Bulletin, Philadelphia, reveals the explanation as follows:

The ball fans always wondered, and Mr Madville most of all
Why the mighty Mr. Casey did not clout that final ball,
Did not poke the old potato into stratospheric space,
When the winning runs were rotting there on third and second base.

Now a cousin of a neighbor of great Casey's furnace man,
Who was there that eve' when he came home to meet the sheering pan
Of his wife, and her six brothers, and a dozen other guys,
Relates the whole thing on a basboy who had bandy-legged eyes.

He was never seen before then, and he vanished with the game,
Like those runts in Little Nemo which they tell us did the same,
He had red hair and was toothless and he said his name was 'Buck'
And his every inning age and size 'was a-dripping with bad luck.

Casey took the bat he handed, then he fell "all odd" he said.
At the plate the awful vision of the optics filled his head.
Later, they whiffed him, but he realized as the fans groaned to to the skies.
He was hoo-dooed by the urchin with the double-crossing eyes!

Harry Robinson, Belleville's perennial boxing enthusiast is taking in the Louis-Braddock fight at Chicago on Tuesday and predicts Braddock will make matters interesting for the Brown Bomber for about seven or eight rounds. "Look for the colored lad to flatten the challenger any time after that, though," predicted Robinson today.

Reports from the training camps of the two fighters leave an impression that Braddock will be in better condition for a fight and the same prognostication Louis is centreing his training on defensive work, much as the past the Detroit Bomber has used his flinging leather for protoness sake. His present attitude leads some fight followers to believe that defeat he received at the hands of Max Schmeling has made him slightly self-conscious. Some think a repetition of zoe han circumstance Braddock has not, despite his title aims that memorable night when a practical unknown wrested the crown from the play boy Maxie Baer, but experts claim the champ is hitting much harder now, than when he beat Baer. The odds are dropping on Louis, however.

Behind the three hit pitching of Jack Bush, the Canniffton "Sluggers" rung up their sixth successive victory in the North Hastings League on Wednesday. They Canniffton nine gave Bush a running start by scoring four times in the initial frame while Shannonville counted a run in the initial frame and two in the fifth. Canniffton added two more runs and wn 9-2. Graham, the Shannonville nemesiboss, touched hard and often for base hits, Bush limiting the homesters to a double and two singles as he struck out seven in as many innings played. Keppen, Cole and Meens led the Canniffton attack as they continued to run away with their league.

Vinny Utronki, former Belleville pitching-outfielder is going great guns up in the Niagara District loop. On Wednesday Vinny literally won his own game as he poled out three timely hits for St. Catharines as they won 17-3. Utronki experienced little trouble on the hilltop. Apparently our erstwhile Vinny is either having a new lease of his pitching life, or the brand of baseball in the Niagara loop is far below the class played in the O.O.B.L. We are inclined to favor the latter suggestion.

R. C. A. F. FLYERS AT TOP OF LOOP

Softball Team Has Only Lost One Game in Five Starts

Trenton, June 18 (Special)— R. C. A. F. Flyers are riding on the crest of the town softball league, having won four games and lost only one in five starts. The airmen suffered their lone defeat at the hands of Capitol Theatre nine in the early part of the schedule. Graham's garage team are standing on the second rung of the Y. M. C. A. ladder with two victories and one setback, while the Cenerarcon and C.N.R. teams find the third position each with a pair of wins and a pair of losses. Wooler is deep in the cellar not having garnered a single win in four starts.

Players Transferred

Air Force Softball Club lost the services of their slurry short stop, Thomas, tricky infield sacker Cable, sturdy backstop Maddison and outfielder Dolan when No. 2 Army Co-Operation and No. 2 Bombing Squadron was transferred to Ottawa this week. But the Flyers gained two equally capable players when Snider and Ziffle came in from the Trenton Air Force. The latter performs in centre field and the former is a moundsman with plenty of steam and twist to his offerings. Johnnie Lalonde stellar defenceman for the Flyers' hockey team last winter filled the vacancy at first base and Gibson is behind the bat.

Box Lacrosse Here

Sport fans of Trenton will witness the first game of box lacrosse ever staged here tonight when Belleville Rovers and Norwood clash in the Arena on Quinte St. The Belleville aggregation is comprising players from Napanee, Belleville, R.C.A.F. and Trenton copped their last start at Cobourg by defeating the Durham town's aggregation 17-15 in a contest, that was packed as fast and rough by onlookers.

TRAINING GRIND IS NEARLY OVER

By EARL HILLIGAN

Chicago, June 18—(AP)—Looking forward to a final "big push" this week, Chicago officials and promoters alike marked time today in their preparations for the heavyweight championship battle Tuesday night between champion James J. Braddock and challenger Joe Louis.

Both fighters, almost trained down to ring weight, rested at their respective camps. Braddock, who scaled 190 pounds in weighing-in for the day quietly, even foregoing golf. Louis relaxed with a game in a motion picture at Kenosha, Wis.

Braddock will box six rounds today with Jimmy Bivins, Louis will do his training wind-up. Louis also will box six rounds, but with those days before packing to swat his shoe shine boy, Braddock.

On the promotional end, practically all arrangements have been completed.

Mike Jacobs, associated with Joe Foley in promoting the contest, said about $700,000 was "in the bank" in Loop advance sales and that he still was confident the fight will sell out all 80,000 seats.

Letters to the Editor

Douglas, I. O. M., June 7, 1937

Dear Ken:

Sorry I haven't written before but up until today all it has done is rain.

I arrived here June 2 and went around the course four times to see what it was like.

The course starts off at the bandstand, goes down a hill called Brayhill. This hill is about as long as the hill at Oak Lake, but is much steeper. After this hill the road winds through Union Mills, Kirkmichael, Balaugh, Sulby and Ramsey, all towns. From Ramsey you start up the mountain which is generally in fog. You come down the other side of the mountain and through more twists until you reach the start again.

There are so many bends in the course that it is hard to learn it but I hope to know it fairly well before the race.

Practicing started June 3rd, but you could not see 20 feet in front of you, so the only ones who went out were 1-2 dozen of the riders who knew the course.

June 4th about 17 miles of the course was clear but the roads were wet, the rest of the course was in fog about 30 yards, visibility.

I went out on the 250 C.C. Cotton (J.A.P.) my first lap was 41 mins., 27 secs., next lap 40 mins. 8 secs. These times are very slow compared to the most of the other riders, but I hope to cut down the time some each day as I learn the course.

June 5th it rained all night and in the morning was still raining and was foggy, visibility about 10 yds. In the mountain, 100 yds. in Douglas. A few riders turned out but times were all slow, I did one lap in 48 mins., 13 secs. This was very slow but better than some.

June 6th no practice on Sunday, but it rained steadily from noon June 4th until 2 a.m. June 7th.

June 8th roads wet but clear except on the mountain. I took out the Norton, in first lap 37 mins. 16 secs., 2nd lap 35 mins. 14 secs. This qualified me for the senior race. Then I took out the Cotton and qualified on that in 37 mins. 51 secs. I haven't had the Excelsior out yet as I have'nt got some parts from the company which they are bringing over with them. They fixed the machine up for the race and it should be pretty fast if I can ride it.

So far I can get the fast bends in the course but I lose a lot of time on the slow corners.

I will write to you again after practising is over June 12. So long until then.

Georgs.

"THE BRIGHT HILL"

by Clarissa Fairchild Cushman

"Alice!" said her mother. "Surely—"

"Well, they do. What can I do about it?" Alice opened her blue eyes very wide. She had practised this look until now it was almost letter perfect. "And then when she threw him down this spring—"

"Alice!"

"Well, but she did. All the girls—"

"Alice. Have you no sense at all?"

Gregory was smiling, though a bit grimly. "Oh, let the child chatter, Priscilla. Go on Alice. After she threw me over—"

"You never came back. And of all the dumb things, Uncle Greg! Why, the girls—"

"Why dumb?" said Gregory. "She did, after all, throw me down, as you so euphemistically put it."

"Of course she did! Proposing to her in public that way! What can you expect? And she had to refuse you once anyway. Now mother, don't be silly and middle-aged. You can't. And I'll keep to accept a man the first time he proposes—especially if he's got acads of money like Uncle Greg. But the thing that gripes us all so is, that we—some of the girls I mean—had had bets that they'd be married by Commencement."

"Alice, really!" But Priscilla was smiling, also glanced sidelong at Gregory's tense expression fixed on Alice, and asked, "How's she look-ing, Kingsbury?"

"Oh beautiful! That's why we—some of the girls—were betting on Commencement. She's just—you know. She's got a lot of the grand-est new clothes. In fact, it was Mary Alice who told Christine Anderson last week that Mrs. Kingsbury was so kind of cute about it when she kind of kidded her about Uncle Greg. She's got-maybe you've never noticed it—a kind of dimple—"

Gregory rose. "Good-bye," he said, and strode into the hall, gathering up his hat as he went.

Priscilla watched him go with with growing amusement. As he would have disappeared she called, "Oh, Greg!"

He stopped. "Well?"

"Nothing. Just give her my love. And you can count on me to look after the encumbrance while you go on your honeymoon."

Gregory looked at his sister, and smiled reluctantly. She was a good scout. He went out and climbed in his car, and pointed its nose to Annieboro.

Gregory tore off the three hundred miles with illegal speed. It was only three-thirty and the sun was high when the car stood by Kerin's door.

She was playing with her kitten on the little side porch. Her eyes were gay, laughter, light and loving, was in her throat, and over her head the air was heavy and warm with lilacs. She hadn't heard Gregory's car. He came around the lilacs, and she looked up with laughter in her eyes and sun in her hair, and saw him. For an instant he was transfixed, as he was she. And then with a little cry she rose to her feet and held out her arms, and with a long stride he had met her and his arms were around her. The kiss that was mutual to them both fell clumsily across, but it was no matter; she was reaching up, pressing her self against his kissing him with soft eager kisses and with little cries of laughter and tears and relief. And he was holding her, loving her unspeaking at his mercy. Then the tempestuous Kerin, who in the two years he had known her had never even casually touched him once.

She pushed him away at last, looking up at him. "I was sure you would come—and yet, when it got to Commencement time, I said to myself that if you don't come by Commencement, then maybe you're not coming."

"Did you expect me?" asked Gregory.

"Yes, of course, Agnes has made me a separate chocolate cake to be ready—because you like chocolate cake, Mr. Gregory." She took his hand and pulled him down on the step beside her and snuggled up against him, clasping her hands over his. "You're here. I can't believe it. I've been thinking about your coming for so long, that now that you're here it's almost just part of the dream still. Almost, though, but not quite." She turned her face against his sleeve, pressing it against him.

INSTALMENT 48

Gregory drew a long breath. "Kerin," he said, "beautiful dear love—"

Kerin's face came out of his sleeve. "Oh, Gregory!" she said. "Are you saying that to me? Beautiful dear love! Beautiful dear love!"

"Kerin—my dear heart!" All the words that Gregory had wanted to say and had said in his heart for so long came readily to his lips. He reached down and pulling his arms around Kerin, gathered her up close and with his hand turned her face to his. "It's true? You do mean what I think you mean—that you'll marry me?"

"Of course I will." She caught her lower lip in her teeth looking up into his eyes so near and gray. "You know, Gregory, at first, after you kissed me—when that behavior so, I didn't realize that you meant it, I thought you had just said it to help me, and to spite Carl. And then afterward I remembered you had said it first, before Carl said any of those beastly things. So I knew that you meant it. That's how I knew that you'd be back, and I've thought—" she lifted her hands and touched his hair, his face, with tender fingers—"I've thought about it, night and day, night and day, ever since. I've thought about all the things we will do together, Gregory. Just think! We're going to have every day, every day, the good days we've always had when we're together. Did you ever think about that, Gregory?"

Gregory dropped his head on her hair. "Yes," he said huskily. "Yes."

Agnes coming into the kitchen to make Mrs. Kingsbury her cup of tay and hearing voices, looked out and saw. She saw; and by and by she said. "Lord a'mighty!" and threw her apron over her head. When she came out of it, and looked again, and the kitten was on the tray eating the cream and she spanked it with such enthusiasm that it was, from that day, a wiser kitten. "The good Lord love us!" murmured Agnes, picking up the steaming kettle. "Another cup and spoon, and I hope it's the last of them chocolate cakes I has to make in a while."

And Gregory was saying. "And when, Kerin, will you marry me?"

Kerin wound her arms around her knees and hugged them. "When? When would you think would be a good time?"

"Well—to-morrow would be a good day."

"To-morrow!" Kerin's eyes widened. "Why, to-morrow's Commencement."

"Well—that's why. You don't realize it, Kerin, but we have a kind of responsibility to get married tomorrow. You see, Aline has some money up that we'll get married tomorrow. And I'd like to do something for the child—"

"Gregory Leighton! What are you talking about?"

"About Amberley. It seems that some of the girls keep calendars, and they bet on the day I'm coming—like any other sporting event. Why not? I'll bet you right now that everybody in town knows I'm here, and that we're engaged, and planning—" he lifted her face—"and Agnes' blue eyes just before they disappeared, and grinned—definitely to get married tomorrow."

"Tomorrow! Oh, thank you, Agnes. The emperor of China, Gregory, is for you. And chocolate cake—what a surprise you'll have! You will be so pleased."

"And please mam," said Agnes, with stout dignity, "I would like to be the first to congratulate you," and she looked at Gregory pridefully.

"Oh really? How did you know? Oh, I suppose—" Kerin blushed. "Thank you, Agnes." She turned to Gregory. "Congratulate me? Does not that have a lovely lovely lovely sound?"

"She means, 'congratulate me', and it certainly does."

Kerin took up a piece of chocolate cake and waved it. "There are thousands of things I want to ask you, Gregory. Things I never thought of till these last few weeks, and then I was horrified to find out how little I knew about you. Things like where do you live, and who looks after you, and what your business is—and what did Carl mean by your money, Gregory? I know of course you're a trustee. What do you work at? What did he mean? Much money?"

"Oh—yes. I expect so. It depends what you mean by much. Plenty."

"Seriously, Gregory, I'm not so if I just love pretty clothes. I put them on, sometimes, and just walk up and down in them. Do you honestly mean that about to-morrow? But I want a real wedding, Gregory. There are people in town—the Sheldons, and then my seniors—"

"Who've got their lamps trimmed and burning as senior virgins should I have no doubt."

"And your sister. I can't get married without your sister to make it real."

"I'll telephone her." He pulled out his watch. It was four o'clock. One of the snappiest little half-hours Gregory thought, in his whole life.

But Kerin was dreaming. "I can wear the white lace, but I'd love a wedding dress. Maybe if we wired Mary Alice your sister would bring up a dress—and oh, Gregory a going away suit of white wool with a yellow jacket—like your sister wore when I first saw her. And a big white coat—"

The picture of Gregory and Priscilla and Aline floated before Kerin's eyes, with Gregory carrying a big white coat and bending down to the woman in yellow. The yellow blouse. And now she was that woman.

"I'm marrying you, Gregory," she said softly.

"God knows," said Gregory, "that I don't think I'll quite believe it till it's true."

"I wouldn't have believed it possible myself, when you left five years ago. It was Carl's coming back again, that second time—"

Gregory stiffened. "Carl—came back—again?"

"Certainly. In a couple of days he came back because he didn't get that job. He said I'd queered it. Did you interview it, Gregory?"

"Didn't he get the job? What did he say to you?"

"Oh—he shouted, as usual. But somehow it didn't matter. I quite like Annie. She and I had quite a little talk. She's sweet. Gregory, when you know her, I was going to be glad. They've been mean to her and Carl. Carl's a wast but I think it will all come right. I feel wonderfully all right about Carl. He and Annie—they're on their way somewhere. Somewhere important. She will teach Carl something—I think she'll make him happy, as I never did."

"Dear good Carl," said Gregory. "I do hope so." He pulled out his watch. "Kerin, would you mind stopping down now with me and writing the license? In fact, I'd feel better if we just stepped around at once to a J.P. But certainly if I'm to catch Priscilla before the stores close—"

Kerin jumped up. "I'm going to telephone Sue—and oh, I must cable Mrs. Winters." She stopped stricken. "Greg!" she said, her face long. "We can't get married."

"I knew it", said Gregory. "I felt all along—Why not?"

"Because I've got to be here for summer school. Don't going to speak but I'll have to be here—"

"With me," said Gregory. "Do you mind?"

It was nine oclock, and slowly and evenly, Kerin, her arm and hand tucked under Gregory's, walked up and down the little brick path before the door. The light of a half moon turned Kerin's hair to silver and made a mist of the lace dress that looked like frost and was soft as a cobweb. The night was full of lilacs, and every time they reached the doorstep and Kerin turned, she saw for a moment the hill in the distance, shining now with a brightness whose secret she understood. They walked and walked, baptized not thinking how in New York Priscilla, Aline was unpacking in its layers of tissue paper the little white wedding dress and the going-away suit and a lot of fragile pink ideas of her own, and how Aline was poring with unbelieving eyes at two rings in a box; and how in the west Sue was alternately crying "Oh, Alan!" and remembering some one new to telephone to; and how in the little Brittany village of Concarneau Mrs. Winters was leaning on a dirty high counter and writing with a sputtering pen. "Thank goodness for good excuse to come home this charge summer school myself. Failing three days. Happiness and tell Gregory's sister she should be glad she was right."

They walked, and the lilacs surrounded them. And every time that Kerin came to the end of the walk she looked up at the bright hill. There would be feet feeling in the darkness for the little paths; and Kerin's heart was with them.

With every turn she paused, and Gregory, looking down at her tenderly, wondered what her wide eyes shining in his moonlight, saw; but he did not ask, loath to break the spell of the night and the fragrance that surrounded them. Like a mouth, she was silver-gill, the lace of her wings too fragile for flight. But were they too fragile? Every time she came to the end of the little path and she saw the bright hill her heart was saying to Gregory: for the first time, the first time he did not ask, loath to break the spell of the night and the fragrance that surrounded them. Like a mouth, she was silver-gill, the lace of her wings too fragile for flight. But were they too fragile? Every time she came to the end of the little path and she saw the bright hill her heart was saying to Gregory: for the first time, the first time in all my life. I understand what to-morrow will bring. I want to-morrow will bring. I want it to-night, to-morrow always. Her heart cried out to him to hear her.

understand how true it was. And when she turned from the bright hill, along the dark brick walk, his arm under her hand was steady and warm, reassuring her of his understanding. And every turn of the walk brought her to the gate, beyond which ran the bright beckoning road, but across it the scent of juniper hung affectionately, like a friendly bar. To-night, said the bright hill, is for dreams; tomorrow, said the juniper, to-morrow is for life.

REDUCTION POSSIBLE

Windsor, Ont., June 18.—(CP)—Windsor Utilities Commission hopes to announce a substantial reduction in Hydro rates before July 1, it was announced today, and O. M. Perry, manager of the Hydro Division, was authorized to go to Toronto and hurry plans for the proposed reduction.

A reduction in cost of power becomes effective in August but the Commission anticipates a surplus which it is zealous a pass on to Hydro users in July. Perry said the proposed cut must be approved by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

THRILLS ARE PROMISED WITH COLE BROS. CIRCUS

BREATH-TAKING EQUESTRIENNE

Juanita Hobson, 21, takes her horse over a flaming hurdle with the greatest of ease.

Juanita Hobson, 21 and pretty, famous equestrienne with the Cole Bros. circus, like nearly all on the list of performers, has inherited her strength and skill from parents who were with the circus exhibiting almost the time in Canada, Dennis Hobson she represents the third generation of a famous circus family.

While her act lasts but eight minutes, months and years of constant practice was required by Miss Hobson to perfect her act. There is no act with a circus more daring than that of a bareback rider. It requires extreme skill to turn a somersault from a galloping horse to the ground without experiencing a sprained ankle.

Equally important is the training of the ring stock. A circus ring is about 40 feet in diameter and to keep from throwing a performer off balance a horse must take just so many measured steps. The gait must be uniform. A serious injury to a performer might result if a horse stumbled.

Among the 400 performers with the Cole Bros. Circus coming to Belleville, Friday, June 25 for performances at 2 and 8 p.m. are 40 acts. But the brilliant work of nine stands out brighter than that of Miss Hobson. She is an accomplished somersaulting rider and one she has about perfected after six years of practice the turning of a backward somersault from one running horse to another galloping horse. A feat that only a few bareback riders have accomplished.

Clyde Beatty, America's No. 1 wild animal trainer and Ken Maynard, the screen's greatest Western star are among the other high lights on the Cole Bros. program this season. An immense street parade nearly three miles in length will start the ball arolling on circus day. It will be seen on the downtown streets at 11 a.m.

Modern Bathroom and Kitchen Housewives Delight

Greater Pride in the Home Inspired by a Modern Bathroom.

MAKING A BATHROOM OUT OF A CLOTHES CLOSET

The home owner who wishes to have an extra bathroom and finds himself puzzled as to where it can be worked in, should seek the advice of an experienced master plumber, suggests the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating. A man who understands plumbing thoroughly, will be able to suggest a convenient and economical location for bathroom fixtures that the home owner himself might not think of.

Many persons have been needlessly depriving themselves of the conveniences of additional bathroom facilities, because they are under the impression that a bathroom must be large and that the installation of it is an expensive undertaking.

If necessary, all three essential bathroom fixtures can be placed in a room as small as five by five. The illustrations show how a clothes closet was successfully made into a bathroom. The tub does not show in the picture.

If there is no space at all available for a complete bathroom, there are various alternatives that present themselves, as for instance, (1) A downstairs lavatory in the hall, hall closet, or some room near the hall; (2) a lavatory in the kitchen; (3) a lavatory in a bedroom; (4) an additional lavatory in the present bathroom; (5) a shower in the basement; (6) a closet combination in the basement.

Any householder in the country can take advantage of the easy terms of the Home Improvement Plan to improve their home by the added convenience of an extra bath or downstairs lavatory.

Belleville Home Improvement Committee

The Belleville Home Improvement Committee is composed of the following:

J. O. Herity, Chairman; Arthur A. Sills, representing Kiwanis Club; Isaac Stephenson, representing Master Painters and Decorators; Mrs. W. N. Ponton, representing Argyll Chapter, I.O.D.E.; Miss Margaret Hayes, representing Catholic Women's League; Ernest D. Finkle, representing Electrical Contractors; Miss Anna Hurley, representing Women's Canadian Club; Mrs. Noble Brown, representing Quinte Women's Institute; B. C. Sisler, representing Belleville Bank Managers; Mrs. James Garbutt, representing Quinte Women's Institute; Garn Dobbs, representing Master Plumbers; Thomas Adams, representing Master Stonemasons, Plasterers and Bricklayers; J. Leslie Pearsall, representing Kinsmen Club; Edgar F. Rutherford, representing Carpenter Contractors; Robert J. S. Dewar, representing Belleville Rotary Club; John M. Wilson, representing Y's Men Club.

It is a notable fact that houses improved under the Home Improvement Plan have increased in rental value, also in sale value. Many homes in Canada which were permitted to run down during depression because of lack of funds and uncertainty have been improved under this plan and look like new giving increased value as well as a big boost to family pride which is worth more than mere money.

Mr. J. O. Herity, Manager of the Chamber of Commerce, is Chairman of the Belleville Home Improvement Plan Committee, and this Committee has active representatives in both city and country. Information as to the working of the plan will be cheerfully given any time at the Chamber of Commerce, or by any banker, your plumber, or any member of the Home Improvement Committee.

Improvements under the Home Improvement Plan are exempt from taxation under an Act passed by the Provincial Government.

COLOR SCHEMES DISTINGUISH THE NEW BATHROOMS

The day of the prosaic bathroom is gone forever. No longer is it just a room for one's bath and a place to hide the soap and carpet sweeper. It has become an integral part of the decorating scheme in the modern house.

During colour schemes frequently appear and close attention is given the most minute detail by the fastidious housewife who exerts her decorating ability on this room.

An old-fashioned bathroom is an inconvenience which need not be countenanced. Under the terms of the Home Improvement Plan amounts up to $2,000 may be obtained from any Canadian bank for modernization of a private home.

One bathroom showed what may be done through modernization. A nondescript cubicle was transformed by an ambitious home owner into an attractive room.

A particularly interesting feature is the shelf which was built between the bath-tub and the wall. This holds bath salts, dusting powder and other accessories and is a decorative asset as well.

A composition covering in marble design was placed on the floor and a washable wall paper covered the walls. The picture mould was painted a dark colour which harmonizes with the paper and borders the ceiling. A central lighting fixture gives adequate light for the entire room.

The cabinet in which the wash basin is set, is purchased as a complete unit and serves a double purpose. It completely hides the plumbing fixtures, and makes repairs possible without the disagreeable task of tearing out walls and floors. Space in the top may be used for the storage of bathroom linens. The mirror serves as a door to the medicine chest.

The woodwork around the window is an original note. It was painted to harmonize with the two-toned floor covering. A modern bath stool was purchased by the owner to complete the modern room and is in keeping with the chromium-legged wash stand.

TOY DRAWER WILL HELP TEACH CHILD TO BE TIDY

A deep drawer on rollers at the bottom of a child's closet is a great convenience to the mother and is an effective answer to the usual excuse that he can't pick up his toys because he has no place to put them.

There can be a step covering the front of the drawer and hinged so that it can be raised when he wants to get at toys beneath it. This will enable him to pull out the drawer part way and step up to reach his clothes on the hooks above.

ADVICE ON HOW TO PICK YOUR PLUMBER

"People taking advantage of the Home Improvement Plan to modernize their home conveniences are well advised to choose their plumber carefully," suggests the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating.

"Select your plumber as carefully as you would a doctor, but don't wait until the emergency arises before you call him. Get recommendations of work they have done for others and if satisfied that he is satisfactory, arrange to have him make a complete inspection of your plumbing and heating equipment. Have him explain as thoroughly as possible the arrangement of your plumbing fixtures so that when the emergency arises, you will be able to describe the nature of the trouble. A plumber will not have to go back for extra tools and materials if told exactly what is wrong.

When a plumber is called in for an emergency repair, it is just as well to have him make a complete inspection. It will take but a little time; the cost is small and you will probably save yourself a larger repair bill later.

One of the most important things to find out from your plumber is the location of the emergency water shut-off, controlling the water supply to the whole house. If your house is without one, have one installed and thereby prevent damage in case of a pipe leak.

If you are planning to build a new home this spring or improve your present one under the Home Improvement Plan, consult a plumber before the plans are drawn, advises the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating. "A competent and experienced plumber knows plumbing as no one else does and he can suggest economical locations for fixtures and the proper materials.

Beware of choosing the plumbing contractor whose bid is considerably lower than that of any others. He may be figuring on inferior materials. Choose on the basis of proved quality of installation. The health, comfort and convenience of the occupants depends on the efficient operation of the plumbing system."

HOME IMPROVEMENT PLAN — HIP

And How to Improve It

A Series of Articles on Suggested Home Improvements Advisability, Value, Cost, Etc.

This page is presented to the readers of The Ontario Intelligencer by the Master Plumbers of Belleville, in collaboration with The Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating, as an object lesson in what can be done to improve and modernize the bath room, one of the most important necessities of modern home life. People are often judged by the bath room in the home, and a slovenly, unsanitary bathroom certainly does not add any credit to the family. Modern kitchens also mean a lot in the daily lives of housewives, saving time and steps, and adding efficiency to the work carried out in the kitchen. This page is presented in the hope that it will be read with interest and profit, and result in home improvements which every housewife hopes for.

Men should read this page and learn what their wives most desire, then act. Wives wear out, and too many steps and too much time spent in the kitchen brings doctor's bills and lives cut short. And the men enjoy better bathrooms and better kitchens almost as much as the women do.

THE STRAIGHT-LINE METHOD MAKES THE KITCHEN EFFICIENT

Eliminates Many Steps and Makes It Easier For Housewife

How many women know what the "straight-line" principle represents? It is safe to say very few do. It has invaded the culinary department of the home, a department becoming increasingly important as the festive season grows near.

The question used to be a teaser which baffled quite a few if not nearly all young aspirants for office positions with large companies on "intelligence" tests. The civil service used to ask this question. The answer is simple; straight rows of desks in line formation in offices is the "straight line principle".

The kitchen planners and culinary experts got together in an efficiency drive on the kitchen with the result that if one's kitchen has not got this principle incorporated, sometimes called "progressive functioning", one is practically taking backward steps, like the plumber who forgot his tools. Strange sounding technical terms are used freely these days as science takes in the cooking department of the home in its ever-embracing stride, facilities of household science turn out experts and even bureaus are established to wrestle with individual technical problems. Domestic life so far as the kitchen is concerned is fast approaching a stage where the button is pressed and the thing is done. Some day a machine may even be evolved to pour out ingredients, mix them and finish up by cooking.

STEADY PROGRESS.

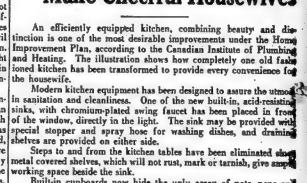
The straight line principle, the fundamental of all kitchens, means that the food shall proceed through its various functions of treatment in as straight a line as the confines of the kitchen will permit. That is, the food storage centre with its refrigerator should be near the service entrance of the house. A working surface at this point on which deliveries can be temporarily placed before being distributed to their storage places is desirable. The storage centre should be part of or near the food preparation centre. Since water is needed both for food preparation and cooking, the sink may well be placed next to the preparing centre with the stove beyond.

A working surface between the sink and stove is an advantage for the cook to allow for "secondary" cooking with appliances that provide clear space on which to place hot dishes from the range.

All utensils and supplies should be conveniently stored at the point of first use, experts point out. For example, a frying pan is first used at the range, for it is usually heated before food is placed in it for cooking. It should, therefore, be stored at or very near the range, but a saucepan used for cooking vegetables, such as potatoes, is filled with the vegetables at the sink, hence it should be stored near this point.

Table china such as dinner plates, usually warmed before serving, should be stored near the warming oven or plate warmer, while silver and glassware may be located as near to the dining-room table as possible because it is first used at that point. Serving dishes belong near the range or serving centre—similar considerations apply to all other utensils, dishes and supplies.



A storage pantry is necessary only for a large house with two or more servants. This pantry is primarily a serving and storage centre in which dishwashing facilities should also be incorporated. The cleaning centre in the kitchen may then be established for washing pots, pans and kitchen utensils.

Adequate wall space is considered the most essential part of a well-planned kitchen. There should be as few doors as possible in the kitchen and none of them should be placed either in the middle of the wall or at the extreme corners. In a well-planned kitchen, doors should be placed approximately two feet four inches from the corner, allowing space for work surfaces. Window sills should be about three feet ten inches from the floor and the top about seven feet six inches from the floor.

COLORS AT NIGHT

Many colors which are bright and gay in the sunlight are dull and unattractive under artificial lighting. If your room is used as much in the evening as in the morning, you should plan your lighting so that the quality of the daytime colors will be preserved under electric bulbs. The most important fact to keep in mind is that the color should be subtle in tone. Strong, obvious blues and reds bring on a feeling of uneasiness. Pastel shades are more restful.

Improvements under the Home Improvement Plan are exempt from taxation under an Act passed by the Provincial Government.

Bright Sanitary Kitchens Make Cheerful Housewives

An efficiently equipped kitchen, combining beauty and distinction is one of the most desirable improvements under the Home Improvement Plan, according to the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating. The illustration shows how completely one old fashioned kitchen has been transformed to provide every convenience for the housewife.

Modern kitchen equipment has been designed to assure the utmost in sanitation and cleanliness. One of the new built-in, acid-resisting sinks, with chromium-plated swing faucet has been placed in front of the window, directly in the light. The sink may be provided with special stopper and spray hose for washing dishes, and draining shelves are provided on either side.

Steps to and from the kitchen tables have been eliminated since metal covered shelves, which will not rust, mark or tarnish, give ample working space beside the sink.

Built-in cupboards now hide the ugly array of pots, pans and other kitchen utensils.

The dark, gloomy pantry as the right has been transformed into a bright, attractive breakfast nook.

This type of kitchen lay-out is practical for any kitchen, advises the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating, and since there is more than one model of this type of cabinet sink, the householder would do well to consult an experienced plumbing contractor, who will be able to suggest which unit would be most suitable according to the wall space available.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Taxi! Taxi!

By Floyd McCracken

Gyp's eyes narrowed to a steely glint as he glared across the narrow service table which stood between him and his companion.

"Listen Linda, you aways were a soft spot with me. When I fell for you I fell plenty. But get this straight, no skirt's going to deal me the double cross and get away with it, not while I'm here. That little tone was convincing.

"Why—why Gyp, you know I wouldn't give you the double cross," the woman flared hotly.

"Yeah? Well I'm not so sure. Been going out with Ham Drake a lot lately, don't you? This is not a statement of fact than a question.

"For very idea!" Linda shot back. "Of course I been around with him. Didn't you introduce us? And ain't he your partner in the business? Does it mean I'm giving you the run-around when I happen to speak to one of your friends?"

"Another thing," Gyp persisted. "Do you know who Mugs Mustiti is?"

"I know him when I see him," Linda admitted reluctantly.

"He's Mad Dalleno. Know how he makes a living? He's a dropper for professional bomb planters. Still say kind you think I have been him in Ham's taxi several times lately. Once they were looking under the hood of my machine."

"If you want to know what I think; you're a victim of the well known, green-eyed monster." Linda was feeling easier temporarily. "Ham's got to have fares. Mugs Mustiti pays and pays well. Ham can't help it if Mugs is a blast maker."

"Ohh," Gyp said. "If you come through with this I'll never doubt you again. Police department now. This is going to be good, or, it is going to be rotten. It depends on you.

"You are to go to Mugs Mustiti and make a deal for him to blast Ham's taxi. It's got to be a complete job, and Ham must be in the machine when the job's done. I'll give you money to pay Mugs Mustiti."

"But Gyp, I—"

"You ain't with me, eh? Then you're against me." Gyp started to rise.

"But Ham's your partner in the taxi business, your war buddy . . . Oh, all right," the woman succumbed. "It don't sound like you though, Gyp. I couldn't bring myself to believe you wanted to do that. Not at first."

"I don't want to. But it looks like it's going to be Ham or me. I'd rather it should be me." Gyp said dryly.

"This is the way you fix the deal. The two taxis are exactly alike, except for a small number on the back of the body. You have Mugs plant a bomb in my machine so it will go off exactly five minutes after the motor is started. I'll tell Ham I'll take his machine home to reline the brakes. You know, I do all the mechanical work on the cars. Tell Mugs he'll get his pay half when he's placed the bomb and half when the job's done, Linda promised.

The couple separated when they reached the corner, the woman to walk up town, Gyp to climb into his taxi, which he drove quickly around the block. Parking his machine behind Linda's he hailed a passing taxi and cruised along slowly after Linda. Four blocks later where Ham and her Gyp smiled a twisted smile as he saw his partner's car draw up at the curb and take her in.

The following evening Gyp was careful to park his machine well in the rear of his partner's.

Nearing closing hour the two men sat with Linda in their little office. The woman obviously was nervous. The men smoked calmly.

"I'll take your car home tonight and fix the brakes. They're getting pretty weak." Gyp offered evenly. "You take mine. Linda's taxi is run around the corner and get a cup of coffee. Then you can take her home and I'll jock up."

Gyp walked over as the couple walked around the corner. Then he went quickly to the curb where his car stood. Starting the motor and drove around in front of his partner's machine. Bending until the bumper's came together, he pushed Hamp's car back to where his own previously had stood. The cars thus exchanged, he went back to the telephone.

Ten minutes passed. Then he heard a machine start at the front of the office. Waiting patiently, five minutes later he heard what appeared to be a terrific explosion some distance away. Another ten minutes passed. The telephone rang and a policeman reported:

"One of your taxis blowed up. Killed a man and woman who were inside. Looks like a bomb job."

"I'll be right over," Gyp answered.

SOVIET FLIERS CROSS TOP OF WORLD SAFELY

Airship From Moscow Blazing Arctic Trail; Will Fly Over Dominion

Ice Formed on Wings of Plane Nearing Arctic Circle

GOAL IS OAKLAND

Expects to Arrive in California Late Sunday Afternoon

Moscow, June 19 (AP)—The Soviet Moscow-to-San Francisco fliers will land before they reach their goal if any complications should develop, it was announced officially today.

They radioed at 11:15 a.m. (4:15 a.m. E.D.T.) that they had crossed the Pole several hours ahead of schedule and that they expected to pass over Prince Patrick's Island, on the "dome" of the flight route, at the top of the world at 6:40 a.m. E.D.T.

Sqn. Ivanchkov, June 19 (CP) — Three Russian airliners, setting an Arctic air trail here from Moscow, sped across the murky North Pole region early today and started down from the loneliest world on their daring 6,000 mile flight.

Unreported for many hours, the "three heroes of the Soviet Union" broke their silence shortly after midnight (4 a.m. E.D.T.) and announced they had already passed the pole, the Russian consulate here announced.

"We have been informed the fliers crossed the pole at 9:10 last night," a consular spokesman said. "That is all the information we have."

Some hours earlier, the Soviet Arctic air trail here from Moscow, aped across the murky North Pole region early today,

ISSUES NEW PLATES IF OLD ONES FADE

Through instructions received from the Department of Highway, Toronto, Motorcycle Patrolman Earl Irvine announced today, that the Department would issue new plates to those motorists in cases where the previous license plates had faded or in which a motor vehicle owner finds his license plates either fading or becoming illegible. The idea is to do away with his nearest point where motor license are issued and a new set of licence plates will be issued free of charge by the Department. Patrolman Earl Irvine informed the Ontario Intelligencer today.

POLICE BLOTTER

After allegedly not stopping at a stop sign, when involved with another automobile, a motor car bearing license number 6-4-7-3-6 crashed into the south east corner of the Victoria Ave. Baptist Church police state this morning.

The accident which happened at the intersection of Victoria Ave. and Pinnacle St. about 8.30 p.m. last night, was reported to the police by Miss Irene Dickens, Belleville, who stated she was driving westerly on Victoria Ave., when a car which struck the front of her vehicle at the above intersection, continued off to continue across the sidewalk and crash into the corner of the Baptist Church.

"The driver of the car got out and asked me if I was hurt, but when I said no, he climbed back into his car and drove away," she procured the license plate number of the fleeing car," stated Miss Dickens as she supplied the police with the above stated number. The front wheel, left side, of the car of Miss Dickens' motor car were badly damaged in the impact. The vehicle 40 crash into the church was proceeding north on Pinnacle St., and the driver had no chance to stop sign at the Victoria Ave. intersection, city detectives informed the police, who are endeavoring to ascertain the name of the driver who failed to remain at the scene of an accident.

Two minor motor accidents were reported in Belleville last night, with only slight damage done as resulting in each case.

NEW POTATOES PEAS AND BEETS OFFERED TODAY

Early Vegetables Presented in Mouth-Watering Variety on the Market

STRAWBERRIES STEADY

New potatoes, green peas with just a dash of mint to flavor them, young broilers cooked to a turn, with new cauliflower or cabbage to add that spring touch; top this off with either early fruit pie or cake and you will have the dinner menu of tomorrow of many a Belleville family.

That is if the family shopper got to the city market in time this morning to get the new peas which sold profusely at 6cent a quart and could handle them. The majority of Belleville housewives took advantage apparently at the job of shelling peas for the shelled kind which were offered at twenty cents the pint and sold much more rapidly than did the peas in the pod which were quoted at ten cents per berry box. Some few potatoes, "new" enough or in the eyes of early morning shoppers, selling at 20c per berry box, were offered for sale this week with venders apparently attempting to get rid of them before the first new variety descend upon the market in any quantity. Strawberries were offered at prices varying from $1.60 to $1.80 for 80-pound bags, although pack-lots remained steady at 20c.

The fine display of new Spring vegetables on the market yesterday shoppers today was one of the finest seen on the market this year. Practically every form of vegetable was offered in quality and quantity with the exception of the new peas and potatoes, that has seldom been

WILLIAM J. GIVINS

Death came suddenly to William James Givins early this Saturday morning at the family residence, 281 Bleecker Ave., and the announcement today of his unexpected passing came as a great shock to his many friends and acquaintances in the city. Last night he retired apparently in good health and at 11 o'clock to he was taken with a heart seizure and Dr. O. H. Creed was summoned, but Mr. Givins was beyond medical aid and passed away about one o'clock a.m.

The late William James Givins, who was in his 56th year, was born in Saldmand County and came to Belleville at an early age with his parents, the late John and Mary Thomas Givins. When a young man he became associated with his father in the florist business and for a long period of time his business was conducted at the corner of Perin and Charles Streets where the greenhouses were located. Later he family moved to Bleecker Ave. where a new residence and extensive greenhouses had been constructed. The business eventually became known as Givins and Son, and on his father's death Mr. Givins continued the business carried on at the same location.

During the Great War Mr. Givins joined the Forestry Corps early in the year 1916 but did not get overseas. He was a member of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association No. 201, in which body he was a member of Bridge Street United Church and fraternally he was a member of The Belleville Lodge, No. 123, A. F. and A.M.; Moira Chapter, R. A. M., No. 216, and Quinte Lodge, Belleville Lodge, I.O.O.F., No. 81; Belleville Chapter, No. 136, Order of Eastern Star and Quintena Rebekah, No. 136.

Surviving to mourn his passing and to whom the sympathy of many friends will be extended are his wife now, who prior to her marriage was Miss Elizabeth Calder; two daughters, Mrs. John W. Cooke, Belleville; Miss Grace Givins at home; one son, Mr. Everett Givins at home; one sister, Mrs. W. Reynolds, Vancouver, B.C., and one brother, Mr. Everett Givins, Vancouver, B.C.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

MRS. MARGARET BROWNLEE

Early this Saturday morning, June 19th, Mrs. Margaret Brownlee, of Wininipeg, Man., passed away at the residence of her brother, Mr. T. M. Rutherford at Roslin, Ont. Two years ago she came east to visit her brother.

It is a disgraceful thing to have the children cross that busy thoroughfare twice a day, especially by now that new speed laws or thirty miles per hour are in effect. The Board of Education is distinctly not responsible in this matter. We place this responsibility of the children right on the shoulders of city council, where it belongs."

Cinder Walk Would Help

"Even a cinder walk at that location would help," replied chairman of the Board, H. J. Allin, in agreement.

"We should go further than asking this time, we should demand a walk be placed there for our safety's sake, and I so move", declared Trustee Harry Martin.

"All I hope is that council will not finally have the eye opened on this matter through some terrible accident, which seems to be the only time unless accident is done very soon" agreed Mr. Payne. "Does it require the killing senior children of all schools act as police for the little ones could not be carried on satisfactorily owing to the fact many of the classes are let out at different times," declared Mr. W. Mills.

Trustee Moncrief was informed following his suggestion of a motion. Invited to speak on the matter, Principal L. A. Kelly, B.A., of Bloomfield School declared the matter of a sidewalk to be one of the most serious and pressing needs.

"Barely six hours ago we had an accident at the school. One of our pupils was knocked down, and slightly injured. Fortunately it was only a bicycle which knocked him down, but it could easily have been more serious.

"City Council has recommended,

Education Board to Request Sidewalk on North Front St. To Protect School Children

Committee Appointed to Interview Council in This Regard

LENGTHY DISCUSSION

Members Complain of Defacement of Property by Juveniles

Board of Education, complying with a request of city council to confer with council on the question of a sidewalk on Front Street during this year, have made a further resolution of $1200.00 in estimates it the report of the Finance Committee of the Board at last evening's meeting, Monday evening.

Decision to repair roofs of two greenhouses instead of aspiring new ones this year has resulted in the saving.

A recommendation by the Finance Committee submitted by chairman H. C. Sheer, that in accordance with the recommendation of the Sites, Building and Repairs Committee refuse to a further reduction of $12 00.00 in the amount they have recommended to carried on work in their department for the present year, that the amount voted under the heading "Repairs and paigments for the Public Schools" be amended to read $18611.00, instead of $7763.13 — thus making a total of $26611.00 — was carried by the board following the reading of a letter from the office of the city engineer instructing members that, following a investigation recently, traffic signs have been placed on the corner of each school vicinity warning car drivers to drive carefully.

Construction of a sidewalk in that location, leading from the present walk on the west side of the top of the hill to College Street, passing in front of the school has been repeatedly urged for several years past by the Board.

Following through a communication had also suggested that Trustee Moncrief should act as schools take over the duties of special policemen as a safety measure for the protection of the smaller pupils.

This suggestion was interpreted by Trustee Kelly to mean that the teachers and principals of the schools should act as police.

"I believe it is 'infra dig' to ask teachers or principal to follow or lead the children. If I did at the time they come to or leave the school, I would feel I was not content other work to keep them busy when this does not appear to be their duty at all," he commented.

"Council is just passing the buck on this matter of building a sidewalk. Apparently they intend to wait until there is an accident in a serious one or before they get anything done.

"It is a disgraceful thing to have the children cross that busy thoroughfare twice a day, especially by now that new speed laws or thirty miles per hour are in effect. The Board of Education is distinctly not responsible in this matter. We place this responsibility of the children right on the shoulders of city council, where it belongs."

Cinder Walk Would Help

"Even a cinder walk at that location would help," replied chairman of the Board, H. J. Allin, in agreement.

"We should go further than asking this time, we should demand a walk be placed there for our safety's sake, and I so move", declared Trustee Harry Martin.

"All I hope is that council will not finally have the eye opened on this matter through some terrible accident, which seems to be the only time unless accident is done very soon" agreed Mr. Payne. "Does it require the killing senior children of all schools act as police for the little ones could not be carried on satisfactorily owing to the fact many of the classes are let out at different times," declared Mr. W. Mills.

Trustee Moncrief was informed following his suggestion of a motion. Invited to speak on the matter, Principal L. A. Kelly, B.A., of Bloomfield School declared the matter of a sidewalk to be one of the most serious and pressing needs.

"Barely six hours ago we had an accident at the school. One of our pupils was knocked down, and slightly injured. Fortunately it was only a bicycle which knocked him down, but it could easily have been more serious.

"City Council has recommended, that these senior-age children make a nuisance of themselves around their school grounds. No one has any control over them," testified Trustee Richardson.

"Can we ask council for a police patrol of the grounds?" questioned Chairman Allin.

"We can stop this trouble in five minutes," stated Trustee Zufelt. "Just pass a resolution prohibiting the use of the grounds after four o'clock to any one."

"Has any one ever given permission to any of the teams for the use of the grounds?" interjected Trustee Martin.

A negative answer was given by the chairman.

"If you close it for one, you'll have to close it for all of them," reminded Mr. Rollins.

Objection to the closing of the grounds was registered by Trustee Moncrieff. "It's not the ones, who are playing who do the damage, it's the ones who are not playing."

"Let's try it," suggested Mr. Zufelt.

Further discussion revealed that a resolution passed in 1935 authorized the grounds as a playground.

"Since then it has gone to ruin," declared Mr. Richardson.

"I'm not prepared to second Mr. Harrison's motion that none but pupils and pupil's teams be allowed on the grounds; because if that is the cause of the defacement of the school, we find no remedy by resolution. Some of the use of the grounds," stated Trustee Rev. Payne. "The alternative, it would seem would be to close the grounds completely and turn it ones again into a park."

A motion, that no action on the matter be taken be advanced by Trustee Moncrieff.

"We can't close up all our school grounds, but the grounds should be given some protection," agreed Trustee Rollins.

The question died for lack of further discussion.

"It's all out of order, anyhow," stated Chairman Allin.

School children bringing bicycles on the footbridge should receive a protection, advised Trustee Mrs. Brown, commenting on the fact. Serious accidents have been narrowly missed at times have been forced to lug the wails of the bridge in order to avoid collision with them.

"Have any of them been boys of your department?" questioned Mr. Laurin.

"I have received several," stated Mr. Brown.

"The staff and yourself will be able to handle the matter," stated the Principal.

Following the course of the meeting tribute to the efforts of the local Women's Institute in providing a playground for children in the city was made by Trustee Rev. Wight, who stated that the Institute was the first organization to start the ball rolling in this matter, and thanked them for the fine co-operation of the past and the assurance of continuance.

Board adjourned until September 17th for the summer holidays.

Frank P. Salter, Contractor, Recalls 55 Year Old Incident

Frank P. Salter, 79 years old, who guided police to the hiding-place in the tower of Holloway Street Methodist Church, where Alex. Patrick wanted in connection with the blowing of a safe in the office of Burrell Drill Company fifty-five years ago had fled to escape capture, called at the office of the Ontario Intelligencer today to relate his version of the event which was recalled by the story of the demolition of the spire on the church tower under way.

"I was living on Hillside Street at the time," stated Mr. Salter, "and was on my way to work in the morning when I passed Mr. Wm. Allen's. I reached where formerly the Catholic School stood and coming by the building I saw two men standing looking—I thought. They were carry tools and I thought they were those in the school grounds about which there had been trouble. I spoke to my work and on Catherine St. near Coleman St. I met two or three men coming from the church among them.

Something were aroused that something was wrong and I asked them what or where they were looking for. At first they did not reply and I said "Maybe I can give you information." They said that they had seen the two men and where they could find them in the school house or the church."

The police went to the scene and John Patrick was arrested for the murder of Newton Ashley, one of the men. He said he had seen the man to come down and when he was down, Newton asked him where his friend was. He said he did not know.

Mr. Salter said that Mr. Newton Ashley was in the church and his voice "I'll take a shot at you up there, and that the man left replying said not to do so as he would come down. The man came down.

Mr. Salter was born in Gaspe, where he was engaged in the work being born in England. He came to Belleville at the age of fifteen and learned the carpenter trade. He left Belleville in 1890 and went to Iowa and lived there for over 40 years taking seven spent in Vancouver. He came back to Canada and is now residing on the Marshall Road. He is 79 years of age and one year ago took a motor trip to Gaspe he where he met his boy friend of childhood. He was engaged in building in the United States until his retirement.

Transient Arrested to Be With His Buddy

Greater love hath no man, than he be willing to lie in the company of his pal and buddy. Last evening local police arrested a transient who was in the company of Thomas O'Brien, on a charge of intoxication. Thomas O'Brien, arrested on Station St. on charges of intoxication and panhandling. He was in possession of a portion of a bottle of wine, when apprehended.

O'Brien, however, objected to being arrested, stating he wanted to be with his pal and buddy, Wheaton all of which left the constable rather astounded, as inebriates invariably resent arrest and plead innocence of drunkenness, but not so in this case of O'Brien, who often taken into the cell block welcomed with open arms his pal and buddy, who were remanded in custody until Monday.

There was no official indication of when the projected flight would start or Canada but Washington spead messages between Fort Simpson and Fort Simpson were believed the most likely point to which radio could maintain communication with the plane.

Although the plane can increase in speed as the plane is lightened by the decreasing fuel supply, it will require at least seven days or 168 hours more to complete their undertaking from Fort Simpson to Nome Bay. This would make their probable arrival time 1 p.m. Sunday (5 p.m. E.D.T.)

The trio, Pilot Valeri Pavlovich Chkalov, 32; co-pilot Georgi Baldanovich Baldukov, 30 and navigator Alexander Vassilievich Beliakov, 40, reported to Moscow the big airplane behaved well during a vertical ascent, but weather conditions forced "blind flying."

Meanwhile anxious watch was maintained here by a Russian delegation headed by Ambassador Alexander Troyanovsky, who first generally to the coast to welcome the fliers, in Los Angeles, a navigation expert predicted the flight at least one into a "magnetic and mathematical jungle."

Council Decides on Suspension Of Writs Instead of Withdrawal On Advice of County Solicitor

Concluding Session is Marked by Considerable Debate

MOTION RULED OUT

Court Costs in Equalization Tribunal Not to be Paid by County

Lively argument and more or less fiery debate featured the closing session of the June meeting of the Hastings County Council held in Shire Hall yesterday afternoon, when members wound up the most important business of the year. Nine by-laws including the equalization on assessment for 1938, levy of tax rates, borrowing on money etc. were passed by council at the close of the session. . Discussion of the payment of the cost of the Appeal Tribunal last winter caused lively action, while threat of appeal against the 1938 equalization by members precipitated strenuous argument. Following the address of the Warden at the conclusion of the session, council was adjourned to meet on Dec. 7th of this year.

Writs Only Suspended

A mild bombshell was first failed to cause any great amount of excitement, among the councillors, exploded in the ranks of the Council when members of the committee appointed to consult the County solicitor with a view to drawing up a by-law authorizing the withdrawal of the writs issued against four delinquent townships, reported that the committee after studying advice of the solicitor had decided on suspension of the writs instead of withdrawal, and payments to be made in six half-yearly payments instead of three yearly ones, as recommended by council in a former session.

Reeve Chas. Rollins, Wollaston, Chairman of the committee and representative of one of the townships involved, championed the proposed change. "I feel this is right," he said. "The by-law as drawn up now, calls for six half-yearly payments instead of three yearly ones, and the writs to be suspended instead of withdrawn. In event of non-payment by any of the municipalities involved, the writs will be enforced. I don't think anyone wants to get out of paying, but the County solicitor and Treasurer strenuously objected to the withdrawal of the writs. Mr. Horton, Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs stated that if the representatives of these municipalities did not collect their accounts, he would send a man down here who would."

Reeve Rollins Satisfied

Reeve Wood—"Are you satisfied to have these writs in suspension?"

Reeve Rollins—"Yes, I am, if the others are. We in the north have two seasons a year, the agricultural and timber seasons. I felt that June and December were the proper times to pay as these are the months, that the revenue from these two sources comes in."

Reeve Hubbell, Faraday—"I cannot collect our taxes. I like to pay debts but we are beaten without help. We certainly cannot pay a cent in six months and I earnestly think the people of Faraday would pay these debts, if they could, and there are a few there that can pay, if they would. We have as good a collector as any of the townships but we are in bad shape. I cannot agree to make these payments in six months."

Reeve Rollins—"Suspension of the writs gives you a chance to try to pay. What I am doing is detrimental to my business, for the people who patronize my stores will suffer and so will I. I don't think it will make any difference to Faraday for if they cannot pay then the writs will be issued, but it is up to us to try to see what we can do. The County at least, will see we are making an effort to meet these debts. Between the County and the Department we will have to pay, and I think with a little extra effort we can do so. Then again, thanks to the passing of this Council they have loaned us money, which we could not have borrowed anywhere else. For that reason I think we should show some appreciation by accepting this plan and giving it a trial."

Reeve Hubbell— "Very well, agree, but it is going to be hard."

Reeve Davis of Wicklow expressed his satisfaction with the plan. "We will have six months to try to do what we can, and then it is up to the County Council," he said.

Recommends County Pays

An Argumentative ghost of the past came out of seclusion to cause by far the most exciting debate of the entire session, when Reeve Larkin introduced a motion to the effect, that the County Council pay the legal and witness fees of the Appeal against the Equalization of Assessment of Municipalities held last winter, and which was thought by a number of the members to have been settled at the January session.

"The motion is alright" stated Reeve Jordan. "The tribunal recommended that the costs be borne by the county."

Dr. Lumb— "I disagree. Had we known that, many of the townships who did not get a lawyer for economical reasons would have had one, and thus placed a lot more money on the county."

Reeve Thompson— "This motion is out of order. The question was settled last January."

At this point Reeve Larkin leaped to his feet. "We haven't paid our costs yet" he said, "and furthermore we don't intend to. We will take it in appeal to the Tribunal first."

Motion Out of Order?

Reeve Rollins: "If Reeve Larkin takes it to the tribunal we will have to pay it."

Reeve Larkin: "That is right, and we don't want to impose any more on the council. We are going against the Judge's recommendation."

The Warden: "I can't see that we are."

Reeve Ketcheson, Frankford: "As one of the municipalities whose costs were awarded to be paid by the Tribunal, I am going to see, that we do not pay our share of the remainder of the costs if the council is forced to bear them. I'll take it further than any tribunal. Anyway, this matter should not have been brought up. I think it was cleared last winter."

Excitement grew among the members as first one side of the argument was aired and then the other. "Gentlemen", said Reeve Linn, "this motion is out of order. You have already passed a motion clearing it up."

Reeve Sayers: "That is right. In this case the Janitor's motion will have to be rescinded."

"We did not know this," interjected Reeve Hubbell, "or the costs would have been greater. We would certainly have had a lawyer."

Refuses to Pay

Again Reeve Larkin's flat thumped on his desk. "We won't pay this bill," he reiterated, jumping to his feet, "and I want you to understand that." Members rose to their feet in attempt to argue. Three or four voices tried to be heard at once. Rapid crossfire passed between the benches as speakers attempted to make themselves heard.

Then Reeve Bristol rose to the occasion. Rapping for silence he said "Gentlemen, I rise to a point of order. This discussion is useless. I move that Reeve Larkin's motion is out of order."

A moment later Warden Gray declared the motion to be out of order, and order fell again on the council chamber.

At this point, council went into a committee of the Whole on Ways and Means with Reeve Martin Rollins in the chair.

Council unanimously endorsed in the giving of a grant of $100.00 to the Trustees of the Coe Hill Public School in assist in the construction of an extra wing. "There are thirty pupils there who cannot attend school because there is no room for them," Reeve Rollins stated." And they need assistance in the erection of this addition."

Reeve Jordan stated in moving that the grant be paid, that "it is not the wish of this council to impede the education of the children of the county."

Assume Costs

After a spirited argument the motion, that the county assume 100 per cent of the indigent accounts of while patients in the Indian Reserve at Tyendinaga, was passed.

Further argument ensued when a motion to the effect that the county assume 100 per cent of indigents hospitalization accounts connected with the Airport from this date on. "This is a job for the Dominion Government, not the county or municipality" argued members, before carrying the motion.

Reeve J. L. Churcher, Dungannon, in moving that the County assume the indigent hospitalization accounts of returned soldiers and their families throughout the county, upon receipt of a doctor's certificate that the man is unable to provide for his family through manual labor, stated, "It will not do us much harm to pay tribute to these men, who gave everything they had to fight for us, and their country. I feel that Hastings County will be proud to do her part in showing the respect of the country to these men and their families."

Argument to the effect that only the municipalities would benefit was countered by some of the members. Dr. Lumb cleared up a somewhat misty situation by stating that the government is doing for the returned soldiers. A pensioner gets hospitalization," he said, "and the families do not. A vote carried the motion by a 15-4 count.

Bylaws Passed

Several bylaws passed their second and third reading to close the official business of the County Council for the June session. These are:

To authorize the County to borrow $238,700.00 for current expenditures.

To equalize the assessment of municipalities for the year 1938.

To levy rates on the municipalities for the maintenance and construction of roads and bridges.

To discontinue the Village of Bancroft as a High School district.

To adjust the salary of Dr. W. C. Morgan, Jail Surgeon, to $500 per annum to be paid quarterly.

To amend the bylaw appointing a superintendent and matron for the Hastings County Home at salaries of $800. each, with $200 expenses for car and necessaries to be paid from Jan. 1937.

To delete a road in the Town of Deseronto from the county system and place it back in the municipality in which it belongs.

To recover the indebtedness from four townships and to reduce the rate of interest on this indebtedness.

To extend the time of payment of indebtedness of four townships to three years, payments to be made in half-yearly instalments.

Sessions Concluded

This concluded the official business of the council. In his address to the members, Warden Wesley Gray said: "It has been a very good session, and one in which a lot of work has been done. All members have done their very best in the interests of the county, and I sincerely hope I shall see you back here alive and well at the December session. I thank you, gentlemen, for your splendid co-operation."

Upon motion of Reeve James Moore, council adjourned until the seventh day of December, 1937.

"Old Bill" Pities The Poor 'Eyetalians'

"It ain't right! Blime, if it is!" Bill, late of His Majesty's Service, former caribineer of the "Old First" and footslogger extraordinary during the last 'do over there' shoved the paper aside and glared pugnaciously across the wide-topped table. "It's a blinkin' rite thing the world is comin' to. A ruddy, blinkin' fine wye to work yer ticket, I says."

"Now what's it all abaht," countered Sid, late of one of the first battalions of the First Canadian contingent.

"Tch, look 'ere," snorted Bill, crumpling the discharged paper into an open ineffectual ball with heavy snorts of wounded righteousness. "Right 'ere in the daily paper it says."

Sid read, He read that profanity had received an honorable discharge from the Italian army. Soldiers who used unsightly words, or cussed the service, would be reprimanded for the first offence, punished for the second.

"Aye, I see it. Now what do yer ruddy well know abaht that' woodenheadedly and unbelievingly commented Sid, scanning the article. Sid who at one time used to lend ears and action to the pleasant task of shell dodging while carrying rations and rum from the supports in the rear.

"What do yer know abaht that!" "Tch," again snorted Bill, blowing the froth off another one. Just you think abaht it; if a rookie in the Eyetalian Army gets fed up, all 'e's have to do is toss the lance wide and they'll discharge him. Wot, I ask you, wot would have happened to the British Army if every man was given 'is ticket on them grounds."

Further speech failed Bill. He got up from the table with an arthritis effort, clumped heavily out. As he walked the words trailed him.

"Just think abaht that....I"

Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck at Their Greatest

Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck have been teamed by Twentieth Century-Fox in the picture the world is talking about, "This Is My Affair," on the Belle screen today and Monday, matinee daily.

"The story of a love supremely courageous and unashamed, endangering the nation's highest places and gambling life itself for a greater stake, "This Is My Affair" provides both Taylor and Miss Stanwyck with the most important story c!ther of these great stars has ever had, and affords Victor McLaglen, who heads the strong supporting cast, the finest opportunity he has had since his powerful characterization in "The Informer."

"This Is My Affair" would be a triumph for either of its co-stars, for it presents Robert Taylor in a picture which captures the mood of great romance and the jigs of mighty drama, while Barbara Stanwyck matches his greatness with a fire and power given full scope for the first time. But for Robert Taylor, and Barbara Stanwyck, it is their supreme dramatic opportunity ... to be together, to act together, to become greater together.

Setting its scene at the turn of the century, "This Is My Affair" shows the nation's stability threatened by a series of sensational bank robberies in the Middle West. President William McKinley turns in desperation to a young Lieutenant, Robert Taylor, whose record under Admiral Dewey bespeaks his valor. The young officer, sworn to secrecy, is instructed to disgrace himself in the Navy, be discharged, and eventually locate the bank-robbing gang and their government informant.

In a mid-western dribnbait hangout, Taylor makes the acquaintance of a cafe owner, Victor McLaglen; his right-hand man, Brian Donlevy, and the singing and dancing star of the cafe's show, Barbara Stanwyck. He notes that the two men have acquired large sums of money, and that their absence from the cafe coincides with a bank robbery in another city.

Joining the gang in a robbery during which a secret service man is killed, Taylor is arrested with the others and, in a stirringly dramatic climax faces the prospects of the gallows when the only man who can clear his name, the President himself, is assassinated.

John Carradine, Douglas, Fowley, Alan Dinehart, Sidney Blackmer, Sig Rumann, Robert McWade and Frank Conroy are featured in the production.

Popeye in a very funny cartoon, "Little Swee' Pea," and the Belle World News Events will be exhibited on the same programs.

Grace Moore, Tuesday

A new Grace Moore will be seen at the Belle Tuesday and Wednesday, matinee daily. In "When You're In Love," featuring Cary Grant and Aline MacMahon. The picture comes to Belleville highly recommended.

Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck appear with Victor McLaglen, on the Belle screen today and Mon day, in "This is My Affair" which gives these three great stars the fi nest opportunity they have ever had

TRAGEDY OF THE BASQUES

One of the greatest tragedies is being enacted in the Basque country where one and a half million persons are to evacuate and find their way into a narrow strip of land. Stories of suffering in other days through mass movements or migrations which drove all before them, and the story of Evangeline, do not avail to make men less civil. When grim-visaged bloody war has a self-set job to do, out the people must go or . . .

The old war spirit is alive in many people yet but there is a stronger spirit alive—that which attaches peoples to their home surroundings of the days of peace. Surely ultimately this love of security will win out against the brutality of war.

Man must still be the object of the pity of the heavens yet, as he is sen torn and harassed, driven from his abode, or carrying death, fire and destruction against his fellowmen. What a picture, migrating suffering thousands trailing only what they can salvage out of their property, walking the bitter roads for a haven, after months spent underground in caverns for safety from raids, and on the other side, the scream and smoke of shells, the blasting of life and limb! And man doing it all!

CHILDREN AND EXECUTIONS

Little Russian boys and girls who do not know what a horrible thing an execution is, even of a traitor treason or foe of sabotage are praising recent executions in Russia. Some youngsters have written violent letters to the newspapers about the "reptiles" and one child writes the prayer that "the name of the degenerates be accursed."

They say nothing of what it is all about, why some men should be executed and some not, except that they are told these are bad people.

But these little Russians who in ten or twelve years will be young men and women are like some children in other countries who are taught to hate certain races, as if whole races were to blame and not individuals largely.

Even after thousands of years of civilization which has blessed some of the peoples of the earth, even adults have been known to revert to savage conceptions of their fellow-men and fellow-women, and hate them as they would any enemy.

How blest are the children and the adults of those other lands which are not so taught.

THE LAST WAR—126 YEARS AGO

One hundred and twenty-five years ago the last war in which Canada and the United States were opposite sides was declared. It closed two years later and peace has blessed the borders ever since.

Early days on this continent were days which were marked by events of great moment. No greater story has been written of any part of the world than that of North America with its exploration, its development and even in stories of war and valor in which ancestors of the present peoples on this continent can take pride and say their forefathers exhibited valor second to that of no race in the world.

But for nearly a century and a quarter it has been found that a far better story than the story of war is the story of peace. So powerful has that conception grown that the very thought of a war of the two peoples of this northern half of the New World is unthinkable. That two lands bound by similar ties, especially of racial origin, and language, development and similar ideals should be some day at strife which would mean only the tearing down of these ideals and high conceptions of life to replace them with nothing but a havoc of ideals and thoughts cannot be admitted. It cannot be.

The United States and Canada are fortunate that once and for all they have seen that the ways of peace are ways of pleasantness, and that war is the negation of everything for which civilization stands. There might one day in the past have been a reason for a determined stand of civilization against savagery, but today there is no reason for strife among civilized nations.

Future glory of this continent as it has been found for nearly 125 years, will be sought, not on battlefields gory with kindred blood, but in the ways of peace which make life more worth living, uphold the home and fireside and bind two great friends—the United States and Canada—in a bond of accord which will always be taken as the joint expression of the will of the two peoples.

SOME YEARS AGO ALAN SULLIVAN POET AND AUTHOR, WAS MANAGER OF A GOLD MINE IN THE PORT ARTHUR DISTRICT. On the payroll was a big husky buckaroo named Bob Flaherty. The poet and the buckaroo disagreed and Flaherty was given his time. Recently a Belleville citizen visited New York city where he met Alan Sullivan, author of "Silent Barriers", recently presented in Belleville as a screen version of the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway in New York City the Belleville citizen noticed that Silent Barriers was playing on Broadway just across the street from "The Elephant Boy", directed by Bob Flaherty. Meeting Alan Sullivan in Manhattan the latter, now rich and famous, called attention to the fact that the two plays were being presented on Broadway at the same time and mentioned the fact that after he discharged Flaherty in Thunder Bay District he did not meet him again for several years, when for all places, the two met in India where Bob was making "The Elephant Boy" from a story by Rudyard Kipling, and had discovered Babu, the Indian boy who wanted to be a great elephant hunter and became a Hollywood actor. If Sullivan hadn't fired Flaherty the latter might never have found his natural talent in the northern wilds while seeking gold and making motion pictures of Eskimo life from which "Nanook of the North" emerged, and became one of Hollywood's great. "Silent Barriers" and "The Elephant Boy" opening on Broadway. Truth is mighty and must prevail and is sure stranger than fiction.

To make this a perfect triology of romance the Belleville citizen referred to is now engaged in writing which Alan Sullivan and Bob Flaherty worked in years ago, having taken it over recently after a long shut-down. It might be mentioned also in connection with this mine in the Port Arthur district that Bob Gamey, "The Man From Manitoulin", held a controlling interest in it at one time. Bob was a noted political character who was elected by a small majority for Manitoulin during the dying days of the Ross Government in Ontario. The last election gave the Ross Government a majority of three, and efforts to increase this majority by coaxing Conservative members across the floor of the House led to the notorious Gamey-Cap Sullivan political scandal, which preceded the downfall of the Liberal government led by George Washington Ross and the beginning of the Whitney Conservative regime.

STORY OF WINNIPEG GIRL LIVING IN A RESPIRATOR, or "Iron Lung", and young Chicago chap in simiar predicament being brought home from China, has reviewed recently in this column, has aroused widespread interest. The couple are corresponding. Sidelight Fan draws our attention to the error on our part of placing the young woman in Chicago when Winnipeg is her home town. News despatches from Winnipeg tell of Inez Woollam, 22, imprisoned in an "iron lung", reading aloud Fred Snite, 26, battling for his life in a Peiping, China, hospital, in a distance strange up. The lad's sister, Mary Loretta Snite also wrote to Inez and pictures were exchanged. Young Snite is now on his 12,000-mile journey to Chicago. Incidentally his father, a wealthy man, bought 1,000 Chinese umbrellas before leaving China, as souvenirs for his friends at home, presumably as a suggestion of the wisdom of laying up something for a rainy day.

Little Benny's Note Book

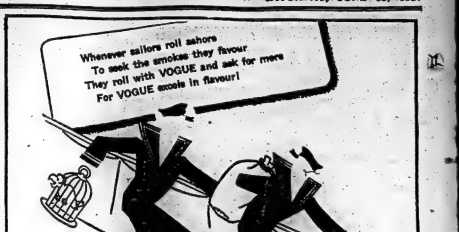
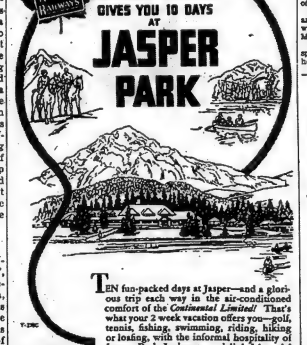
Sattiday I had 5 cents and different ideas what to do with it. Finally I wanted around to see Kristal Kandy Kitchin and started to look in the window, and there was a sine in there saying, Specials today 2 cents a stockik cream coconut balls, 40 cents a pound.

Me thinking, G, hergay, my favorite kind.



And I started to wonder how much is a pound I think werth would be, and just then my toothake started to come back again, proberly on account of it, and I thawt, Gosh hang the luck, now I couldn't even eat a piece.



And I kept on standing there feeling worse, and some man started to go passed with a lady, saying to her, Well there's a picture for you, all the candy in the world in front of his nose and not a cent in his pocket. Many's the time I've felt like that at his age, and here's the time I partly made up to my self for passed sufferings, he said.

And what did he do but hand me a sine saying, Here you go sonny, swark rite in and buy out the store.

And he kept on going with the lady, me thinking, G wizzikers my toothake has stopped again.

Which it had, proberly from the shock, and I stayed outside a little while longer trying to look for more, I felt before I got the exter dime, and some more sum went passed with and without ladies, but nothing else happened so I went in the store and asked for 5 cents werth of chockit cream cocoanut balls and the lady put it in a bag, and the smell of them made my toothake come back again and I stood outside the store about 5 more minutes thinking the way I actually felt without any result, so I went home with my toothake feeling partly lucky on account of still having 10 cents in my pocktt and a bag of candy for future reference.

REMAND THREE FOR SENTENCE

Youth Plead Guilty to Theft of Scrap Iron From Tent

"This theft of metal, that is being sold for scrap iron, is much too frequent all over the province and something must be done to put a stop to it," stated His Worship, Magistrate K. J. Butler, K.C., on Friday, after three youths, George Dalzard, Prince Edward County, Baker Gilmour, Point Anne and Earl Mowers, Belleville, had pleaded guilty to charges of the theft of 200 pounds of metal, the property of the Canada Cement Company.

"Unless an example is made of some person very soon, they'll be stealing locomotives or the Canadian National tracks one of these days," prompted Crown Attorney R. G. Donnan, K.C., before His Worship remanded the trio in custody for one week for sentence.

The three young men were arrested by County Constable S. J. Bennett as they appeared at a local junk dealer's with a load of the material as scrap. In court today Crown Attorney Donnan revealed that the metal taken was actually machinery that, although not in operation at the present time, was not scrap and would subsequently be used by the company in its operations.

"The machinery was valued at $113.00 and these men sold it for a paltry $20.00," stated the Crown Attorney. "I'll remand them to the week, at which time the matter of sentence will be taken up," concluded His Worship.

At the opening of court Crown Attorney Donnan withdrew the first charge of arson dismissed against Gordon Hines. Detective Lyons received no instructions from the Fire Marshal's department in the matter and the latter is not at all believe we should withdraw the charge at this time. If the department desires charges could later be preferred," pronounced His Worship-agreed and the charge against Hines was withdrawn.

Two additional charges on Friday's proceedings with pleas of guilty and fines being assessed in each case.

Boat, Car, Horse Races to Feature Picton Centennial

At the end of this month Picton will commence its week's celebration of its hundredth anniversary of the incorporation of the town and arrangements have been made to make the period from June 20th to July 5th the greatest celebration ever staged in Eastern Ontario.

While something is planned for every hour of the whole six days, July 1st, 3rd and 5th are undoubtedly the highlights. On July 1st the Prince Edward County town will stage the greatest regatta ever held in this province. It is the first ever sanctioned by the American Power Boat Association and this means that any records established will be recognized as official. The $500.00 Gold Trophy for the seventy mile an hour 225 class has attracted the best boats on the continent and several world record drivers will compete. A score of the better American drivers have entered the outboard races and the whole set up promises a day of thrills.

Hon. Earl Rowe has enlisted his horse, Blue Mountain Chicoot, in the horse races on Monday, July 5th and will drive himself. $150.00 in prizes has assured an attractive field and the entries include horses from Michigan, New York, Quebec and Ontario.

Something new in the way of thrills will be the Midget Car races, which have been sweeping the States this summer. On Saturday, July 3rd, ten of these little cars will strut their stuff on the Picton track. They are capable of hitting better than eighty miles per hour. Motorcycle races and a death-defying crash and stunt car will add thrills to the same programme.

May Appeal Assessment as Equalization By - law Passes

Members Object to Bancroft Receiving $20,000 Cut

LIVELY DEBATE

The dark clouds of appeal against the equalization of assessment of municipalities loomed on the Hastings County horizon yesterday afternoon at the closing session of the council, when several members announced their intention of fighting the equalization should the "thing be opened up" following a brisk debate in connection with the reduction of $20,000 from the 1937 assessment of the village of Bancroft, when the equalization bylaw came up for its third reading.

Reeve Sayers, Tweed questioned the fairness of the reduction and wanted to know why Bancroft was given this decrease while other villages were left as found by the tribunal, which sat at the equalization appeal last winter.

Dr. Lumb, Bancroft, and chairman of the Bylaws Committee rose to the defence of his village. "Bancroft," he said, "is vastly different to any other village in the county. It has no industry, no highway, no high school, and only one good building in the village. Fifty years ago it was a lot better village than it is today. Why we are fifty miles from a highway. When officials of the council visit us they are like a hotel, then their eyes become so full of dust from the road, that they cannot see the rest of the village. All we have in Bancroft is a lot of Irish air and optimism."

Freight Reduction

Reeve Robert Wood of Huntingdon stated, that he had fought against the reduction for commercial reasons, "but I am in favor of it" he said, "and while on this subject, Huntingdon got the worst end crack of them all. I accepted the view of the majority and intended keeping my mouth shut and taking my medicine, but if this thing is going to be opened up again, I will fight it."

Reeve George Jordan, Hungerford, charged that his municipality had been greatly over-assessed and if appeal was to be made, he would support it.

Frankford has not been dealt with fairly, stating Reeve Ketcheson "We have lost the Dyers now, and it was assessed for over our hundred thousand dollars," he claimed. "We have had lots of extra experience and will appeal again if it opens up.

Reeve Rose was why Bancroft should be given this reduction," said Reeve Rose. "Tweed has been assessed for $500,000.00 and there is not that much difference between us. We have to pay it. I'll fight if necessary."

A standing vote was taken after further debate and the bylaw was carried by a count of 16-3.

Mild argument ensued following the reading of the second clause in which was stated that in case of appeal, the decision would not be left in the hands of the County Judge alone. A motion to delete this clause was carried by a substantial majority.

The Parsonage was beautifully decorated with streamers of white and yellow and the archways were hung with white bells. Yellow daisies and peonies were used in profusion throughout the house, brought in by friends. There also was one large geranium with twenty-five blooms supplied by Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Chapel.

English, who showed them into the drawing room where they extended good wishes to Rev. and Mrs. Herrington. Mr. and Mrs. Herrington received them standing under a large white bell in the bay window of the drawing room. Streamers of yellow and white radiated out from the bell. Mrs. Herrington was dressed in yellow organdy and wore a corsage of mauve sweet peas in her hair and a corsage of sweet peas, baby's breath and maiden hair fern.

Thomasburg, Ont., June 16, 1937.
Rev. H. B. and Mrs. Herrington—
Dear Friends:—

Your many friends of the Thomasburg Charge have requested with a great deal of interest and pleasure that to-day is the twenty-fifth anniversary of your happy and eventful wedding day. No doubt as you look back over those twenty-five years they have seemed to you as they have passed by like a dream of happy reciprocating love and helpfulness to each other, so that the experience of those years have served to deepen and strengthen the Love, Loyalty and Ideals that have made the happy event possible. Also growing out of your experience together. You have made that Home, Family and Life, have a richer meaning to-day than ever before, because during these years of life together, you have proved the sacredness and independent character of true human love in all family relationships. For the home and for the Church. You have found it to be the basis of every happy and helpful companionship, especially in these hours when responsibility, care and sorrow have invaded the circles of your life.

What if misfortune come, and we Must give up every luxury,
That will not matter much to me,
We have each other.

I cannot grieve for such small things,
When love has strong and steady wings,
And in my heart the sweet truth sings—
'We have each other'.

Again, in our review to-day, we are sure that you have found and maintained that basic love, friendship, companionship, that has made your lives so worth while to each other and indispensable on the work of your Christian Ministry.

We, on this significant occasion of your lives, wish to most heartily congratulate you both on attaining your twenty-fifth anniversary, and ask you to accept these gifts of silver as a lasting token of our appreciation of your Christian leadership and untiring efforts in the interests of our Church. Also, as we wish to express our united wishes that the next twenty-five years may be radiant with God's richest blessings upon you and yours.

Signed on behalf of your many friends of Bethel, Roslin and Thomasburg.

Mr. Jos. Chappel. Mrs. Wm. Vance and Mrs. Les Adams then presented the gifts:— a flower basket, a gravy boat and tray and entree dish and a tree platter. Several other gifts of silver were also brought by friends during the day.

WEST HUNTINGDON

West Huntingdon — Time was when the farmers could enjoy a half holiday mostly any time, but now it seems that the seasons have brought a decided change. The farmers are hardly done planting when they have to start cutting hay. A number of fields of the early clovers such as alsaifa and sweet clover have already been cut. The grain and berries are needing rain.

A large number of farmers are performing their statute labor.

Mr. Hiram Dafoe moved the County crusher from Hill 40 on Ridge Road, to a gravel pit near Frankford. A dust layer has been applied to all of our streets that are not paved which is greatly appreciated by those living close to the road.

Mrs. Nellie McLung's popular works "Flowers for the Living" was fully exemplified by the family of Mr. E. T. Sarles. (Maple Avenue) when they gathered on Monday evening to spend a social time with him on the occasion of his fifth birthday. Mr. Clifford Elliott was master of ceremonies and called the gathering to order at nine o'clock and Mr. Geo. Sarles read the following address:

West Huntingdon,
June 14, 1937

Dear father—

This gathering of the clans has been specially arranged to celebrate an event which we, the family have always held dear, but which has come to mean more to every one of us as the years roll by. This event which we refer to is your birthday.

Today you are 67 years old. You will no doubt look back over these years and find times that really wonder if we were truly appreciative. We assume you had reason. Nevertheless we have learned we are deeply indebted to you, and we have insisted upon showing any of the harder tasks. You pleasure was to make ours light. In the good old days it was "Daddy" who reproved but now as the years have changed the scenes we think of the "Old Man" to whom we may go for advice in time of need. As a token of our deep appreciation we ask you to accept this gift, not for the more value of it, but the thought that prompted the giving and we only hope you may live to enjoy many more happy birthdays.

The family

Mr. Nelson Sarles made the presentation of a beautiful arm chair from the family and also a gift from Mr. Sarles' sister, Mrs. Welch and son Nelson of Moira. Mr. Sarles was completely taken by surprise but responded by thanking them who sponsored the event.

All joined in singing "That Silver Haired Daddy of Mine." Miss Irene Elliott playing the accompaniment on her guitar. Following this were a few remarks by the chairman and all sang "God be with You Till We Meet Again."

A dainty lunch of sandwiches, cake, tarts and ice cream was then served and lastly the birthday cake with 67 candles, made by Mr. C. Elliott and looked beautiful with its 67 candles. Those present were:—

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burrell, Mr. and Mrs. C. Elliott and family, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Sarles and sons Mr. and Mrs. George Sarles and Barbara, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McGee and family, Alonzo and Mrs. Tom Sarles, Miss V. Gunning, Mrs. Welch, made by Mr. C. Elliott.

The people of West Huntingdon join in wishing Mr. Sarles many more happy returns of the day.

Miss Mona Wright has finished her year's course at Peterboro Normal, also Miss Hilda Moorcroft has successfully passed her departmental exams at the Collegiate, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell McCurdy of Consecon were Wednesday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sandy McCurdy, Jr. Miss Mona Green, West, Wednesday as guest of Miss Sarah Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Sandy McCurdy and Donnie and Mrs. Geo. Ford were Thursday guests of friends at Zions Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. B. McCoyle and Margaret, Mr. and Mrs A. Henderson of Madoc were Wednesday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bray.

Mrs. J. C. Sills entertained the Huntingdon Branch of the W.I. on Tuesday.

The Misses Gladys Cook and Georgia Pitman were Sunday guests of Mrs. Sandy McCurdy, Jr.

Rev. H. A. Turner and some of the officials of United Church Sunday School attended a conference held at Oak Lake on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roswell Heal returned home from their honeymoon on Tuesday evening.

The Endeavors Class enjoyed a pleasant and profitable evening on Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Moorcroft, when Rev. Harold Reid, B.A., of Toronto, was present to show a large number of slides, which reproduced himself taken from scenes in the Old Land when he visited there 2 years ago.

He also showed views of Port Hope station. The singing of a hymn and prayer by Mr. Reid closed the meeting. Mr. Elmer Post voiced the appreciation of the class in a neat speech for hospitality and kindness of Mrs. Moorcroft and to Mr. Reid for the evening's entertainment.

Library Corner
by E. G.

One of England's foremost historians has written the life of a great Englishman, G. M. Trevelyan's biography "Grey of Fallodon" is an appraisal of the dual nature and achievement of Edward, Viscount Grey, the countryman, naturalist and statesman. He was under-Secretary of Foreign Affairs during the war, "for many troubled years and was, more than most, the representative of England at her best".

Here was a man who had no personal ambitions or ambitions in politics, "Mosert he was not in the streets or in the council-chambers but in the meadows and the woods and streams". His dualism is best revealed in the fact that he was a keen Izaak Walton of his day, a recognized authority on fly-fishing and the author of books on that subject. Mr. Trevelyan has written in a clear and vivid style, avoiding the use of rhetoric as he compiles the principle of Grey. What he says has a considerable bearing on world events for history is sometimes credited with repeating itself.

Believing that the Eas t and West in Canada have much in little of each other, and that they are drifting farther apart, Stephen Leacock attempts to fill the gap in his new book "My Discovery of the West". The outcome is a very readable literature tour made recently to the Pacific coast. The book is a searching diagnosis of the relations between east and west. "I decided to follow the east to west migration," Leacock says Dr. Leacock. "Mackenzie made his way to the lakes to the Kaministiquit Rived. I took the overland route by the Canadian Pacific Railway, first as more comfortable, secondly, as saving about a year". Of the West, Dr. Leacock is optimistic. In it he believes the economic and industrial life of the Dominion is at the beginning. Countries of the North, "where Man scribbles in vain a little history and Nature buries it in a blizzard of snow", and sees there a vast realm of peace in an troubled world.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett West" contains the humour characteristic of Dr. Leacock but also a critical analysis of the people in a necessary one for well-informed Canadians.

An explanation of that seeming paradox is found in the fact that Leacock is one of the writers edited by Herbert Read. Mr. Read in his introduction to the book relates this movement to the art of the past. Further aspects of surrealism are described in the book, leader of the movement in France, Hugh Sykes Davis, Paul Eluard and Georges Ruguet.

A sequel to "Life Begins at Forty" is presented by Walter B. Pitkin in his book "Careers After Forty". Walter Pitkin, after twelve years study has been able to formulate rules for employment which open up new opportunities for older men and women. Through hundreds of interviews with business men, the author has a leaned stimulating observation. "Careers After Forty" is a book that has much to offer for anyone who must earn a living.

60% of Teachers' Ills In the form of nervous breakdown

And is it any wonder when you consider the constant high nervous tension under which the teacher works. Two or three children in the home can bring enough worries, but with classes of forty or fifty to discipline and instruct the strain is enormous.

Much the largest percentage applies to business and professional men, especially during the troublous times of recent years.

The result is sleeplessness, irritability, digestive troubles, tired feelings, ill temper and incapacity to colds and other germ diseases.

The dependable treatment for nervous exhaustion is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. A great many teachers, as well as people in other callings, have learned to trust to this great restorative to bring back health and vigor and the energy necessary for the daily work and the enjoyment of life. Just put Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to a test and you will understand why it is so generally used to restore vigor to the nervous system.

Old City House Turned Into Small Apartments

..The owner of an old city house decided to turn it into small apartments. The problem was to make each apartment as distinctive as possible and keep them from being uniform.

Plans were made for one and two room apartments. The architect who planned the remodelling of the building designed the one room apartments with a maximum amount of floor space in the small rooms, with small bathrooms and kitchenettes. When the owner furnished the apartment she selected plain furnishings and through simplicity gained on effect of smartness as well as spaciousness.

One apartment had walls of plain grey, with a white Grecian design on one wall. The ceilings were high and long windows were uncurtained and had white Venetian blinds. Floors were painted black and the woodwork white. The room had no central illumination, but numerous lamps gave adequate light.

Realizing the rental value of such a feature, a fireplace unit was installed. It was of a black composition materials and a large, square unframed mirror was hung over it.

White lamps and other accessories were used with a touch of bright blue for accent.

TO ASK LICENCE FEES BE REMOVED

Milk-Drawers of County Complain of High Fees

Numerous complaints from the milk-drawers of some of the municipalities of the county through their representatives in County Council brought about a resolution this morning to petition the government as soon as possible to remove the licences imposed upon the trucks used for the drawing of milk only.

Reeve James Moore of Elsevir stated that people drawing milk to the various cheese factories were forced to pay license fees of over forty dollars, and even now government inspectors are warning them to either procure the licence or remove their trucks from the road.

After a mild debate, Reeve James Nickle of Madoc Township said that his district was greatly affected by this situation and would like some action on the part of Council, and suggested that a petition be sent to the government asking them to remove the special licences or get them down to a price within reach of the drawers.

Reeve Owen Ketchison, Sidney—"A resolution should be drafted and sent to the Department of Highways, and I think this Council will support it". This was accordingly done by motion.

In recommending that a grant of one hundred dollars be extended to the Publicity Committee next year, Council appointed the reeve of the Bay of Quinte Tourist Association in its efforts in publicizing the County of Hastings.

Reeve Bristol stated, that the amount of one hundred dollars spent in this work was the "best one hundred dollars spent this year." We should make efforts to extend this grant another year and derive further benefits from this source".

Work of Bureau Praised

Several members endorsed Mr. Bristol's suggestion and spoke highly of the fine work being done by the tourist bureau.

Going into a Committee of the whole on Ways and Means, Council voted a $50.00 grant the usual amount to the Victorian Order of Nurses. Fees of George H. Stokes, valuator and appraiser for the council during the recent Appeal against the Equalization of Assessment amounting to $186.30, and Charles Jones, valuator amounting to $182.75 were ordered paid. Spirited debate however greeted the motion of Warden Wesley Gray that a grant of $25.00 in addition to the $175.00 granted yesterday be given to the Belleville Fair Board. Various members reiterated their opinions that the rural fairs should receive the same consideration as exhibitions as Belleville Fair. A motion to the effect that no action be taken was greeted with an amendment that the grant be given. After further discussion the amendment carried that the extra grant be given carried by a vote of 15 to 11.

The annual appeal from the Hospital for Sick Children resulted in no action being taken by Council at this session.

In a report submitted to Council this morning, the Road and Bridges Committee recommended, that the following roads be taken over by the county and that necessary bylaws be passed subject to the approval of the Highways Department to take effect January 1st, 1938 as no provision has been made this year to finance them.

2 Roads Taken Over

(1) The road in Tyendinaga Township connecting the Shannonville road with the Marysville Road, a distance of seven miles. This road is now in good repair and has two small wooden bridges. Also part of the fifth and sixth concession, connecting Road No. 6 at Read and continuing east by Read Church to connect with Road No. 7 at the 5th concession, a distance of five miles.

(2) A street in the village of Bancroft connecting Road No. 1 at Hastings Street, going east across the county bridge to the station and connecting with Paudash Lake Road on Road No. 1 at Gordon Jones property.

The extending of Road No. 1 section 2 from Maynooth to Maynooth Station, a distance of one mile.

The committee reported, that it had passed a road in Dungannon Township which would connect the present county road at Tudor with the Government Road running from Bancroft to Denbigh at Bowen's Corners, a distance of 4 1-3 miles, and as this is an important connection they recommended, that it be added to the county system.

Cardinals and Boston Red Sox Two 'Hottest' Teams in Loops As Hurlers Show Improvement

St. Louis Wins Eleven of Last Thirteen Starts

GROVE IN FORM

Hubbell Again Batted Out As Cincinnati Reds Win 5-3

By SID FEDER

This baseball business gets funnier and funnier. You never know what to expect next.

For weeks a club will stagger along with a pitching staff that's a "cousin" to every outfit in the league. Then, all of a sudden, it has the same set of sluggers who floundered around so futilely, come along and will come up with a group of starters who are murder to the opposition.

That is what caused the Chicago Cardinals and Boston Red Sox to stumble. They appeared headed for nowhere in a hurry only two weeks ago. The two teams got together. Then doing most of the heavy duty had dropped to fourth place. The Red Sox, with Lefty Grove driving up and Wes Ferrell faltering, were under .500 and dead deep in the second division.

Suddenly, both clubs have hit the hottest kind of their respective brands.

Lon Warneke hit a winning strike and Rookie Bob Weiland uncovered a lot of southpaw ability to help Dean. As a result, the Cards have won 11 of their last 13 starts, dating from the Fourth of July holiday session and are now in third place, only a game and a half behind the faltering second-place Giants.

Red Sox Now Fourth.

At the same time, the Red Sox, with Grove returning to form and Ivy Andrews and Jack Wilson and Buck Newsom, who was received in trade for Ferrell, have taken six of their last seven games. They shot into fourth place yesterday with a 6-4 win over the slipping Cleveland Indians.

Weiland turned in an eight-strike-out performance as the one house cheering Boston fans, 12,000 strong, that win, the pitchers have turned in a record of 94 hits allowed, 39 strikeouts and 23 runs (10 of them earned) during the Cards' stretch.

Cincinnati Reds' shortstop Carl Hubbell from the hill to less than three innings for a 5-3 win behind Lee Grissom. The schnozz sank the Giants to a full game back of the National League leaders, Chicago, which ninth inning rally beat the Phillies 8-7.

Brooklyn's fielding fell apart with four errors and the Pirates whipped Van Mungo and Hal Smith, 6-3. Cpl. Mildebrand posted a two-hit shutout, pitching the St. Louis Browns to a 6-0 win over Washington. The White Sox broke even in a twin bill set out and the Tigers and Athletics were not scheduled.

TOP ROOKIES IN BEARS' LINEUP

'Atley McDonald, Hurler, Has Not Been Defeated in Ten Games

Not only are Newark Bears running away with the pennant in the International League but to the chagrin of most of the other clubs they are coming up with some of the best rookies of the season.

Outstanding among the Bruins' youthful crop are Joe Gordon, flashy second-baseler, who expects any time to be in Tony Lazzeri's shoes on the New York Yankees whenever Tony finally slips; Johnny Gieselin, a left pitcher-liner; Gene Kelleher, a hard-hitting third-baseler; Buddy Rosar, a kid backstop with great potentialities; but perhaps the most promising of them all is 'Atley Donald, the Bears' brilliant rookie right hander.

Donald, brought up from Binghampton of the New York-Penn League this year, is leading the loop's pitchers with a perfect record of ten victories.

Victory number 10 last night was his best performance of the season. The lean right-hander held the Rochester Red Wings with three hits to the last seven innings.

Fine hurling was the keynote of the rest of the games played in the circuit. Buffalo Bisons took both ends of a night bargain bill, 4-0 and 4-3 from Syracuse behind the veterans Ken Ash and Bob Kline. Jersey City's Giants broke a five game losing streak with a 4-3 win over Montreal.

Threatening weather held back Toronto Leafs and Baltimore Orioles from action for the second straight night.

BELL-SARGENTS DEFEAT POINTERS

Wet grounds made fielding hazardous and batting difficult in softball game at Point Anne last evening when Bell-Sargents defeated the only toppled over the "cement village" lads, but upset the well-known type basket to hand them a 6-5 defeat. The defeat of the Point Anne nine drops them from the top position of the local senior softball league ladder, a position they had held decisively for the first summer game of the season. By virtue of last night's win the Bell-Sargent gang makers" relinquished their position to the Corbin nine of Corbyville.

Eddie Schreiber and Stan Luffman tangled on the mound but the wet slippery ground made effective pitching rain for both the pitchers and the batsmen. Schreiber, however, in the clout went for base hits when outs should have been registered under ordinary circumstances. Luffman was touched for a total of twelve hits while Schreiber garnered ten safeties well "Funk" Murray's circling drive in the fifth inning was the longest hit of the day. Luffman endeavored to keep his team mates in the game more timely singles, but subsequent batters failed.

H. "Dyke" McGuire, Member Of Great Belleville Hockey Team Visiting Old Friends in City

Now Director of Physical Education in Detroit Michigan

CENTRE ICE STAR

Played With Lang, Marks, Burrows And Others in Early Days

Still the lithe, sandy-haired shifty skating centre ice star who thrilled the sport fans of Belleville in the big rainproof rink with the hockey rinks in stick-handling and goal-scoring for Belleville's great senior hockey teams of years ago, "Dyke" McGuire is in the city renewing old acquaintances and meeting particularly reminiscing with his old friends and team mates of the early part of the present century.

Harry McGuire, who is now residing in Detroit, and his wife are the guests of the latter's aunt, Mrs. Emma Brown on Elmer street. Harry now being director of physical education in the Fisher T.M.C.A. in Detroit. Harry has had charge of the pre-season physical training of the Detroit Olympic National Hockey League and Stanley Cup winners for the past two years. In renewing old acquaintances and reminiscing Harry readily recalled the old days when he played hockey on the old Hospital Lot, at the corner of Church street and Victoria avenue with Ernie Lang, Jack Hulme and others.

"They are still talking about the days the Belleville Intermediate Hockey Team and then had the championship of Ontario in the dressing rooms committee rooms because Jack Hulme had rented a room for the baseball team in Malone, N.Y. to pay a doctor's fee for a broken nose he received the summer previous when being struck in the face with a foul ball by Howard Harry, the same doctor fain for both the pioneers and the athletes," said Harry Monday. "Accident went for base hits when outs should have been registered under ordinary circumstances. Jack Hulme was touched for a total of twelve hits while McGuire caught him for safeties well "Funk" Murray's circling drive in the fifth inning was the longest hit of the day. Luffman endeavored to keep his team mates in the game more timely singles, but subsequent batters failed.

maker in the centre ice position.

A rather amusing incident of 1927 was recalled by Harry yesterday as he spoke of the time Ernie Lang arrived at Hamilton with his team and had to use a pair of borrowed ones. "Ernie and I used to team together splendidly but the skates Ernie had to borrow were dull and pointless, with the result I played the hardest game of my life. We had a lot of fun before the game with Ernie getting the skates, though. In those days there was not a man on our team who could skate. We ran from four to five miles every day during training camp and even though the present day hockey may be faster than it was in my day I don't think there was ever so much better condition than they are today. Why, we used to run with weights on wings each fall. Why they think they've got to run around the track to run a mile," he added, and slated in the old days the players practiced sometimes for as many hours at a time.

Old Belleville Boy.

Harry McGuire is an old Belleville boy, received his education here, and yesterday recalled with pleasure his school days, especially the days he played hockey on the old Hospital Lot, at the corner of Church street and Victoria avenue with Ernie Lang, Jack Hulme and others.

"They are still talking about the days the Belleville Intermediate Hockey Team and then had the championship of Ontario in the dressing rooms committee rooms because Jack Hulme had rented a room for the baseball team in Malone, N.Y. to pay a doctor's fee for a broken nose he received the summer previous when being struck in the face with a foul ball by Howard Harry, the same doctor fain for both the pioneers and the athletes," said Harry Monday. ## Belleville Rovers Score 18-9 Win Over Norwood Terriers

Joe Gould And Smart Carry Brunt of Attack in Contest

A SMART GAME

Trenton, June 19 (Special)—Belleville Rovers marched to an 18 to 9 victory over Norwood Terriers here last night when three hundred sports fans from this district, gathered in the Quinte street arena to witness Trenton's introductory box lacrosse match. The invading athletic stick artists were no match for the speed and power that the Rovers showed on the track and withered under the terrific offensive of the Belleville squad in the early part of the contest. At the end of the first period the scores was tied 3-all but by the halfway mark the Rovers were in the lead by five points and were nine ahead at the completion of game.

The Terriers performed a little better in the last fifteen minutes and held the rambling Rovers. Gould was the back bone of the entire Belleville organization and netted the pill on eight different occasions while Joe Lalonde, speedy centre man, landed the twine four times. Ralph Puffer and Ken Bowell also looked best for the losers. Steve Puffed of Norwood and Bowell of Trenton collected lengthened the visitors lead to three goals by scoring in the last minute of play, leaving Joe Gould covered through the opposing seven to put Belleville on the home stretch. Lalonde made it two on a pass from Murphy. A few minutes later Gould knotted the test. The Rovers romped out on the field in the second session with renewed vigor and after many minutes before they were on the scoring end. Lalonde received from the face-off, Hap Day counted and Buck Labadie also contributed from the same northern bunch to tilt the sphere past Gordon Rogers, goalie par excellence.

Compliment Returned.

The Gould-Lalonde and L. Rogers-Avra serving penalties for taking part in a fray Shurd of the Terriers scored. Gould then returned the compliment a minute later on an assist from Smart. Again all full strength Gould tallied on Lalonde's pass. A slight lapse by Baker slipped a point, Partridge scored for Belleville and Lalonde completed the hat trick for the Belleville squad.

The third stanza opened with Gould scoring. Lalonde added another to the rover's total right after. Day, Murphy and Labadie rallied for the Terriers and Labadie and Gould returned the regulation three for Belleville. Lalonde at the canto finished Belleville 18, Norwood 7.

Reg Hurd of Norwood raced in to (6) Goalder who tended a whale of a game and the Gould collected two points for Belleville on close in shots. Baker scored for Norwood. Hap Day completed the fielders scoring with only half a minute to go before the curtain rang down to close the show. During the set-to the participants carried on cream-puffs arranged in their sticks and the hickory was laid on plenty heavy by certain members of the squads.

Penalized For Boarding.

Goalie Goalder was also penalized for boarding after five minutes of play in the initial session and later a misconduct. Bill Schrieder was penalized for the Bell-Sargent and except for the clever blow by "Punk" Morrow who had little trouble with the Sedore-Bateman-Luffman outfit. Stan Luffman was the home team's choice for hurling duties. The diamond was quite wet causing numerous blows to go for base hits, that would have otherwise been easy outs. The Bell-Sargents outhit the homesters 12 to 10.

Elmer Labarr's crack pacer, Royal Goldboy won the 2.22 class at Uxbridge yesterday in 2.12, paying $7.60 on a $2 ticket. The time was exceptionally good for the class. Kate L. driving Royal Mc-Killop this season.

Hanging up their second consecutive victory in as many starts the Belleville Rovers will travel to come from behind to beat the Norwood Terriers on a 60 minute night. The Terriers went out and rifled home three goals in the first period to take a commanding lead, but soon the Rovers found the range and hammered matters at the opening of the second stanza. From then on it was a parade. Lalonde and Smart proved splendid point getters with Stan Partridge and Joe Gould on the scoring end. The attack of Belleville is the best that the Rovers' eight Flyers on their roster, and they have a lot of lanney outfits. There seems no stopping Joe Gould and Joe Lalonde when behind to trim Cobourg and duplicated the feat in victory they showed last night.

Rogers, the Terriers' goalie sustained a nasty injury before the game got under head, when he was struck in the eye with a flying ball, necessitating medical care. He sustained by Eddie Goodier in Cobourg. Incidentally Goodier appeared in the local rink last night and decked with a face mask to protect his injured eye, but was forced to continue unguarded, his injured optic swelling until it closed in the third frame.

George Kilka and Louis Marakas, two local pugilists, left yesterday for Chicago with coveted tickets to the Golden Gloves tourney to be held next week. Both boys have a record of 21 bouts apiece and will be entered in the Giant-Club series at Wrigley Field over the week-end. The boys will be sent to get mixed up with any of those Windy City shooters or may be testing bones for eating money.

Dan Petroff, the Russian lion tamer who was mauled by a performing circus lion in Belleville a few years ago, has been reported to Canadian Press as a popular rassler in Belleville simply because Dan can be depended upon to display his finest wrestling wares regardless as to the circumstances. Petroff is whiskered Sad Boy Brown, that comedian of the wrestling ring who also has been signed to add color to the show

Although we have heard the old rivers frequently relate yarns about Belleville's great hockey teams of 25 or 30 years ago and heard tales unfolded of some of the players composing those teams, it was not until yesterday we ever had the privilege of meeting Harry "Dyke" McGuire, the same clever stick handler who starred for Belleville the latter part of the nineteenth century and in the early 1900's. Still lithe and energetic Harry is back home renewing old acquaintances and reminiscing of the good old days that used to be when hockey was played on the old Hospital Lot and in Belleville's first covered rink situated where the Armouries now stand. Harry looked up his old team mate, Ernie Lang and together the two with Jim and Postmaster "Doc" Truesdell, whom Harry says the late Jack Truesdell, managed one of the teams Harry played with. Harry is quite anxious to meet Jack Hulme, Jim Weins with Jack "Bonnor Cordanier," "You see Jack used to do our trimmer when I was a kid," explained Mr. McGuire, who is at present director of physical education in the Fisher Y. M. C. A. in Detroit and also is in charge of the physical training of the Detroit Redwings, Stanley Cup and N. H. L. champions.

Some really heralded navigators of speed boats have entered the A. P. B. A. regatta at Picton on Dominion Day, but the entry list officially entered his Miss Canada IV, Gar Wood's boat, now the holding five separate power boat units to compete in the day's regatta.

The committee from the Quinte Motorcycle Club is staging races in connection with the regatta on Dominion Day. Besides the motorcycle races, the first time in Belleville the club will entertain the crowds with stunt riding and other feats of daredoc

DAILY SHORT STORY

Love Wins by a Nose

By Martie Ramson

After meeting Steve Carleton, Ann Shilton began to wonder if racing were all that exciting, or if they mattered at all.

There was nothing new about the one in which Ann and her fiancee Hiddie Collins were engaged. But as long as it paid the rent for the apartment and allowed them a little play money they would continue at it.

Ann met Steve at the race track. They both had very good reasons for urging Carlsbad on to victory. Ann had a two dollar ticket on the horse to win, and Steve—well, Carlsbad was one of his five days running there. A few minutes after Carlsbad thundered down the stretch to beat the favorite by a neck, Ann and Steve were chatting like old friends.

The following week they saw a great deal of each other. They spent the days together at the track where Ann was rapidly becoming acquainted with Steve's entries. But of greater importance to Hiddie was the fact that Ann found out Steve's financial status, which only made Hiddie more impatient. He decided that Steve was "ripe for picking."

It was Wednesday evening, seven o'clock. Steve was coming at eight. Hiddie was waiting for his instructions, but for some strange reason Ann hesitated.

"We'll wait until tomorrow night, Hiddie. Thursday always was my lucky day."

Steve came in promptly at eight. "Ann, I have something for you." He opened a small velour covered box containing a beautiful pear shaped diamond ring as Ann had ever seen.

"Why, Steve," she murmured breathlessly as he slipped it on her finger. "Steve, it's beautiful. I don't know what else to say."

The next daytime Hiddie decided the time had come. They would put it off no longer.

"Listen, Ann, this girl should be good for a grand or two an' that ring should bring another grand. What a swell pair of chumps we'd be if we passed up a bonus like this."

"The ring doesn't enter into this deal at all, Hiddie."

"O.K. Have it your way. Mind if I go home alone tonight?"

Go ahead, but don't forget to have that telegram here by nine o'clock."

Steve arrived at the usual time and suggested a show. Ann complained of a slight headache saying that she would rather stay in. At nine-thirty the telegram arrived. She opened it hurriedly, scanned the face of it and dropped into a chair as if feeling faint.

"What is it, Ann, dear? What has happened?"

Handing Steve the telegram she buried her head in her arms and sobbed audibly.

"There's nothing to do but leave at once," said Steve calmly. I'm quite sure your mother will be all right."

"But, Steve, you don't understand. I haven't enough money to take me to New Jersey, and this is to San Francisco."

"Ann, dear, you can't let that stop you. Here," extracting his check book and writing, "you can cash this in the—"

The ringing of the phone interrupted.

"Hello, this Miss Sutton? Receiving hospital calling. Young fellow here says his name's Collins—Eddie Collins. Been hurt pretty bad in an auto accident. Says he was driving your car."

"What time did the accident occur?" Ann asked.

"We received the call at seven-thirty."

"Sorry, but you have the wrong Sutton. I don't know the gentleman."

She reached for the telegram and searched the face of it frantically. Surely it could not be—yes, there it was—just as plain as daylight. This telegram left San Francisco at seven fifty-five.

"Steve, look, it's really from—" she stopped short. Steve was smiling.

"Steve," there were tears in Ann's eyes. "I've a confession to make."

"Suppose we talk it over on our way to California, Ann?"

"You mean—"

"I mean that your ticket on Rachel doesn't collect. Love has it by a nose and I'm holding the winning ticket."

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, June 18.—(AP)—Stocks drifted in varying directions on the day's market and only a few were able to show worthwhile progress.

Strike news, which had displayed some improvement with the appointment of a mediation board by the United States government in the steel controversy, chilled-trading sentiment when Governor Earel of Pennsylvania declared martial law at Johnstown.

Wall Street apparently found confirmation of its previous conclusions that, even with government intervention to settle the unionization battle underway in plants of leading independent steel companies, amicable adjustment of the issues probably may be some distance away.

In the Canadian division Hiram Walker, Canadian Pacific, Molsons and Distillers-Corp. Seagrams ruled steady in quiet trading. Dominion government issues were inactive while Canadian Pacific bonds changed at 99.36 7-16 cents. On the curb, Lake Shore Mines was about even.

Cheese brought 14¾ and 14 11-16 cents on the Belleville Cheese Board at today's meeting with 2260 cheese offered of 14¾ cents and 804 boxes at 14 11-16c. 85 were refused at 14 11-16.

Buying was by Hart, Cook, Morley at 14¾; Armstrong, Morton at 14 11-16.

Buyers present were Messrs. Taylor, Hart, Hunter, McCreary, Cook, Morton, Pringle, Armstrong, Ashton.

Exemption for two more cheese factories in this district were asked for by Mr. Hart and Mr. McCreary at today's boarding. The factories concerned will be Foulkes and Sinar Creek. The request for exemptions were approved by the board and will be forwarded to the Farm Products Control Board for approval.

Market Comment

Although Canada is perhaps best known throughout the world for its products of the field, forest, and mine, manufacturing is also becoming of increasing importance. Manufacturing establishments in operation throughout the Dominion during 1930 numbered 20,401, produced goods to the value of $2,907,237,281, and provided employment to 562,-876 workers who were paid $590,-233,267 in salaries and wages.

A prominent feature of Canadian manufacturing development in recent years has been the growth of central electric stations and nonferrous metal smelting and refining. These industries based on water-power and mineral resources have taken their places among the leading industries along with the industries based on forest, agriculture, and livestock resources.

Little possibility exists for labor trouble in the gold mining industry, and more particularly in Canada, if the opinion of Morris Rothenberger, president of Tri-National Trading Corp. of New York, who has been interested in mining development since he left the Dominion four years ago. He points out that every prospector and miner has designs on a mine of Hallst and continues to search for the yellow metal and develop ore bodies as soon as a discovery is made. Meanwhile, those who work in gold mines usually invest their earnings in gold stocks, or use them as "grub stake" for prospecting. "It is quite certain," Mr. Rothenberger said, "that labor disturbances of the U. S. will also be limited in the mining regions of Canada and, in my opinion, Canada will before long prove to be the world's leading gold producer."

Some gold mining securities have declined sharply in recent months. Mr. Rothenberger reported, however, that conditions with labor are no worse, the drop in value of gold shares being accounted for by disturbance to market by rumors of sharp reductions in the price of gold. Canadian authorities, he observed, are as vigilant as ever, the United States is dealing with security frauds and, in fact, Canada and the two countries are co-operating closely in this respect. He estimates that of the money used for promotion and development in gold mining in Canada, more than one-third has come from the United States.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE CLOSING

Toronto, June 18.—(CP)—Trading dropped to about 200,000 shares on the Toronto Stock Exchange today, about a record low for recent years, and prices were barely firm. The only exception to dullness was the recent general lethargy have taken buying interest in Hollinger, Lake Shore, Golds, Base Metals and Junior Oils were all a bit heavy and changes are few and inconsiderable, mainly on the down side.

Industrials generally failed to improve on its Friday advance, closing unchanged to slightly lower and with the exception of Canada Bread and Pend Oreille.

All the Oils held unchanged and the Junior issues, after opening slightly off, firmed up before the close when gains were recorded for Foothills, Brown Corporation and Pacific and Empire-Edmonton was lower. Pacalta was the heavy trader of the group and it advanced about 4 cents to around 24.

Utilities, Foods, Steels and miscellaneous issues were irregular and lower. Brazilian improved slightly and Beauharnois, and Bell Telephone were also fractionally higher. Liquor leaders, Walkers Common and Distillers - Seagrams were slightly stronger.

There were few sizable changes in the Golds. McIntyre added a fraction and Lake Shore was down a point. Investigations were heavy in Hard Rock, Slave Lake, Kirkland-Hudson Bay, Goldcreek and Uni. Among the gainers a few cents each were McVittie, God's Lake, Teck Hughes and Sisco.

DAIRY NEWS LETTER SHOWS TREND ABROAD

The figure of a kangaroo has been adopted by the Department of Commerce as the standard mark for Australian export butter. The new uniformity regulations will operate from 1st July, but will not cause butter factories to lose their individual identity as permission will be given to factories to add to the compulsory butter wrapper designs some abbreviation denoting their own registration mark.

The new regulations will prescribe particularly a national brand for "choicest", with the word "Australia" in the centre, the name of the State of origin, the registered number of the factory and the net weight. The kangaroo stamp will be placed on all choicest butter after examination by Commonwealth graders. Uniform branding will be required for other grades.

In a statement issued by the Department of Commerce, factories are invited to make immediate application for a registered number, so that there will be no confusion when the regulations come into operation, and there will be no question of having to hold any butter submitted for export after 1st July.

Exports of Italian butter declined to a low figure in 1934 but excessive increases occurred in the following two years, the figure for 1936 being 3½ times as great as in 1934.

Imports of fresh butter during January, 1937, amounted to 5,923 cwts. compared with 163 cwts. in January, 1936.

Exports of cheese from Italy declined in 1935, but recovered in the two following years; the quantity exported in 1936, however, was 36 per cent. lighter than in the preceding year and 23 per cent. smaller than in 1934.

Exports of hard cheese were 22 per cent. less than in 1935, and all the chief outlets, with the exception of Germany, showing appreciable reductions.

Italian Milk-Weal

The Italian Embassy staff in London appeared at a function clothed in suits made of cloth containing a 14½ per cent proportion of Italy's new "artificial wool." The product of casein, in view of claims made for this "milk-wool" considerable interest attached to a recent German experiment.

The German experts had made a very thorough test of the product. Their report stated that "milk-wool" had but little affinity for natural wool when both were dry, but one-third the strength when both were tested in wet condition. Its capacity to stretch was poor, but its felt was perfect of length, compared to 30 per cent. for dry wool and 55 per cent. for wet wool When bending strength was imposed, "milk-wool" broke at a bend. While natural wool stood 500 to 1,000 bends. In the summing up, the German experts state that "milk-wool" has a future in the foundation. Casein molecules are short and lumpy, and so can never produce a satisfactory fibre. The ultimate, or foundation fibres, of natural wool, linen and silk are even "artificial silk" are fine and long, as is necessary for the perfection of a good fabric.

The Belgian Government has taken steps to encourage local production of dairy products by means of tariffs. Import licences for butter and other measures principally with the object of limiting the production of milk, butter, and cheese. The production and importation of margarine is to be checked by means of special taxes. The quota for imported cheese is had been expected that a licence fee would be imposed on all cheese, but instead a bounty will be paid to local cheese manufacturers.

QUEEN VICTORIA SCHOOL CLOSING

Parents, Ratepayers And Trustees Attend First June Exercises

A very pleasing and unique event took place at Queen Victoria school, Wednesday night, the first meeting because, in the face of a steady downpour of rain, the long-looked-for-fun was filled with parents, trustees, ratepayers and other friends of the school, and it was unique as it was the first attempt to bring closing exercises to the school in June. Since the abolishment of the old type of promotion examinations it is now possible to end the year in a more pleasing manner, such as the one Wednesday.

Plays Presented

The programme was unusual as it was composed chiefly of the plays taken by the pupils in their regular classes throughout the year, the direction of Miss Mildred Lloyd assisting in some. These classes in reading and expression were started in September and were held for the purpose of improving the pupil's ability to express themselves before their fellow pupils. Short Select poetry and authors were studied and discussed, and plays relating to the pupils' work in history and literature were given throughout the course. These same plays were used on the evening's program with special scenery and lion for the occasion. During the intervals between plays musical selections were given their turns in impersonating the various characters and thus the same plays could be produced many times with an entirely different cast each time. Needless to say, Miss Lloyd's efforts were greatly appreciated in the school as adding very much to the effectiveness of the year's teaching and the audience last night was impressed with the ability of the young actors and actresses in portraying the various characters assigned to them.

Staff Takes Part

In the presentation of the program, the whole staff took an active part, each contributing a number, with the smaller pupils for their part, and in the absence of the principal, Miss Cowan, Miss Bunton and Miss Betty Barr brought great applause. A delightful piano duet by Misses Margaret Boddite and Madge James and a piano solo by Gwendolyn Ervine were greatly enjoyed by all.

At the conclusion of the program the audience inspected the art, writing, note books and science exhibits which were on exhibition in the corridors and many favorable comments were heard about the pupils' work. During the evening refreshments were sold by several young ladies.

Conference Failure

London, June 19 (CP-Havas)—Foreign Secretary Eden today called in the French, Italian and German Ambassadors to consider Germany's charge that the cruiser Leipzig had been attacked by a Spanish government submarine off Oran, Algeria. The Ambassadors' meeting was also called under the terms of the non-intervention agreement concluded only last Saturday.

Eden acted immediately after German Ambassador Joachim von Ribbentrop delivered a note alleging the Leipzig had been attacked three times on June 15 and once yesterday. The cruiser, equipped with submarine-detecting apparatus, was not hit.

surpassed this year. Radishes, fresh from the county gardens, were offered at 5c a bunch, in some cases three bunches for 10c. Onions in all sizes were reported to be the busiest as was fresh lettuce. New beets made their initial appearance this 1937 and were sold at 10c the bunch and in some cases three bunches for 25c. Fresh cauliflower sold at 10c per head with one vendor offering two cauliflower at two heads for 25c. Spinach showed but little change in price from last week's quotation selling at 15c per half-peck, with plenty of it available. Asparagus showed a slight decline in quantity but prices remained steady at 15c and 25c per pound bunch.

Strawberries Sell Well

Home-grown strawberries recorded on the market in the first of the summer quantities, in all sizes, were offered today. Some really fine samples were to be had, with vendors attempting to stabilize a fast declining price which halted at two boxes for 25c today, although cauliflo could be purchased at a flat box-rate of 10 cents. Recent rains, the market gardeners say, will be responsible for nearly a third increase in the strawberry crop, and offerings were plainly apparent on the part of vendors today to halt the price decline somewhat. Quart box-es to 12½ cents in the short period of ten days.

New gooseberries, of the small size were available and were offered at 2 boxe for 25c.

Tomato plants were also in evidence but in small quantity and sold at 35c per hundred. Cabbage plants were quoted at 10c a dozen.

Broilers 45c - 90c Pair

In the trade market, young broilers held the buying spotlight. Five, young birds found ready buyers and more storekeeper buyers and moved briskly at prices ranging from 45c to 90c the pair. Chickens and fowl were also plentiful and ranged from 50c upwards. Winnipeg veal was offered at 15c and 30c for half-joint and joints respectively, with fairly steady buying and no change in price from 30c per pound and 50c per pound rolls. A few vendors, however, offered their stock at 25c per pound.

Whitefish and fresh lake trout were the only fish varieties offered with each selling to a briskly moving market at 22c the pound.

Baby chicks were quoted at nine cents each, Youthful vendors offered their supply at six weeks' old. Collie pups at $1.00 and $1.50 each.

BRITAIN DECLINES PART IN WARNING TO SPAIN

Commons Cheers Eden On Britain's Refusal To Back German Plan

Germans Demand Punishment of Spanish Government

FRANCE IS INVITED

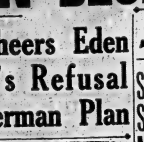
Source of Trouble in Spain is Foreign Fighters, Says Eden

London, June 22—(AP)— Four power negotiations over German demands for a display of naval strength in the Spanish Civil War, and morning and afternoon sessions of the House of Commons today have fallen rather flat.

The break came after Great Britain had rejected the German demand for joint retaliation against the Spanish Central Government because of an alleged attempt to torpedo the German cruiser Leipsig.

London, June 22—(AP)— Great Britain will refuse to join any naval demonstration off the coast of Spain if a German-sought "warning" to the Spanish government's foreign secretary Eden told the House of Commons today.



His announcement followed upon a report that Germany, demanding punishment of the Spanish republican regime for what the Third Reich contends was a torpedo attack on the cruiser Leipzig, had demanded strong action—perhaps a four power naval display of warning near Valencia.

The House cheered Eden as he went on to declare the British government was "in the principal source of trouble in Spain is the presence of foreign fighters, and that the government wants those fighters removed immediately.

Britain Dissatisfied

"His Majesty's government," said the Foreign Secretary, "are not dissatisfied with the present state of affairs."

"His Majesty's government, therefore, have offered to place their services at the disposal of the non-intervention committee in order to facilitate and hasten the first withdrawal of foreign combatants, which they desire to take place without further delay."

Eden declined to disclose details. He explained, however, that a new evacuation plan calls for an immediate start on the recall of some foreign fighters from Spain, even before a full program is put into force.

German Press Views

Berlin, June 22—(AP)—Germany demanded today that Great Britain, France and Italy join her in action against the Spanish government for the alleged attempt to torpedo the cruiser Leipzig.

The inspired German press commented on the question of cancellation of the London visit of Foreign Minister Konstantin Von Neurath as an indication of Berlin's serious view of the matter.

The official attitude appeared to be that the non-intervention committee must make good on the patrol agreement of June 6 or once again Germany will take independent action against Spain.

Agreement of June 6th

The June 6 agreement guaranteed to Germany and Italy the right to participate on patrol duty to keep volunteers and arms out of Spain, but Germany has not been good on the non-intervention field.

The members of the German press office, Diplomatische Korrespondenz, outlined the German demand and said:

"It is necessary to express unmistakably that any new maladious attempt to attack the controlling powers not only will bring unrivaled punishment but also the guilty parties must be deprived of the right to remain on river as a whole. Placed side by side the two pictures are astonishing."

Why the Weather?

WHY THE WEATHER! .... By Major Edward Dalton Moore, Science Service Meteorologist.

Lightning Over Lighthing is so seen over with that no two persons hardly ever agree as to just how a zig-zag bolt of color flash looked. Lightning must be, therefore, what Sir William Napier Shaw gives in his Manual of Meteorology two pictures. The first is a photograph of a lightning flash. The second is a picture, taken from a school slate, of the flash as drawn with all its trifurcations, the branch of the river as it stop. Placed side by side the two pictures are astonishingly alike.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, June 22 (CP)—Pressure is low over Davis Strait and is moderate elsewhere. Local showers and thunderstorms have occurred over the Prairie Provinces and morning rain has caused rain in the Maritimes with heavy and local thunderstorms in most districts of Quebec and Ontario. Higher temperatures have fallen over Southern Saskatchewan though elsewhere they have risen. Frost warnings are in effect for Northern Alberta.

Lake Superior—Moderate variable winds; fair and moderately warm. Wednesday—Moderate to fresh west and southwest winds; partly cloudy and warm with local showers or thunderstorms.

Manitoba—Partly cloudy and quite warm, followed by scattered thunder showers tonight and Wednesday.

Saskatchewan—Partly cloudy with a few scattered thunderstorms; somewhat cooler tonight. Wednesday generally fair and a little cooler.

Alberta—Mostly fair and a little cooler tonight and Wednesday probably a few light scattered showers.

DARING SOVIET PILOTS MAKE FLIGHT ACROSS NORTH POLE

Amid official Soviet secrecy, three daring Russian aviators took off from Moscow on a non-stop flight across the north pole to San Francisco. The fliers using a single motored aeroplane, are reported to have crossed the pole several hours ahead of schedule. The Canadian government, in arrangements made several days before the take-off, has assured the Russian government help will be given the fliers should they make a forced landing on Canadian soil. In the upper photograph are shown, left to right, A. N. Tupolev, noted Russian aeroplane designer, under whose supervision the Ant 25, shown in the lower photograph, and in which the fliers are making the flight, was built, Alexander Beliakov, navigator of the aeroplane; Valeri Chakilov, pilot, and George Baidukov, co-pilot. Only the last three mentioned are making the flight, most epic since that of Col. Charles Lindbergh's flight across the Atlantic ocean in 1927.

SOLDIERS SENT TO STRIKE - SEETHING MAHONING VALLEY

4,800 Ordered by Governor Daley And Approved by President

KEEP PLANTS CLOSED

C.I.O. Pickets Will be Disarmed By Recent Order

Youngstown, O., June 22—(AP)— Ohio sent 4,800 soldiers into the strike-seething Mahoning Valley today on orders of Governor Martin L. Davey and with the approval of the President of the United States.

The militiamen began moving in at daybreak into Youngstown, where the mills normally employing 25,000 men have been idle since May 27; and into Warren and Niles, smoke stills point from the tall stacks in defiance of John L. Lewis' strike order.

Governor Davey, who twice before has sought strike peace by mediation—only to see his efforts fail, issued the troop order late last night at the specific request of Charles W. Taft, chairman of President Roosevelt's strike mediation board.

President Agrees

Davey conferred at length by telephone with President Roosevelt, he said, before deciding finally to call out virtually half of the state's militia payroll. He read the full proclamation and troop order to the President who said "he thought it very fair and the proper procedure" Davey added.

Both Republic Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., the corporations affected, bowed to the governor's order, but each issued sharp statements of dissent.

The governor's order establishes martial law in Mahoning county, permitting those plants at Warren and Niles, which have been operating to continue to do so, but forbidding the opening of plants, that have been closed.

Shadow of Fear

It provides also for the disarming of C.I.O. pickets.

The shadow of fear hung heavily over the Ohio strike front in the hours last night before the troop order was issued. Mobilized without parallel in strike history was the militia payroll. Men in numbers walked picket lines, each carrying a club for their own protection.

John L. Lewis, with the immediate fate of his ambitious industrial union campaign hanging in the interest strike, saw mediation efforts that he pursued with his executives packed their bags and departed.

By telephone he begged both Governor Davey and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins to act to stop the "butchery" he felt sure impended if Republic and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube reopened their Youngstown plants today.

As the troops rolled in to the strike area, Lewis, in a statement to mediators—who, lacking any "power or compulsion," have yet been able to bring about what virtually amounts to martial law—pushed on with his peace plans, undaunted by Monday's failure.

Mediators Far Apart

Lewis was to be called in again today by Mediators Taft and Judd Gurdler and the other steel company executives were to have been called back tomorrow But all agreed that Governor Davey was martial law at Johnstown, Pa., and troops here in the valley, the S el men and the labor leaders of both sides as far "or even farther—apart than ever.

President Roosevelt entered the 37-day-old, seven-state strike impasse today with a "hands off" troop order. He sent telegrams from the White House to Tom Girdler Republic chairman, and to Frank Purnell, Sheet and Tube president, saying:

"The Secretary of Labor has advised me that the Federal Mediation Board, of which Mr. Charles P. Taft is chairman, has requested you not to open your Youngstown plants tomorrow, Tuesday morning.

"In the promotion of public safety and in the interest of a reasonable and peaceful settlement which should be expected and can be attained, I earnestly join with the board in this request to you."

There was no comment from either chief chief on the President's telegram.

Beauharnois Wins Appeal, Hydro Must Pay $609,600

Ontario Appeal Court Find Contract is Valid

NEW APPEAL LIKELY

Toronto, June 22 (CP)—Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company's contract to supply power to the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission is declared valid today by the Ontario Appeal Court which held the Commission must pay $609,000 to the Company.

Only one of four Quebec companies whose power contracts with Hydro have not been revised, following passage in 1935 by the Ontario Legislature of a bill to cancel them, Beauharnois had obtained a similar decision by Chief Justice Hugh R. Rose of the Ontario Supreme Court. The Hydro Commission appealed this decision.

1935 Legislation Held Invalid

Beauharnois contended the 1935 legislation of cancellation was ultra vires and that its contracts with Hydro were valid. These claims were upheld by the Appeal Court which also decided Hydro Commission was liable to pay for power held in readiness for delivery.

Also cancelled in 1935 were contracts with the Ottawa Valley, Maclaren, Quebec and Gatineau Companies. These were subjects of conferences between representatives of the Companies and Government and Commission officials.

Make Hydro Foot Proof

Toronto, June 22 (CP)—Immediately following announcement today that the Ontario Court of Appeal had confirmed the legality of the Beauharnois Power Company's contract with the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission, the Ontario Government moved to give effect to legislation designed to make Hydro "judgment proof."

Shortly after it received word of the judgment handed down by the Appeal Court, Premier Mitchell Hepburn announced two bills acts passed at the last session of the Legislature, which were then declaimed today. At the same time he said a further appeal would be taken either to the Supreme Court of Canada or the Privy Council.

Hon. Gordon Conant, Attorney General, explained that by the judgment handed down today Hydro Attorney General becomes one of the defendants in the action instituted by the Beauharnois Company and he said he would immediately prepare an appeal. Hydro's appeal will be handled by the commission's own solicitors, he said.

Premier Hepburn declared that no new contract with the Beauharnois Company had been considered "up to the present point."

LOUIS CONTINUES 5 TO 2 FAVORITE

Negro Scales 197 1-4 Pounds And Champion Braddock 197 Pounds

Chicago, June 22—(AP)— James J. Braddock, defending champion, scaled 197 pounds, and Joe Louis, challenger, tipped the beam at 197 1-4 pounds, noon today as they weighed in officially for their 15-round heavyweight championship match at Comiskey Park tonight.

The principals in the big fistic show, expected to draw upwards of 90,000 fans and a 'gate' in the neighborhood of $700,000, weighed in at the auditorium theatre.

Louis, who continued at 5 to 2 favorite in light wagering on the first mixed heavyweight title fight held anywhere in 2 years, came to town directly from his camp at Kenosha, Wis., this morning.

Perfect Weather

The Negro scaled exactly six pounds under his weight for the fight in which he barely outpointed Bob Pastor in New York five months ago.

Perfect weather—accompanied the final flurry of preparations and formalities for Chicago's first big title scrap in 19 years.

As they met at the scales, the only conversation between them, as far as could be overheard, was Braddock's wisecrack:

"Hey, Joe, you need a shave."

Louis had a 10 days' growth of beard. The Negro was characteristically impassive. The champion, equally calm, appeared in better humor.

On the trip from camp, the Negro's handlers said the challenger talked mostly about the baseball series between the Cubs and Giants opening here today.

Regular Polar Flights Possible in Three Years Prediction of Soviet Flier

Valerio Chekaloff Describes Recent Trip Over Top of World

PLENTY OF CLOUDS

Ship Will be Dismantled And Returned to Moscow by Steamer

Moscow, June 22—(CP Cable)—Professor Otto Schmidt, leader of Russia's development of Arctic flying, wrote in the newspaper Pravda today that invitations had been sent to the Canadian and United States governments to cooperate with Russia in establishing Arctic stations to facilitate the establishment of Polar air service between Europe and North America.

"Recent events in the Arctic bring us close to practical realization of a transpolar aviation," Schmidt said. "To make regular cruises possible it will first be necessary to have Polar stations similar to those built by the Soviet and to create several intermediate aviation bases."

San Francisco, June 22—(AP)— Transpolar flights will be regular occurrences in "one or two years — maybe three" say the man who piloted Soviet Russia's plane on the 5,300 mile jaunt from Moscow to Vancouver, Wash., last weekend.

"A return flight would be easier because we would have tail winds," said pilot Valerio Chekaloff.

"With contemporary technique and science, we think there will be regular flights over the North Pole in one or two years—maybe three."

Chekaloff and his two companions, welcomed by 50 persons at Oakland airport last evening, said they next wanted to try a Moscow-New York flight via the Polar regions.

To Dismantle Plane

Today they look forward to viewing the country in which they landed Sunday after an epic 63-hour flight from the Soviet capital.

Chekaloff expressed particular desire for an introduction to American industrial methods as well as to San Francisco, Chicago and New York.

The big single-motored monoplane in which Chekaloff, co-pilot George Baidukoff and navigator Alexander Beliakoff spanned the Arctic, will be dismantled at Vancouver and shipped to Russia.

Described Trip

Yesterday Chekaloff told of the transpolar adventure as he and his companions were flown in a chartered airliner, from Portland, Ore., to Oakland.

Russian Ambassador Alexander Troyanovsky acted as interpreter.

Chekaloff, who flew the same plane 5,000 miles across Siberia last year as a "training" gesture, said he considered the transpolar flight the "most interesting, most difficult and most useful of any of our flights."

"First," he related, "we foresaw plane ice in the Arctic Ocean's field on concession seven, Blanchard Township.

Local aviation circles suggested a broken wing nut may have sent the craft into its death dive.

TRACK DISTURBANCE PROBE

Toronto, June 22 (CP)—Inquiry into a disturbance at Thorncliffe race track June 8 will be held by the Toronto Township Council Saturday. The council decided yesterday to invite anyone with information to testify.

"We should find, out what caused the riot and why it wasn't nipped in the bud," said Deputy Reeve John Doggett. General Manager W. R. Woollatt will be the chief witness.

HAS CANCER CURE?

When Chief Justice N. W. Rowell of Ontario, hearing the appeal of Dr. John A. Hall (above) against his disbarment from practice as a physician, suggested that an independent committee investigate the properties of a cancer serum formulated by Dr. Hall, the physician stated he would refuse to test the cancer treatment before any scientific body, if, in doing so he had to reveal the secret formula. Dr. Hall's name was removed from the list of physicians eligible to practise in the province by the council of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario on the charge the he had failed to prove the public a specific for cancer which had not been substantiated.

LEAVENS' BODY HERE FOR BURIAL

Col. Douglas Joy Sends Report of Investigation to Ottawa

St. Mary's, Ont., June 22—(CP)— Relatives were expected from Toronto today to claim the bodies of Al Ogden and Charley Sockett, both 35, killed with pilot Arthur Leavens, 34, when their cabin monoplane crashed from 1,000 feet in a wheat field near here yesterday.

Leavens' body was claimed by his brother, Ralph, last night and sent to Belleville, Ont., his birthplace, for burial. Coroner Dr. F. J. McInnis said no inquest would be held, but a government inquiry, now opened by Col. Douglas Joy, Dominion inspector of Civil Aviation, who arrived from Windsor.

Col. Joy inspected the wreckage and announced his report would go direct to Ottawa. Officials of the Department might release it there. Investigation centred around possible structural weakness in the machine. Eyewitness reports said the wing right dropped off before the plane hit the Archie Stewart's field on concession seven, Blanchard Township.

Local aviation circles suggested a broken wing nut may have sent the craft into its death dive.

By ANN DEMAREST

INSTALMENT 4.

Two endless days dragged and on Sunday Jeanne moved about the apartment like a frail, slim ghost. She started whenever the telephone rang or someone rapped a small frightened voice, hoping against hope that it would be Bryan and Jeanne discovered that Sandra had a small army of excuses eager to take her out. Automatically she told them that Sandra be home about six o'clock. Mart had called her at the store but she had refused to see him, knowing that she could not hide her anxiety about Bryan.

And when Sandra did come home earlier than she expected Jeanne was sitting listlessly by the fireplace, an unopened magazine on her lap. Sandra dropped into the chair opposite her and Jeanne thought there was a strange look in her roommate's dark eyes.

"You look very sorry yourself ill," she said sharply. "For heaven's sake, Jeanne, pull yourself together. Bryan Patterson isn't the only man on earth."

Jeanne buried her face in her hands. "I know, Sandra, but,..."

"Why not call Lance Larkin? You'll get morbid sitting around like this."

Jeanne raised her head and stared at her friend. I'm not interested in Lance Larkin, Sandra," she said quickly. "You ought to know that by this time. Bryan is the only one....."

Sandra interrupted her. "Perhaps Bryan isn't as wrapped up in you as you seem to think he is."

There was a note in Sandra's voice that made Jeanne eye her uneasily.

"What do you mean?"

Sandra's dark eyes shifted from Jeanne's intent blue gaze. She hummed tantalizingly under her breath. "Well, I don't say I told you that I know where he is," she said after a long pause, "and that I have to see him shortly."

"Sandra!" Jeanne stared at her with wide eyes, her slender hands clenched to the arms of the chair.

"Don't be such a baby, Jeanne. You swallowed every word he said without a question. You know final love rarely lasts," she added carelessly.

Jeanne pressed her hands to her mouth to keep from crying aloud. What did Sandra mean?

"First love rarely lasts," she whispered fo herself.

So the love she had for Bryan and he had for her was first love and it was over.

"So sport and forget it, Jeanne." Sandra opened her purse and took out her compact and lipstick. "It's not fatal, you know."

She patted her nose with powder and carefully lipsticked her mouth. Jeanne watched her movements as though fascinated and she thought suddenly that Sandra's long hands were larger than one might have expected; they were very strong, almost cruel looking hands.

"I've got to be running along now." Sandra flicked her hat over her sleek black hair at a casual angle.

"Where are you going?" Jeanne gasped.

Her roommate rose from the chair and slipped into her coat. She ignored Jeanne's question.

"I won't be home until late," she said with a mysterious, knowing smile. "Very late."

Jeanne jumped up and faced her. "Where are you going?" A sob tore at her throat.

"Say, you're pretty cute. Tryin' to fool me, are you? Why, it was in this moonin's Clarion." Jeanne drew in a quick breath. "Hank, what do you mean, what was in the Clarion?"

could you do this to me when I had such faith in you?"

For hours after she was there. And then, her pale face set, her eyes icy blue, she got up and carefully packed her clothes. Sandra would have to get another girl to share the apartment with her. She, Jeanne, could at least find a lonely space away from the small room where Bryan would be calling—and dropping in....to see Sandra.

"I must find work," she thought desperately, knowing that work would be the only relief for the aching in her heart.

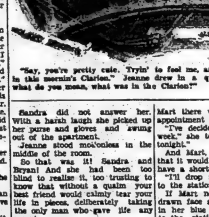
But it seemed impossible to look for another job feeling as she did. She knew that she suddenly decided to go home for a week to see her mother. It would be quiet in Hilton and there she could get a hold on herself and plan what she would do in a future that no longer held Bryan.

It was realizing that he was lost to her. Jeanne jumped nervously when the telephone rang, but as she crossed the room to answer it she realized that never again would she hear Bryan's warm voice. So when she found it was Mart there was no trace of disappointment in her quiet voice.

"I've decided to go home for a week," she told him. "I'm leaving tonight."

And Mart, surprisingly, agreed that it would be good for her to have a short vacation.

"I'll drop around and take you to the station," he said.



It Mart noticed Jeanne's pale, drawn face and the unhappy look in her blue eyes as he took her to the station he said nothing about it. Jeanne was grateful to him for not questioning her. He thought her quietness and forced efforts at conversation were caused by worry over losing her job. And Mart there was no trace of disappointment in her quiet voice.

"Oh Bryan " she cried. "How when she checked all of her bags except the one she would need at home and told him she was leaving Sandra's, he made no comment.

Jeanne forced herself to say goodbye cheerfully. "I'll be back in a week, Mart. Thank you for all you have done for me."

He patted her hands gently. "Don't worry, Jeanne. Get a good rest at home and when you come back we can make our plans."

Jeanne looked at him in surprise but before she could question him the conductor called "All aboard!" and Mart hurried off the train. Jeanne watched him as he strode down the platform.

Poor old Mart, she thought. It was too bad life had been so difficult for him. With a little more money and some one to cary for him, perhaps he would be happier. He'd never been contented in Hilton. His mother, a shrewd woman, had placed all of her hopes on her only son, planning for him a great career and a wealthy marriage. And driven almost desperate by his mother's ambition, he had left home to face the world alone, solitary, and with little hope for success.

The ride home seemed endless, yet it took little more than three hours to go from New York to Hilton. Jeanne hoddled by the window, her flushed face pressed against the cold glass. She decided not to tell her mother about the break with Bryan. It would only distress the older woman and the wound was still too fresh. Lately perhaps, she would be able to think of Bryan without anguish but that would take time. As it was now, the mere thought of him brought a quick stinging tears to her eyes. So talking about him to her mother could be put off until Jeanne had a job again and the outlook was brighter.

It was after ten o'clock when Jeanne got off the train at Hilton. The shabby old station was dark, and peering around in the gloom, Jeanne could see no sign of the local taxi. With a sinking heart she started off down the road, carrying her suitcase. It was a good two miles to the house and the country road was dark. After half a mile or so her shoulders ached from the weight of her bag and she sat down at the side of the road to rest in a mood of despair. Slender high-heeled pumps agonized paper thin on the soles of her feet.

For a few minutes she rested, then she forced herself to get up. She couldn't sit out all night even though the hitch-hiking trip would be agony. Then she saw the lights of a car coming towards her. With a feeling that he was lost to her, Jeanne jumped nervously when the telephone rang, but as she crossed the room to answer it she realized that never again would she hear Bryan's warm voice. So when she found it was

"Jump right in," Hank said. "I've got to run down to the station for a package and then I'll drop you off at your house on the way back."

Hank opened the door of the car, swung her bag into the back and Jeanne climbed into the rickety old car beside him.

"That's safe for a girl to be walkin' around these roads in the night," he said as they started back to the station. "And it's cold, too. We had a bit of frost here yesterday."

"I didn't know what to do," Jeanne said. "You see Mother doesn't know I'm coming so she'd have had some one meet me. I'm certainly glad you came along, Hank. I was getting pretty tired."

"How come you're home, anyway?" Hank asked curiously. "Thought you'd be stickin' pretty close to the city now you have a boy friend."

Jeanne looked at him curiously. How in the world would Hank know about Bryan? Jeanne hadn't told any one in Hilton that she was engaged because she wasn't sure when they'd be married.

"Oh, I just needed a little rest," she told him.

Hank slapped his hands on the wheel and guffawed. "That's a good one. Can't take it, can you? little gettin' nervous when she gonna be married. Say, I haven't congratulated you yet, have I?"

Jeanne turned amazed blue eyes on Hank. "Why, what do you mean?"

He shouted with laughter again. "Say, you're pretty cute! Tryin' to fool me, are you? Why, it was in this morning's Clarion."

Jeanne drew in a quick breath. "Hank, what do you mean, what was in the Clarion?"

Hank looked down at her with surprise. "Why, what else but your engagement to Mart Downes."

INSTALMENT 4.

Jeanne leaned back against the worn leather upholstery of the car, her hands gripped tightly to her purse. Hank's words echoed and re-echoed in her mind. "Your engagement to Mart Downes."

She forced herself to laugh. "Oh yes, of course. How silly of me. I just didn't realize it would be in the Sunday paper, Hank."

How could it have gotten into the paper, she asked herself wildly. Had Mart sent the announcement? And how could he do that when they weren't even engaged, when all she had done was let him kiss her the night she had lost her job. And then suddenly the words she had scarcely heard came back to her. Mart had said, "I'll take care of you, little Jeanne."

So that was what he meant. He knew she had no intention of marrying him. All along he had known that it was Bryan she was in love with. He'd even met Bryan one evening at the apartment.

Jeanne pressed her fingurs against her soft red lips to check the sob that was rising in her throat. Whatever Mart had done, he couldn't let him down. She wouldn't deny the engagement until she got back to New York and gave Mart a chance to explain.

"Yep, it shore was a surprise," Hank went on, unaware of her shock at his news. "Some folks thought Marilyn Freeman was kinda crazy about him, and mebbe she was, but it seems like he thought you was the pick of the lot here for a little spell, huh, Miss Lytes."

It was difficult for Jeanne to talk naturally and she was glad that after Hank picked up his package at the station he seemed content with gazing. He drove back on the rough road as fast as the old car would run and it was hard to hear above the shrill November wind so Jeanne was able to sit huddled in her front door without having him discover that his news had shaken her.

Her mother was still up when Jeanne hurried into the old-fashioned living room.

"Why, Jeanne!" she cried with delight, dropping her knitting.

"I thought you'd be surprised," Jeanne said gayly, before her mother could start to question her. She bent and kissed her mother's soft, wrinkled cheek. "I had a chance to take a few days vacation so I came right on home without taking time to write you."

"My little girl", Her mother drew Jeanne down on the sofa beside her. "I'm so glad you've come home."

Jeanne looked at her anxiously. "What is it, Mother? You look awfully tired."

Her mother's faded blue eyes filled with tears and she clasped and unclasped her hands.

"It's nothing. I didn't feel so well last week and I had the doctor come out to see me and he ordered me to bed for a week."

"Mother!" Jeanne's cry held anguish.

"Now, now, Jeanne." Her mother patted her hands. "There is nothing the matter with me—just said I should be a little careful and not get down too much."

Jeanne's heart sank but her voice when she spoke was steady. "You must have some one in to help you, Mother. It's too much for you to do alone."

"I didn't want to hirs any one, Jeanne. You've been away almost as it is. I want you to have nice things when you marry Bryan."

Jeanne decided hastily not to tell her until the next morning and she knew now that she'd never tell her mother about losing her job. No matter what happened she hadn't the heart to tell her that Mr. Conway had just given her a week's vacation.

"I have all the nice things I want for my trousseau," she told her mother gently; a quick pain stabbed at her heart as she said that.

What would her mother think if she knew Bryan had gone away and she hadn't a slightest hope of seeing him again now that Sandra had taken him.

"Can't you get old Jasey to help you, Mother?" she went on in the same even voice.

"Why, I guess I could," Jeanne could tell by her mother's tone that she was relieved.

"Good. We'll see about that tomorrow," Jeanne said briskly. "And now it's bedtime. I'm surprised at you staying up this late." She shook a finger at her mother.

"I've had a little trouble sleeping lately," Mrs. MacDonald admitted. "But I'm sure I'll sleep tonight with my little girl home."

Her mother was so thoroughly dependent on her, Jeanne thought as she undressed in the lamp old bedroom she'd had ever since she was a little girl. Her mother needed some one to look after. Tomorrow was going to be a difficult day facing Mart alone. It was to be brave sometimes, she told herself, as she crept miserably into bed. And in the future, with her mother well, seemed more uncertain than ever.

Jeanne wakened the next morning to hear her mother calling her from the stairs.

"Yes, Mother, what is it?"

She slipped into her blue dressing gown and woolly slippers and stumbled sleepily out into the hall.

"What, Jeanne, you didn't tell me about Mart. I didn't know it until Jim brought the milk around and said there was going to be a wedding in your family."

Jeanne gasped in dismay, but her mother, flushed with excitement, drew her into the room and went. "I had no notion you were marrying Mart. I thought it was Bryan you had set your heart on. Well, in a way I'm glad, Jeanne. Mart has been nice as he was a little boy makes me feel better about it. He's been good to live here in Hilton. I hear he's coming home after the holidays. Who put it in the paper?"

Slowly Jeanne walked down the stairs. "Why, Mart did, Mother. I didnt know he was going to, either. I guess it was just to surprise me. He's heard herself saying.

"What could she do now, she thought miserably, but tell her mother that she wasn't going to marry Mart Downes? That Bryan had chosen Sandra, and that Mart was almost the last man on earth she would marry.

"Come right into the kitchen she said, "I'll get you some coffee. I have the coffee ready for you and Hank's wife sent over a lovely coffee cake. And when she heard you came home last night—"

Jeanne followed her into the kitchen table protesting against being waited on while her mother fixed her fruit juice.

"Now let me get your breakfast, Mother, Jeanne, in that excited. Oh, it will be lovely to have my own girl a bride, right here in Hilton."

How she answered her mother satisfactorily, Jeanne never knew. All she was conscious of was that more and more she was involving things. Later, when she got another job, there would be time enough. She was certain that she was doing right in not upsetting her mother and ever before the following day after she called Sandra's apartment.

"Your mother may live for a year or two, Jeanne," he told her, gently. "She is one lady that you sleep and not wake up almost any time. Her heart is very bad."

"I'll see that she takes care of herself," Jeanne assured him. "Old Jasey is coming to do the housework for her."

"You're a good girl, Jeanne," the old man said thoughtfully, as he walked down the hall towards the front porch with her. "What is this I hear about your marrying Mart Downes?"

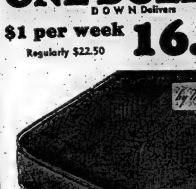
Jeanne flushed under his kindly scrutiny and before she had to answer him he went on, "I was surprised, Jeanne. I know you and Mart played together when you were children but somehow I never thought you'd marry him."

And again before Jeanne could answer she was interrupted by a cool voice from the porch. No one else thought Mart would marry Jeanne either."

Jeanne swung around quickly to face the girl who spoke, and she nodded stiffly when she recognized her. It was Marilyn Freeman, the only child and spoiled darling of the wealthiest man in Hilton. She was looking at Jeanne, a faintly amused expression on her pert little face.

"Hello, Marilyn."

The doctor looked annoyed as he spoke to the girl, leaning in the doorway, so nonchalant and assured in her handsome mink coat and smart Paris hat. He patted Jeanne's hand.



"I hope your mother will be better soon," he said, "and I'm glad you dropped in to see me."

Then he turned back into the house. Jeanne was sorry the doctor left them alone together. She and Marilyn had never been friends and she had no wish now to discuss her affairs with the girl.

"How's Mart, anyway?" Marilyn asked carelessly, seeming not to notice Jeanne's silence. "The last time I saw him in New York he got pretty tight and we had a quarrel. I hope he has stopped drinking so much."

"I'M SO PROUD OF OUR BIG NEW NASH . . . AND IT COST JUST A FEW DOLLARS MORE* THAN THOSE SMALLER CARS!"

Actual photograph of Nash LaFayette "400" 2-Door Sedan with trunk

Let Mr. H. R. Rish tell you why he got out of the "All Three" class!

"I'd been driving one of the 'All Three' cars. I've no complaints . . . it was a fine car. But with better times returning I wanted my car back in the 'big car' class. The low delivered price on the Nash LaFayette "400" simply tempted me. Actually it cost me only a few dollars more than one of the 'All Three'."

All over Canada, people are having experiences like Mr. Rish's. Just take a look at that car in the picture. It's a great big 117-inch wheelbase car. You get a 90 horsepower, six cylinder engine that costs less to run than many of today's smaller cars. You get larger hydraulic brakes, stronger all steel body, extra-wide seats, more headroom, legroom. All this—yet it delivers for just a few dollars more than the "All Three" would cost.

Get the Nash extra value story today. See the Nash Ambassador Six—the luxurious 121-inch wheelbase car—bigger than cars costing even $300 more. See the Nash Ambassador Eight—one of Canada's real "luxury cars"—actually competes in size with cars costing $100 and $200 more. Let the 2-Ray System open your eyes to the real, true facts about all the new cars. See it at your Nash dealer's now.

A CENTURY PASSES

Those who are over forty years of age can scarcely realize that this year marks the centennial of the coming of Queen Victoria to the British throne. Royal anniversaries and events have crowded upon the attention of the people of this fourth decade of the twentieth century. There were the jubilees of a king, his death, the abdication of another and the accession and coronation of another and now has come the anniversary of Victoria's accession.

It scarcely seems possible that a century has rolled over history since the young princess was awakened to be informed that she was to be the monarch of an empire. Yet in that hundred years there was made a new era which went by the name Victorian with some of the finest literary figures in all the language's hundreds of years of history, an era which was marked by the development of British influence in the world to the place of supreme prominence and an era of trade expansion. Then came a change which has permeated styles, a widening world outlook and the most devastating war in history followed with family, public and international ideals upset. Inventions have transformed the world, society is shaken by strange notions and altogether it seems a different world from that on which the young queen gazed on that June morning one hundred years ago.

LEARNING FROM A NEIGHBOR
(New York Times)

Friendly borderers in spite of the proverb, Canada and the United States have long had what Chief Justice Hughes has called "the habit of peace," they also have the habit of democracy; as Lord Tweedsmuir has just said, they are "engaged in the same job." Politics in the Dominion has all the heat and fury and humor and humbugging of ours. After an election there is the good temper which marks or used to mark the end of American battles on the stump. Both nations are wederations, if Professor Turner was right in his theory of the federation of geographical sections rather than of States and provinces. The prairie Provinces might be compared profitably with the Middle West. The attacks on big business, the wrath against the bankers in Montreal and Toronto, recall the hymn of hate which our politicians have chanted so long against Wall Street.

Relief and rehabilitation are Canadian problems as they are ours; and now the organization of labor is bothering Canadian statesmen. Both nations have to deal in their democratic ways, essentially the same for all their differences, with the same matters of national moment. The Canadian method is always worth watching. Lord Tweedsmuir was too modest when he praised in them the United States would "get"—that is, "learn"— a good deal from Canada. She taught us much about prohibition. One sorely needed lesson she is giving us every day seems little taken to heart. In that country of immense ranges the criminal law, whether in cities or isolated communities, is executed speedily and effectively. Trials are short. The courts are not theatres of cheap emotionalism, windy oratory, pettifogging tactics to delay or defeat justice.

Lord Tweedsmuir spoke of "the physical frontier" of Canada. The frontier of the United States disappeared more than forty years ago. According to Roscoe Pound, our scandalous criminal trials are inheritance of the frontier. In Canada judges are appointed for life and are not susceptible to political influence. There is no haggling for weeks in an effort to select a jury. There is no string of appeals to save a criminal's neck. Here too often he wins and the public loses.

We ought to learn from the Canadians how to administer criminal justice, but are we likely to? There are pessimists who hold that the great sprawling, easy-going, sensation-loving American public looks on a criminal trial as a show, spectacle, melodrama, pulp story, and bothers itself mighty little about justice so long as it has plenty of excitement.

HIGHWAY TOLL

Highways continue to exact their toll of drivers, passengers and pedestrians.

The tragic point is that this situation is taken for granted—that there must be accidents.

There can be no doubt that toll will be levied as long as the last ounce of precaution is not taken by every individual driving the arteries of traffic.

The problem remains a personal one in the final analysis.

It is a pity that so many lives are lost on the roads built with the intention of providing the maximum of safety and of elimination of factors which might cause accidents and make roads as safe as good drivers need for safe travel. But the road is no safer than a careless driver makes it, for he hazards not only himself but others.

THE ANGLER'S PRAYER

Lord give me grace to catch a fish
So big that even I
When talking of it afterward
May never need to lie.

x x x

Now that the fishing season has returned and stories of big fish and bigger catches are being told, the above verse comes a-bobbing-bobbing along as the prayer of the conscientious fisherman. Appropriately this petition is prominently displayed over a fishing display in the office of the Bowra store, arranged by that ardent fisherman, Steve Flintoft, manager of the Bowra store. This display contains a number of photographs of fish and fishermen, old and new, apparently proving that fishermen of today and yesterday took precautions of having their stories of fishing trips substantiated by illustrations. Also on display is the big pickerel caught on a light line by Jack McLaughlin, who made sure that his story-telling would be believed by having the fish stuffed and mounted. That's shownin 'em. All in all the window display is very interesting and has been attracting much attention. Such displays are useful in showing that no better fishing district exists than that within easy reach of Belleville, by car, canoe or boat.

GANANOQUE MAY NEVER BECOME A CITY but this enterprising burg down the road a ways certainly has put itself firmly on the map as a summer resort centre of great attractiveness. Beautiful gateways at each entrance to the town bid the motorist WELCOME TO GANANOQUE, A GATEWAY TO THE THOUSAND ISLANDS, and speed departing visitors from the same gateway with inscriptions signifying farewell and wull ye no cum back again. As the motorists approached Gananoque from either or west lights even near the road tell just how many more miles it is to Gananoque, until the automobile occupants begin to think as they reach the Last Mile that the only thing left worth while in this world is Gananoque, see the wonders of the Thousand Islands, take a bite or two at the "Golden Apple" and pass on with all ambition satisfied. Just another version of the old saying "See Paris and Die". It should be "See the Thousand Islands and live" longer and happier, perhaps. However, to return to Gananoque, all this furious publicity is only part of an intensive campaign of advertising which placed the town on the summer resort map upon ideas germinating mostly in the astute brain of Billy Wilson, Mayor of Gananoque for several years and a winter visitor to the Southern States where he spread the gospel of a summer paradise in Canada with portals in his picturesquely named town down by the river side. Billy always was a go-getter and the results of his efforts have been astounding—where once The Gananoque Inn was able to handle all the tourist traffic in and out of the town now there are a number of very fine summer hotels and a fleet of pleasure boats which take visitors on wonder tours through the many and beautiful maze of islands and twisting channels through waterways which, unlike the Blue Danube which is not blue, is really a beautiful blue green, clear and crystal with visibility perfect for many feet beneath the surface. Billy Wilson and his associates have certainly done a good job for their own home town and are certainly not weary in well doing by any means, believing with the great Wrigley the gum man that when the publicity locomotive is taken from the business train it will not run far on its own momentum—and while past advertising has been profitable, the present and future must be provided for in order to hold what they have and get new business.

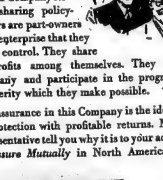
Our cook Nora was on a sit-down strike by herself in the kitchin all day and she was still on it when pop came home for dinner. ma saying, Now what you'll really have to do something. There she sits, and all sines of dinner are conspicuous by their absence. She insists she wont budge an inch unless she's promised another day off and another collar a week, she's got it in her mind that she'll get away with it we wont be able to call our sole our own. So what you going to do, Willyum? ma said.

I suggest that we go at this thing in the modern spirit of fare play like, I said, making this old world a better place to live in according to a rumour that's going around about. We'll have a little get together meeting between capitol and labor and maybe we can get her to compromise. I dont like the idea of being held up and chisled, but I couldn't object to a little compromise, he said, and ma said, Well of course naturally we dont want to be unfair to labor, even in our own home.



And her and pop went in the kitchin and Nora was still on her chair, pop saying, Well Nora, we've come in to lawk this over.

Another day another dollar, that's the slogan and it won't do no good to lawk it over or under or any way at all. Nora said, and pop said, But Nora, dont you believe in arbitration?

Another day and another dollar is my arbitration, and I'm willing to abide by it, Nora said, and ma said, O dear, what are you going to do, Willyum?

I'm going out to eat some place, pop said.

With we all did, going up on the Avenue to the New Home Dining Rooms we ordering 2 kinds of ice cream for dessert and taking another paper napkin out of the paper napkin holder every time mine slid off my lap.

The A.B.C. of True Temperance:

We assume that none of our readers would publicly defend drunkenness?

Then let us look at the question fairly and squarely:

Both at home and abroad there have been experiments with prohibition. They have all been unsuccessful. They have all proved that this prohibition or unreasonable restriction of alcoholic beverages does NOT promote temperance, but does the opposite!

What happens . . . when the legal door closes, the bootlegger's door opens.

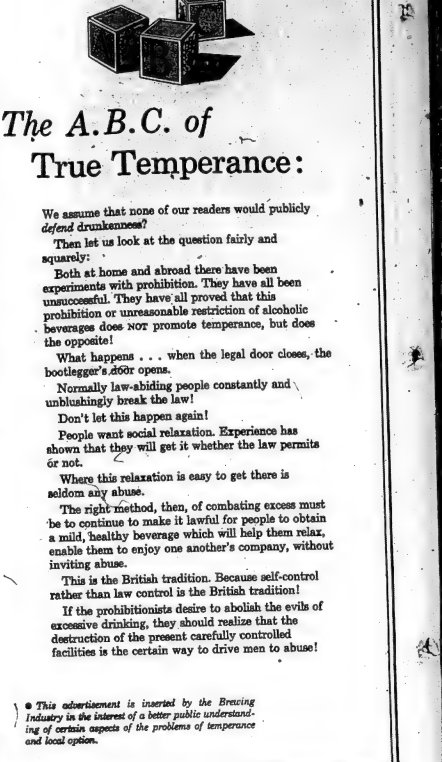
Normally law-abiding people constantly and unblushingly break the law!

Don't let this happen again!

People want social relaxation. Experience has shown that they will get it whether the law permits or not.

Where this relaxation is easy to get there is seldom any abuse.

The right method, then, of combating excess must be to continue to make it lawful for people to obtain a mild, healthy beverage which will help them relax, enable them to enjoy one another's company, without inviting abuse.



This is the British tradition. Because self-control rather than law control is the British tradition!

If the prohibitionists desire to abolish the evils of excessive drinking, they should realize that the excessive drinking, they should realize that the destruction of the present carefully controlled facilities is the certain way to drive men to abuse!

Tax Rate Will Be 49 9-10 Mills As Council Passes Estimates At Special Meeting of Body

Rate is One Tenth of Mill Lower Than Last Year

ALD. WILLS HEARD

Clear And Concise Statement on Finances of City Offered

Belleville's tax rate will be 49 9-10th mills for the year 1937.

This rate was adopted in the annual estimates presented by Alderman T. Y. Wills, Chairman of Finance at a meeting of city council held last evening. The rate is one tenth of a mill lower than that of last year.

In his presentation of the Estimates, Alderman Wills addressing council declared, that a statement would evidently be expected of him in explanation of the various changes in them for the current year, as compared with the year 1936.

"It is with considerable regret that I introduce estimates, that do not show any substantial reductions in the taxpayer over the rates imposed upon property in the city in the previous year," he announced.

"I had strong hope that in view of the announcements made by the Government at the beginning of this year we would be able to show a reduction of at least one mill, and possibly more, but upon finding that some $7,000.00 was necessary for Mothers' Allowances and Old Age Pensions up to March 31st, as well as other charges, which I shall later mention in detail, the prospect of this reduction soon disappeared. I might also add what councils have repeatedly found—that the preparation of their expenditure that is in any way controllable is very small.

Receipts Available

"The receipts from various sources other than assessment are some $7,000.00 higher than last year, at which the major items are an increase of $6,000.00 in the surplus available from the waterworks department, a prospective increase of $2,000.00 in the interest account, $2,400.00 from slot machine licences; $900.00 from rent of Exhibition property and $1,000.00 from the sale of properties that have passed into city's hands. Against these are shown decreases in the estimated as surplus and income tax, the expenditures, the only increase of any substantial amounts are those for the Public Works, Hospital Indigents, Remissions and Uncollectables on the 1936 collector's roll, Children's Aid Society, the 1936 tax sale, and street lighting. While the public works department shows an increase of some $2,000.00 appears necessary this year over the amount actually spent for that purpose in 1936. A further increase of about $2,000 has been made this year in the Governor's Aid Society estimates. No doubt some persons will immediately rush to offer explanations for this, but unfortunately the monthly bills now being received by the city will not warrant a lesser amount being estimated. The increase of $1,000.00 in the street lighting account was inevitable and the of course already entirely incurred by last year's Council, particularly in the re-lighting of Victoria Avenue and Bridge Street. The $1,200.00 grant to the Band provided for a new item, that the taxpayers have voluntarily assumed. There are a number of other minor items in which slight increases occur, while a decrease of some $1,000.00 is found in the City's share of street oiling. The assumption of the whole payment for Mother's Allowances and Old Age Pensions by the Provincial Government has resulted in a decrease of expenditures of some $12,000.00 this year. While the amount required for general purposes is increased about $14,000.00 from last year, increased receipts from various sources enable the general rate to be fixed at an amount only 3-10 of a mill higher than last year.

Board Requisition Up

From the foregoing figures many of which are in the nature of non-recurring items, it will readily appear, that with the aid of one mill payable to the City under the Provincial Subsidy Act, the taxpayers should receive a reduction in taxation this year, but unfortunately, in addition to the above expenditures by your Council, the Public School Education requisitions show an increase of some $12,000.00 over the amounts requisitioned last year. We have all seen details of these figures and therefore no further explanation appears here.

I again wish to draw the attention of the Council and the ratepayers to the accumulating surplus account requirements in the sinking fund, which is required to be set aside annually for payment of debentures and interest. I have commented on this item for last year and the year before and as this Council has been unable, despite repeated efforts on their behalf, to find means of making this money or at least some of it legally available for the purpose of easing the taxpayers' burden, I cannot help urging that steps be taken by this year's Council to apply to the Legislature for assistance along these lines. I must frankly admit, that it seems to me absurd that a City Council should be required by law to continue to levy for the payment of debentures for the retirement of which a sufficient amount is now on hand and invested.

I also wish to point out, that these estimates which I now present have been settled only after careful thought and consideration, and that every item has been worked out with a view to keeping the tax rate as low as possible. Requests by bodies or groups of persons for construction, grants, or other assistance involving material or paid labour will, if granted, most certainly result in a substantial overdraft at the end of the year which will have to be taken care of in the 1938 taxes.

Chairman Complimented

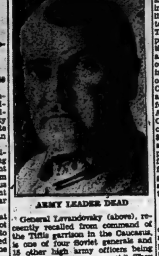
Following the reading of the estimates and their adoption, Alderman Harold Armstrong rose to compliment the Chairman of Finance. Alderman Wills, upon his able manner in which the various points had been explained to council.

"I'd like also to express my appreciation for the efforts that have been expended on these Estimates by Alderman Wills", he added.



"As a member of council for some years, I may say this is one of the clearest and best presentations we have ever had. Council, as a whole should be grateful for the work that has thus been done."

Alderman Wm. Harvey was a hearty seconder to the expression of appreciation voiced by Alderman Armstrong.

"I'd like to add my thanks, too, to Alderman Wills. And I would like to see his whole report printed in the press so that citizens could have some idea of the time and work that has been put into it," declared Alderman Harvey.

The vote of appreciation was finally tendered by Mayor R. D. Arnott.

"I don't expect any thanks for just carrying out my duty" acknowledged Alderman Wills, "but if there is any thanks to be expressed the civic officials who helped me greatly should receive it. They made the task a much easier one.

POLICE CONDUCT RAID ON CAFE

Edward Lem Charged with Keeping for Sale and Remanded Week

Hundreds of curious citizens milled and jammed Dundas street around the entrance to 236 Front Street on Saturday night during the progress of a police raid upon the Regal Cafe premises operated by one Edward Lem. The raid, led by Sergeant Arthur Harman resulted in the confiscation of three cases of beer and a quantity of loose bottles of beer, all taken from the upstairs apartment above the cafe premises. A door leading from the cafe kitchen to the upstairs apartment was open.

Monday in local police court, held before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., Edward Lem local Celestial appeared ed charged with having liquor for sale. The accused was represented by Charles A. Payne, K.C., who requested a week's enlargement in the matter. "I was only retained in this matter a few minutes ago and know nothing of the case, could we procure an agreement for one week in order that I may review the case" requested Mr. Payne. His request was granted. In the matter of proposed bail Crown Attorney R. D. Denman, K.C. stated he believed a cash bail of $200.00 would be satisfactory under the conditions.

POLICE COURT

Thomas O'Brien, transient, who was arrested on charges of intoxication and panhandling by local police on Friday and at that time stated that he wanted to be in jail so he would be with his pal and buddy, will spend the next 15 days with his old-time friend, James Wheaton, also a transient well known in the parts. Whetton had been arrested some hours before O'Brien was apprehended.

Both appeared before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., in Monday's local police court charged with intoxication and tendered pleas of guilty. O'Brien addressed the court requesting his sentence date back to the date of his arrest, Friday. "This man deserves no consideration he was panhandling as well as drunk," interrupted Crown Attorney R. C. Denman, K.C., which prompted His Worship to extend the customary ten day sentence to 15 days, but Magistrate Butler granted the accused man's request and dated the additional sentence back to the day of arrest. Wheaton was given the same sentence.

Albert Hayter, Millbrook, was convicted of driving his automobile without first having obtained a driver's licence.

This young man only recently moved to Marmora on the highway. He bought a secondhand car last week for $65.00 paying a $30.00 down payment. The very first time he came into the city he failed to stop at a stop street and crashed into the rear of another car causing considerable damage, explained Chief Kidd before His Worship meted out sentence. The minimum fine of $5.00 and costs was imposed and Hayter's driver's licence cancelled for a period of two months. During the accident which happened, Mrs. Hayter sustained injuries to the face and head lacerations, police stated.

An old offender appeared charged with drunkenness and pleaded guilty. "This is the third offence for this man," informed Chief Kidd, which brought the conventional three months sentence from the Bench as provided by the L.C.A. "I've spent four months in this jail so far this year, could you make the term in the Reformatory?" asked the accused. "That's a hard place to spend four months," interrupted Crown Attorney Denman in reference to the County Jail. "Sure is" replied the accused as his request for a Reformatory term was granted.

Life Insurance In Action

In the past year the London Life paid 3,343 death claims. The foresight of these policyholders meant provision for their dependents.

During the same period, 4,644 London Life living policyholders received the full amount of their policies. These matured endowments provided immediate cash for themselves and families.

Payments to living policyholders amounted to more than twice as much as death claims.

It is a great comfort to know that you may enjoy a carefree old age and that your dependents will be cared for should you not live to provide for them.

Never be without adequate life insurance!

Shannonville, June 17th

To Rev. W. H. Clarke and family:

We, your fellow workers, view with sadness the impending departure from our church and community. Mr. Clark, we hope and pray that your future field of labor may lead you to health and that again you may be able to continue with the Master's work.

Your life and work among us has been a beautiful one, especially that which noble precept and faithful example which you have set.

We believe you were called of God to employ your talents during the nine years of faithful service among us. We also believe you were not unmindful of the fact that whatever but it may be that praise from us is undeserved, undeserved because we failed to find encouragement. It has always been your plan to govern by love and not by authority of the law of force, I John 3-18. Let us not love in word, neither with the tongue but in deed and in truth.

We will also miss you, dear Mrs. Clark, who have so faithfully and graciously given your time and talents to our church work. Your diligent and untiring efforts for the welfare of the W.M.S. has been an inspiration to our church. You have given your best to make a success of the various duties in which you were entrusted. You have at all times responded to your hand in the greatest of hospitality.

Helen, you will be much missed in the choir for your faithfulness and in the Sunday School for your service and you have most assuredly won the hearts of many of the young friends into the paths of right. We hope Douglas and Billy will not forget the friends they have made while among us and that they will be a credit to themselves in all their undertakings.

Now we ask you to accept these gifts as an evidence, though humble and inadequate, to express the love and esteem in which by your people and as a remembrance of the sincere appreciation shown us by the members of the Shannonville Church.

Signed on behalf of your many friends Mrs. Everett Stratton, Mrs. Arthur Houston, Mrs. Sam Elliott, Mrs. C. Kierl.

"Viasa Darie" from "La Tosca," the "Waltz Aria" from "Romeo and Juliet," and "In the Gloaming." All these besides two excellent new popular numbers by Jerome Kern: "Our Song," and "Whistling Boy."

Miss Moore is perfectly supported with a grand story by Robert Riskin of "Mr. Deeds" and "It Happened One Night" fame. Gary Cooper is just right as a hard - drinking American artist, while other roles are dealt with skilfully by Aline MacMahon, Henry Stephenson, Thomas Mitchell, Catharine Doucet, Lois Alberni and others.

The story concerns an Australian opera star who is forced to leave America when her passport expires. Going to Mexico in a desperate attempt to phenagle her way back in order to star in an important festival, Her scheme falls through. As a last resort, she becomes a citizen by marrying an American artist, whom she pays $2000. From then on, it's anybody's fight, with the audience always winning.

"When You're in Love" is, simply one of the most delightful heartwarming pictures you're ever come across. Chalk up one more victory for Grace Moore. And don't forget Robert Riskin, who makes his directorial bow with a triumph.

BAD BOY BROWN WILL ADD COLOR

Antics in Ring Border Upon Comedy at Times

Bad Boy Brown, the bewhiskered Kentucky "hillbilly", whose recent appearances in a Belleville wrestling ring have added much color to the mat game at the Belleville Arena is scheduled to return in the preliminary bout of Wednesday night's show, when he will meet Jack Hamilton, the Georgia adonis, in the opening bout. Brown's antics, while working in the ring verge upon comedy at times and he literally has the fans in an uproar as he protests regarding the practise of his opponents in pulling his long black whiskers, which he regards very highly, being a true son of Kentucky and an original hillbilly. Brown has been known to enter the ring clothed in his native garb of only a pair of overalls.

The opponents in the main bout next Wednesday night in the National League first "crucial" series of the season.

The opener of their three-game series was a fast preliminary to the Braddock-Louis barruping later, but the tangle is definitely big stuff on the day's sports programme in Chicago, chiefly because it will decide, for the time being at least, just which way the pennant chase is headed.

Pending the results of the current club-wrecking by the Cardinals on the rest of the league, the series begins the jockeying for position for the start of the last-half pennant drive.

Should the cascade, the Cubs, already in first place and sporting a one-game lead, figure to put themselves in a nice spot for the start of the campaign's after July 4 run by taking the series. Their pitching is head and shoulders over that of the Giants, and their hitting tops the New Yorkers' like at tent.

Giants Are Primed

But the New Yorkers, although limping along since the Hubbell hobble "busted" are primed for the three tilts. Not only are they anxious to keep the Cubs in sight, but the Giants must do something special in this series to get ready for their coming clash with the Cardinals.

Seeing the theory on their records in their last 20-or-so games, it seems the Cubs can finish on top in the two-out-of-three if they continue their recent pace. Since they began the drive which carried them from fourth place to the driver's seat, they have won 17 of 21 games on a combination of tight defense and swing-from-the-heels attack which they have averaged better than six runs and 11 hits per game, compared to the Giants record of about four runs and eight hits over the same period.

Longshot Players Had An Innings

By The Canadian Press

Longshot players had their innings at Dufferin Park if Toronto yesterday when M. R. Oswell's Flying Mocker took a nose decision from Primbud to hang up a $149.10 for Two Mutuel in the Queen's Park prize, headline attraction on the program.

Mrs. W. Russell's Little Sergeant gave the punters further reason to cheer when he raced bonns to a length and a half win in the second heat to pay $46.80, and combined with Ardawn in the daily double returned $206.90. Mrs. Russell for $3 chance, was another outsider to score, taking the nightcap by six lengths.

Prim players, however had a good day, too, favorites taking the four races. Ardawn winning the first, Rosebud the third, Dalsman the fourth and Fort Dearborn the sixth.

The Mount Royal Cup handicap topped the car at Blue Bonnets in Montreal and the victor turned up Pat Pendillon from C. E. Gaudry Stable. Surly was a poor second, just a nose ahead of Ah King. Pendillon was second choice and returned $6.35 for $2.

Joggie, winner of the King's plate at Blue Bonnets last year, pulled a surprise when he captured the sixth that paid $13.35. It was his first start since last fall.

CRUCIAL SERIES OPENS TODAY

Giants And Cubs Hook up in First Game For Leadership

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Just a couple of clubs "loaded for bear," the red-hot Cubs and the desperate Giants, go to work on each other today in the National League first "crucial" series of the season.

The opener of their three-game series was a fast preliminary to the Braddock-Louis barruping later, but the tangle is definitely big stuff on the day's sports programme in Chicago, chiefly because it will decide, for the time being at least, just which way the pennant chase is headed.

Challenger Favored to Win For First Time in History As Fighters Wait for Bell

Expect Crowd of 60,000 With Estimated Receipts $750,000

15 ROUND BOUT

Both Braddock And Louis in Excellent Shape For Contest

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

Chicago, June 22—(AP)— Joe Louis, sleepy-eyed son of an Alabama cotton picker, gets his greatest opportunity tonight.

In a floodlighted ring, pitched over second base at Comiskey Park, home of the Chicago White Sox, Louis, the modern ring's most spectacular figure, battles James J. Braddock, contested heavyweight champion of the world. Watching them will be a crowd that may go as high as 60,000, with gate receipts that may reach $750,000.

It will be the first time that a Negro has had the opportunity of winning the world heavyweight championship since Jack Johnson battered the shell of Jersey J. Jeffries into helplessness in Reno back in 1910. It also will be the first "mixed match" involving the title since Jess Willard defeated Johnson in Havana 22 years ago.

Held in Black Belt

The fight will be held in the heart of Chicago's black-belt with its 700,000 negroes. To prevent any racial disturbances that may result in rioting, 7,000 policemen will be on guard, 400 within the Arena and 600 outside the park walls. Reserves will be held in readiness at near-by police stations.

For the first time in history, the heavyweight challenger goes into action favored to conquer the champion. Louis, on the strength of what he has done with his dynamite laden fists, is held 3 to 2 over Braddock. Despite his defeat by Max Schmeling who knocked him out in 12 rounds and his unfavorable showing against Jack Pastor, who spotted him 30 pounds, Louis holds the interest through the knockout power in his fists.

The fight is scheduled to go 15 rounds, or less. It may start any time between 9 and 11 p.m. E.D.T., depending on weather conditions, Referee Tommy Gray will be fair with moderate temperatures.

Weighed In Stripped

If rainy weather is encountered before the gates of the park are thrown open at 4 o'clock, the contest will be postponed until tomorrow night.

The champion and challenger, both fighting on percentage, also will share in the $50,000 paid for the radio rights, and $25,000 for motion picture contracts. Braddock will get 50 per cent of the total gate after state and federal taxes have been deducted and Louis 17½ per cent.

Braddock, idle since he defeated Max Baer for the championship in 1935, is plainly the "underdog." The lines of the experts are definitely drawn. They said either Louis would win by a quick knockout or Braddock would take down the decision, with a few rating him chances for a knockout victory.

Louis is the youngest challenger in heavyweight history. At the age of 23 he has skyrocketed to fame just as fast as did Jack Dempsey, when the Manassa Mauler started his famous knockout career. Dempsey was 24 years of age when he battered Willard to defeat in four rounds at Toledo in 1919.

Hope of Red Cross

This is no hope of a sell-out, with its million-dollar gate, the dream of all fight promoters since Dempsey and Gene Tunney drew 194,994 spectators to their famous "long count" engagements at Soldier Field just 10 years ago. That battle drew $2,658,660, the all-time record.

The best guess is that "Little Phil" Collins, with no political affiliations and with a reputation for honesty and ability, will be the third man in the ring. There will be a "no foul" rule governing the 1 bout, which means, that the battle cannot be won or lost on a foul.

ST. MIKES STAGE RALLY TO WIN

Defeat Queen Mary Midgets at Lacrosse by 6-2

Staging a torrid last half attack, that netted them five goals, the St. Michael's Academy midgets came from behind to defeat the Queen Mary Midgets 6 to 2 in a regular School midget Lacrosse League fixture played on the Collegiate campus yesterday afternoon.

The tussle was marked with contributed personal contact, that resulted in many penalties being meted out by Referee Laughlin, including numerous major penalties for infringements of the rules. Every Q.M.S. players was injured during the contest, Goalie R. Salisbury sustaining a broken nose as the result of being struck in the face during the progress of a ganging attack by the St. Mikes.

Queen Mary forged to the fore with an early first period goal, when Ray Langsbeer scored. Each team notched a counter in the middle stanza with St. Michael's scoring twice, Terry McCabe and Mike Powers scoring for the Irish and Gene Harmon for Q.M.S. With the score knotted two-all the St. Michael kids launched a terrific third period attack that resulted in four goals being scored in their favor and victory assured.

Bob Holland, Terry McCabe, Mike Powers, and a second by Bob Hollard is the order in which the goals were counted. Holland, McCabe and Powers each scored two for the victorious "Irish."

The victory elevates the St. Michael kids into second place in the league standing, just one-half a game behind the league leading R. U. I. midgets, who can clinch the championship, however, with a victory over the Queen Victoria School midgets on Wednesday night. A loss for the R.C.I. kids would necessitate a playoff between the "Irish" and the Collegiate midgets, however.

Sports Roundup

(By Eddie Briets Associated Press Staff Writer)

Chicago, June 22—Joe Louis may beat Jimmy Braddock, but he'll have to do it early.....records show Joe isn't a strong finisher..... mebbe because he's seldom had to be, but in his past bouts which went the limit he was getting worse toward the end instead of better..... unless he can tag the Irishman in the first five rounds, this corner believes Braddock will go on to win, possibly not decisively as Max Schmeling did.....anyway, Braddock is a darned good long shot and just a whole lot of experts who picked Louis in the Sunday papers would give their right eye if they could shift.

Too bad you can't go to the Giant-Cub game this afternoon, then get back to Comiskey Park before the big push..... the fight has the town in such a frenzy the the arrival of the Giants yesterday was scarcely noticed.....hotels are jammed to the rafters!.....you can't get into a night joint..... everybody and his brother is raking in the dough..... not likely the gate will gross more than $700,000, but even at that figure everybody stands to come out on top.....so many newspapermen here you have to have a card of admission to get into the weighing in.

FRED HARPER'S RINK WINS SECOND PRIZE

The rink skipped by Fred Harper won second prize in the Madoc Bowling Tournament on June 16th, instead of that skipped by Mr. Charles Sulman as was reported on Saturday.

What's the matter with the Louis-Braddock fight set-up, is the question being asked here and at the ringside! According to several press reports from Chicago there is plenty of talking of betting, but little actual cash being laid on the line. One radio sports commentator, over the other waves, even went so far as to infer the word "fixed" in his comments, when reviewing the fight tonight. With attendance records of over $750,000.00 possible it hardly seems probable that any "fixing" would be tolerated, however. The fight is being broadcast over the National Broadcasting System and should go on the air between 9.30 and 10.00 p.m. Belleville time.

With one of the largest gate receipts of sports-game-in-general at the scene of the battle, the public seem to favour the veteran fighter and heavier hitting Louis, but after reading their comments they always leave that atmosphere of doubt in the reader's mind. One Chicago sports writer plainly came out today and stated he picked Braddock, "but I don't know why" he added "Andy Lytle, Toronto Star, says Louis is still a sucker for a good right hand, now the question arises, has Braddock that good right?

There is little doubt but that Louis has the more impressive record behind him, but his showing against Schmeling and Pastor have left the "wise guys" just a little dubious. All that can be said against the champ are—his age, his lack of fence and idleness for the past two years, counteracting this, Braddock boasts of good condition, experience, a terrific punch, a good left hand (valuable to any fighter), a fighting heart, has never been knocked out and superior ring generalship to his credit. These things have to be taken into consideration without prejudice, remember.

Louis, on the other hand, has youth in his favor, plenty of punching power, a left hook that carries dynamite to his opponents and lastly a far better percentage of victories than the champ to his credit. Against Louis we find a poor defense against a good right hand, inexperience (which is vital) and a K.o. his last opponent but, if Louis is as determined as Braddock it would not be hard to call him to win by a K.o. but his outward mental attitude has been anything but such. After reviewing the glamorous show Braddock will put on, Louis must knock the champ out before the commencement of the seventh round or Braddock should retain his title" even if the battle is staged inside Chicago's back lot.

Looking ahead of tonight's bout. There are those prejudiced against a colored heavyweight champion, while others know that if Schmeling annexes the title he'll lug it home to Hitlerland and say—"come and get it". Now, reasoning the thumbs down attitude on a colored title angle, against the German-held title, where do we find ourselves? Out on the well-known limb, and simply because if Braddock wins tonight, it necessarily follows he'll have to meet the German later, so that might discount the prejudices against a colored title holder.

Coach "Twig" Woodley's Kiwanis Juniors meet Shannonville at the Fair Grounds on Wednesday evening. If the local kids ever had an opportunity to climb into the win column, it's versus Ken Wilcox's home-brew aggregation from the village to the east. The Kiwanis kids are playing a good brand of junior ball, but the local fans should get out and give the kids a little vocal support. A baseball fan can gobble his evening meal and be up at the Fair Grounds in ample time to see the greater part of the game. Coach Woodley has a promising bunch. Lefty Weeks and Joe Keelcher for the game.

Old Jupiter Pluvius dampened the aspirations of local sport activities yesterday and last night for the "inch-making title" in the Senior softball loop was rained out just as the Corbins and Bell-Sargents were taking to the field, leaving the Point Anne at Percival Park game of Wednesday night the big tussle of the week. The "moisture makers" are burning up over losing their last two starts, Skipper Frank Sedore vowing vengeance on the lucky-ing his statements with the green backs. Frank is so strapped up for Wednesday night's game he doesn't even know whose fighting at Calgary tonight, "and what's more I'm not interested" he shouted as he predicted victory for his son Incundnam, Lorne Balsam. The Corbin-Bell-Sargent game will be played at the Plain tonight.

During the progress of yesterday afternoon's school lacrosse game, during which St. Michael's Academy defeated Queen Mary School 6 to 2, two Q.M.S. players received nasty injuries. R. Salisbury, goalie sustaining what is reported to have been a broken nose. This unfortunate accident took place during a ganging set around the Q.M.S. citadel. After witnessing the game we believe the kids are not being trained properly as they are playing the man instead of the ball much too frequently, with result we saw a few players "conked" without rhyme or reason. After the game, Assistant-Principal Percival Fairman, of Q.M.S., openly stated there would be more lacrosse played by the pupils of Queen Mary. "We can't bring pupils out here and have them all lined up and send them home to their parents like that," stated Mr. Fairman as he referred to Salisbury's nose.

The Belleville lawn bowling rink to compete against the touring Scotch Africans rewrote a Kiwanis yesterday last their game by the score of 26 to 18, a very creditable showing indeed. The Belleville rink was composed of R. J. Black, Arthur McGie, L. K. McLean and Chas. N. Soleau (skip). A team composed of Messrs. Soleau, Sterling, Walter Wigins and J. Herrod, both of Campbellford and Fetty Whitby, Gilding ac Wilkinson, made a fine showing in their game only being defeated 18 to 12. On the day's play the touring South African bowlers were 153 to 97, however. Seven rinks competed.

Fred Agar, voted the most valuable rookie in the N.H.L. last season, has been given permission by the O. H. A. A. to play third base in the Intercounty League's annual all-star game. Last year Agar started as the custodian of the hot corner in the Intercounty.

Almost non-existent is Mr. J. Waller's faith in human nature. So little trust does he place in his fellow-man that each night he takes home from his job at Hampton, Australia, the 30-pound wheelbarrow with which he has worked all day as a building laborer. He does it in the shallow sheets, carrying the 1 1-2 miles between his home and the building site and night with the barrow on his shoulders.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Love and Literature

By Frederick Hart

The search for books, old and new, carried Ralph Gordon into many strange byways. He had an indefatigable nose, and as he was a young man with ambitions he set out to make himself conversant with English literature, particularly that of the late Elizabethan period. He even went so far as to write a little on the subject.

One day when he was cataloguing his treasure he found that his edition of Ben Jonson was incomplete—that it lacked a small and comparatively obscure volume of the writer's early days, one not included in the standard sets, and therefore of about to remedy this omission.

But the small book eluded him. His agents were certain that there was a copy in Montreal—in fact, right in New York, where Ralph Gordon lived; but their efforts were unavailing. After a thorough combing of the larger book stores, Gordon announced that he himself was going to take up the trail.

His search led him one day to a small shop on the West side. He entered the place without hope; it merely was the bookworm's instinct that prompted him to overlook no possible source. As he did, nearly the light of the shop he saw a girl come forward to wait on him.

"Have you—" he began and then stopped. The absurdity of the question he was about to ask dawned on him.

"No, we haven't but we can get it for you."

"What?" he ejaculated stupidly.

"Oh, I know you, Mr. Ralph Gordon," she said with a smile. "And I know all about the book you're looking for. I said we could get it for you because all good book stores say that when you ask them for what they haven't. Isn't that so?"

Ralph Gordon looked more closely at her, and suddenly forgot all about his quest. He leaned on the counter and began to talk to her. To his amusement he found that she knew almost as much about Elizabethan literature as he did.

The incident had seemed so natural that it did not occur to him to wonder why the girl clerk in a cheap book store knew or cared nor to be amazed that one with her evident breeding and good looks should work there. He went back in a few days and renewed his acquaintance. He dematerialized his name, but she refused to give it to him, though he begged hard. At most every week he found opportunity to go down to the little shop, and it was not long till he was sure that he had fallen in love with the attractive, little saleswoman. And he did not even know her name!

Business took him away from New York for month. On his return he hastened to the book store. It was late in the afternoon when he got there, and he was surprised to see a sign announcing a clearing-out sale, and several hard-looking persons just leaving with their arms of books. He entered. So far only he saw the familiar figure of the girl. At his step she looked at him, and then, seeing who he was, ran to greet him with a little cry. Her relief at his appearance was so great that in a moment she was weeping frankly, while he was clumsily patting her arm.

When she could speak again he inquired, "What's the matter?"

But instead of replying to his question she suddenly drew herself up and exclaimed: "Oh! I almost forgot! Wait just a minute!" And she darted off to a room behind the shop.

In an instant she was back, carrying something in her hand, and before he could speak she showed him to his utter amazement the long-sought-after copy of Ben Johnson's little-known work.

"Here's why—" he was beginning, when she silenced him.

"I'll tell you," she began. "This book was dad's chief treasure. He knew all about your wanting it, and urged him to let you have it, but he wouldn't, and insisted that I keep it from you—not even tell you that he had it."

"I see," he replied. He was turning the leaves absently when a letter fell out. He picked it up, and his eye caught the name of the flyleaf.

"What's this?" he exclaimed. "Was your father Stephen Farwell?"

"Yes," she replied in a low voice.

Ralph Gordon knew Stephen Farwell as every other book collector did, as an eccentric old man whose chief passion, books, had impoverished him, and who had disappeared some years ago. And this time! And this beautiful girl, his daughter, had allowed herself with him! Tears came to Ralph Gordon's eyes.

"But will he want to part with it now?" he asked gently.

"He—he died last week," said the girl in a barely audible whisper. "I want to get rid of these old books and things—but I wanted you to have this one."

Ralph Gordon hesitated no longer.

"I want it," he said, "but I want you, too. Won't you let me take you with it—you and all my books and things—and love you a little bit, when you aren't looking at them?"

She smiled up at him through her tears.

"Of course, I will," she whispered.

From the floor the forgotten Ben Johnson stared up at the pair of them and seemed to say philosophically, "Well, they did such things in my day, too."

TARZAN'S QUEST

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)

Now the girls were led through dim corridors to the private apartment of Kavanadavanda, who lay on a couch covered with leopard skins. As they entered he lifted himself slowly on one elbow and fixed his eyes on Jane. "Ha! You thought you could escape," he taunted.

A crooked smile twisted his weak lips as he continued. "So, you were running away with Ogdi! Ogdi was a fool to think I did not know what was in his mind. But Kavandavanda is no fool. I had merely to set a guard at the tunnel mouth—you are back!"

He paused and his eyes lingered lasciviously on Jane; then he turned to the warriors and indicated Annetis with a gesture. "Take her back to her cell! See that she doesn't escape again. This other one, I shall keep with me to—to question her further."

Annetis cast a despairing look at Jane as she was led from the room, but Tarzan's mate gave her no reassurance or encouragement for the future. Their position seemed without a shadow of hope. "Good-bye, Annetis," Jane said feelingly. "That was all,

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE CLOSE

Toronto, June 23—(CP)—Mining stocks tumbled practically across the board this morning, selling in the heaviest volume of recent weeks and there was no pick-up of consequence before the close. Gold shares closed at their lowest level in two years and the miscellaneous Mines registered a new low for this year.

Industrials also lost ground but on moderate turnover while narrow recessions predominated in the oil group. Losses of 10 to 30 cents were registered by quite a list of the medium-priced Golds.

The selling appeared to have been prompted by weakness of the Gold group on the London Market. Weakness stood out Friday in the cheaper dividend payers, a group that had previously escaped selling in volume. Ignoring a turnover of more than 10,000 shares of weakness included Macassa, O'Brien, Sladen, McKenzie Red Lake, Kirkland Lake, East Malartic and Preston.

Losses of 15 to 40 cents were showing at the close for Macassa, Pickle Crow, Sladen, Sylvanite, Central Patricia, Kerr-Addison and Stadacona and O'Brien weakened about 10 cents. Losses of 5 to 15 cents were boarded for most of the penny issues including Sherritt, Chemical, Hardrock, Laps. Cadillac and Dorval.

The Base Metals fooled along down hill with the Golds with the session in the lead. Noranda dropped 2 1-4, Hudson Bay 1 3-4 and Nickle a fraction. Ventures weakened 50 cents to 6.50 and the close was down 10 to 20 cents for Wells-Amulet, Sudbury Basin and Sherritt. Senior Oils showed no changes of consequence and the Industrials sold down. Losses of 5 to 10 cents were boarded for Calgary-Edmonton, Home and Okalta.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Biggar and Crawford by Financial Service.

There is very little that can be said about the present market. The majority of developments are inconclusive and of narrow proportions. The public has not yet fully overcome its state of nervousness and until something happens to bring about a change of this attitude, drifting markets can be looked for.

The announcement in the press yesterday that an upward revision in salaries and wages of newsprint employees will be considered under collective agreement should not cause any surprise. It will be recalled that the majority of estimates of earnings for the newsprint companies for 1938 on $50 newsprint have taken into consideration the matter of higher wages. It is to be hoped that a satisfactory arrangement can be arrived at with little delay, thus setting an example to United States labor.

Incidentally, the mining market is not acting well, this despite the fact that nervousness over a reduction in the price of gold has practically disappeared. Latest advices from Washington confirm this viewpoint. A high Treasury official declaring that the U. S. Treasury plans no changes in the present gold-sterilization programme. Commenting on a published report that the Treasury was giving serious consideration to modifying its present procedure of issuing slightly more gold certificates than its receipts of gold, this official said that the Treasury was carefully studying all phases of the gold situation but that no one plan had been approved for adoption.

Naturally Wall Street is none too cheerful with gossip and statistics being offered of rising costs in many industries. This has brought out some liquidation from timid cash holders of stocks, although it has not been of important proportions thus far.

The Trader in this week's issue of Barron's says that the "Terms of condition of the "Frozen Accounts" has not improved. At the end of May the nominal figure from approximately a score of the largest commission houses showed that well over 33 1-3 per cent of individual accounts were restricted and 45 per cent of the debit balances were tied up, and since then extent of the solidification has substantially increased, indicating that the average trader is further deterred from initiating new buying.

The majority of stocks appear to have definitely discounted all unfavorable factors and are in a buying range for ultimately higher prices. Present quotations may appear cheap before the end of the year.

TENDER BANQUET TO HON. MR. HIPEL

Speaker of House Gives Constituents Story of Coronation

Galt, Ont., June 22 (CP)—Hon. N. O. Hipel, Speaker of the Ontario Legislature who represented the province at the Coronation of King George and Queen Elizabeth, was tendered a complimentary banquet and welcome home here last night.

Two hundred friends listened to him for more than 1 1-2 hours as he gave a day-by-day account of his trip. He touched on the various highlights and details of the recent Coronation ceremonies and the Empire parliamentary conference, at which he was the Canadian representative and at which he was elected a member of the delegate committee. He also described side trips through England and Scotland and a visit to Germany, where he found the young people happy but not the older ones.

He said Germany's highway system was outstanding and that country had one of the most ambitious programs of reforestation in the world today.

Among the guests were Harold Kirby, Ontario Liberal Whip, and Provincial representatives from Guelph, North Waterloo, Perth and members of Mr. Hipel's staff in Toronto.

GERMAN, ITALIAN SHIPS LEAVE SPANISH PATROL

Anglo-French Refusal To Join Demonstration Is Cause of Withdrawal

Eastern Coast of Spain Unguarded Against Neutrality Violation

NO BLOCKADE LIKELY

German Statement Says Action Taken to Avoid 'Aggravating' Situation

Rome, June 23—(CP)— Informed Fascists predicted tonight that Premier Mussolini intended to recall Italian patrol warships from Spanish waters, and Italy was intent on a strong course in Spain on the side of the Fascist insurgents.

This course, they said, might be even stronger than before.

London, June 23—(AP)—Germany and Italy ordered their warships completely out of the international non-intervention patrol of Spain today.

Rebuffed by Great Britain and France in a German demand for a naval demonstration by the four powers to "warn" the Spanish government away from patrol warships, the Nazi and Fascist states took the non-intervention control scheme in concert.

Foreign Secretary Eden announced the German decision to the House of Commons. Count Dino Grandi, the Italian ambassador, then informed him of Italy's concurrence.

Coast is New Prize

The Italian and German ships have patrolled the eastern or government-held coast of Spain. Their withdrawal left that coast unguarded by neutral warships, the nations of a 27-nation ban on the sending of arms and volunteer fighters to Spain.

Great Britain and France are the other powers in the neutrality naval patrol. They refused to join a naval demonstration against the Spanish government following an alleged torpedo attack on the German pocket cruiser Leipzig.

Retain Seats on Committee

Despite the withdrawal of their warships, both Italy and Germany will retain their places on the non-intervention committee.

RENFREW MILL MAY RE-OPEN FRI.

Decision of Directors to be Made Known Tomorrow by Plant Manager

Renfrew, Ont., June 22—(CP)—Town council, until now, has refused to intervene in the labor dispute. It was ascertained here today that should efforts fail to have the plant of the Renfrew woollen mills re-opened, council will summon a special meeting to deal with the situation.

"If the workers request assistance for food and shelter, my first step will be to take up the matter with the council," said Reeve D. B. McLaren, who is acting mayor in the absence of Mayor A. S. Wade, now in town.

"We have had no requests, so far, for help from strikers and I presume they are getting along away for the immediate future because of deciding to wait out the strike," the acting mayor continued. "There appears to be no immediate danger of need. But if it does arise, I will bring the matter to the attention of council."

The situation in regard to the shutdown at the plants of the Renfrew Woollen Mills, Ltd., and the Renfrew Woollen, Ltd., remained unaltered today. The plants are shut tight, with the result that some 400 residents of the town are unemployed, temporary at least.

There is a possibility the textiles plant may re-open on Friday, Thomas Cuthbertson, manager of the mill, is back in Renfrew and is to give the decision of the Board of Directors to the delegation of strikers for higher wages and better working conditions tomorrow.

SIR ERIC GEDDES FAMOUS FIGURE IN LATE WAR DIES

Brought From Business World Became First Lord of Admiralty

NEGOTIATED TERMS

Wielded "Economy Axe" In 1921 to Save Britain Large Sums

Hascocks, Sussex, June 23—(CP)—The brilliant group of men who guided the empire through the Great War numbered one less today with the death here last night of Sir Eric Geddes.

Borrowed from business to play a leading part in the war, Geddes returned to it soon after the conflict ended and at the time of his death was chairman of Imperial Airways Limited, and the Dunlop Rubber Company.

His death came less than two weeks before the opening of Imperial Airways trial flights across the Atlantic Ocean—forerunner of the planned passenger service to Canada and the United States. On this project the 61-year-old chairman devoted much of his effort for some years, all the while expending his organizing genius on furthering the "all red" air routes around the globe.

When David Lloyd George pulled Geddes into the government service in 1916 from the position of general manager of the North-Eastern Railway, his ability rapidly brought him promotion, until he was First Lord of the Admiralty.

'TIRE SHE BLOW OFF ROAD I GO'

"Tire she blow and off the road I go" was the explanation Stanley Joe, Shannonville Indian, gave Provincial Constable Motorcycle Patrolman Sam Ettrize upon the investigation of a motor accident which occurred at the eastern extremity of the Belleville limits last night.

Joe was driving his automobile, loaded with market goods, towards Belleville, when a front tire blew out. The vehicle went out of control and veered into the ditch, overturning, breaking the pole off at the base. The car was badly damaged during the mishap, but Stanley Joe escaped without injury.

EXPECT DEMAND FOR ONTARIO PRODUCTS

Advice received this week by the local agricultural office from the federal department is to the effect that the export crop in the Old Country this year will be a small one, thus resulting in a keen demand for the Ontario product. Apple growers of this district are reported heartened by present prospects in orchards.

"The year's crop will be an excellent one," commented C. T. Stevenson, inspector of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Fruit Branch.

FIGHT FANS ENJOY RADIO BLOW-BY-BLOW DESCRIPTION OF BOUT

Belleville's downtown district went fight-minded last night, when the official broadcast of the Louis-Braddock championship fracas at Chicago came on the air, a semi-silence seemed to fall over Front Street and its downtown intersections, as the crowded around the doors of restaurants from which radios blared the blow-by-blow report of the fight. Little knots of people gathered around parked cars whose radios told the story. The lobbies of hotels were crowded with fight fans. From the windows of second storey apartments, the monotone continuous of the announcers floated with machine-like regularity. Pans sat on doorsteps, on car fenders and other available spots where they could listen to the fight in comfort. After the finish, the evening activity of the city resumed its normal tenor. A new champion had been crowned, and there were other things to do.

GROUNDHOGS CAUSE CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE

Last among the excellent crops of the district this year, an extraordinary growth of groundhogs.

The burrowing animals have shown a decided increase in numbers this year, according to reports from outlying districts, and some damages is reported to standing grain crops as a result of their depredations. So troublesome have the animals become that measures have been taken to reduce their numbers. One effective method has been the gas route, the "chucks" in their holes through the use of car and tractor exhaust fumes led into the burrows by flexible hose.

A. Lipson Sells Large Order Canned Goods by Trans - Atlantic Phone

Mr. Alex Lipson, prominent Belleville and Picton business man picked up his telephone the other day. A cultured English voice came over the wire, "London calling," it said. At the end of seven minutes conversation, Mr. Lipson concluded what is reported to be the largest trans-Atlantic sale of canned goods from Prince Edward County.

The business transacted was a direct result of the trip made to Europe last year, Mr. Lipson stated.

Asked for his opinion on reaction of the British public to Canadian tomatoes, Mr. Lipson stated, "The English market has preferred the Spanish and Italian varieties up till now, but supplies from these sources are limited at the moment. Canadian packers have a splendid opportunity to establish themselves in the British market, but they must maintain quality. The Englishman demands a solid tomato. He dislikes water in the can, for, he says, they have enough water in the River Thames. If the right quality of tomato is packed there would appear to be a new day dawning for the Prince Edward and Hastings County growers."

Trenton and District

Trenton, June 23 (Special)—Sergt. Angus Duffy, who represented Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in the Canadian Contingent that attended the coronation ceremony of King George and Queen Elizabeth in London, England, was the guest-speaker at the weekly Rotary meeting on Monday night in the Gilbert Hotel. He told the listeners that the contingent was made up of picturesque and stirring chaps who travelled in harmony and worked in unison to give their best for their country. The speaker noticed the British military preparations while stationed at Aldershot and believed that England was ready for war at anytime. "A new six new barrack buildings being erected within fourteen miles and all hours of the night aeroplanes would be training, while huge searchlights were operated by ground crews, who were practising spotting planes in flight in the dark. Having heard so much about the English Cockney and having met several in this country I made it a point to look for one when I reached England but much to my surprise I was unable to find one during my entire stay," the speaker continued and intimated that the Australian soldiers were the English Cockney that lives in Canada.

A Great Distinction

The ceremony of mounting the guard at Buckingham Palace was an unusual distinction, and was bestowed upon the Canadiaf soldier, Sergt. Duffy continued further. He disclosed that the Canadian contingent started to prepare for the Coronation parade at 2 a.m. on the morning of May 12th. "Our Royal Mounted Police division, arrayed in their colorful uniforms was something to be proud of. After travelling nearly 3,000 miles I saw nothing of the actual Coronation ceremony but the Canadian contingent marched ahead of the royal carriage along the entire route to the city. The sight that impressed me most was the one million children standing on the sidelines cheering and waving as we passed. Colonnades from tall buildings and trees dropped money and gifts from the air and while standing our soldiers had to watch closely to keep from getting injured. The service at which the King decorated the representatives of his colonies was a very significant ceremony. I received my Coronation medal from the Duke of Kent. One Canadian soldier was missed and later Princess Elizabeth presented his medal to him. After the Coronation I visited the Royal Sussex Regiment. While in Plymouth I bowled on the famous green where Sir Francis Drake bowled before-meeting the Spanish." Sergt. Duffy concluded. The speaker was introduced by Frank W. Sherbert and Ed A. Simmons tendered a hearty vote of appreciation. Following the banquet Glen Mills, local vocal artist, rendered a delightful solo. Lasalle Hearts accompanied on the piano by Y. O. N. Garden Party.

The yearly Y. O. N. Garden Party was held yesterday afternoon on the spacious lawn of beautiful "Hill of Bloom", the home of Dr. J. W. Farley, Dundas Street. Receiving the many guests were Mrs. J. W. Farley and Mrs. W. B. Powers. Those pouring tea were Mrs. Frank Farley, Mrs. R. M. Fralick, Mrs. J. E. Hodgson, Mrs. W. H. Ireland, Mrs. L. D. Foster acted as convener of the tea room and was assisted by Mrs. R. Bowser, Mrs. K. Couch, Miss Helen Shoebier, Miss Helen Couch, Mrs. A. Malley and Miss Audrey Fowler. Home-cooking table was in charge of Miss Laura Cumming and Mrs. W. B. Wilson and Mrs. F. I. Reid and Mrs. W. B. McClung were in charge of the touch and take. Candy table was in charge of Mrs. N. D. Graham and Mrs. Shearer. Miss Jean Shorie took tickets.

Old School Relay Wrecked

The old St. Peter's Church School at the corner of King and Queen Streets, which the Knights of Columbus Lodge for the past number of years has been purchased by John Long and wrecking operations started on Monday. The building was replaced by a modern educational institution in 1926 and the top floor was occupied by the Knights of Columbus who are seeking other quarters. The virgin pine cut in North Hastings and used in the construction of the fifty-three-year-old structure is still as sound as a bell. When the building is removed the space which it covered will be turned into a recreation ground. Workmen are also repairing St. Peter's Church and it is believed that a new roof will be laid on the church.

Albert McKinnon Fined

Appearing before Magistrate F. J. Butler, Albert McKinnon of Trenton, was found guilty of driving a car in a manner dangerous to the public and was assessed $15 costs and costs. Local police testified McKinnon was in charge of a car that left Front Street while travelling west smashed down Mrs. Beverly Bell's fence and landed into the side of her barn some distance away from the highway. The magistrate suspended McKinnon's driver's permit for three months.

Bowden Moves In

Replacing No. 2 Army Co-operation and No. 2 Bomber Squadron that moved to Ottawa early last week, twenty-seven Fleet trainers four Fairchild monoplanes and over one hundred officers and personnel came to Trenton from Camp Borden on Monday. The aircraft from the northern station were housed in the three spacious hangars on the north side of the highway.

RASPBERRIES LIKELY TO BE LARGE CROP

Close inspection of the beds of the splendid strawberry crop now in the process of being harvested, reveal and blue raspberries will in all likelihood yield a record crop, according to reports indicated. A prominent raspberry grower stated today George Bailey, one of Prince Edward County's outstanding berry growers predicts a yield of twenty thousand boxes from his eight acre field, he stated. "Last year, I had six acres which yielded me thirteen thousand boxes, but this splendid berry weather and the increased acreage should produce a near record crop. All the late green berries are exceptionally plentiful, pointing to a large yield."

ELEPHANTS HELPLESS; GIRL LOVES 'EM

THEY'RE ONLY BABIES, SAYS GENE ALLEN, SHOWN BIG ONES EASIEST TO HANDLE

Gene Allen, charming and beautiful elephant trainer with the Cole Bros. Circus, believes the big fellows to be the most intelligent of all dumb animals. Yet they are so big and cumbersome that they are really helpless she says.

From the Ural Mountains of Europe comes Miss Allen, the only youthful girl of all elephant trainers. All her life she has spent with the circus representing the third generation. Her father before her trained and educated more than 200 of the big fellows.

Here are some facts about elephant lore expounded by Miss Allen:

They eat about 125 pounds of hay every day, almost half a ton a week. What they love best is apples. Big and cumbersome that they are really helpless she says.

Only females are used in circus acts. They are better natured and more adaptable.

They are very susceptible to colds and pneumonia. Even the ladies tend to team in pairs of chums. They become very devoted to each other and are very jealous. In their prime at 30 years of age. They work until eighty, die at a hundred.

Circus people never call them elephants. When the lady elephants are called "bulls."

There are 30 elephants with the Cole Bros. Circus coming to Belleville, Friday, June 25th for performances at 2 and 8 p.m. Doors will open at 1 and 7 p.m. An immense street parade will be seen on the downtown streets at 11 a.m.

EDWARD, DUKE

carefree life and have sought to impress upon their intimates they wish for nothing more than to be left alone with their happiness.

In a recent press interview, the Duke's equerry, Dudley Forwood, announced that the Duke and Duchess did not plan to return to England in the near future, as expected a visit, however, from some members of the British Royal family during the summer.

Expect Visit

According to reports from London the Duke and Duchess of Kent and possibly the Princess Royal may be the visitors. It is understood the Duke of Kent had planned to act as groomsman at the wedding, but was persuaded to postpone his meeting with his brother.

It is definitely known that the Duke of Windsor plans to return to Waseo-lembire in the next three months. During that period, he will be joined by a number of titles to prominent resorts, such as Venice and Dalmatian Coast.

In the Autumn the couple will leave the castle, but remain in Austria for the winter. They will spent part of the winter skiing in the Austrian Alps.

Referring to the Duke's statement at Cando that he and the Duchess had retired as "private and useful life," Forwood declared the Duke's meaning was that he chose his leisure hours.

At the moment the plans were not definitely mapped.

"He is getting a well-earned rest and enjoying the beauties of countryside around Castle Wasserlembirg," Mr. Forwood said.

SIR ERIC GEDDES

Defeated German Strategy

In that post he was credited with the major part in defeating the German strategy of starving the United Kingdom through systematic torpedoing of foodships.

Shortly after the arrival of Geddes at the Admiralty, Lord Jellicoe was removed as First Sea Lord of the Admiralty, a post to which he was appointed after commanding the fleet during most of the war.

Geddes dined at Sandringham Palace on Christmas Day, 1917, and obtained consent of King George to his resignation.

The charge was levelled that Lord Jellicoe was "busted with allied victories," but Geddes and Admiral Sir Rosslyn Wemyss said the Admiralty had a big job to do, after which could only come disagreement. All the Admiralty knew was it was put and I know that Geddes, hating the job, did it in a manner which, although an ill one, concentered best for him and all others concerned."

Negotiated Terms

Geddes was responsible for negotiating naval terms at the time of the Armistice.

After leaving the Admiralty he served as Minister of Transport when he carried out the reorganization of the British railway companies into the four large groups that still remain.

His so-called "economy axe" ceased in 1921 when the government appointed him Chairman of a national committee to investigate government expenditures and propose economies.

The "axe" lopped thousands of officers from the navy, army and air force and removed departments of government, consolidating their duties in various other departments. Savings of £53,000,000 (almost $260,000,000) annually were credited to the move.

Geddes became Deputy Director General of Munitions in 1915 when Lloyd George left the Exchequer to develop munition supplies. He was next given the task of organizing military railways in France and returned to England to take charge of transportation.

Appointed First Lord of the Admiralty in 1917, Geddes was elected to parliament in December and at there until 1922 when he retired to private business.

POLICE BLOTTER

While pulling away from the Front Street Garage, a delivery truck driven by P. M. Hawley, Belleville, struck a hydrant, knocking off the nipple of the hydrant yesterday afternoon. Mr. Hawley reported the accident to the police. The force of the right front and rear fenders were damaged as Mr. Hawley struck the hydrant.

Bob Lavender, 44 Station Street, reported the theft of his bicycle to the police last night. Lavender had parked his "bike" on Pinnacle Street last evening and upon his return the bicycle was gone. Although the police scoured the city in search of the missing bicycle it was not recovered, although another bicycle was found abandoned on North Front Street and later identified at the police station for safe keeping.

The front door of a local business house was found insecure last evening, but upon further investigation police learned nothing had been disturbed. No arrests were necessary in Belleville during the past 24 hours, leaving the cell block available for the nine translents who sought sleeping quarters at the station house.

Sparks Ignite Roof Of Freight Shed

Thought to have originated from sparks flying from the engine of the Belleville-Madoc train, fire destroyed the roof of the Canadian National freight shed at Foxboro shortly after five o'clock last night.

Efforts of a volunteer fire brigade armed with buckets failed to extinguish the flames which shot upward from the burning roof.

Canadian National Railway officials in Belleville reported the help of the city fire department, who raced to the scene with their motor apparatus, reduced the blaze. While the roof of the building is a total loss, only slight damage was done to the rest of the building. Chief Gordon Williams stated this morning. He complimented the efforts of the Foxboro volunteers in connection with the fire, prior to the roof until the arrival of city apparatus.

"We look back over period during which we have received instruction from you with sincere pleasure. We recollect your efforts in our behalf with grateful remembrance and we learned of your departure with sincere regret.

"When reading by the light of this lamp you will, we hope, be reminded of those who presented it. In that remembrance of us please do not recollect the dullness we have often shown, and the disobedience we fear, we have sometimes manifested. But please remember that we shall endeavor to profit by the instruction you have given and when we are separated from each other it may please you to know that we consider that we are better as well as wiser from the instruction we have received from you.

PICTON

MAKE PILGRIMAGE TO OLD CHURCH

Large Congregations at Old-est Methodist Church in Canada

Picton, June 22.—The "White Chapel" oldest Methodist Church in Canada to be in continuous use, was the scene of the annual pilgrimage on Sunday, June 20. Outside the church and grounds are beautifully cared for and signs of antiquity are not apparent. Inside the old hand-carved timbers and seats, and a fine antique book case all darkened by time, bespeak its age (1808-1937).

Flowers decked the church on Sunday. Visitors were met at the ancient low door by Mrs. Spencer Everett De Long, Mr. F. E. Walker presided at the organ and the service was in charge of Rev. David Wren.

The service opened with the congregational singing of "Praise God, From Whom All Blessings Flow," followed, by prayer by Rev. F. E. Maddaford.

The beautiful soprano solo "Will There Be Any Stars in My Crown?" sung by Mrs. Florence Barber. The twenty-eighth chapter according to St. Matthew, the fifth verse was read by Mr. Wren.

A beautiful bronze tablet was next unveiled by W. H. Harrington, K.C. of Napanee, in honor of the late Reverend Melville Cheesmore who grew up in this vicinity, attended Sunday school in the White Chapel, and remembered it a few years ago in a very substantial way.

Mr. Wren spoke of the intention of the United Church of Canada to make this old church a shrine where the service of those pioneers of Methodism, to their community and the cause of God, will be recognized. The old church is to become a museum, a historical museum, where pilgrims shall come for inspiration. Two new framed records of historical fact, were placed on the walls of the church this year. The first record of the appointment by Francis Gore, Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, of Stephen Conger as First Lieutenant of the Midland Regiment in the early days of the settlement.

The second was an indenture dated July 1, 1946, naming Roger Sated Conger a member of the Assembly at Montreal.

Following the singing by all present of "What a Friend We Have in Jesus", Mr. Harrington of Napanee gave the very fine address of the afternoon.

The speaker described in detail the history of the United Empire Loyalists, beginning with the Revolutionary War and the exodus of the Loyalists from New York State, Pennsylvania and part of the New England States into Canada on September 2, 1783. The hardships of the water trip as far as Sorel where the rigors of a hard winter were encured in roughly built huts was made plain. The building of batteaux, sows that carried from twenty five to thirty persons, and were propelled by poles, in the spring, and the landing of the Loyalists at Adolphustown on June 16, 1784, followed.

The surveying of the country, the drawing for lots, the building of log houses, was made very plain. The speaker then gave a detailed account of the life of the Loyalists, their tools, clothing, food ,the labor of the men and women and the arrangement of their home. The visits of the itinerant cobblers and tailors, and the first teachers hired were interestingly described. Mr. Harrington's discourse was greatly enjoyed. Singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers" and the Benediction by Rev. Claude Brethren brought this year's pilgrimage to a close.

Mrs. Walter Nicholas has returned to her home after being seriously ill in the local hospital.

The Ladies' Guild of Saint Mary Magdalene's Church will hold the Conservative Association banquet in the parish house on Saturday evening.

Friends are glad to see Mr. J. Le Heup able to be out again after being ill at his home, Main Street East.

Mrs. Pringle, Sr., is at the home of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Fred Pringle, after suffering from two broken ribs sustained in a fall at her home.

Centennial visitors are beginning to arrive. Last week Mr. M. Fitzgerald who left Picton in 1873 as a lad of nine returned for his first visit. The Picton Public School was the only building he recognized after sixty-three years' absence. Where his father's home stood on Main street are now business locations, but he found family names on the old tomb stones in the Anglican Church Cemetery.

The closing of school for those who passed in their year's work was observed in P. C. I. Schools on Friday afternoon. Games and refreshments were in evidence.

Mrs. Rose Brooks and three daughters of Chicago arrived in Picton on Sunday to visit Mrs. Brooks' sister, Mrs. Kais and Mr. and Mrs. Alex Lipson.

The auction sale of articles from the Children's Home was well attended by a crowd and brought good prices on Saturday afternoon.

The county buildings and registry offices have been improved by new coats of paint. Town of Picton is "freshening-up" for centennial week, June 30 to July 5.

Prize winners at the Hospital Auxiliary Garden Party held in the Armouries on Thursday afternoon were —Blanket, Mrs. Jack Shannon; $5.00, Mrs. Howard Learns; permanent wave, Ival Starks, Bloomfield. The proceeds amounted to $150.00 which owing to the heavy rain that fell all day was very satisfactory. The armouries presented a very attractive appearance. There were flower booths, a display of home cooking, fortune telling and tea served at nicely arranged small tables. Mrs. Geo. Hadden convened the tea.

Mrs. Alice Caton, Grand Mistress, L.O.B.A. for Eastern Ontario is seriously ill with pneumonia in P.E.C. Hospital.

SLAVES TO WORK

"Slaves to work" were chided in St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran Church, New York, by the Rev. Albert L. Neibacher who drew a likeness between the brother of the prodigal son, who stayed at home calmly working while his younger brother wandered about squandering his money and the thousands of people who today are slaves to their work, looking forward only to their pay checks.

"Both brothers were sinful in that they were self-seekers. They were concerned with pleasing themselves, with gaining to their own ends, rather than in pleasing their father."

"The elder brother was a worker; he was no idler. He was no parasite. He believed in hard work and in making his own living. He refused to squander his father's money, but firmly believed that all men should work and earn their own bread.

"The elder brother was at fault for not leaving home to save his brother. He should have left his work behind. He had more important things to do. His brother's soul was at stake and he should have gone out and brought the erring brother back."

The church after a century of preaching the sentimental gospel of optimism and progress, is now returning to realm, because it is realizing that there is nothing sentimental about the Gospel, said Rev. Dr. John S. Whale, President of Chesnut College, Cambridge, England, at Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York. "It is the note of realism, not pessimism that I wish to sound," he stated. "Today we are face to face with the brutal facts of life and we realize that there is something radically wrong with life.

"Our doctrine of progress is one of sentimentality. The same type of plane that enables men to fly the Atlantic Ocean also makes it possible to bomb cities in Spain. The progress has two sides, good and evil. Modern religion has been weak because it is optimistic and sentimental. The World War is a pathetic and abiding monument to the irreligious doctrine of optimism and progress. Instead of making the world safe for democracy, it has brought ruthless autocracy. Instead of decreasing militarism in Germany, it has increased it there and everywhere else."

Fathers were warned at St. Peter's Lutheran Church, New York, that they must not expect to be honored by their children unless they accepted the responsibilities of their position. "It would seem that there is more need for a father's day than a mother's day for mother's place in the affection of the family is secure. Likewise, we are sure that will not shirk her duties which promote these affections. But the modern industrial and economic set-up has taken away the father and reduced him to the status of a mere provider with no close connection with the family. And so it is easier for him to lose his sense of duty."

"It is not without significance that dictators meet the most stubborn resistance from true religion," said Rev. Dr. W. P. Merrill at his Brick Presbyterian Church, Fifth Avenue. "They will not brook interference and God cannot be ignored or defied without shame and suffering and loss at last."

Anger as a sin against the spirit of the commandment, "Thou shalt not kill" was pointed to by Father Woods at St. Patrick's Cathedral, as that which makes men bestial because "it deprives us of our reason, the quality which differentiates man from animals. An angry man is a man who is temporarily and willingly insane." Father Woods advised the cultivation of meekness in the individual as the best means of offsetting world-wide anger. "The most desirable thing in life is peace and anger is the worst enemy to peace in the individual, the home and the nation."

Compliments or congratulations are always kindly taken and cost nothing but pen, ink and paper. I consider them as draughts on good breeding, where the exchange is always greatly in favor of the drawer.—Chesterfield.

Compliments which we think are deserved, we accept only as debts, with indifference; but those which conscience informs us we do not merit, we receive with the same gratitude that we do favors given away.—Goldsmith.

BELLEVILLE CITY HALL DOES NOT OWN 200 CIRCUS TICKETS. IN THIS COLUMN MONDAY APPEARED A STORY relating to an incident which happened in Muncie, Indiana, as told in the Daily Star of that city. It concerned the visit of the Cole Bros.-Clyde Beatty Circus to that city recently and an alleged refusal of Muncie City Hall Authorities to permit a street parade unless a large number of complimentary tickets were handed over. Some readers of this newspaper, not reading the article very closely, jumped to the conclusion that the incident happened in Belleville, with the result that the City Hall telephones were kept busy by citizens protesting against any interferences with the street parade of the circus. This then is to allay the apprehension of circus-minded citizens as to the street parade being given as scheduled and to assure them that the relations between Belleville City Hall officials and officials of the circus are perfectly harmonious and strictly business in every way—the city owns the property where the circus wishes to show and this has been rented to the circus for the day with all suitable safeguards and the city receives cash for anything required by the circus from the city.

x

Of course anything can happen in those mid-western sections of the United States but those things cannot happen here, where a British sense of fair play dominates business here as well as all other affairs of daily life.

x

And so, the small cloud no larger than a man's hand which to some folks seemed to be lowering over our City Hall with a threat of no circus parade circus day has, we hope, been dispelled.

BELLEVILLE IS PROFITING BY THE OPPORTUNITIES OFFERED under the Home Improvement Plan, and a quickening of interest during the past month has been very noticeable. A number of loans have been made by the banks for home improvements from fifty dollars up to one thousand, and a number of home improvements have been started by citizens with their own capital, while a number of others are being planned and prepared for. Painters and plumbers are very busy and carpenters and building material men are profiting by the urge to build and repair created by the Home Improvement Plan. Electrical workers are beginning to feel the acceleration of business and a great deal of new business in the electrical line is anticipated keeping pace with the urge to build, improve and modernize. The main feature of this plan is the increased employment it creates and this is a worthy object which all can endorse and help to promote as good citizens.

A NEW SCENIC ROAD IS TO BE CONSTRUCTED ALONG THE ST. LAWRENCE RIVER from Gananoque east to a point near Butternut Bay, nine miles west of Brockville, where the new road will join No. 2 Highway. This will make one of the prettiest drives imaginable, skirting as it will the densest part of the Thousand Islands. No. 2 highway swings away from the river after leaving Gananoque and thus misses some of the grandest scenery in the world. Another advantage of the new shore road will be the fact that it will afford easy access to the new international bridge now under construction.

SETTLED THE MATTER

The chief of the clan Macnab was at dinner in a Highland inn, where he expected to be asked to sit at the head of the table. The action of another clan, however, was also one of the company, and insisted on taking the chair. When some of those present began excitedly to assert the superior right of one or the other, Macnab took another seat, remarking with cheerful pride:

"Gentlemen, sit down where ye please. But wherever the Macnab sits, that's the head of the table."

Mr. Charles Calcum, who is employed at the G.T.R. pump house here, left at the Intelligencer office today samples of new potatoes which were taken from his garden adjoining the pump house. The vegetables are growing in clusters and are certainly good samples.

Mr. J. T. Warren and Mr. G. Maldens were at Oshawa yesterday on business.

Mr. Larmer Mason, who has been connected with the Intelligencer mechanical department for the past seven years will leave tomorrow for Brantford where he has accepted a position. Good wishes of his many friends will go with him.

40 YEARS AGO

June 23rd, 1897.

With further reference to the celebration of the Queen's Diamond Jubilee in this city we give some comments on the parade. The first thing that struck us as particularly good was the Red Cross Bicycle Corps composed of some twenty young ladies in pretty costumes and riding steadily. The 15th Battalion and their superb band are always admired and in this instance was no exception. The Junior Bicycle Club of the Y.M.C.A. and Young Girls' Bicycle Club with their gaily-decked wheels made a pretty picture. The various societies and the Ramblers' Wheel Club were greatly admired. Next came the Chariot of Flowers and without doubt this was the feature of the parade; first came a large wagon gaily decorated with white and red roses and seated upon it were Miss Anning and the children of the Free Kindergarten. Next came James A. Roy's large delivery wagon drawn by a handsome team of bays, resplendent in gold and purple decorations; the wagon contained a number of young ladies gaily dressed and carrying garlands of flowers. Then there were more flower wagons and pretty girls with garlands. Ritchie and Company's delivery wagon was artistically decorated and drawn by a span of black horses in tandem. Mr. C. H. Scanlebury's Gladstone was beautifully decorated and was drawn by a tandem pair ridden by postilions. Mr. F. E. O'Flynn's Gladstone was very prettily decorated as was also Mr. J. L. Thomas's dog cart. Mr. H. Corby's Tally-Ho coach was seen for the first time by many people and was greatly admired; it was drawn by four horses. Seated in the coach were Mr. Corby, Mrs. Corby, Mr. Curtis Bogart and Mr. A. Bird. "Oh, here's the Queen", was the ex pected exclamation as Mr. H. W. Ormsk's splendid carriage drawn by two beautiful teams of bays ridden by postilions and with two footmen on the box, hove in sight. Miss Smart, who occupied the back seat, represented the Queen and it is safe to say several less faithful portraits have been painted of Her Majesty. Her lady attendants were Miss Trotle Lister and Miss Dickson. In the next carriage was seated Mrs. Alexander, who looked not unlike the Queen at the present day. Beside her sat Col. M. J. Hendrick, U.S. Consul here, and the front seat was occupied by Miss De Courcy of Colorado and Miss Matterson of New York City. This carriage was literally covered with the Stars and Stripes and the turnout and its occupants represented the deep feeling of respect entertained by the Americans for Her Majesty Queen Victoria. The city firemen made a fine appearance. Chief Campbell and Assistant Chief Cummins looked young again as they marched before their two companies of fire-fighters. The old engines, relics of by-gone days, were as bright as new and the hose wagons and hook and ladder wagons gave a modern touch to the turnout. The 15th Battalion made a fine showing. The oldest veteran present was William Herres, who served in it. He will be 87 years old in September. Other veterans of '37 in carriage were Ald. A. T. Petrie, John Ross, Joseph F. Reeves and Mr. Wallbridge. Other veterans were John Askew of the Customs Department, Ottawa, who served with the Belleville Rifles; Dr. Jones of Marmora, who was a member of No. 2, Company, 15th Battalion; James Harlow of Stirling, who served in No. 3 Company, 15th Battalion and William Anderson of Ameliasburg, who was Captain of No. 3 Company, 15th Battalion. The procession numbered a beautiful sight as the shades of night spread over it with the brilliant illuminations of business places and private residences on the hills. There were numerous displays of fireworks. The Chief Marshal of the parade was Mr. J. B. Flint and the Deputy Marshals were Dr. Quackenbush, Mr. W. E. Foster and Mr. F. M. Brintnell.

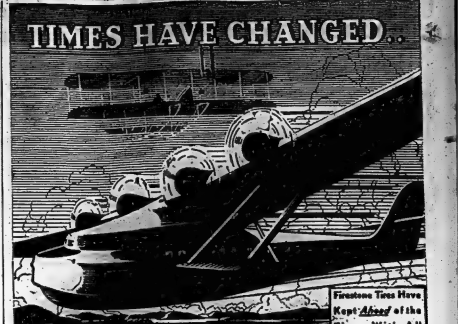
Mr. W. D. Dean, formerly manager of the Royal Bank here, spent yesterday in the city with his son, who is teller in the Bank of Montreal.

Mrs. Stanton, well known in this city, left today enroute to Ireland.



The city was well decorated for the Queen's Jubilee celebration. Some merchants on Front Street had the front of their stores trimmed with everything. At night a number of private residences were brilliantly illuminated, some with red, white and blue paper covering the windows. Others with Chinese lanters on the lawns. The Government Building had the most conspicuous motto; it reached across the entire front and was made of piping and the letters and figures were ashine lights from gas. The motto read, "57, V. Victoria's Jubilee, R. 87".

TANK BATTALION INSPECTED BY LT. COL. RUSSELL

First Inspection Under New Regulations Well Carried Out

MEDALS PRESENTED

Under a battery of floodlights which glowed across the Armouries lawn through the early clear, members of the local Argyll Light Infantry (Tank Battalion) held one of their most successful annual inspections last evening.

It was the first inspection under the recent reorganization of Canadian militia units, which changed the status of the Regiment into a Tank Battalion, conducted by Lieut.-Colonel Russell, D.S.O., inspecting officer of Military District No. 3, assisted by Major Johnston, M.C., Kingston, Captain Sutherland, Military District Medical Officer, and Captain Pratt of Headquarters Staff, Lt. Col. Smith of Trenton, also assisted.

Following expertly executed manoeuvres on the Armouries lawn before the critical gaze of the inspecting staff, the Battalion continued their drill within the Armouries where more technical orders were carried out. Close inspection of gun drill performed by Lewis Gun teams and detailed examination of the men was undertaken by Lieut. Col. Russell and staff, who laid particular stress upon the quick execution of orders pertaining to the assembling and disassembling of the mobile guns.

May Change Dress

Though no official statement or confirmation has been made by officers of the local unit, it is suggested that, with evening's annual inspection over for the last one in which the familiar khaki uniforms will be worn, that after carried.

We word has been received from Ottawa, but it is confidently predicted that the first tank will be received in the city during June or September. The new machine is expected to be of the 36-ton type, armed with quick firing two-pound rifles. Khaki uniforms are expected to be replaced by the new designed blue ones; tams will be worn instead of caps. This will conform with regular tank battalion dress. Instead of rifles, sidearms will be worn.

Following the complete inspection which was carried out by Lt. Col. Gribble, Officer Commanding the Battalion, and the marching past of the ranks on the floor of the Armouries, Pipe Major Johnstone, whose Regimental Pipe Band furnished the martial airs of the evening, was called to the centre of the floor by Lt. Col. Russell, where the presentation of the efficiency decoration (for lengthy service) was made by the inspecting officer.

Second award of the evening was the Ambulance Cup, presented Lee Bellinger, presented with the 48. John's Ambulance Association in recognition of high marks obtained during recent examinations in first aid work. This award was also made by Lt. Col. Russell, on behalf of the St. John's Ambulance Association with congratulatory remarks.

In behalf of the Battalion, Lt. Col. Russell paid a sincere compliment to the excellent showing made.

Battalion Praised

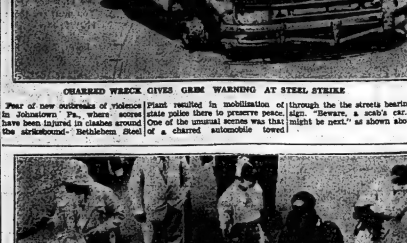
"We have recently passed through trying times, and many of the older Battalions and units have found themselves well reorganized into various other units," he declared. "In this case the Argyll Light Infantry has been changed into a Tank Battalion.

"You have shown this evening that all have buckled down to new work and are endeavoring to make the Tank Battalion as well-known and as great a success as was the Argyll Battalion.

"Last year distinguished the unit by gaining sufficient points in examinations to place you from thirty-second ranking place to third place among the battalions. This is a considerable advance and it typifies the work of the officers as well as the men of the unit, these high marks.

"I have no doubt believe that during the year to come you will continue to occupy that relatively high place and position as a Tank Battalion. The drill this evening has been well carried out and therefore the time and effort that has been spent is so great advantage," continued Lt. Col. Russell.

"Your machine gun work is in the elementary stages, but is improving satisfactorily and will continue to show better advantage as it advances," he concluded.



Lt. Col. Gribble, O.C. of the Battalion, in expressing his thanks for the excellent showing that had been made, pointed out that the next parade, prior to camp, would be held on June 30th. This year it was anticipated that members of the Battalion will not be burdened with rifles en route to camp but will have their arms shipped.

Following dismissal non-commissioned officers and men were afforded the usual lunch in their quarters, while officers of the Battalion were hosts to other officers and friends from throughout the district in the officers' quarters.

CHARRED WRECK GIVES GRIM WARNING AT STEEL STRIKE

Fear of new outbreaks of violence in Johnstown Pa., where scores have been injured in clashes around the strikebound- Bethlehem Steel Plant resulted in mobilization of state police there to preserve peace. One of the grim scenes was that of a charred automobile towed through the the streets bearing the sign. "Beware, a scab's car. You might be next." as shown above.

AMERICA YOUTH TRAVELS FROM CHINA IN SPECIAL "IRON LUNG"

Smiling indomitably, Frederick B. was carried from ambulance to plane at Shanghai, China, to begin the long journey to Chicago. The youth was stricken with infantile paralysis 14 months ago while Suite, 26-year-old son of the president of a Chicago loan company, is shown in the "iron lung" as he is travelling in China. Since then he has been constantly in the lung. His father has spent approximately $150,000 thus far to keep his son alive and assessed the costs of the court.

WHITE MEN TAKE PART IN WEIRD INDIAN SNAKE DANCE

The amazing spectacle of white menn priests of the Smoke Tribe, performing the Hopi snake dance, is pictured at Prescott, Arizona, as it was given before 5,000 onlookers recently. Members of the Smoke clan, white businessmen all, are seen carrying live writhing snakes as they circle the arena in their 11th annual ceremonials. After the dance the reptiles were loosed to speed underground with prayers to the gods.

Little Benny's Note Book

This morning our cook Nora was sulki having a sit down strike to herself in the kitchen and she had to make the coffee again, saying to pop. Now really, Whilyum, I mean really, this situation is getting so funny it's ceasing to be a joke. So what are you going to do about it, Whilyum? she said.

I'm going into that kitchin rite now by myself and settle this nonsense once and for all, pop said, and he said. But Whilyum she's not only cook and you know how easily it would be to have to hunt as a matter of fact I spoke to Mrs. Potts some time ago about giving you an extra day off and an additional dollar a week, but we dont like to be intimidated, so why dont you just except my terms and we'll call the whole thing off?

Well, it seems to fit rite in me slogan, so all rite, I guess I said, and pop said, There, I knew you'd be sensible.

And he went back in the dining room and told me everything was settled, and ma said, My lands, what did you say to her? and pop said, I tawked to her strate from the shoulder and she saw the lite, I'll tell you later, she's probely listening and I dont want to hert her feelings unnecessarily.

And he rolled up his paper and left for his office whistling like somebody feeling better instead of worse.

for another one after all these months and years.

Nevertheless this is a domestic crisis and somebody has got to rise to meet it and I seem to be the man of the hour, pop said.

And he went in the kitchin but not alone on accouht of me being rite in back of him, and he said to Nora, Now Nora it's time this foolishness came to an end, dont you think you can be a little sensible?

Another day and another dollar is me slogan and-it's the slogan of every cook in the naborhood. so why should I be any more sensible than another woman? Nora said, and pop said, Now look here. Nora,

TWEED MASONS ATTEND ANNUAL CHURCH PARADE

Visiting Brethren Present at Service St. Andrew's Church

Tweed, June 21.—The members of Tweed Lodge No. 239 A.F. and A.M., G.R.C., and visiting brethren from Stirling, Madoc and other lodges of the district attended Divine service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. where Rev. W. A. Hunter, B.A., B.D., delivered an excellent address on the theme, "Masonry and Labour".

Several members of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church choir assisted the choir of St. Andrew's with Mr. Hawthorne singing an old favorite solo, "The Wayside Cross".

The minister based his address on II Corinthians, chapter 3, verse 14—"Seeing that we have such hopes." Though he was not a member of the Masonic Order, said the speaker, he had learned from various sources some general facts. The Masonic Order was originally a trade labor union whose members worked as stone cutters in the construction of cathedrals and other buildings. The Order, one of the oldest in existence, dates back a great many years. It is not now operating as a trade union but still maintains a deep interest in labor and its problems. The first lodge was organized in Scotland in 1717. It has a religious basis looking upon God as the great architect of the universe. Emphasis is laid upon brotherhood, charity and good will.

In the Old Testament, Masonry is religious in its outlook. Moses, the great law giver, was a man of exceptional ability and training whose greatest work was the freeing of the Israelites from bondage and the organizing of a new race.

Men today are praying for a Moses to reorganize our civilization. Germany and Italy had demands for a Moses and they got Mosse-mm of a kind who made the people come under the dominance of dictators.

"Do Masons and others want our nation reconstructed by such a process?" queried the speaker. No doubt some of the nations of the world are now looking back to the day "when they were in Egypt" as the Israelites did.

The New Testament teaches that Christ far surpassed Moses. "Is our plan of reconstruction one by those who believe in Moses or is it one in which Christ is the motive power? pertinently questioned the minister. We must turn to Christ and discover in him the real meaning of life; to reconstruct society on the principle of love mercy and self-sacrifice; to make the world a family and a household of God.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pints of bile into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food does not digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Poisons get into the body, and you feel sour, sick and blue the world looks punk.

A mere liver movement doesn't always get rid of this bile. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get more bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they are sold by druggists everywhere. Ask for them by name (Carter's Little Liver Pills) and insist! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Ken Maynard in "Western Courage" at The Ritz Theatre, Belleville.

Ken Maynard streaks across the range to new adventures and excitement in "Western Courage," one of two excellent features coming to the Belle to-morrow (Thursday) and Friday matinee daily. The Western star will be seen again in alternate reels of blazing six-guns, riding his wonder horse, Tarzan, and generally living up to his title as "King of the Great Outdoors."

Much of the action in "Western Courage" takes place on a dude ranch, with Ken Maynard as foreman. There is a beautiful but supercilious girl from the East, her equally proud mother, her misunderstanding father and a fortune-hunter with a jilted fiancee who doesn't understand at all.

With such drawing room characters, one would expect a slowly behaved movie embroidered with fancy dialogue. But Ken Maynard isn't saying but that. The plot thickens and bullets begin to fly when the girl's disinheritance causes her to be kidnapped by a band of desperadoes.

Maynard goes into action for real at this juncture, and succeeds in rescuing the girl under extremely hazardous circumstances. Trapped in a burning cabin, cleverly Maynard Ken is faced with certain death.... Will something happen? You'll have more about this thrilling "Western Courage" arrives.

"Hit Parade," Tuneful

Our hat, most respectfully comes off to Frances Langford, Phil Regan and Director Gus Meins, Orchestra leaders Eddie Duchin, Carl Hoff and Duke Ellington, comedians Martha Newel, Pert, Kelton, et al, for "The Hit Parade" announced for presentation at the second swell feature attraction on the same program.

Orchids, too, to the producers for filming the musical masterpiece for giving to Belleville and vicinity movie fans a full hour and a half of unalloyed pleasure and entertainment, new as well as tuneful.

The film throughout is full of gay surprises, such as the hilariously funny burlesque of Frances Langford's Mollases and January, the specialty dancing team of Peg Leg Bates, Phil Regan's the antics of Al Pearce and his Gang ..... with the celebrated Lord Bigbee, and Ben Bernie, the ever popular "New Deal," the ventriloquist's dummy, who looses off some new epigram.

Pop ninety minutes of sheer fun and entertainment are "The Hit Parade," for real western thrills see "Western Courage," two swell screen hits to be presented at the Belle to-day Thursday and Friday of this week, matinee daily.

Grace Moore's Film

Grace Moore's newest song-filled picture, "When You're in Love," will be presented at the Belle to night for the last times. Cary Grant is her leading man.

The story deals with an Australian opera star who buys an American husband in order to enter the United States.

Miss Moore literally runs the musical gamut in this film, singing "Minnie the Moocher," Schubert's "Serenade," "Vissi D'Arte" from La Tosca, "Shbonny," "In the Gloaming" and other songs that are rarely seen out in each other's company. She also sings two new Jerome Kern numbers, "Lovely to Look At" and "Whistling Boy."

Miss Moore's supporting cast includes Aline MacMahon, Henry Stephenson, Thomas Mitchell, Catherine Doucet and Lois Alberni.

"When You're in Love" was written by Robert Riskin remembered as the author of those two sensational hits "It Happened One Night," and "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town."

City work slacked off this week with a total of about fifteen men being employed at present by the department of public works, in contrast to a force of forty or more during previous weeks.

With the opening of the city quarry on the north side again this week for a period of ten days or so in order to provide crushed rock for the stock pile, ten men are employed on this work. Seven men are still engaged on weed cutting on city property, while the remainder are detailed to routine department work.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, June 22.—(CP)—The stock market wandered ahead at a leisurely pace today but gains were uneven.

Technical analysts searching the list for signs of a near-term trend were thwarted by skimpy volume with the stock ticker pausing frequently. Trading was at the rate of about 500,000 shares.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE CLOSE

Toronto, June 23 (CP)—An attempt to steady the Toronto market at a slightly higher level than Tuesday's close failed today and a new decline was recorded. The opening period witnessed a shakeout but buying quickly developed on the rise giving the signal for further selling to come. Golds and the miscellaneous mines closed at new lows for the year and the golds at their low for two years. There was no snap-back of any consequence at the close. Volume was the heaviest in three weeks.

Industrials, base metals and the oils all turned in the best losses, minus signs but three-quarters of the way. Losses were 1 point to 4 points.

O'Brien dropped to 2.80 for a loss of 50 cents for the day. Pickle Crow averaged 4.90 was down 50 cents and losses of 10 to 35 cents were recorded for Central Patricia, Falconbridge, Lake Lac, Kirkland-Hudson Bay, Lamaque, Sullivan, and Lake Osdilac.

Senior golds limited their losses to fractions. Dome closed 3-4 down and Hollinger and McIntyre drifted minor fractions.

Losses were comparatively light in the base metals. Noranda, Falconbridge, Hudson Bay and Noranda closed down fractions and Ventures was off 50 cents at 6.00.

The close was lower for the foods, steels, utilities, miscellaneous industrials and the senior oils. Recessions of the fractions to points were boarded for Brazilian, Steel of Canada, Pfd., Kelvinator Pfd and Wirebound Box.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Biggar and Crawford by Dominion Bureau of Information.

The present reactionary market trend is largely blamed on the labor strikes in the United States although in the first instance the mines of Northern Ontario and Quebec are quite satisfied with the wages and are not anxious to join any unions with headquarters in the United States.

In a market such as the present, particularly with reference to the golds, the value of values is a point not at all considered. Denials to the contrary, the public is now fully convinced that the price of $35 an ounce for gold is here to stay. Tremendous losses have been suffered by investors in our gold mines but the setback that has occurred has been of sufficient severity to largely correct any over-extended position that may have existed. Consequently traders would be well advised not to sacrifice the better grade mining issues at prevailing prices.

ANGLO-FRENCH

intervention committee which has directed the four-power neutrality patrol, declared that it was a "peaceful" conclusion of the Spanish civil war, in which they are threatened with the Fascist insurgents.

Although it was reported reliably that the Italian warships had been ordered instantly to end Spanish waters as a result of the four-power decision for the Loyalist "demonstration" demand.

German warships assigned to the patrol were also ordered eastward through the Mediterranean, they were reported reliably.

To Avoid Trouble

The British Foreign Secretary told the Commons that German Foreign Minister Constantin von Neurath had informed him of the recall of German ships "with the object of avoiding the possibility of aggravating the situation."

Germany, von Neurath Added, would "confine herself to this action."

Previously Berlin had heard unofficially reports of a possible Italo-German blockade of the Spanish government Mediterranean coastline—reports now apparently dispelled.

Heralding Red Aggression'

The concerted action of Germany and Italy was in keeping with their "defensive understanding" on Spanish and other problems, Berlin said. They were "solidest" to recall their patrol ships to avoid "any appearance of aggression" that Spanish Government armed forces.

Spanish Government airplanes in recent weeks have bombed Italian and German ships of war in the patrol, and the German Government charged the Spanish Government marine tried to sink the patrolling cruiser Leipzig off Algeria on two occasions in the past eight days.

Eden's exposition of the situation before the House of Commons included a statement that the British Government had been informed and welcomed the motives" of Germany and Italy "which inspire action" and there now will be no dangerous action on the part of the Italian and German ships.

Europe has been worried lest the German and Italian warships, augered by Anglo-French refusal to "demonstrate" with them in warning to Spanish Government warships, resort to individual action that might involve them in French Civil War more dangerous to Europe's peace.

Problem Faces Britain

Apparently this is not to be the case. Sean Ritchie, Conservative, more is faced with a decision to scrap neutrality control, carry it on with Russia alone, or with other powers in it.

Eden assured the Commons it was his understanding Germany and, by inference, Italy, would not "cease participating in the non-intervention committee."

He refused to answer a question by Communist William Gallacher as to whether there is any truth at all in the German story about Leipzig."

The question of asking other Governments to participate in the non-intervention control scheme in place of Germany and Italy will "have to be considered," he said.

Braddock Crashed to Canvas With Dynamite Right of Louis To Lose World's Championship

Joe Louis Becomes Second Negro in History to Win Crown

WINS IN EIGHTH

Braddock Retains Admiration of Fight Fans For His Gameness

By Charles Dunkley, Associated Press Staff Writer)

Chicago, June 23—Joe Louis, only three years ago a rank amateur, today ruled the heavyweight flttle ranks of the world.

The 23-year-old son of an Alabama cotton picker, won the championship crown on great-hearted James J. Braddock before a clamoring crowd of 45,000 in Comiskey Park last night, with one murderous right hand blow that struck with the speed of a rattlesnake.

That gloved thunderbolt climaxed a spectacular fight, ending with the cut and crushed champion being counted out, in one minute and ten seconds of the eighth round, after Louis himself had been knocked to the floor in the first round and hard pressed to overcome Braddock's courageous stand during the first five rounds.

The negro's earth-shaking finishing thrust made him the second man of his race to win the title, re-establishing him on the sixteen ounce skyrtics, who saw him fell a year ago under the flailing fists of Max Schmeling, and cleared his path to the easy street of the millionaires.

Youngest Champion

Louis, the sour-faced, dead-pan boy, is the youngest fighter ever to win the heavyweight title. At 23 he is just a year younger than Jack Dempsey was when the Manassa mauler knocked out Jess Willard at Toledo in 1919. He is the second negro ever to win the crown. Jack Johnson came in before him to battler the relic of Jeffries, Jeffries into helplessness in Reno, 37 years ago.

Critics agreed today, however, the young negro's hold on the crown won't be secure beyond argument, unless and until he evens the score with Max Schmeling. The German, still the logical contender, may be matched to fight Louis in New York this September. Meantime Schmeling is slated to fight Tommy Farr, the British Empire champion, aboard.

Braddock an old man as boxing goes, and idle for two years since he won his title from Max Baer in June, 1935, gave away eight years to the Detroit dynamiter, and could not stand up under such a handicap. All he had was a courageous heart, fighting heart and an ability to "take it." He survived seven rounds in defending his championship against bitter odds, but the way he defended it brought thunderous cheers from the huge crowd.

Knocked "Dead"

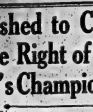
The fight ended with the gams Braddock lying helpless on the canvas floor of the ring. He was bleeding from the mouth, cut and battered. In the language of the ring he was knocking dead. He never heard the referee Tommy Thomas, count the fatal ten over him. His handlers tenderly picked him off the floor and carried him to a corner, where it required minutes to restore him to his senses.



As Braddock came out for the eighth round he was a worried, wobbly champion. But he gamely walked into Louis' blistering fire, suddenly, Louis shot out with a terrific left hook, that landed in Braddock's mid-section. Another left caught the champion on the chin. His knees buckling and he began to sag. Then, in the next instant, Louis drove a cruel right hand smash to the jaw and Braddock sank to the floor, rolling over on his right side, with his head resting on his arm. He remained motionless as the referee counted over him.

This was the moment Louis had been waiting for. He was standing in a neutral corner with a vicious scowl on his face. Instead of looking at the fallen Braddock, he stared with a sneer at Braddock's handlers. No doubt he was thinking to himself: "well I told you I'd look your guy and there he is."

Golden Moment

It was the golden moment of an amazing career in which he skyrocketed to world championship glory in three dramatic years.

Braddock, instead of being castigated, started to slug with Louis at the very beginning. He moved in stealing the centre of the ring before Braddock walked into the negro challenger and drove a powerful right that just missed Louis' chin. Then, he opened up with a shower of lefts and rights, that caused Braddock to retreat momentarily.

Then to the astonishment of the spectators, the champion drove a right uppercut to the chin, that dropped Louis as if he'd been hit with an axe. The blow, however, apparently landed on the Adam's apple, instead of on the button. Louis jumped up and backed out of danger before the timekeepers could begin a count. Braddock was unable to follow his sudden advantage.

The champion in superb physical condition, continued to wade into Louis in the succeeding rounds shrewing no fear of the negro's punching dynamite. In the sixth it was apparent, that Louis was beginning to tire under Louis' bouncing lefts and right on his cheeks and head.

Braddock Hurt

Braddock was hurt, cut badly about the eyes and mouth, but his courage did not desert him. He was determined to land a finishing punch, but he seemed to have established he was throwing his looping right hand wildly and desperately for the most of balance and rapidly slowing down. His legs were no longer able to support him and he was a target for the killing at the hands of Louis, who had his championship, but he didn't give it away. His age and his legs did.

Braddock, through cut, bruised and bleeding lips, declared he had no intention of retiring and hoped to meet Louis again.

The dethroned champion, after his $5 per cent share of the net receipts has been cut up, will be richer by more as much as $60,000 or $70,000 for himself.

SPORTS WEEK PROVES "IT PAYS TO PLAY"

Desire for play, for enjoying oneself in some healthful recreational pursuits, is inherent in all healthy individuals; when demonstrations and Recreation Week was introduced to the public, eleven years ago, it was not necessary to convince Canadians that "It Pays to Play"—was a slogan worthy of nation-wide adoption. The idea of a "Sports Week" was taken up enthusiastically, all across Canada, and with each succeeding year that enthusiasm has grown and expanding until now it encompasses red-blooded Canadians in practically every municipality in the Dominion.

Canada is blessed—or cursed—with a plethora of "special weeks"; in the majority of instances, this superabundance of special promotional periods is responsible for only a moderate measure of success in boosting topical, local or particular products to the attention of the Canadian people. Only a few "weeks" have gained and maintained national popularity in this wild scramble for attention; among the most popular—a pioneer in the field—is Canadian Sports and Recreation Week.

Over a decade ago, it came into being—"mothered" through its early infancy by sterling co-operation on the part of press, public and air-lines— and probably no "week" has made such pointed and practical progress in its efforts— efforts designed to promulgate the benefits of healthful play and recreation.
